Canton Is Taken By Japanese; Walked In Without Resistance

WAS ONE OF MOST OUTSTANDING VICTORIES IN ENTIRE ORIENTAL CONFLICT—EXPECTED OPPOSITION FAILED TO MATERIALIZE

CANTON, October 21: (CP)—Japanese tanks rumbled into Canton today, scoring one of the most astounding victories in the Sino-Japanese war. The tanks were followed by detachments of the South China expeditionary force which just ten days ago landed at Bias Bay, 125 miles to the southeast. Apparently, they had met with no opposition from hundreds of provincial troops massed northeast of the metropolis. Early conflicting reports had said that the Chinese were setting up stiff resistance but they appear to have been in error.

MUST BE FRIENDLY

Peace of World Depends Upon Relations Between Germany and Britain, Hoare Declares

CLACTON - ON - SEA, Oct. 21: (CP)—Speaking here last night, Sir Samuel Hoare, Home Secretary, declared that, without friendly relations between England and Germany, there could be no substantial peace in the world. The British armament program would continue, Sir Samuel said, to make of Great Britain a fortress able to withstand any air attack. Great Britain wanted peace but was resolved to be ready, if necessary, for war.

PACT MAY COLLAPSE

United States Not Satisfied With Concessions in British Trade

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 21: (CP)—Negotiation of the proposed trade agreement between Great Britain and the United States is at a standstill, it was learned last night. The United States government has taken the stand that further substantial concessions on certain American products are necessary if negotiations are not to collapse. Great Britain has been so notified, it is reliably stated.

It is announced that concessions granted by Great Britain are so far not sufficient to warrant United States signing the pact. Further concessions in regard to automobiles, hams, lard and bacons are said to be asked. Failure of the Anglo-American pact to materialize might have an effect upon the Canadian-American pact.

Gasoline Price Cut Four Cents By Gov't Order Made Today

Prince Rupert Will Pay 26c Instead of 30c per Gallon—Change Effective Next Week—Price Zones Are Set Up By Commission

The Prince Rupert gasoline price, under the new provincial government order issued today, is reduced four cents from 30c to 26c per gallon.

VICTORIA, October 21: (CP)—The British Columbia government announced today that it had ordered a three cent reduction in the basic price of gasoline sold in the province on recommendation of Dr. W. A. Carrothers, the one-man fuel commission. The reduction, effective when Lieutenant Governor Eric W. Hamber signs the order-in-council, means that gasoline will sell in Vancouver for 23c per gallon, compared with the present 27c. Seven cents of the retail price is made up of tax.

FORESTS BURNING

One Man Loses His Life as Flames Sweep Over Valuable Timber Land in Washington

INDEX, Washington, Oct. 21: (CP)—Forest fires, which have swept over one thousand acres of timber land near here, destroyed an estimated two million feet of logs and timber and have caused at least one death.

William Regan, a fire fighter, was trapped and burned to death in Bear Creek Canyon. Another fire fighter saved his life by jumping into a mud puddle and staying there until the worst of the flames had passed. Logging camps have been closed down owing to the outbreak.

The cut, which amounts to six cents in some of the fifteen price zones which the government has set up, becomes effective October 26, the government announced following a cabinet meeting today. The basic price of gasoline is the Vancouver retail price. In many parts of the province the present price is considerably higher, being calculated on the Vancouver price plus handling and other charges.

On the Leonhardt's bridge there are two wooden buttons, about three inches in diameter, placed on each side of a needle indicator. When the port button is turned, the ship turns to port and the needle indicates the deviation from a straight course. The starboard button operates similarly.

The only other alternative to laying off help would be increasing of the company says. The Postal Telegraph Service is protesting the application of the new wages and hours law. EDITORIAL

VALUE OF MILITARY TRAINING

One of the benefits a community gets from military training is seeing the young men walk erect, step alertly and move with precision. They lose their natural slouch and attain a personality they could not otherwise get. It is worth a great deal to note the boys who have had military training come to attention when the national anthem is sung.

Something of the same bearing is obtained to a lesser degree by the cadets, the boy scouts and girl guides. The difficulty with these younger folks is that they seem to lack the sense of rhythm which goes with marching in step. By learning to co-operate in marching we learn to co-operate all through life. We learn to keep step with our neighbors, week in and week out, and this is a great advance toward fuller co-operation.

We are coming near Remembrance Day when the service at the cenotaph is held. There we see the smart boys of the naval reserve and the local artillery battery keeping perfect time as they swing along toward their goal. Behind them come the women's organizations going pitter-patter, step here, step there and the guides and the scouts all finding it difficult to keep together and looking more or less like a rabble. If they had been thoroughly trained in marching when young they would never have forgotten it. It would be a treat to see at least one company outside the military and naval units marching with precision and keeping time to the music of the bands.

ONE NEEDS THE OTHER

THE Dominion of Canada is, economically, a small community on a large scale. The exchange of goods and services which takes place in a village or a small town also takes place between producing regions and industrial areas, between towns and farmlands, between Provinces — East and West. Industrial Eastern Canada buys fruit and food as well as lumber, metals and other commodities from British Columbia. Vast quantities of supplies are also purchased from all other Provinces. With the cash provided by the industrial buyers, producers in these Provinces in turn purchase manufactured goods and foodstuffs from elsewhere in Canada.

For instance, much of the cash that is paid Prairie producers by the industrial East for its food requirements goes to British Columbia in payment of lumber, fruits, canned goods and manufactured articles consumed on the Prairies.

The Dominion of Canada is prosperous when inter-Provincial trade moves goods and services in increasing volume, when supply and demand is stimulated by large payrolls. Thus every British Columbia family is directly and indirectly affected by the welfare and prosperity of all Canadian families including those of the Automotive Industry which has 130,000 people dependent directly on it.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1006 Lumsden Building, Toronto.
