ROOSEVELT IS BLAMED

People of Western States Strongly Opposed to Present United States Administration Says McCaffery

Liquor Laws Bad

Enjoyed Holiday in South But Urged Faith in Canada and Particularly in Prince Rupert

The whole country seems to be hostile to the present government of the United States and to blame the president for the bad conditions which prevailed, stated M. P. McCaffery in addressing the Prince Rupert Rotary Club yesterday afternoon at the regular weekly luncheon following a visit to California. Conditions in the United States were undoubtedly bad, he said, and this had an ill effect on conditions in Canada. No one was spending any money except the government. After looking into conditions in the Pacific Coast states not only in California but at Portland, Seattle and other points he came to the conclusion that a country could not lift itself out of depression by spending money. The people eventually had to pay it from taxes.

Mr. McCaffery, who was making his first lengthy visit to the United States since he left it thirty years ago, was delighted at the beautiful scenery and climate of the coast states. Los Angeles was the mecca for all visitors, all roads leading to that city. He admired the Sacramento Valley where they raised four crops every year. Travelling in the streamline train from Los Angeles to San Francisco was a great experience and they passed through a wonderful country.

Mr. McCaffery did not think the liquor laws in the south were to be admired. In Washington and Oregon there were restrictions something like this province except that liquor or wines could be served with meals but in California everything was wide open. Saloons were everywhere and the conditions were not good. Evidently they tried to make the country attractive by making liquor and gambling wide open to everyone. He was not a believer in prohibition but the conditions as he saw them were terrible for young people.

Likes British Statesmen

After travelling and having a wonderful holiday and reading in the newspapers in the south about the stand Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain took in regard to affairs of central Europe and then reading of the course steered by Prime Minister Mackenzie King on behalf of Canada, a course which he considered to be a very wise one, he was glad to be back in a country governed by men of this type.

Concluding an interesting address, Mr. McCaffery said it was interesting to visit away from home but he felt that this was an interesting part of he country in which to live. He felt sure that if a spirit of optimism prevailed and all had faith and confidence in their own country and their own city, success would crown their efforts in Prince Rupert.

Guests at the luncheon included R. L. McIntosh, W. H. Tobey, L. H. Haworth, Orme Stewart, Lieut. Commander C. T. Beard of Esquimalt, Major W. R. Stone of Esquimalt, and Rotarian J. E. Burk of Vancouver.

PREMIER WINNER

Goes Ahead in Championship Hoop Series by Defeating Prince Rupert 40 to 34

Premier went further ahead in the Northern British Columbia basketball championship series last night by taking a 40 to 34 victory over Prince Rupert before a big crowd of fans at the Armory. This makes two out of three games that Premier has won so far in the series, the miners being twenty-two points ahead in the total points count. Prince Rupert has one more chance in the final game tonight to make up the deficiency.

Last night's game was well played and proved interesting throughout. The visitors had the edge and were good value for their win. Half time score was 19 to 16 in favor of Premier.

The players and points scored were:

Premier—Lindsay, 20; Watson, 5; Santerbane; Stewart, 4; Arney, 5; Tippett; Phillips, 6; Gladding.

Prince Rupert — Ratchford; Stiles, 12; Morgan, 12; Johnson, 4; Dominato; Lambie; Smith, 2; Wingham, 4; Morrison; Hale.

In an Intermediate game Scythians and High School engaged in a ding-dong back and forth battle all the way, the former winning 31 to 29 after a contest which kept the fans in an uproar. Half time score was 12 all.

In a Ladies' League curtain raiser Annettes took Grottettes by a score of 22 to 17. Annettes were leading 12 to 5 at half time.

Johnny Comadina was referee for the evening.

Ellis Parker And Son Surrender But Are Soon Released

CAMDEN, New Jersey, April 1.—Ellis Parker, former Burlington County detective, and his son, indicted by a Brooklyn grand jury for the kidnapping of Paul Wendal, an attorney, in the course of efforts to prevent the execution of Bruno Richard Haupmann for the Lindbergh kidnap-murder, surrendered to authorities here yesterday and were soon at liberty again on bail of $5000 each.

SOME MEN LAID OFF

C.N.R. Employees in Maritimes Refused to Split up Work

MONTREAL, April 1: (CP)—The Atlantic region shop men of Canadian National Railway having insisted on seniority rights rather than sharing work by cutting hours, 300 men were, accordingly laid off today.

The lay-offs are due to slackness, it was announced in the House of Commons last week by Hon. Clarence D. Howe, minister of transport, who said he was surprised that the unions insisted on straight seniority instead of splitting available work. A union vote followed, the western and central region agreeing to cut hours for two months.

There will be a meeting of Canadian National shop craft men in Vancouver on May 1 to decide on the hours of work question.

CURBING OF MINORITIES

Czecho - Slovakian Government Runs Gauntlet in Issuing Decree

PRAGUE, April 1: (CP)—The Czecho - Slovakian government ran the gauntlet of possible German Nazi reprisal last night by issuing a decree, effective at once, banning all public meetings and political demonstrations throughout the country in the effort to check the rising tide of racial minority activities. No date for removal is set.

This will force pro-Nazis to campaign under cover or resort to the use of German radio stations.

In some quarters it was suggested that the decree might result in Chancellor Adolf Hitler taking action in regard to Czecho-Slovakia similar to the annexation of Austria.

Opposition parties agreed with the government on the move which reliable sources said was designed to free the atmosphere of demagogic influences while the minorities problem is being considered.

RUSSIA NOT SO HOT

Russia is not so hot, according to the writer of the book "I Was a Soviet Worker," being the experiences of Andrew Smith, a communist, who was induced to leave the United States with the idea of making a new home in the land of the Soviets.

According to the story, Smith visited Russia with a delegation of workers and the treatment he received was so wonderful and the stories told him were so glowing that after a short stay in the United States he and his wife, Mrs. Maria Smith, decided to leave for Russia to reside there permanently. How great was the disillusionment is gradually revealed in the course of the story of their experiences told in a matter of fact manner with all names and dates and certified to by documentary evidence.

Mr. Smith had been a member of the Communist party in the United States for some years and had taken a prominent part in union and strike activities. His sympathies were all with Russia and the efforts being made there to build a Socialist state. He found, however, that instead of doing that they were developing a huge bureaucracy in which the bureaucrats fattened at the expense of the workers. Not only were conditions ten times worse than in any part of the United States but worse than they ever were prior to the revolution. The people were starving and they lived under conditions that would not be tolerated in any civilized country.

The worst feature of life in Russia at that time, three years ago, was the terrorism which prevailed everywhere, no person being allowed to express an opinion contrary to that held by the bureau on pain of possible removal or death. It was a common thing for persons to disappear and in those cases no questions were asked.

According to this biography the nucleus of a rebellion was formed, the members of the group meeting secretly either in the woods or in the home of one of their number and taking every possible precaution to avoid suspicion. Following the murder of Kirov, there was a hue and cry against oppositionists and members of the Communist Party were instructed to do their best to track them down. There was a general campaign of spying and tale bearing. The real conspirators showed themselves among the most eager to run down the offenders and took the opportunity to put the Bureau on the scent of many who had been "dirty spies and stool pigeons and crooks hanging around the factories" and had shown themselves most unscrupulous in trying to injure others.

If only half of what this book says is true, conditions in Russia are too awful to contemplate. People die off like flies and the rankest injustice and corruption prevails everywhere. There is just a possibility that the book is not true but it reads like truth and the photographs of documents appended seem to bear this out. Also it is in line with other information that has been gradually seeping out from that country.

Teacher Of Indian School Speaks From Experience; Compares Various Tribes

By NOEL STEWART B.Sc, Alert Bay

It is generally accepted that the Indians of Canada are one. This is a very erroneous thought for there is no likeness whatsoever between the Indians of our Canadian plains and those of our bush lands. The Indians of our Canadian east are quite different than our western redmen. Schools were established on many Indian reservations in Canada about the same time. Yet the results after 50 years are vastly different.

A great asset of our plains Indians is the fact they are direct descendents from the bravest warriors of the scalping days. They descend from a line of people who knew their life existed only according to their indomitable courage. They were taught from the cradle days the tribal laws of authority which demanded nothing short of honor and perfect manhood. The weaklings of the plains people did not exist for they were of no value in the battle. For years missionaries tried to curb the warlike Blackfeet, the ancient enemies of the Crees, but these tribes were so centred by tribal beliefs that missionaries could not gain their confidence. These tribes were proud and fierce. Yet amid all the difficulties the early missionaries were men of foresight for they slowly turned the feelings of the redmen by example until today we still have an Indian just as brave and strong, yet law-abiding, and full of the bravery as his forefathers working for peace on earth and goodwill towards men.

Personal Experience

For many years I have been a teacher in different Indian Schools on the prairie and in British Columbia. I have found the plains people to be intellectually a generation or two ahead of the British Columbia Indians while I have found the Eastern Canadian Indians, especially in Ontario, are much farther ahead of the plains people. As a teacher among the plains people I found them courageous and keen. In sports and all feats requiring manliness they excelled and were eager to advance a sphere higher than their parents. Practically all prairie reserves can boast they now have a graduate nurse or teacher from among their people.

Indians in British Columbia are not so well organized tribally and still hold on to customs long since scoffed at by their prairie brothers. Some tribes on the Pacific Coast still cling to parts of the potlatch, especially to the giving of great feasts and gifts and bestowing honorary names, thus keeping themselves poor. Chiefs among certain British Columbia tribes are not respected as are plains chiefs. They do not appear to hold definite authority. Some tribes in British Columbia have no council, can roam at large and are little interested in the advancement of education. Fair play is not a dominant character in their daily life. They are more self-centred than interested in a body.

The homes and dress of the Coast Indians are their greatest asset. Many have large airy houses and are anxious to keep them modern. They also have considerable money at certain times of the year—so are fairly well provided for.

However, I feel that on those reservations, where the third generation of their people are in school, a little tightening up of order is required. Personally, I feel the missionary idea is often carried too far. Some of our missionaries are so much in love with the task they forget to exert any authority. Some are out solely to please the Indians. This is bad because of the fact you can't please all. It also shows a weakness of character and develops a wrong attitude. Secondly, only strong Christian characters should work among Indians, persons who will set a standard and keep it, regardless of feeling. It is impossible to do much if a parent is permitted to say: "I will not let my kid come to school, if you say his face is to be washed."

Authority Essential

I have found the sole difference between success and failure rests upon appreciation of authority. At the backbone, the Indian really love his own way, good or bad, and by nature he will try you out to see how far he can go. But if he is shown from the beginning the teaching he is receiving is upright, sound, and the best, generally he is willing to follow.

From my experience I am not in favor of nurses and teachers having to take undue insults from Indian children or parents. Much may be put down to ignorance, as far as the Indian is concerned, but we, as missionaries, can't be excused by ignorance from not teaching them better in their school years.

And let us hope, with the ascending years, we may learn to leave with the Indian any traits of bravery he possesses. Let us teach him, not spoil him untill he turns his manliness into mere prejudice. Let us hope we may play some part in helping him to play the game fairly and teach him to see himself as he actually is, not mollycoddle him until he is not liked by his white brother or red brother. Although the Indian is advancing generally, yet he is also losing many of his noblest characteristics which were so true of his people.

WAKE UP LIKE A CAVE MAN

Feel Full of Life—No More Tired, Dull, Heavy Mornings

Keep your liver healthy and you'll feel great every morning. When you wake up feeling "rotten" your liver is out of order. Your liver clears the blood of poisons, separates the nourishing part of your food from the waste. Supplies energy to muscles, tissues and glands—gives out bile, the body's laxative, helps stomach, kidneys and intestines to work properly. A mere bowel movement isn't enough. "Fruit-a-tives" made from fruits and herbs, will strengthen and build up your liver like nothing else will. You'll be amazed how well you are every morning. Try Fruit-a-tives. All druggists.

DRAMA OF DRAMATICS

Ktharine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou Head Cast Of "Stage Door"

The varied experience of a group of girls with ambitions for the stage residing in a theatrical boarding house comprises the theme of the drama "Stage Door," starring Katharine Hepburn, Ginger Rogers and Adolphe Menjou, which is the feature presentation of the screen at the Capitol Theatre here this week-end.

The spotlight is focused on an imperious society beauty who has run away from home to satisfy a longing for the theatre and upon a resourceful youngster with unusual dancing ability. When the society girl wins a coveted role in a big production because her father has secretely financed the play, another girl who has aspired to the role breaks under the strain and commits suicide. How the tragedy reacts on her former companions, the society girl and the dancer in particular, builds up to a powerful climax.

Miss Hepburn is cast as the wealthy girl while Ginger Rogers portrays the role of the vivacious dancer. The supporting cast includes such well known favorites as Gail Patrick, Constance Collier, Andrea Leeds, Samuel Hinds and Lucille Ball.
