COMMISSION COMPLETING WORK

After a long recess to allow the technical staff to collate the evidence and also to allow the chairman, Hon. N. W. Rowell, to recover from his illness, the Royal Commission on intergovernmental relations in planning to reassemble next week to complete its work prior to reporting to the House of Commons at the coming session. Already the data has been prepared and forwarded to the provinces and argument will be heard from each province that desires to be represented.

British Columbia will await with eagerness the report of this commission as it was partly through representations made from this province that the commission was formed.

CANADA TO HELP

It is satisfactory to know that Canada will be helping to supply airplanes suitable for defence purposes to Great Britain. If the work is to be done outside the British Isles there is no reason why Canada should not handle it. It will increase employment in Canada as well as being an effective help in time of need.

TOURIST BUSINESS

Prince Rupert last summer showed interest in tourists by instituting a tourist bureau, a most important step. Since that the Chamber of Commerce has secured the co-operation of the Canadian Pacific Railway by securing the promise of longer stopovers on tourist boats both north and south bound during the tourist season. The next step would naturally be the construction of the highway from Prince Rupert to Terrace. Other important moves will be the general improvement of the appearance of the city, especially in the matter of gardens. Possibly the city will have a few flower beds on their new Totem Pole Park next year and the federal government, it is hoped, will do something of the kind at the new post office grounds.

THE LIQUOR LAW

It is proposed to change the liquor law to enable the police to inspect the books of the vendors in order that they may know who are the large purchasers of liquor, it being presumed that a bootlegger would be a large purchaser. It does not seem as if this change will affect Prince Rupert to any appreciable extent. There may be a little bootlegging but probably none of any particular importance.

HOW NATIVE FOLK CAME TO AMERICA

Indian Agent W. E. Collison Believes They Originated In Asia Several Thousand Years Ago

The aborigines of North and South America are fundamentally one race and it seems apparent that they were of Asiatic origin, having crossed to these continents by way of what is now western Alaska in the stone age thousands of years ago. Such is the belief of Indian Agent W. E. Collison who gave an interesting address before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday on the intriguing subject of "Who Were the First Inhabitants of This Country and Where Did They Come From?" Mr. Collison based his conclusions on findings that have been made by scientific research, particularly by the Smithsonian Institute, augmented by some of his own observations through lifelong experience with the native peoples.

What were apparently the nearest relatives of the Indians of America were to be found today in the peoples of north and eastern Siberia, stated Mr. Collison. The only way they could have possibly come here those many thousands of years ago when even there were no boats was by way of north-western America. Evidence to support this theory included the striking physical resemblance of the aborigines of northwestern Canada and Siberia, some customs and folklore that were almost identical and certain similarities in language such as were to be found in comparing the languages of the Athapaskan Indians of Northern British Columbia and that of the ancient natives of central China close to Tibet. Even today there was free passage of Eskimos back and forth between Alaska and Siberia by boats in summer and over the ice in winter.

There were indications, said Mr. Collison, that this migration might have taken place ten to twelve thousand years ago since the ice age on this continent. Possibly the Indians of the British Columbia Coast had arrived some three thousand years ago. There were indications that this coast had been a corridor for the passage of many different migrations. The many different languages to be found even in the close proximity of Prince Rupert were evidence of this.

History Obscure

The history of the Indians of British Columbia was very obscure, said the speaker. Indians, when asked, would merely say that they had been here "since the beginning of the world." The fact that

DR. TARR IS HEARD

Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers Association In Regular Monthly Meeting

As a result of the telephone bridge held a few weeks ago by the Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers' Association, it was possible for the association to make further generous grants to the local schools for the purpose of buying much needed books for the school libraries. The sum of forty dollars was voted to each of the three large schools and ten dollars to the Seal Cove School. An additional sum of ten dollars was also voted to the Home Economics department of the High School. The association expressed thanks to the committee that convened the successful event, to Ormes Ltd. for its kind assistance and to the telephone department for the courtesy shown by the members of its staff.

At the regular monthly meeting held last evening in the Booth Memorial High School, the president, Mrs. R. M. Winslow, expressed the hope that meetings of the association would soon be resumed in the Borden Street School. Miss E. A. Mercer, principal of the King Edward High School, stressed the urgent need of building up the school libraries to a standard commensurate with that demanded by the provincial Department of Education. Library periods were compulsory in the schools but, in order that these periods be really beneficial to the students, there must be more books and books of the right kind. Tentative arrangements were made for the January meeting which would be the sixteenth annual meeting of the association. A nominating committee composed of the president, secretary, Mrs. N. M. Carter and Miss E. A. Mercer was appointed.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. W. L. Stamford delighted the audience with skillfully rendered pianoforte solos interpreting Indian songs, dances, and lyrics. Dr. Hugh Tarr, a member of the staff of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, was a most interesting speaker. Dr. Tarr, who spent three years as a research student at Cambridge University, gave a graphic account of the historical development of that ancient and renowned university and of its great influence upon education and world culture. Descriptions of the colleges, the quaint rules and regulations, the entrance requirements, the student courses, the old-fashioned buildings and the splendidly equipped modern laboratories were intensely interesting. While Cambridge was chiefly renowned for its contribution to science, it had, nevertheless, made a great contribution to literature. Byron and Rupert Brooke were famous names on the literary side. Quoting from Byron's "Granta," the speaker gave a vivid picture of student life at the university in Byron's time. Some of the famous men of science who had lived and worked in Cambridge and their contributions in the realm of physics, astronomy and biology were described. Among these were Newton, Thomson, Lord Rutherford, Jeans, Edington, Hopkins and Barcroft. Cambridge had one of the best medical schools in England and an excellent engineering school.

Following the adjournment of the meeting, refreshments were served and an enjoyable social hour was spent.

Jack McCallie, one of the world's greatest lightweight boxers in the four-knockout era, died at his Forest Hill, N.Y., home one year ago this month. He retired in 1932 but four years later fought a six-round no-decision bout with Kid Lavigne and left the ring for good with an unblemished record. He was 72 years old.

Ernie Lombardi, voted the most valuable player in the National Baseball League, has long been feared by hitters because of the tremendous power with which he hits low, bullet-like line drives. A couple of years ago he knocked down Larry French, Cubs' south-paw, and broke his pitching hand. He has fanned numerous batters with his drives. Lombardi, 38, weighs 225 and is six feet, two inches tall. He started playing ball with Oakland of the Pacific Coast League in 1927 and has been with the Reds seven seasons.

Sea Ezzell, California-owned colt, attained top-money position for 1937 when he won the Biggs Handicap at Pimlico one year ago this month. The four-year-old also set a new track record over the mile and 3/16ths journey of 1:37 2/5 seconds, three-fifths of a second better than the mark held jointly by Gallant Knight and Dark Hope.

HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL

Three Way Tie Now For Leadership Inter-House League

Yesterday afternoon at the Booth Memorial School two interesting basketball games were played as a result of which all three inter-house league teams are tied. The games took place in the school gym which is really not appropriate for good basketball. However, through the courtesy of Lieut. Col. S. D. Johnston, it is expected that arrangements can be made to have future games in the Armory.

The senior game was a very interesting one with the two strongest teams, Beta and Gamma, playing. This game showed very hard checking, good passing but poor shooting. The outstanding players for Gamma were Christian and Macdonald at guard and Knutson and Brown at forwards. For Beta they were Holkestad, O'Neill and Rey.

Individual scoring was:
Beta—Holkestad 4, Eby, Kihara, O'Neill, Bussey, Hopkins.
Gamma—Brown 4, Knutson 4, Christian 1, Smith, Macdonald, Lee.

Junior Game
The junior game was not so fast but there was hard checking. In the first half Beta had most of the play with O'Neill and Simonsen playing good basketball. Gamma's checking was good. In the second half Gamma fielded an entirely new team which had good plays but could not score. In this half the play was mostly in Gamma's favor. Beta was checking well and their passing was good.

Individual scoring was:
Beta—Simonsen 4, O'Neill, McLeod, Pierce, Holkestad, Selvig, Joy, Sylvester.
Gamma—Cameron 2, Kam, Lee, Davis, O. Keays, Hirkko, Gomet, Knutson, Nordon, Denning.

The results of these games leave the league standing at the end of the first round as follows:

	W	L	Pts
Alpha	2	2	4
Beta	2	2	4
Gamma	2	2	4

Local Girl In West China Now After Long Trip

Word was received in the city by cable yesterday that Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Outerbridge had arrived at their destination at Chengtu, West China, where Dr. Outerbridge is being attached to the University for the purpose of learning the Chinese language and teaching surgery. Mrs. Outerbridge is the former Miss Margaret Kergin.

The young couple went in by way of Hong-Kong then from French Indo-China by train to Yunnan and by plane to Chung King, the commercial centre for that part of China and present capital. Two hours more on the plane took them to the mission station at Chungtu. The mission is kept up by the United Church, the Church of England in Canada and one of the American churches.

The Japanese have been bombing cities in West China recently so it is possible that Mr. and Mrs. Outerbridge may be within the zone of military activities in the near future.

LONDON'S AUTUMN GAIETY

Empire Hub In Party Dress Nightly As Public Service Holds Women By Day

By MOLLIE MCGEE
Canadian Press Correspondent
LONDON, Nov. 17: (CP)—Society affairs of the "little season" that lasts till Christmas are in full swing in London. Dances, balls, dinners, theatre and restaurant parties take place nightly and have their pictures in the papers, but behind this pleasant surface serious work is going on. Steady application to one or another kind of public service whose need was brought to the fore at the time of the crisis is occupying everyone.

Most of the work is voluntary and women volunteers work long office hours and lose their jobs for inefficiency just as easily as they would if they were paid.

There is, of course, the new Auxiliary Territorial Army. The main matter of discussion there is a dissatisfaction with the new uniforms. The women see no reason why they should be in an ugly drab color instead of the rather attractive Air Force horizon-blue and object strenuously to the forage caps which sit in a floppy blob down over their ears.

A R. P.—air-raid precaution work—is claiming the largest group of society women who are under the leadership of Dowager Lady Reading. The volunteers must serve three months' probation and give a month's notice if they want to leave. No matter what their status in society—many have titles—they must take their orders from any woman more able than themselves.

Prominent Leaders
There is a technical department providing lecturers, answering inquiries about regulations and advising on any aspect of the various "recruitment" services. Another department has charge of arrangements being made for the evacuation of London in war time. A prominent society woman, Madame de Selincourt, is superintending details in connection with the voluntary reception of the evacuated, registers, plans and movements.

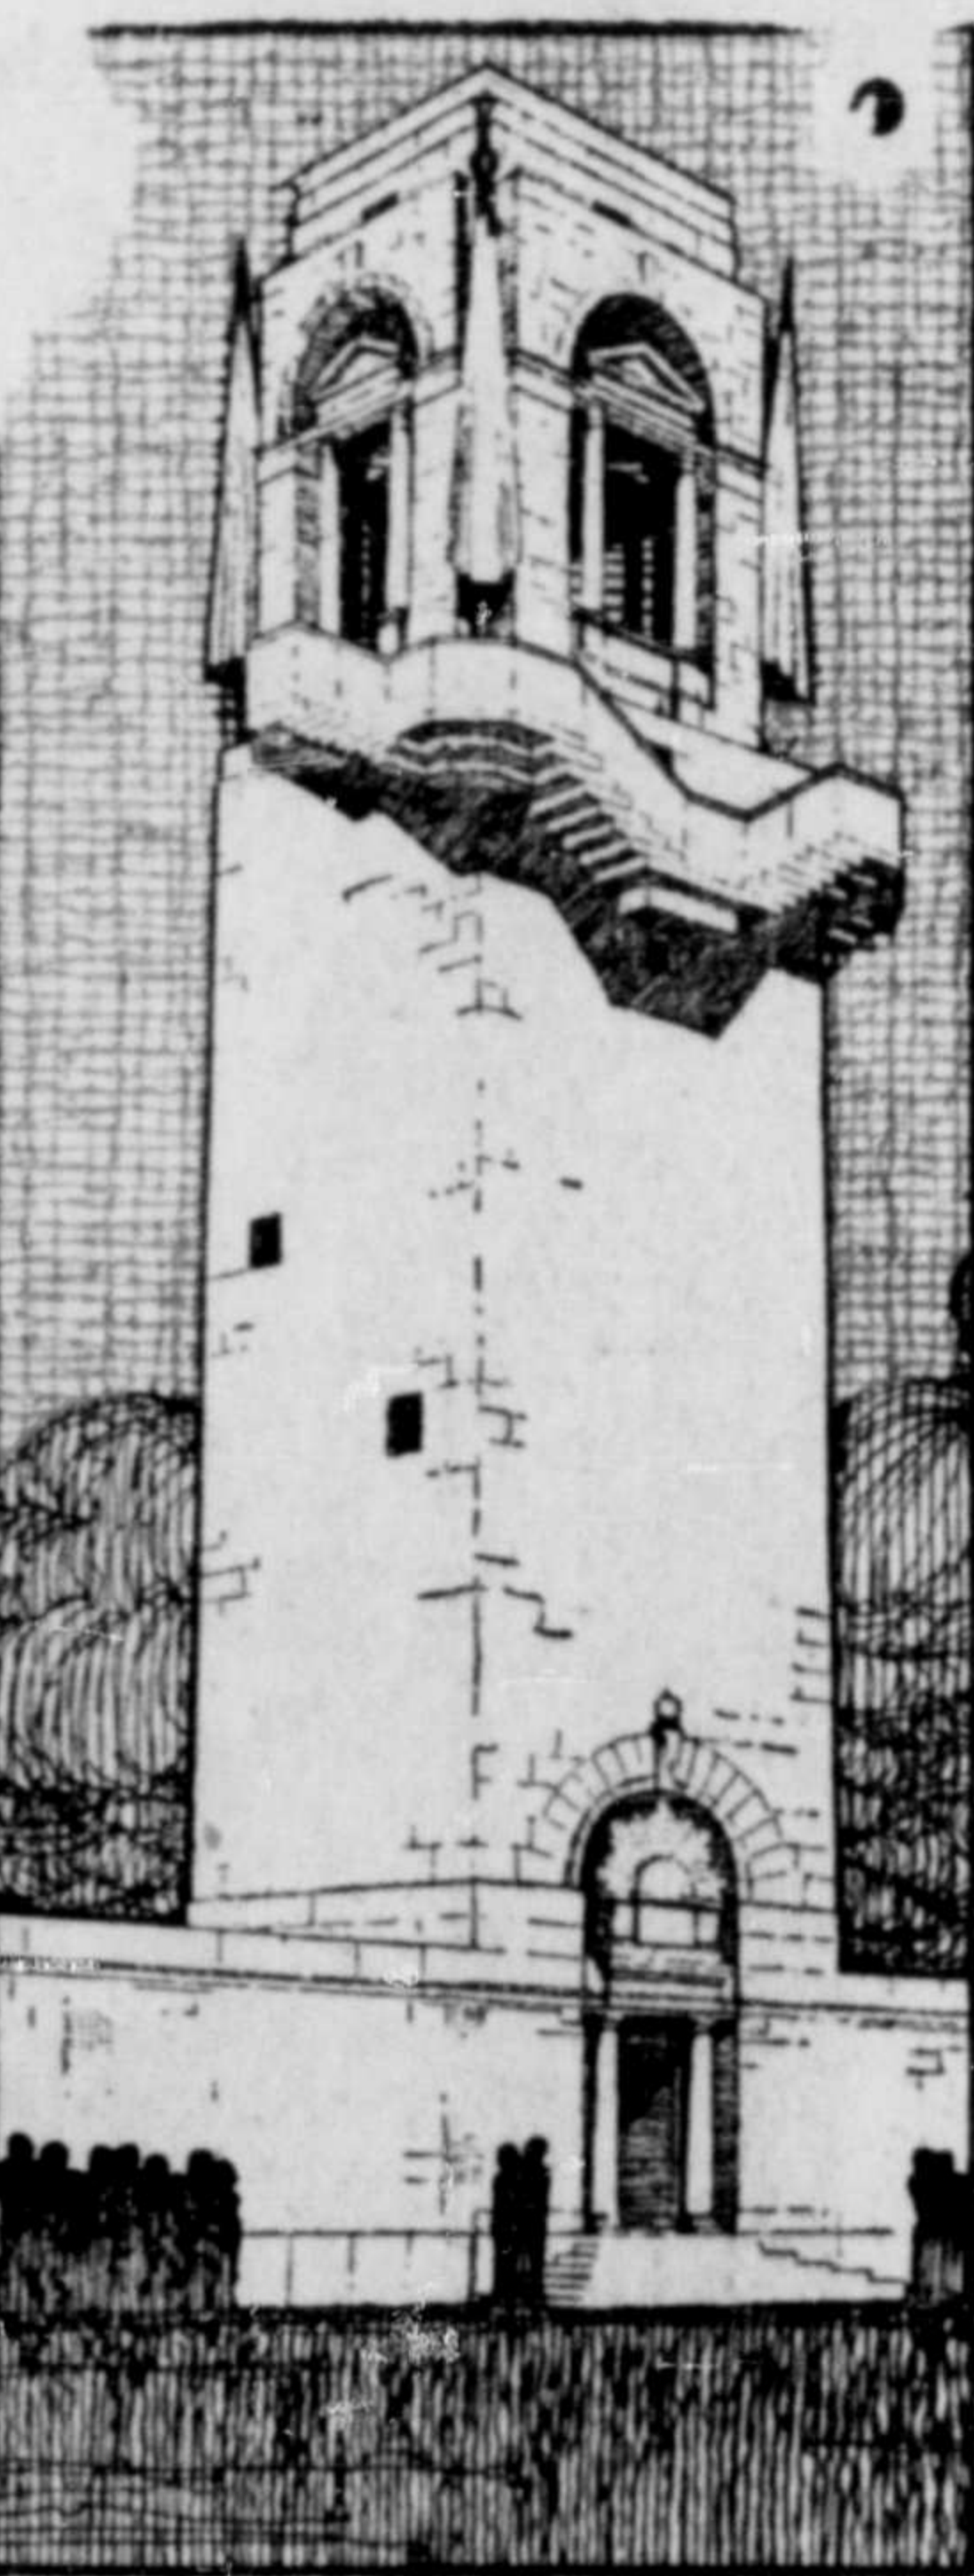

In the head office of Regional Administrator's Room are an artist, two society women, two barbers, a doctor, all pooling their knowledge and abilities. Mrs. Lionel de Rothschild is among the newly-fledged instructors having completed her course in record time and is going about the country lecturing, especially to Jewish organizations.

The Duchess of Marlborough is a prime mover in the peace-time work of the Women's Auxiliary Territorial Service which includes the assembling of a great number of cooks, kitchen-maids and cleaners who can relieve the men from these more or less domestic duties in the army, air force and civil service. She works in her office eight to 10 hours a day and is to be found "in" to business callers.

Abandons Reception
Busy with the women's army, Lady Londonderry has abandoned arrangements for her customary eye-of-parliament reception at her great house on Park Lane.

Health on Stage
The League of Health and Beauty—whose leader Prunella Stack recently married into the nobility—is giving demonstrations not only in public halls but on the music hall stages. It even finds its

Liquor Store At Terrace Subject Of House Queries

The liquor store situation at Terrace has been the subject of questions in the Legislature by Colin Cameron, C. C. F. member for Comox. The vendor, according to information given Mr. Cameron by Attorney General Gordon Wismer, was under salary for one month after the fire. There was an adjustment of accounts between the vendor and the board. The store, which was razed by fire on February 9 last, has not yet been reopened but its reopening is under consideration, the Attorney General said.

The Daily News is an A. B. C. paper.

Gives Busy Men Space To Think

Missouri Priest Conducts Haven For People Desiring Quiet and Rest

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 17: (CP)—Tired St. Louis businessmen have discovered Father James P. Monaghan's "thinking resort." It is a haven, operated by Catholics but open also to Jews and Protestants, where a man can get by himself for meditation.

"Isolated from the world, placed in an environment where there are beautiful gardens and a broad view of forest and stream, man is set to thinking of the spiritual side of his nature," says Father Monaghan. From a small start the "thinking resort" has grown to estate size with ivy-covered, stone-walled buildings. The dormitory accommodates 50 men. They come for a four-day retreat, usually over the week-end and during that time there is no communication among the guests except for a two-hour recreation period after dinner. Lights are out at 10 p.m.

Executives of several of the city's largest stores urge their department heads to visit the "white house on the Mississippi" once a year. It is so-called because it sits on white limestone bluffs, 18 miles south of St. Louis. Nearly 20,000 guests have enjoyed its peace. At the end of the retreat guests make a voluntary offering but there is no fixed charge. Only the guest knows what he has contributed.

C. P. F. steamer Princess Norah, Capt. William Palmer, is due in port at 3:30 this afternoon from Alaska and will sail at 5 p.m. in continuation of her voyage to Vancouver.

way into theatrical criticism columns. One well known critic remarked recently "Ninety members of the Women's League of Health and Beauty gave a physical jerks display as the star turn at the Coliseum this week. They all looked very healthy and their drilling was well thought out. But it was not, surely, a kind thought of someone's to put them in the same program as the John Tiller girls."
