QUEBEC IS READY FOR CHURCHMEN

First Canadian Eucharistic Congress in Ancient Capital Expected to Bring 100,000

By WILLIAM STEWART

QUEBEC, June 17: (CP)—Facing the challenge of present-day atheistic and worldly trends, Roman Catholics from all parts of Canada and many from the United States will join in a demonstration of faith—the first Canadian Eucharistic Congress, to be held here June 22-26.

More than 100,000 Catholics, nearly half of their number from outside Quebec, will attend the congress and ceremonies planned for the five days of its duration.

Highest dignitaries of the Roman Catholic Church in Canada and a papal delegation will have special parts in the manifestation. But among throngs of worshipping lay-folk whose voices will rise in prayer during the ceremonies, laborer will kneel with big business man.

Elaborate preparations for the religious convention, first of its kind in the Dominion, have been going forward for weeks in old Quebec city. French and English headquarters in the capital, working together, have laid detailed plans for the event which will swell the city's population by almost half.

There have been arrangements for housing visiting crowds and for the strain which will be put on the city's traffic system while on the Plains of Abraham, one of Canada's most historic spots, a huge stand has been built around a 125-foot repository. Ceremonies during the congress will centre around a gilded altar housed in the structure.

The narrow-laned, picturesque capital will have a face-lifting for the occasion. From end to end, its paved and cobble-stoned streets have been repaired and a two-mile procession route from the Roman Catholic Basilica, through the heart of the city to the repository, has been strung with red, white and yellow flags and banners, designed for the congress. Gaily-decked arches have risen along the streets over which for the convention's five days traffic will flow according to a special system planned by city authorities.

Provision For Crowds Perhaps the biggest problem organizers of the congress had to tackle was accommodation for visitors. With pilgrimages from Halifax, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg, Sudbury and other Canadian cities announced weeks ago, hundreds of rooms had to be found. But lists of all accommodation, including hotel space and nearly every vacant room in all the city's homes, have been turned over to congress headquarters.

The city's schools, immediately after an ordered early closing, will be converted into sleeping quarters. The same will be done with nearly all unoccupied buildings in Quebec and many camps will be set up. Canteens will be established all over the city to help out restaurateurs that will have too much business and there will be numerous first-aid stations with Boy Scouts mobilized for emergencies along with special police.

Reception organizations have been formed to greet all visitors coming either by train, automobile or on foot. For the automobiles, big, protected parking lots have been set aside. Information bureaux will be set up at all Quebec's entrances.

The congress will have a bilingual character. Sermons will be preached both in French and English and religious study sessions will be held from day to day during the congress will be conducted in both languages.

Cardinal it Patrol Patron of the congress—and papal delegate—is Rodrigue Cardinal Villeneuve, Quebec's Archbishop, who will attend all ceremonies and celebrate pontifical high mass in open air at the Plains of Abraham repository on the closing day. Archbishop James Charles McGuigan of Toronto will head the convention's English section.

Every Roman Catholic diocese and archdiocese in Canada will be represented, in most cases by their archbishops or bishops. Archbishop John Thomas McNally of Halifax will preside at pontifical high mass on the Plains when the congress opens Wednesday, June 22.

That solemn mass will inaugurate the congress, through many receptions will be held the day before. Packed in the big stand on the Plains on wooden benches built in a semi-circle around the repository will be the congress' 100,000 attendants. More than 500 uniformed ushers will handle the crowds.

Cardinal Villeneuve, Archbishop McGuigan, the other dignitaries and more than 2,500 Roman Catholic clergymen from parishes from coast to coast will occupy places at the base of the altar, topped by the high-reaching, red-topped repository. Earlier there will be general communion with 300 priests passing through the tiers of benches placing the white host in the mouths of thousands of communicants.

Again on the second day of the congress, solemn mass will be celebrated at midnight, if the weather is favorable, under a star-lit sky and there will be communion. Near the foot of the altar an electric organ will sound, accompanying voices of the throng who will assist in celebration of the mass.

From Far North

In the park on one of the benches will be three Roman Catholic Eskimos from Chesterfield Inlet, in the Canadian Arctic, come to the congress by dog-sled and train with a missionary, Father L. Ducharme, more than a week before.

The congress comes to a close Sunday, June 26, with a solemn procession of more than 15,000 to the park's stand over the two-mile route from the Basilica and Cardinal Villeneuve's neighboring stone residence. The Cardinal himself will carry a solid-gold monstrance, holding the Blessed Sacrament, in the long march in which civilians only will take part.

Throughout the march to the repository where the Host will be exposed, hymns sung at the Plains stand by choirs under the direction of a Redemptorist father from the famed shrine village of Ste. Anne de Beaulieu will be heard along the procession route through loud-speakers hung the whole way.

When the repository is reached, the Cardinal, appointed papal delegate for the congress, will give a papal blessing to kneeling crowds. If arrangements are successful, His Holiness Pope Pius XI will be heard in a special broadcast from the Vatican.

Day after the congress will be a special pilgrimage to the shrine of St. Anne de Beaulieu in the village on the St. Lawrence River shore 20 miles below Quebec City.

BROADCAST ALP CAMP

Unique Program Coming on Air This Summer

MONTREAL, June 17:—Events at the annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada, being held this year at the Columbia ice field in Jasper National Park, will be put on the air by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, it was announced here. To get in close contact with the mountains and the people who climb them, the Canadian Broadcasting Co. will use its first mobile broadcasting unit, consisting of an automobile trailer, specially equipped, two pack sets which permit the broadcaster to move about and recording apparatus.

Headed by R. T. Bowman, director of special events broadcasting for the Broadcasting Corporation, a party of four will "cover" the national parks of Canada this summer and the broadcast from Jasper will be made on Wednesday July 27.

The unit will be going about Jasper for two weeks before that, recording a typical day at Jasper Park Lodge, from morning bird song to the dance orchestra at night, a visit to the wranglers at the corral where the trail riders meet, to the golf course and to Maligne Lake.

It will then follow the new motor highway from the Lodge to the spectacular Columbia ice field and the Alpine Club camp.

Assisting Mr. Bowman, who is chief producer, will be Graham McInnis, commentator; Roy Cahoon, chief engineer, who supervised the designing and building of the mobile broadcasting unit and Percy Field, assistant engineer.

Minister of Finance Budgets For Deficiency of $23,000,000 In Coming Year

Building Helped

Many Items Exempted From Sales Tax Including Fish Boat Repair Materials

BUSINESS PLEASED OTTAWA, June 17: (CP)—Canadian business generally welcomed the Dunning budget that featured removal of the eight per cent sales tax on articles used in the building trades. Fishermen also gave general approval to tax deletions aimed at helping their industry.

OTTAWA, June 17: (CP)—The federal budget, as presented to Parliament yesterday by Hon. C. A. Dunning, minister of finance, increases the gift tax on a graduated scale but increases the exemption.

Partial income tax exemptions are made on rocopation's contributions to pension funds. The government is opposed to tariff reductions except by bilateral trade agreements with the United States and the United Kingdom.

A $23,000,000 deficit in 1938-39 is budgeted for.

Sales Tax Exemptions The budget featured removal of the eight per cent sales tax on two score items used in the building trades. Starting today major products used for house building will be given complete exemption from sales tax. It is proposed that this exemption shall cover lumber, sashes and doors, laths, shingles, bricks, building tiles, building blocks, cement, stone, plaster, lime, plaster boards, fibre board, insulating materials, building paper, wall paper, paints, varnishes, white lead, paint, oil, prepared roofings, glass plumbing fixtures not including piping and pipe fittings, furnaces, builders' hardware and other minor items.

Mr. Dunning said it was necessary to make selections but "all important materials which have a primary or predominant use in house building are included." Lumber, although having many other uses, will be tax exempt no matter for what purpose used. This will be the case with all items exempted.

There are also tax deletions aimed at helping the fishing industry. Sales tax is removed from materials used in repair of fishermen's boats.

MANY BOOK AT JASPER

Numerous Important Parties to Visit Mountain Resort This Summer

JASPER, June 17.—Recognition of this Rocky Mountain village as the gateway to the Columbia Ice Field, famed relic of the age when colossal glaciers swept across North America, has resulted in an almost unprecedented number of reservations for accommodation in the alpine bungalow cabins of Jasper Park Lodge. During July and August, the Lodge will acquire an international aspect, as visitors from Europe and Australia mingle with Canadians and Americans, coming here to view the immense glacial ice-cap now easily accessible by motor.

Every week commencing June 23 escorted tours of the Budington Railroad are to bring parties from United States to Jasper Park Lodge, according to notification received by R. Somerville, manager. Further tourists from the States will accompany the Pennsylvania Railroad tour in August, a month which will also feature the Overseas League tour from England, the Movie News party and the visit of the civic clubs of the Pacific coast.

The New England Kiwanis party will be among the first to visit Jasper this year. They are due to arrive this month. From Toronto and eastern cities will come the westward-bound contingent to spend a few days here on its way to Alaska. Planning trail riding in this spectacular region, are members of the Berry Tours, 120 of whom have included Jasper in their itinerary for July.

Largest of the parties to visit the ice field in 1938, the Alpine Club of Canada pitches camp near Athabaska Glacier for the last two weeks in July. It will draw members from virtually every nation in Europe and numerous from the eastern states.

CLINIC OF DENTISTRY NEED HERE

Hint Thrown Out To Rotary Club By Public Health Nurse in Course Of Informative Address

The need of a dental clinic in Prince Rupert to provide treatment for the teeth of large numbers of children who, owing to financial stress, are unable to obtain it at present was emphasized by Miss Dorothy Priestly R. N., local public health nurse, in speaking before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon yesterday. Miss Priestly told the Rotarians that of 325 school children whose teeth had been found to be in need of dental care, only eight had attended the dentist to receive it. The suggestion was thrown out, that the local Rotary Club might sponsor a health project here by following the example of Rotary Clubs in other towns of this province where dental clinics had been established at which the children could have their teeth filled for a very small fee and the dentist be paid for his time.

After a discussion of the general functions and aims of public health nursing service, Miss Priestly told how public health nursing had been started in Prince Rupert last September with a school nursing program. Since the beginning of the year the work had included follow-up for the provincial health department's division of tuberculosis control. At present it seemed that this was as broad a program as could be handled, the work in the schools alone being quite heavy for one nurse. It was hoped that infant and child welfare work could be started soon for the supervision of the infant and pre-school child was a supplement to the supervision of the school child.

The best system of medical school supervision, Miss Priestly said, consisted of having a full time physician, expert in the work, with trained nurse assistants according to the population. Such supervision had two main purposes—first, to discover, and second, to provide for the correction of physical defects. It could also help in the discovery of mental peculiarities in the children, the discovery of unsanitary conditions in the schools, the provision of the best seating, lighting, heating and other similar matters and the promotion of cleanliness, order and decency. This method prevented epidemics, promoted general health and made for safe, sanitary schools.

To give a picture of what had been done so far in public health nursing service in the Prince Rupert schools, Miss Priestly recited some figures. There were about 1100 school children here of whom only 182 had been examined by a doctor although the ideal, according to legislation, was that every school child should be examined by a doctor once each school term. Some 800 children of the elementary schools here had been given such examinations as the nurse could do and slips were sent to the parents to warn them of hindrances to the child's health and encourage them to get further advice from the family doctor. Infected tonsils to the number of 263 had been found while 325 children needed dental care and forty-four had defective vision. Corrections had been recorded for seven tonsils, eight children had attended the dentist while eighteen had been provided with glasses. Up to June 1/23 home visits had been made. Many people had been unable to meet the expense of having tonsil operations or dental care. Miss Priestly here pointed out that dental clinics had been established by Rotary Clubs elsewhere in the province.

A REAL LOCAL NEED

Addressing the local Rotary Club yesterday, Miss Dorothy Priestley R.N., local public health nurse, mentioned the need in Prince Rupert of a dental clinic. Her statement that, of 325 children whose parents had been notified of the need of dental attention, only eight had received it was adequate proof that such a clinic is required. The inability of the parents to pay the dentist was, no doubt, the reason in practically all cases for failure to have the work done.

Miss Priestley threw out the hint that here was something the Rotary Club of Prince Rupert might interest itself in as had been done by Rotary Clubs in other places. We can think of no more laudable activity for a service club to embark upon and it would certainly be filling a real need if the Rotary Club could see its way clear to do something.

As Miss Priestley pointed out, failure of a child to receive dental treatment today may affect his whole general condition. In so doing, it affects the child's school work and his chances of becoming a good, healthy and useful citizen.

A few dollars spent on dentistry today might easily save a heavy charge upon the public later and prevent a life of misery for the recipient.

MR. DUNNING'S BUDGET

Mr. Dunning's budget is anything but a sensational document. If it does not give much, it, at least, does not take much. It is a "sound" budget, based on orthodox economic principles. The minister of finance has, evidently, been carrying on along what are known as safe and sane lines.

As far as administration is concerned, it cannot be denied that the minister has made a good showing. It is creditable that he should have fostered the financial resources to such an extent that the deficit has been reduced from $77,000,000 to $13,000,000 this year in spite of the recession and unforeseen conditions notable among which was the extra expenditure occasioned by the prairie drought.

Of particular local interest is the provision to exempt fishing boat repair materials from sales tax.

SURF POINT FIRE

The fire which destroyed the mill at the Reward Mining Co.'s Surf Point mine on Wednesday interrupts one of the most important little industrial operations in this district. This industry is directly tributary to this city and, with its crew of some fifty men, has been a consistently good customer of this city, giving employment for local people and providing business.

What will be done in the way of future operation is, of course, a matter for the company to decide. All Prince Rupert will be hoping that the situation of the mine is such that reconstruction of the plant will be started at once with resumption of normal operations at the earliest possible date.

FISH PRICE QUESTION

We do not propose to discuss any difference of opinion between the canners and the fishermen in regard to the price that should be paid for salmon this year. There are too many circumstances to be considered to make it appear justifiable for us to take sides in this matter.

We would, however, urge all concerned to use every effort to reach a settlement without delay. The fish do not wait for strikes to be settled. If there is a tie-up when the fish are running, there is no hope of making up for lost time a little later. The fish are conserved because they are not caught and that may turn out in the end to have been about all the good the tie-up has accomplished for anybody.

NAVY WINS IN SOCCER

Defeated Legion With Only Goal Of Game in Dominion Day Cup Qualifying Series

SEASON SCORING SUMMARY

- Vance, Legion, 1.
- McMeekin, Navy, 1.
- Christison, Navy, 1.

In last evening's Dominion Day Cup series Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve won from the Canadian Legion by the only goal of the match. There was a good attendance of spectators although the game was not up to the usual standard, the Legion forward line being very weak.

The Legion forced two corners and Sam Currie went close. Pierce brought off a grand save from Smith. Howe was nearly through but Ronalds stopped him. Pierce kicked off Bryant's dangerous shot and Christison shot into his hands later. Navy had a grand chance but a loose ball went clean across the Legion goal. From a penalty, Christison hit the bar and was properly penalized when he tried to score from the rebound. Then the Legion forwards combined nicely and Vance shot well. Christison went through but drove over. Dickens dribbled through until Morgan ran out and cleared.

McMeekin's shot went just behind the bar. Pierce saved splendidly and Howe shot over. Eby got a nasty cut and went off. Cross replacing him. Christison scored from a penalty. The Navy pressed Dickens foolishly handled the ball when the Legion made one of its few dangerous attacks and a good chance was spoiled. Pierce gave away a corner needlessly. Vance topped the bar with a good try. Davies had a good try and Morgan saved from Currie.

Teams:
R. C. N. V. R.—Morgan; Eby; Ronalds; Eastman, Davies, Christian; Bryant, Armstrong, Christison, Smith, McMeekin, Cross.
Canadian Legion—Pierce; Murray, S. Currie jr.; J. Currie, Sam Currie sr., McKay; Vance, Rush, Howe, Dickens, Scherk.
S. P. Woodside refereed.

Morgan had little to do. Eby and Ronalds were very reliable and Christian was the best halfback with Davies also turning in a good spoiling line. Of a forward line that was fast and dangerous, Christison, Bryant and McMeekin were the pick.

Pierce kept goal splendidly, two of his saves being particularly outstanding. He still takes unnecessary risks in kicking balls. Murray was the better back with young Currie also playing well. McKay was the best half although Sam Currie sr. still can show them all how to use a ball. Currie on the other wing was good. Forward the team lacked punch. Howe was always a hard worker and Vance did better. Little was seen of the other forwards. There was little combination, a lack of speed and not a decent shot in the lot. Rush showed occasional signs of ability but was obviously out of practice.

The standing for the Dominion Day Cup qualifying round to date is as follows:

Merchants	1	0	1	2	1	2
Navy	1	0	1	2	2	2

Merchants and Legion will meet next Tuesday evening in the third qualifying game.

SPECULATOR, New York, June 17:—Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight boxing champion, predicts that Joe Louis will retain his title in the bout next week at New York with Max Schmeling of Germany. Schmeling has slowed up considerably since his last title bout, Dempsey believes.

SPORT CHAT

A trim San Francisco bank clerk attacking with rapier and hammer, altered the course of boxing one September day in 1892 as he dethroned the rough-and-tumble champion, John L. Sullivan and lifted the game out of the saloon. A despised challenger, sneeringly called a dancing master, James J. Corbett startled the boxing world by outclassing the aging, dissipated Boston Strong Boy. He stood off the old lion's rushes with sharp left jabs and wore him down until Sullivan collapsed in the twenty-first round at New Orleans.

Sullivan's drinking and carousing during his 10 years as heavyweight ruler finally took its toll. Sullivan was hog fat and slow as a cart horse. He weighed 230 pounds. He wouldn't train seriously for Corbett. "One wallop is enough." The first time I hit this young guy on the head he'll go down like all the others," Sullivan said. But Gentleman Jim brought science in on his side and demonstrated that brain is greater than brawn.

Corbett rushed at Sullivan and was upon John L. like a flash raining on him a shower of lefts and rights," said a ringside description of the fatal twenty-first round. Under the panther-like assaults of Corbett the old lion was backed to the ropes. Then Jim curled up a nicely timed right smash to the jaw. The mighty John L. pitched forward on his face. John came up. He led with a weak left. John sparred for Jim but Jim jabbed him as he pleased.

Fiercely Corbett fought the almost helpless champion to the ropes and banged him with right and left at will. Sully fell three times. He tried to get up and fell supinely back again, clearly knocked out. The time was one hour and 23 minutes. This was the first Marquess of Queensbury fight—the first of the gloved-fisters of today.

After Corbett had disposed of Charlie Mitchell, the British challenger, in three rounds in 1896, he fought freckled, spindlegged Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson Nevada, March 17, 1897. It was a vicious battle. From the ninth on, Fitz got better. In the fourteenth he caught Corbett with a left-hander just below the junction of the ribs in the chest. Jim went down, his face puckered with pain and breath knocked from his lungs. Although he claimed foul, he was counted out after the first recorded solar plexis punch in ring history.

CLINIC OF DENTISTRY

province. In these other places the provincial health department had co-operated by making surveys of school children who needed care, thus giving the clinics a beginning.

Winter of Epidemics

Miss Priestly referred to the winter of epidemics that Prince Rupert had had. One reason had been that the children had no immunity to such diseases as measles which had not visited the community for a long time. There had also been whooping cough, rubella, septic throat, scarlet fever and stomach flu. "Just what would happen in our community if anyone brought us smallpox or diphtheria. I hate to think," observed Miss Priestly who pointed out, however, that there were proven preventatives for these diseases, expressing the hope that, before another year went by, every baby pre-school child and adult would have been vaccinated against smallpox and that a good many would be inoculated against diphtheria toxoid.

Speaking generally of public health nursing service, the importance of which was becoming more and more realized as time passed, Miss Priestly pointed out how, in the early days of the campaign for public health, the great concern was to establish control of environment. The source of disease was then supposed to be more in man's surroundings than in himself and the first effort had been to correct these surroundings so as to prevent infection. A newer knowledge of public health then made it clear that the source of disease was often in man himself and what was formerly considered the source was merely a route. The plan of nursing service was, therefore, changed and efficient remedial care was enlarged to include scientific preventative service and teaching. The nurse began working with the physician, the sanitary engineer, the bacteriologist, the epidemiologist, the vital statistician and the laboratory technician. Then came the definite preventative measures such as immunization against infectious or contagious diseases, the scientific prevention, arrest and cure of tuberculosis. Such were community problems that must be met to a certain extent by the public which was being protected. The main trend since this point was reached had been that of method and technique. The health services were carried into the school program and into industry. The establishment of understanding and the giving of guidance and trained assistance in these new fields was of importance. The school nurse had the opportunity to reach the mothers of the children and encourage the prevention of sickness.

The New And The Old

Less than half a century ago public health nursing was confined to care of the sick in the homes. Today it was an organized community service rendered by graduate nurses to the individual families and the community. It included interpretation of medical, sanitary and social procedure for the correction of defects, prevention of disease and promotion of health. The general objectives of all public health nursing services were:

First, to assist in the education of individuals and families to protect their own health.

Second, to assist in the adjustment of family and social conditions that affect health.

Third, to assist in correlating all health and social programs for the welfare of the family and community.

Fourth, to assist in educating the community to develop public health facilities.

Public health nursing might be classified as health supervision service, maternity service and morbidity service or might be school nursing service or industrial nursing service.

After further detailed discussion of public health nursing service, Miss Priestly then turned to the local situation which so far included the school nursing program and the tuberculosis follow-up.

"We are all working for the betterment of a healthy, happy community," concluded the speaker. "One result rarely comes without the other. While I do not mean to campaign, I am hoping that, perhaps, if you have any surplus effort that is not being used for other community needs, you might follow your brother organizations in the south and sponsor a health project in Prince Rupert. Only by individual and group action can the triumph of medicine and science bear their full fruit of human happiness."

Miss Priestly was thanked for her address by W. R. McAleer, president, who assured her of the co-operation of the Rotary Club wherever possible. Guests at the luncheon were P. W. Field of Vancouver, Dr. W. S. Kergin of Phoenix, Dr. Ralph Outerbridge of Toronto, Stanford Smith of Vancouver, W. D. Smith of Stewart and G. A. Hunter of Prince Rupert.

Terrace Is Enchanting Place And Looks Its Best Just Now Comments On Recent Visit

By H. F. PULLEN

If you want to see Terrace at its best, I suggest visiting it at the beginning or middle of June or, at any rate, not later than the first of July. I spent a few days there last week and I never saw it so beautiful as this year. The village itself is spruced up. Most of the buildings have received a coat of paint. The gardens look well and the trees around the homes and on the townsite generally are growing up and adding to the general attractiveness of the place.

To see the valley so that you are bound to remember it, look down from the bench near the cemetery or some other vantage point to where the river winds around with the little farm homes in the foreground. It is hard to imagine a more perfect scene.

It's all right to drive around and see things as long as you do not drive too fast and slacken your pace now and then to enable you to take in the various vistas. Possibly the best way to see everything is to walk. Then you can take in the detail and there is plenty of it.

Not only does Terrace look beautiful at this time of year but it also looks prosperous. The business houses are all painted up, the first time I have noticed them looking uniformly as if they were of real interest to the owners. There are also new buildings, plenty of them. I am told that well over twenty new residences have been or are being erected this year and they are of no mean order. In most cases they are being built by the owners for their own use. Some residents tried to explain that this was not a sign of progress but their arguments were not convincing. Even if some of the merchants grumbled about hard times and feared the mills might shut down before the season was over, the hum of the saws was sweet music, mellowed by distance and hallowed by the glamor of sunshine.

There are two operating mills in Terrace just now, the older mill by Little, Haughland, and Kerr and the other by the Intervale Lumber Co., usually known as Giggey's Mill. They are the leading industries. Not far away is another mill operation carried on by the Vanarsdol Lumber Co. and better known as Hagen's Mill. All these provide a more or less steady payroll on which a great many residents depend for their daily bread. The worst feature of the industrial picture, one that is causing concern to practically every community east of Prince Rupert, is the failure of the pole industry.

Hanson Hit Hard

It may be mentioned that the only firm dealing in poles at present is the Hanson Company. It has done a steady export business year after year, both with the United States and with eastern Canada. Today there is absolutely no market for poles and, as a result, the Hanson firm has its whole season's cut on its hands with no present hope of a change. All along the line poles are pouring in by truck to the various assembly camps where they are piled up awaiting orders. The shutdown will throw out of employment a great many men and cause more or less financial stress to merchants all along the line.

While talking of disabilities it may be mentioned that there has been no rain to speak of in the Bulkley Valley this year since the snow disappeared. As a result, the crops are suffering badly. The crop most affected so far is the timothy seed. Timothy grass is holding out but it is in many fields so short that it will be difficult to harvest. However, there is no real sign of depression anywhere I have been so far but considerable murmuring is heard and the outlook is not as bright as it might be. However, this is ahead of my story and does not apply to Terrace where there was a nice rain last week which is keeping the crops growing.

Up to the time of writing no word had been received or any move made to work the Omineca Gold Quartz mine at the Dardanelles on Copper River but it is expected that since the Cariboo Hudson has been a success under Fred Wells, the next move will be to operate the Copper River property. So far Mr. Wells has been successful and it is expected he will make a success of the Omineca Gold Quartz.

Tommy Turner, not young Tommy or Tommy Junior, but Tommy Turner Sr., is still actively working at the Zymoetz group of mining claims on Copper River. The results from a ton of ore recently shipped were very encouraging. While he has only one man working with him he is doing effective work. Mr. Turner's ambition is to discover and develop a big mine that will provide work for the young men of the Terrace district. That is a very laudable ambition and it is hoped he will succeed.

Gordon a Real Worker

Not many new settlers are coming into the Terrace district and the old residents seem to have settled down, content with the development they have already achieved. There are exceptions to this for J. K. Gordon, having sold his place on the bench to a newcomer, Mr. Grainger, is now working his land south of Terrace and is doing it well. He is one of the workers of the district. The Marki family from Switzerland who went to Remo have an acre of potatoes already growing and are well started on their way toward making a living from the land.

What seems to be needed in Terrace is more new settlers with new enthusiasm, new energy, who are not afraid to work and who will tackle the problems that face them scientifically. Lethargy seems to be one of the prevailing ills.

OLDEST PIONEER IS DEAD

Harry Davis Was in Bulkley Valley Since Early Nineties

SMITHERS, June 17.—The oldest pioneer of the Bulkley Valley passed away here on Sunday when Harry Davis of Houston died in the Smithers Hospital.

Mr. Davis first came into the district in the early nineties and, along with a partner named Lyman, he staked a lot of coal land along the Telkwa River near Telkwa in the name of the Cassiar Coal Co. They built one of the first buildings in the Bulkley Valley near Telkwa on what was then known as "the Lyman-Davis flats" at the junction of the Telkwa and the Bulkley Rivers.

In 1899 Mr. Davis located permanently. He then took up land and had been a resident of the valley ever since that time, having for the past number of years resided on his farm near Houston.

Deceased was well known by all the old timers of the district and was a very progressive and public spirited citizen. With a couple of other men, all bachelors, they built the first school at Houston and donated the building and land to the school district without charge, many years ago.

He came to the district from Aldergrove and, when the first community was formed near Telkwa, he named it Aldermere. This was the well known village of the early days built on the high flat back of where Telkwa now stands. The original high road went through Aldermere and it was well equipped with hotel, stores, etc. and was a regular stopping place on the old tote road of the railroad building days. There is no sign of a building left in that location now to denote the thriving little town which was named by Harry Davis.

The deceased was a bachelor and was about 87 years of age. There are no known relatives.

Arriving in port yesterday afternoon at 2:30 from Vancouver via Queen Charlotte Islands on her initial voyage of the season, C.N.R. steamer Prince Charles, Capt. James Watt, had among her passengers twenty-two tourists who transferred to the steamer Prince Rupert today to make the round trip to Anyox and Stewart and thence to Vancouver. Some of the passengers who came north on the Prince Rupert today, after making the Anyox and Stewart run, will transfer to the Prince Charles tomorrow evening to make the trip south via the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Smithers Gets Welcome Rain

Parched Hay Crop May Be Partially Saved—Plenty of Moisture Needed

SMITHERS, June 17.—Showers of rain fell in this district Tuesday morning to gladden the hearts of farmers and to stimulate the long-suffering hay crop which has felt the effects of the prolonged dry spell. Already, many fields have been seriously affected and can only benefit partially from any rains that may come but in most fields sufficient moisture will still be in time to produce fairly good crops. It is hoped that, now the weather seems to have broken, there will be a considerable rainfall which will also put out the forest fires and end the fire hazard that has been present for the past six weeks.

SMITHERS

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. J. R. McIntyre of Smithers to the wedding of their daughter, Irene, to Robert Richardson. A reception will be held in the Anglican Hall immediately after the ceremony in the United Church. Miss McIntyre is the head stenographer in the government offices at Smithers and is well known throughout the district having grown up in Smithers. Mr. Richardson was the Imperial Oil representative at Smithers for a number of years and is a brother of Piper Richardson who lost his life in the Great War while playing the 16th Battalion over the top for which a posthumous V.C. was awarded. Mr. Richardson has for the past two years resided at Bridge River where he is now employed.

The ladies of Smithers have run into a series of accidents during the past week or so and no less than four x-rays for broken bones have been necessary. Mrs. L. B. Warner started the run when she broke a bone in her foot about a week ago. Following her came Miss Vera Doodson with a broken bone in her ankle. Mrs. Matthew McKenzie broke her leg on their farm in the Glentanna district and Mrs. Jos. A. Williams was the last casualty with a broken arm while carrying on her household duties.

SMITHERS, June 17.—Showers of rain fell in this district Tuesday morning to gladden the hearts of farmers and to stimulate the long-suffering hay crop which has felt the effects of the prolonged dry spell. Already, many fields have been seriously affected and can only benefit partially from any rains that may come but in most fields sufficient moisture will still be in time to produce fairly good crops. It is hoped that, now the weather seems to have broken, there will be a considerable rainfall which will also put out the forest fires and end the fire hazard that has been present for the past six weeks.

Salvation Army Self Denial Tag Day On Saturday

The local Salvation Army will be holding its annual Self Denial tag day tomorrow, the proceeds to go to the Army's social service work. Capt. and Mrs. Ivan Halsey will be in charge with others engaged in tagging including Capt. Jater, Mrs. Frank Pierce, Clara Pierce, Mary Pierce, Herbert Pierce, Earl Pierce, Freddie Pierce and Harold Pierce.

The tag day will bring to a conclusion this year's Self-Denial Appeal.

The tags, in the form of a shield, bear a well-known motto of the Army, "To Help Others."
