PREMIER'S POLICY IS ATTACKED

Hore-Belisha Leading Revolt of Younger Ministers—Talk of Baldwin Being Recalled

LONDON, March 17: (CP)—A vote of censure upon the National government for its "lack of policy" on foreign affairs, proposed by Clement Attlee, Labor leader, and supported by opposition Liberals, was rejected in the House of Commons by a division of 317 to 141 last night but a new and more serious cabinet crisis is apparently impending.

Attlee urged active assistance by Britain to France in aiding the Spanish government against the insurgents, Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal leader, concurred. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain held that a policy of non-intervention in Spain was still in the best interests of Britain.

In the House of Lords Lord Halifax, the new Foreign Secretary, states that government policy in regard to European affairs would be to insist on the respecting of international law as opposed to coercion by threat of military strength.

BIG CABINET SPLIT

It is persistently reported that another split over foreign policy is imminent. Younger members are said to be pleading for a stronger stand by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain. Associated Press reports that Secretary of State for War, Leslie Hore-Belisha, is considering resigning. Reports spread today that Hore-Belisha, who has just completed a sweeping reorganization of the army high command, has given Premier Chamberlain forty-eight hours to make a firm declaration of British support for Czecho-Slovakia and adopt a more positive policy toward Spain. Unless this is done, it is said, Hore-Belisha will resign, possibly taking out of the cabinet with him Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, Secretary for the Dominions, Rt. Hon. W. S. Morrison, Secretary of Agriculture, and Rt. Hon. Walter Elliot, Secretary of State for Scotland.

Associated Press said that Labor Party circles had discussed the possibility of Prime Minister Chamberlain's resignation within forty-eight hours in favor of an interim government to be headed by Chamberlain's predecessor, Earl Baldwin, who retired last year.

Also mentioned in connection with the Premiership is the name of the fiery Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, who is reported to have headed a committee of Conservative members of Parliament which has warned the Prime Minister that he would have to change his foreign policy quickly if he wished to retain their support.

Meantime in some quarters it is believed that the government is marking time pending consultation with the Dominions.

Was Believed Implicated

VIENNA, March 17: (CP)—Major Emil Fey, former vice-chancellor of Austria, who, together with his wife and son, committed suicide yesterday, was once charged with complicity in the assassination of Former Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss but last March was absolved of all suspicion. He was ousted from the Austrian cabinet place April 14 at the home of the bride-elect's parents, Terrace, B.C., in July in October 1935.

British Naval Assistance Is Assured France To Keep Communication With Africa

PARIS, March 17: (CP)—It was announced last night that the French government had received assurance of British naval assistance if French communication with Northern Africa by way of the Mediterranean is menaced. In return, France has agreed not to take any action meantime in Spain other than to maintain the integrity of her borders. Announcement of the agreement is to be made simultaneously in French and British Parliaments today, it is expected.

Premier Blum has issued an appeal to all French people to stand united in the present international crisis.

SEVENTEEN LOSE LIVES

Such is Latest Estimate of Dead In Tornado Which Swept Down Mississippi

LITTLE ROCK, Arkansas, Mar. 17: (CP)—The toll of tornadoes which roared through the lower Mississippi Valley on Tuesday was late yesterday placed at seventeen dead, scores injured, with untold property damage in Missouri, Arkansas, Tennessee, Mississippi and Alabama.

PATTULLO PRESENTS PROPOSALS

Would Have Wider Taxation Powers for Provinces—Urges Ban On Oriental Immigration

VICTORIA, March 17: (CP)—Premier T. D. Pattullo, suggesting before the Rowell commission on Dominion-provincial financial relations here yesterday that "the provinces be granted authority to raise their own revenues by what ever means they deemed necessary in the light of circumstances and requirements," said this would eliminate controversy over any current taxes and would permit imposition of taxes on business turnover and retail sales.

Premier Pattullo urged the prohibition of Oriental immigration into Canada.

The British Columbia Premier also suggested that the provinces retain primary responsibility for health and welfare services and should be given "complete control" of the packing, storing and transporting within their boundaries of commodities intended for inter-provincial trade.

Mr. Pattullo declared that the entrance of Canada into the income tax field had definitely limited this source of revenue to British Columbia. To meet all charges without borrowing from the Dominion, an increase in provincial income taxes was necessary but this would place too great a burden on taxpayers along with the Dominion income tax. The province had deferred increasing its own tax pending the appointment of such a commission as the present one.

Premier Pattullo recommended that power to amend the British North America Act should rest in the Parliament of Canada upon a basis to be agreed upon.

The memorandum of the British Columbia government to the commission stated that this province had suffered inequalities and disabilities from national tariff and freight rates.

Farris on Tax Rights Senator J. W. deB. Farris, council for the British Columbia government, told the commission that this province had been consistently making representations for better taxation terms for forty years. The Dominion's right to invade the income tax field—if there was any right—was subordinate to prior provincial right and the Dominion should not collect income tax in the province until the province had satisfied its needs from that source. Senator Farris contended today. He said that this principle was not only violated by the Dominion but the taxpayer was not permitted to deduct provincial income tax in computing federal taxable income.

Senator Farris was advancing the argument that British Columbia was making excessive contribution to confederation through income taxes, customs and excise duties and collections and incidental tariff as affecting Canadian goods purchased outside the province.

SKELETON FOUND AT HARTLEY BAY MAY BE GIBBONS OR JOHNSON

Skull Located on Shore and Rest of Remains in Water—Hunting Tragedy of Nearly Ten Years Ago Recalled

According to report made to the provincial police by Harry Scott, well known hand logging operator, natives at Old Hartley Bay have found near their village down the coast what is believed to be the skeleton of either E. C. Gibbons, prominent local real estate and insurance broker, or Thor Johnson, men's clothing dealer, who were drowned in November 1928 when a small boat from which they were bird hunting capsized, their bodies never being recovered. Tomorrow morning police officers will proceed to Hartly Bay in the police boat P.M.L. 8 to investigate.

Some time ago the Indians sighted in deep but clear water a skeleton which they at first believed to be that of a deer. Just recently a human skull was found on the beach nearby. Now the skull and skeleton are being associated in the theory. The skull is reported to be considerably deteriorated but police are hoping that it may be possible to establish identity.

It was on the night of November 27, 1928, that Gibbons and Johnson were presumably drowned from a fourteen-foot boat which they had been using to go ashore to the Hartley Bay flats for bird hunting. After the pair became missing, other members of the party from the schooner Bertha G. searched the shore all night and, finally, the next morning were attracted by the barking of Gibbons' dog to the overturned rowboat. The dog had evidently swum ashore while the two men were drowned. Other members of the party were Capt. R. Gammon, Thomas Watts, B. J. Bacon, the late J. W. Scott, J. E. Boddie and W. Bailey.

A long search by police for the bodies followed the tragedy but never met with any success.

Today being St. Patrick's Day, the 1500th anniversary of the arrival of the Saint in Ireland, this statue, erected on a hill at Slieve Patrick, near Saul, County Down, was dedicated. The 37-foot statue was designed by Francis Doyle-Jones. It overlooks the River Slaney, where Ireland's patron landed on his arrival.

CHINESE SUCCESS

Effective Counter-Attacks Against Japanese—Tokyo House Passes General Mobilization

TOKYO, March 17: (CP)—The Japanese House of Representatives last night passed without recorded vote the national mobilization bill over which there had been considerable contention, opponents objecting to totalitarian tendencies of the measure.

Meantime from the Chinese battlefronts came word that the Chinese had been successful in counter-attacks in three provinces.

Shanghai reports today said that eighty Japanese naval planes in a sudden thrust into South China province of Kiangsi, bombed a Chinese air field at Nanchang, destroying an airdrome and six Chinese planes.

BARCELONA IS RAIDED

Loyalists Insist on Resistance—Bombs Take Heavy Toll

BARCELONA, March 17: (CP)—Thousands of loyalists paraded the streets of Barcelona last night, concentrating at the residence of the President, to demand continuation of the resistance against the insurgents at any cost.

Coincident with the loyalist demonstrations, Barcelona last night and today experienced its most severe air raid at the hands of the insurgents so far in the civil war, waves of airplanes appearing overhead to drop bombs on the government capital. It is estimated, as a result of nine distinct raids, more than three hundred were killed and twenty injured. Casualty lists are still incomplete. Many buildings were struck and damage was heavy.

HYDRO IS DISCUSSED

Great Water Power Resources of This District Described at Gyro Club Luncheon By J. J. Little

Rupert Fortunate

Subjects That Constant Rainfall Here Will Some Day Be Great Blessing to This Community

Within a radius of one hundred miles of Prince Rupert we have potential hydro-electric of 110,000 horsepower resources and in Northern British Columbia one of the richest resources in all Canada," declared J. J. Little, general manager of the Northern British Columbia Power Co. yesterday in addressing the Prince Rupert Gyro Club on the subject of "The Water Power Resources of British Columbia." The constant precipitation about which we sometimes may complain may accrue in the not far distant future to our great benefit industrially and economically.

Others might have preached the necessity of conservation of natural timber and fisheries resources, said Mr. Little, but water power required no conservation. To the contrary, its rapid utilization was one of the greatest benefits. Once water power had fallen and returned to sea level it had gone forever. Among the great agencies which contributed to the development of a modern state, cheap power stood in the front rank. Where abundant resources of water power are available for cheap development, they contributed largely to the natural wealth of the country through industrial opportunities made available. British Columbia was very fortunate in this regard. She was the pioneer in the electrical industry of this province had made it feasible to transmit power economically over long distances, the use of water power had advanced rapidly and there was no reason to foresee a halt in this continued development.

History of Development

Mr. Little told how development of water power in British Columbia commenced in 1848 when the Johnson Bay Co. constructed a small dam on Esquimalt Harbor. Fifteen years later some 10,000 horsepower was installed; ten years later a further 60,000 was installed, with an increase to 300,000 by 1920 and 718,922 horsepower by the end of 1936. Of the latter figure seventy-five per cent was installed in central electric stations, 15 per cent in pulp and paper mills and 10 per cent in other industries. Of over one half million horsepower installed in central stations, nearly fifty per cent was utilized around the cities of Vancouver and New Westminster with over 400,000 horsepower in and around Victoria and the remaining portion in the smaller towns.

By far the largest user in British Columbia of electrical energy generated from water for industries was the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. at Trail where the energy was supplied by the West Kootenay Power & Light Co. Ltd. from four plants on the Kootenay River at Bonnington Falls with aggregate turbine installation of 226,000 horsepower. The installation of another 90,000 horsepower power plant was now being commenced. The Consolidated at Kimberley also used a large amount of electrical energy from Elk River. Water power was used extensively for manufacture of wood pulp and paper notably at Powell River, 70,000 horsepower, and Ocean Falls, 26,850 horsepower.

Mr. Little then reviewed the undeveloped water power resources of the province, the largest low to

ENCOURAGE LOCAL SPORT

Sport has been languishing in Prince Rupert recently. With no basketball during the winter, no present prospect of baseball and football uncertain, it seems as if the young people of the city have "gone soft" and are no longer interested in the games that made the people great.

Last summer there was neither baseball nor softball while surrounding towns and villages were polishing up their bats and improving their play.

It seems that some old players have left the city and those remaining are so busy with other pursuits that they do not any more care for games. Here then is a chance for the younger people. Complaint had been made in the past that the youngsters were never given an opportunity to show what they could do. This complaint should no longer be possible. Young players are needed but more than that the need is for organizers and leaders who will give the boys some encouragement.

What is true of baseball is to a large extent also true of football. New leaders in this game seem to be needed who will organize and train and bring the young boys forward.

INTERIOR SPORTS

From day to day we hear of the fine records being made by teams from the interior who not only play games in their own towns but also make tours east and west and go as far south as the Cariboo. The young lads are coming along well and any time now should be able to hang up the scalps of the Prince Rupert men.

This seems to be the right time to reorganize for the summer games with a view to keeping up the reputation of this city for good amateur sport. The tennis courts will be kept busy and the bowlers will be out in force whenever the weather is right. Baseball and softball and football should be the next sports to be heard from. Football should come first because it is not exactly a hot weather sport.

The tendency in the past has been for baseball players to expect too much. They must have a crowd of spectators or they do not care to perform. They do not play for the game but for applause.

At that, if there are local teams that are well organized and publicized and that put up the right kind of games, the people of the city will be there to watch. Most people enjoy seeing a good ball game. When they go south it is one of the things they do. However, in any steps taken, it must be remembered that times are not like they were in 1929 and people cannot afford to pay much to see a game. The person who goes to a cash-and-carry to save a cent is not going to throw away money on poor quality ball games.

We really believe there are plenty of young men who would play and also there are men with ability to organize and enthruse the boys. What is needed is to forget the past and start anew with new players, new organizers and new enthusiasm. There have been splendid efforts in the past by fine men. A new start is needed.

EDUCATION MOVEMENT

Miss Phyllis Taylor, Exchange Teacher, Speaks Before Parent Teachers

The regular monthly meeting of the Prince Rupert Parent-Teachers' Association was held last evening in Borden Street School with Mrs. R. M. Winslow presiding.

The resignation of Mrs. E. J. Clapp as membership convener for Borden Street was received with regret and Mrs. Barber was unanimously elected to that position on the executive committee. Arrangements were made for the annual Easter candy sale and committees were appointed. The activities of the Association had been so successful that it was possible to vote the sum of $37.50 to each of Borden Street, Booth Memorial and King Edward Schools and $7.50 to Seal Cove School to purchase library books and sport equipment. Thanks was expressed to City Commissioner W. J. Alder for a grant of $25 to assist this work.

Address of Evening

Miss Phyllis Taylor, exchange teacher from Nottingham, England, gave a most interesting address dealing with new educational movements which are gaining ground in Norway, Denmark, Belgium and Great Britain. While the older methods looked upon the child as a unit in the class and the teacher endeavoured to shape him into a mould in obedience to some external factor, the new education placed the child in the centre of the stage and the educator devoted himself to the development of that precious growing life as an individuality. This respect for the child's individuality took into consideration the fact that such individuality could best grow only in the society of other children and an atmosphere of intellectual and moral freedom where they had an opportunity of becoming active participants in the process of their own education and were taught to value the resources of their common culture and encouraged to broaden their loyalties, unimpaired by racial and geographical considerations. The new Education was thus a movement toward freedom for the child and for the teacher. It purposed to free the teacher from those restrictions and irritations which took the joy out of his work—from the detailed prescription of methods and curricula which made teaching mechanical and from the tyranny of examinations which tended to arrest all freedom of action and experimentation. With freedom achieved, there was opportunity for the release of those creative impulses which were found in all children.

The new movement in education, Miss Taylor stated, perhaps originated in the new conception of the teaching of art. Thirty years ago Professor Cizek in Vienna founded his art school and instituted his methods of persuading the children to draw what was in them rather than teaching them to draw what he considered they ought to see. His aim was to liberate the spirit of his pupils that each might draw from his own, unique vision. There were no still life groups, no plaster models of foliage to copy and no rigid imposition of adult ideas. Instead, the children were encouraged to make large and fearless drawings of the incidents they saw around them or of the pictures and fantasies which were seething in their minds. The child's innate love of color was encouraged and he was again given plenty of choice in color combinations, drawing on the wealth of material within him and joyously releasing his creative impulses.

Following Miss Taylor's address an opportunity was given to inspect creative drawings and pattern work done by primary children of the Nottingham Schools and similar work done by the pupils of Miss Taylor's class in Prince Rupert.

During the evening, Ralph Morin, with skilfully rendered violin solos, accompanied by Miss Nellie Lawrence, provided a very enjoyable musical program. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded the speaker and artists. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served and a pleasant social hour enjoyed.

Leslie J. Martin, sales superintendent for the Home Oil Distributors Ltd., who is paying a brief business visit to the city, will sail by the Prince Rupert tonight on his return to Vancouver.

HYDRO IS DISCUSSED

medium head sites being found on the larger rivers such as the Fraser, Columbia, Kootenay, Pend Orielle, Naas, Bulkley and others.

Around Prince Rupert Speaking of the resources of the country around Prince Rupert, Mr. Little explained the possible diversion projects from the Fraser River system in the interior, namely Eutsuk Lake to Kimsquit River in Dean Channel and Tahtsa Lake to Kemano River in Gardner Canal. These could be accomplished by driving of tunnels through mountains to divert the water from the Fraser River direct towards the coast.

Mr. Little referred to the resources of water power on the Bulkley River at such points as Hagwilget, Beament and Moricetown.

Turning to the immediate vicinity of Prince Rupert, Mr. Little mentioned the Estall, Khtada and Thulme Rivers and Union Bay as well as Shawatlans where he revealed studies had been made in connection with the proposed local pulp mill project. It had been found that, at Shawatlans, where there was a rated power of 3,000 horse power, it was possible, through the raising of the Woodworth Lake dam by twenty-five feet and the consequent increase of storage, two 5000 h.p. units could be maintained which would be a valuable six weeks practical standby reserve to the Falls River development from which 6000 horse power was now developed with another 6000 h.p. considered.

Mr. Little was thanked for his interesting and informative address by D. G. Borland, president of the club, who was in the chair. Guests were G. W. Cripps and J. T. Harvey of Prince Rupert and Dr. A. S. Lamb of Vancouver. M. C. Brook, local manager of the Standard Oil Co. of British Columbia, was elected a member of the club.
