General Peace Is Now Anticipated

FOUR MAJOR NATIONS SIGN AGREEMENT FOR PRESERVING OF PEACE

Conditions Governing Evacuation to be Laid Down By International Commission—All Nations to Demobilize

CZECHS CLAIM COERCION
PRAGUE, September 30: (CP)—Premier Syrový declared today that "superior force compelled us to accept" the four-power Munich agreement for the dismemberment of the country. He said he had taken the decision "to save life and to save the nation."

MUNICH, September 30: (CP)—Western Europe's four major powers early this morning announced an agreement "in principle" on plans for ceding to Germany the Sudeten regions of Czechoslovakia, thus keeping the peace of Europe. Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain of Great Britain, Chancellor Adolf Hitler of Germany, Premier Edouard Daladier of France and Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy announced that they had come to terms for the settling of the grave issue.

An official announcement said that evacuations of the Sudeten region would begin Saturday and end ten days later. Each power would hold itself responsible for execution of the plan.

"Conditions governing the evacuation will be laid down by an international commission" including Czechoslovak representatives, it was announced.

The statement of Germany, signed the accord on means of ceding Sudetenland to Germany and preserving Europe's peace at 12:30 midnight. Chamberlain, Hitler, Mussolini and Daladier held three long conferences throughout Thursday and far into the night.

An authoritative Fascist writer, Virginio Gayda, declared that "the Munich meeting of Prime ministers of the four greatest powers of Europe has concluded with complete agreement which consecrates the German Reich and guarantees it immediate satisfaction."

Premier Mussolini is credited with having played an important part in bringing about the agreement. He was the only one of the four nations' leaders who understood and was able to converse in all four languages.

Premier Chamberlain announced that Czechoslovakia has accepted the four-power agreement for the settlement of the international crisis.

General Demobilization
 German troops will move into portions of Sudetenland tomorrow. "I took that for granted," the Prime Minister said when asked if Great Britain would demobilize her navy and Germany her army. Obvious methods are the demobilization of everybody."

The hopelessness for youth was also dealt with by the speaker. Here was another situation that was being merely allowed to drift.

Retreat of Democracy
 Turning to the international situation, Mr. Irvine declared that Canada could not feel itself detached. The democratic nations had retreated as witnessed by the collapse of the League of Nations, the invasion of China by Japan, the campaign of Italy against Ethiopia, the rise of Franco in Spain and the taking of Austria

"The question is not what are Chamberlain or Mackenzie King going to do," asserted Mr. Irvine. It is: "What are you going to do?" We have sat idly by too long and merely criticized this and previous governments for their ineptitude and lack of policy.

CONVICTION AT ASSIZES

Jack Lambert Guilty of Possessing Illegally Imported Liquor—Remanded for Sentence

Jack Lambert was found guilty by jury at the Supreme Court Assizes here last night on a charge of being in possession of intoxicating liquor unlawfully imported into the country and was remanded by Mr. Justice H. B. Robertson until the end of the criminal assize for sentence. The prosecution of Lambert followed seizure of his fishing boat, Josephine at Arrandale cannery on the Naas River last June after American whiskey and rum to the value of $29.95 had been found on board. Later Lambert was convicted in a police court hearing but the conviction was quashed on the grounds of jurisdiction. Then a new prosecution was instituted which resulted in Lambert's committal and selection for jury trial. The hearing took up the attention of the court all yesterday afternoon until 5:49 p.m. when the jury retired to consider its verdict, returning at 6:02 with the conviction.

The jury consisted of Joseph Naylor, foreman, John Bouzek, Judson E. Palmer, Mike Hudema, Howard Hibbard, Fred Jackson, John Barker, Dennis E. Christopher, Arthur Alger, John Arkie, Lawrence E. Macey and A. C. Cameron. L. W. Patmore K.C. appeared for the Crown and T. W. Brown for the defence.

Mr. Patmore, in outlining the case for the Crown, explained that the accused had seized two cartons of whiskey and rum which was found in the accused's boat at Arrandale cannery June 5 a few miles from the international boundary. The liquor was discovered to have no government seals.

The Evidence

William J. Currie, police officer at Mill Bay, was the first witness. He testified to having received information that the liquor was in the boat at Arrandale. He went to the cannery and boarded the launch Josephine in which he found the two cartons of liquor. Accused admitted that the liquor was his but claimed it was for his own use. The constable said he did not warn accused that anything he might say would be used against him because accused was not yet under arrest. Mr. Brown claimed that this should have been done and objected to the evidence but the judge admitted it. The liquor consisted of 17 bottles of whiskey and five of rum. The boat was an ordinary fishing boat and accused lived aboard it.

Herbert Thomas Cross gave evidence of having tested the liquor and found the whiskey to be 20.9 proof spirit and the rum a little overproof of excellent quality.

Angus McIvor, inspector of fisheries, told of having locked up the liquor and taken care of it until it was taken over by the police boat.

Constable Ward of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, acting as an excise officer, saw the accused in the city police office at Prince Rupert, told him that his boat and liquor had been seized, warned him that anything he said would be used in evidence against him and suggested that he might have counsel but at his own expense. Lambert replied "What's the use? You've got me. I might be better out of the country anyway."

He was further questioned by Jarvis McLeod, collector of customs but this conversation was not admitted. Mr. Brown objected to any of the conversation going in but the judge ruled that the voluntary statement of accused might be admitted.

Under cross-examination, Ward said that no charge had been laid

Foundation For Agreement On Outstanding Europe Problems Believed Forged From Munich

IS GOOD TO BE CANUCK

Fine Privilege Being Canadian in Old Europe These Days

By GLADYS M. ARNOLD

VIEANNA, Sept. 30: (CP)—The longer one travels about Europe the more one thanks God for being a Canadian—it is a privilege, as the Bible says, worth more than rubies. Canadians who grumble about their lot in Canada should carry the passport of another country over here for a while in order to learn how lucky they are. No people in the world—not even those of the British Isles—are so favored.

Nowadays it is particularly annoying with barriers of all sorts raised sky-high among the nations of Europe. "You can't go a hundred yards any more without consulting your banker, an embassy, a tourist agency, the automobile association, the consulate for a visa . . . you are too tired to leave before you are half prepared," a French friend complained to me one day.

The man sitting next to us in the Budapest-Vienna express was from the Argentine. His luggage was plastered with labels of hotels in North and South America, Australia and Europe. As we approached the Hungarian-German frontier German passport officials and agents to examine our money boarded the train. We were commanded to open our purses, pockets and passports.

The Canadian passport gets by quickly even these eagle-eyed officials of the continental express. The British passport is sniffed a little more slowly and suspiciously—while if you come from anywhere else your passport is examined as though they expected to find the plans for frontier fortifications concealed within.

Seizing the passport of our Argentine companion the officer inspected it, fixed a glare on our friend and growled, "You cannot enter—your visa is not in order."

The Argentinian replied in English, "I don't understand German." No attention was paid. "You will have to return to Budapest and have your passport visa'd."

"But I don't understand German," tried the Argentinian again in French.

The official took up a threatening attitude and with gestures ordered, "Get out your baggage at once—you must get off the train at the next station."

"I speak English, French, Italian and Spanish as well as half a dozen dialects of South America—do you speak something I can understand?" protested the harassed Argentinian.

Help From Hungary
 A Hungarian came to his rescue. "He says your visa isn't in order." "But I had my passport put in order only a week ago and got a visa before crossing Germany." "Yes—but you must have it visa'd twice if you enter and leave, twice even for crossing the country—you must return to Budapest."

"And is there no bureau at the frontier which can do that for me?" "No—you must return." "No—you must return." An ex-Austrian woman nearby spoke up sympathetically. "It is a nuisance, she said, in French, 'I too have to have two visas—though

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain Acclaimed in London—Various Nations Resolved to Settle Future Differences Peacefully

LONDON, September 30: (CP)—Prime Minister J. Neville Chamberlain, who flew home today from Munich to receive a great welcome from vast and cheering throngs, is believed, as a result of peaceful agreement on the Czech problem, to have forged the foundation for a four-power non-aggression pact. There are hopes for a broad settlement of outstanding European problems as the fruits of his diplomacy.

One of the Premier's first duties was to go to Buckingham Palace to report personally to the King on the achievements of the Munich conference. Immediately on arrival, Mr. Chamberlain was handed a letter from His Majesty.

Before leaving Munich, Premier Chamberlain and Chancellor Adolf Hitler signed a peace pact binding the German and British people to attempt to settle all disputes by pacific methods.

"We regard the agreement signed last night and the Anglo-German naval agreement as symbolic of the desire of our two peoples never to go to war with one another again."

The agreement set forth: "We are resolved that the method of consultation shall be the method adopted to deal with any other question that may concern our two countries and are determined to continue efforts to remove possible differences and thus contribute to assure the peace of Europe."

"I have always had it in mind," said Premier Chamberlain "that, if we could find a peaceful solution of this Czechoslovak problem, it might open the way for general appeasement."

Gyro Convention Next Year Will Not Come Here

The Prince Rupert Gyro Club, at a business luncheon Wednesday decided against holding the district convention here in 1939 but is still considering such a gathering being held here at a later year. A report from a special committee headed by Orme Stuart giving information regarding such a convention was presented and filed for future reference. Wednesday's meeting was presided over by the president, D. G. Borland, and there was a good attendance of members.

George Holmes leaves on this evening's train for Terrace where he will meet and accompany home his wife, who has been on a trip to England.

I only went to Budapest for three days." "Well," said the Argentinian, angrily jerking down his luggage, "this is my last trip to Europe—it's no pleasure to travel here any more. Since entering it's cost me about $30 in visas without counting the hours I've had to spend in consulates and embassies with ill-humored officials. And now I must return to Budapest and I will miss my sailing at Marseilles. These people over here have gone mad." He slammed the door as he went out.

THE WEIGHT LIFTED

When it was learned last night that an agreement had been reached and that the fear of German aggression bringing about a world war had been ended, a great weight seemed to be lifted from the world. While in Prince Rupert we are far from the range of actual warfare, we were never sure when it might come here and in any case many of the young men of the city had expressed their determination to take part in the fighting in Europe if it started. The close approach of war was a lesson as to how widespread was the patriotism of Canadians. Some fears had been expressed that Canadians might not act as a unit if war came, but all these fears went by the board as the condition became critical. Mackenzie King's declaration seemed a little belated, perhaps, but it was valuable.

Today we know that, if the Empire is threatened in a just cause Canada will be there and we cannot conceive of the British leaders entering upon an unjust war. The efforts of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain for peace have set aside all ideas that might have prevailed in the past that war was induced by a group of imperialists. Chamberlain was criticized in Canada for giving way too much in order to prevent war. Today he seems to be the outstanding statesman of the world.

A GREAT DEMONSTRATION

The democratic nations of Europe made a great demonstration in the cause of peace when they mobilized their forces for war in the past few days. They showed such a united front that it was impossible for Germany and Italy to expect to win out against them. Russia's promise of support was a great source of strength and this, doubtless will have a good effect in future international relationships. It shows Russia that she can benefit by co-operating with the democracies instead of trying to secretly undermine them through the operations of the Internationale and it showed Britain and France that Russia may be a very valuable ally in times of stress. Many people's ideas of international relationships will have been changed radically as a result of the crisis. Many will come to realize now that it is impossible for any nation to live wholly to itself.

THE UNITED STATES

While the action of the President of the United States may have been an important factor in the settlement of the dispute over the Sudeten, the sending out of a few letters was a comparatively easy job compared with what the European statesmen had to do. Also it was a safe job. How much more simple would have been the effort of Chamberlain if the United States had been able to come out in the open and declare her support of the democracies in their time of stress? That week of fear would have been entirely avoided for Germany would never have gone as far as she did if she had felt that the United States would have been in the fight immediately.

Before we can have world stability the American people will have to realize not only that they have a duty to all the western hemisphere but that they also have a duty to perform for the rest of the world. Because the United States refused to become a member of the League of Nations, the operations of that league became abortive. Had she been a member the rape of Manchuria could have been stopped, Abyssinia would have retained her independence, the war in Spain would have been nipped in the bud and there would have been no crisis this week. The last war would have been as was expected, "a war to end war."

PHONE TO FAR NORTH

Distant Posts Will Converse With Business and Financial Centres

EDMONTON, Sept. 30: (CP) — Two-way conversations between isolated mining and trading posts of the North West Territories and Canadian financial and business centres will be possible soon through a plan being perfected jointly by the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals and the Alberta Government Telephones.

Already radio-telephone conversations have been carried on between Fort McMurray, 280 miles northwest of Edmonton, and Alberta centres on the experimental system, similar to others used with success in many parts of the world. Eleven British Columbia points are connected on a provincial government system there.

The system, expected to accelerate development throughout the north, involves use of regular telephone equipment as far as Edmonton where wireless links the speaker with persons in camps scattered throughout the vast northern mining and fur-trading fields.

Privacy in the wireless link of the connection is assured through use of equipment at both ends of the radio line which "scrambles" conversations going out and "unscrambles" those coming in. Thus listeners-in on that wave length find it impossible to understand what is being said.

With northern development expanding rapidly through intensive mining activity, particularly in the Yellowknife field about 675 air miles north of Edmonton, it is felt such a radio-telephone system is a necessity. Emergency and business messages could be sent to the various points from all parts of the world connected via telephone with Edmonton.

First step will be connecting of R. C. C. S. stations at Fort Smith, N. W. T., and Fort McMurray with the government telephones at Edmonton. But it is expected the system will be extended in the near future to all R. C. C. S. stations in the north.

Present communication systems linking Edmonton with the North are the R. C. C. S. Morse wireless system, various airplane companies operating to the most isolated posts, and boat services from Fort McMurray, end of the railway line down various rivers and lakes to the mouth of the Mackenzie River at the Arctic Ocean.

Experimental work has been proceeding for some time. Some technical problems, chiefly regarding the telephone portion, remain to be solved but it is expected these will be overcome soon.

Would Save Old Relics

Erection of $15,000 Pottlatch House at Alert Bay Proposed

VANCOUVER, Sept. 30: (CP) — Frederick K. Detwiler, president of artists of Carnegie Hall, New York, will make a plea to officials at Ottawa that a pottlatch house of $15,000 value be built to house an exhibit of Indian relics at Alert Bay.

With his wife, Detwiler has just returned to Vancouver after spending six weeks at Alert Bay painting totem poles. He said he "fell in love with the magnificent scenery" there.

Mrs. Detwiler is writing impressions of British Columbia for a New York publication and she deplored the state of decay at Alert Bay.

"It's a pity to see the way the old Indian relics have been neglected," she said. "There are a few remains of old pottlatch houses, grass growing all around the poles, and the road is in terrible shape."

"One day while we were there five boats came in with two to three hundred passengers each. They were just crying for information about the quaint relics and not a single soul could tell them."

"The Indians were wonderfully friendly and offered to donate all their old possessions for a pottlatch house, if we could do anything. The Indian Agent has given us a letter to Ottawa and we will call there on our way back to New York and see if something can't be done. Alert Bay could be a tourist attraction that would be invaluable to British Columbia."

The Letter Box

Editor, Daily News:

When Wilfred Laurier formed his cabinet in 1896 he took the Premiers of the Maritimes and Ontario, the Attorney Generals of Quebec and Manitoba and many such others. Hence they were referred to as "The Cabinet of all the talents." With these men in their wisdom swinging the G. T. P. north of the 55 to where Hazelton now is and proposing a line from Hazelton to Finlay Forks through the Peace Pass to Peace River Landing, the question arises: "What did that Cabinet of all the talents have in mind and what would our New West be today had they been permitted to finish their job?" But it is quite evident that the people of the Old West are not much interested as to what it was all about.

When Lord Rhondda set out to establish himself as the 'Cecil Rhodes of Canada' he chose as his great field of activity the country lying between the valley of the Peace and the Portland Canal and in the organization he started he spent $250,000 on one steambot on the Peace, Sir Donald Mann started to build a line from the head of the Portland Canal east into the same country and later Sir Donald told a party of newspapermen in Winnipeg that there were vast resources, greater possibilities lying dormant between the Peace and the Portland Canal than there were between the Red River and the Rockies when he built the first bridge over the Red River in 1879. One Samuel O. Farwell of New York travelled this country in the interests of Pierpont Morgan some twenty years ago. He told us in the old Peace Hotel that if that Hudson Hope proposition was in any one of the many States of the Union, there would be a combined Detroit and Pittsburgh grow up there and a large railroad terminal at Finlay Forks.

So we could continue to enumerate, but again space forbids.

But let us consider for a moment. Is that 100-mile Portland Canal to be considered a freak of nature indefinitely? Are these inland waters of Hudson Bay to be the Dead Sea of this continent because its banks happen to be on Canadian soil? An old windjammer captain who possesses a great knowledge of all our northern waters told us in his hotel-room at Prince Rupert that the main body of ice that was blocking the Hudson's Bay route was in the city of Montreal. S. Sainsbury in one of his articles in our magazine told us that, if half of the money was spent on the day route, it would be spent in the St. Lawrence River, the Bay would be navigable for six months in the year. D. S. Dalgleish, operator of a shipping line at Newcastle-on-Tyne, said in an interview at Saskatoon on September 30, 1938: "I know what the trouble is with the Hudson's Bay Railway. It is the C. P. R., the Bank of Montreal and the City of Montreal. Eliminate that opposition and Churchill will rapidly develop as it is as easy a port to approach as any in the world." Mr. Dalgleish has since been in Western Canada talking the Hudson's Bay route which he is very anxious to see developed. And he is also anxious to get British people to settle in our country under the Hornby scheme. Surely this new world needs new blood. We need men of vision and the courage to back it; men who can make opportunity and have the nerve to grasp it. — It would appear that D. S. Dalgleish of Newcastle-on-Tyne is our "key man" to work among his shipping associates and organize a company to build the 1380 miles of railway to connect Stewart with Churchill. The mileage referred to is an air-line. The line would run northeast from Stewart to the Groundhog fields, then to Laurier Pass and to Fort Nelson on the headwaters of the Liard, then on to the Hay River and over to Fort Vermilion then to Fort Smith and Goldfield.

Surprise Party Last Night For Mrs. Harry Monkley

Last evening the Junior Choir of St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral made a surprise shower visit to Mrs. Harry Monkley, nee Miss Edna MacLean, at her home on Eighth Avenue.

Although it was showery without and within, the shower without did not dampen the spirits of the group which gathered to wish Mrs. Monkley the best of good wishes for her future life.

Many and varied were the gifts that filled to overflowing a hat box (appropriately decorated in pink and white—crowned with a little bride).

Games were played and an impromptu supper was served during the evening to the guests present who, besides Mrs. Monkley, were, her mother Mrs. W. A. CONVICTION AT ASSIZES against Lambert at the time of the conversation in the city police office. Accused had not said of what he was guilty. The seventeen bottles of whiskey and five bottles of rum were valued at a total of $29.95.

J. H. MacLeod, collector of customs, testified that liquor could not be imported into Canada by any other than the Liquor Control Board. It was illegal for individuals to do so. T. W. Brown objected to Mr. Patmore asking questions of witness in regard to the liquor laws on the ground that witness was incompetent to answer. His Lordship ruled some of the questions inadmissible but suggested that crown counsel could read the law on these matters.

No evidence was presented for the defence.

Argument of Counsel

Mr. Patmore felt that the duty of the jury was simple in this case, its function being to judge only upon the facts and not upon the law. He submitted that it had been proven, even by the accused's own statement, that he had been in possession of spirits unlawfully imported. The burden of showing that accused had lawful excuse for the possession of such liquor was upon the defence.

Mr. Brown suggested that the jury might wonder why such a large measure of importance had been attached to a case in which a mere $30 worth of liquor was involved. What was behind all this tempest? The action of accused had not been those of a person with anything to conceal. Witnesses in the employ of two government were lined up against a lone fisherman who had been put in jeopardy not only once but twice. He had been in custody ever since June over this trifling business. Defence counsel said he would appreciate it if at least some recommendation were made in regard to the boat which had been seized.

His Lordship, at the outset, warned the jury to make its decision on the basis of the evidence and not on sympathy. That only $30 worth of liquor was involved should have no bearing nor should the jury be swayed by the idea that the boat might be confiscated if accused were convicted. It was merely up to the jury to find whether accused was guilty or not guilty. The only recommendation the jury could make was one of mercy. There had been the suggestion of pardon by government officials but His Lordship felt that they had been merely doing their duty. Once the crown had established a prima facie case that there had been possession of spirits unlawfully imported, the onus was upon the accused to show lawful excuse why he should not be convicted. In this case it might be assumed that the liquor had not been imported by the Liquor Control Board of Canada as it had no seals. His Lordship then reviewed the facts as presented in evidence. It was upon these that the jury had to decide.

Veterans Press Better Defence Of New Zealand

Four Critical Colonels Retired But Conference of Officers Still Demands Military Training

AUCKLAND, N.Z., Sept. 30: (CP)—Disciplinary action by posting them to the retired list has been taken against four colonels of the territorial force (militia) who issued a joint statement calling attention to the state of the defence forces and the "inadequate" nature of the policy enunciated by the minister of defence, Hon. F. Jones.

The four officers are Colonels A. S. Wilder, C. R. Spragg, R. F. Gambrill and N. L. Macky. Prime Minister M. J. Savage said retirement of the officers was purely a service matter and not one which concerned the government. Major-General J. E. Duigan, chief of the general staff, had nothing to say for publication.

Punishment of these officers has caused a great deal of indignation in many quarters. Shortly after this action was taken, a conference was held of senior officers of the New Zealand Expeditionary Force, which was attended by two Major-Generals, eight colonels and six lieutenant-colonels. It was convened by Major-General Sir Andrew Russell who commanded the New Zealand Division in France from 1915 to 1919.

This conference issued a manifesto in which it expressed the opinion that the land forces of New Zealand are "hopelessly inadequate."

"Although a system of voluntary enlistments has been in force for seven years, it has at no time during that period been possible to fill effectively even the peacetime establishment of the force," stated the manifesto. "That establishment is about 9,000 and of these only about 3,000 attended camp last year. A force of even 9,000 is grossly inadequate if the country is to discharge its obligations to itself and to the Empire."

000 it is estimated that no more than one-third are of sufficient age and physique for active service. A very small proportion of the force remains with the colors long enough to attain any useful standard of efficiency.

The conference urges the re-establishment of universal military training. It is therefore recommended that at the age of 18 every youth other than those physically or mentally deficient should be liable for training and undergo a course of recruit training at established centres for a period of not less than three months. At the conclusion of that period the recruits should be drafted to territorial units in such numbers as are found necessary to complete establishments and carry out with those units a prescribed course of training, which should include 14 days continuous service in each year for a period of not less than four years.

Jail Inmates' Lot Is Being Improved Now

HEADINGLEY, Man., Sept. 30: (CP)—Innovations at the provincial jail at Headingley, 18 miles west of Winnipeg, have materially improved the morale of the prisoners, men recently released from the institution report.

The men are permitted to smoke more frequently than in the past, are allowed to play cards, get a sunbath by removing their shirts while working outside, and receive a cup of cocoa an hour before bedtime.

The "orderly room" gathering each forenoon, presided over by Governor Royal Burritt, permits prisoners to state their grievances or ask advice. Application for appeals to the attorney-general from decision of the governor at prison trials can be made during these sessions.

THE LETTER BOX

BOYS' CLUB TAG

Editor, Daily News: Through the kindness of the City Commissioner the Boys' Club has been granted a tag day tomorrow in order to raise funds to carry out their winter's activities which will re-commence on Monday, October 3 in the McIntyre Block at 7 p.m.

This is the third season for the club, which, as you know, is open two hours every night except Sunday, free to boys who can drop in and read, play games etc. so long as they behave themselves and respect the equipment. This year there will be two supervisors every night and the punishment for misbehaviour will be suspension for two weeks from the club.

The club, which has become affiliated with the Toc H, is hoping to move into new quarters during the season and it is because of the incurrence of this expense that the public is being called upon to help.

Despite the fact that there are Sea Cadets (limited to a membership of forty) Boy Scouts, and different church organizations, it has been found that an average of twenty-five boys every night wander about the streets of Prince Rupert. Is it not better for these to find a warm, brightly lighted room where they can spend an enjoyable and harmless evening than hang around listening to and seeing behaviour which, because of their tender years, they grow to look upon as an example of manliness instead of learning to shun.

So, on behalf of these boys, we beg you to give, and to give generously.

THE RIDLEY HOME

Editor, Daily News: It has been suggested that many newcomers to the district know very little about the Ridley Home and what it tries to do.

It was built as a memorial to Bishop and Mrs. Ridley and was moved from Metlakatla to Prince Rupert in 1922 so that it would be more accessible for staff and children.

Its aim is to provide a home at a very reasonable cost for orphans or children of sick parents or for those whose parents live in isolated places where they cannot have the advantage of educational facilities that are offered to the modern child in a larger centre.

Great care is taken to avoid the atmosphere of an institution and to make it as much as possible like an ordinary happy Christian home, hence the cottage system.

We want the young boys and girls to take away happy recollections of their childhood here and to learn how to be useful in domestic work and to become good Christian men and women.

The payment of the parent or guardian covers the cost of food but does not pay for overhead expenses.

This year it has been found necessary to erect a fence in front of the Home and also to do outside painting so this means more money is needed.

We hope that many of our Prince Rupert citizens and those interested will visit the Home next Thursday. It will be open for inspection and tea will be provided.

'PHONE LINE NOW READY

Extension to Colleymount Completed—Now Wanted to Nadina

COLLEYMOUNT, Sept. 30—The Government Telegraphs telephone construction crew under Albert J. Edlund has completed the new line to Colleymount and has installed instruments at Del Cassidy's, Tyson Radley's and the sawmill of Frank Matthias.

The camp at the pioneer homestead of Bill Finnegan at Finnegan's Bay was within one hundred yards of the old homestead cabin formerly the scene of many festivities presided over by the genial owner and his sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Johnson of Trout Creek tendered a dance to the telephone crew to celebrate the building of the telephone line to Colleymount. Good music and a sumptuous midnight lunch contributed to the enjoyment of the dance which was held in the Trout Creek Community Hall.

Residents from Trout Creek and points west are using every effort to have the line extended and the road completed to Nadina which would make a circle route popular with tourists from its scenic beauty and would be a boon to all Wistaria and Ootsa Lake residents as it would obviate the crossing of the Francois Lake ice during the dangerous periods of the annual winter freeze-up and the spring break-up.

Saxon Statuary Worried Consul

German Official In England Objected to Sculpture of Yorkshire

SLEDMERE, Eng., Sept. 30: (CP)—Reliefs depicting ferocious-looking soldiers firing a church and decapitating a woman, which appear on the Waggoners' Reserve War Memorial in this Yorkshire town have provoked a protest from the German consul in London. Consulate officials have written Sir Richard Sykes, owner of Sledmere, requesting him to have the reliefs removed from public view.

The panel to which chief objection has been taken shows two leering soldiers, wearing steel helmets and leather knee-boots. One is applying the torch to a church while the other with upraised sword is about to slash the head off a girl he is dragging by the hair. According to the protest the impression is given that the atrocities are being committed by German soldiers.

The memorial, designed by Sir Richard's father, Sir Mark Sykes was unveiled in 1919 and shows a number of battle scenes. Sir Mark, back in 1911, organized a band of woodsmen and called them the Waggoners' Reserve. Each reservist received a small yearly retainer and undertook to serve immediately war started.

"It was Sir Mark's wish that the memorial should be in crude Saxon style," said Miss I. Ludovicy, Sir Richard's secretary. "I'm afraid

LAST DATES OF SEASON

Last Halibut Fishing Set For Month Hence

The International Fisheries Commission has advised the collector of customs by wire that the last date for halibut fishing in Areas No. 3 and No. 4 will be October 29 midnight.

The last date for granting of permits for retention of halibut caught incidental to fishing for other species in Areas No. 1 and 2 is October 17. The last date on which these permits are valid is October 29 midnight.

Previously it had been understood that the date of September 29 had been set as the ultimate limit for the taking out of clearances and that boats might leave later after expiry of lay-over periods.

Mr. and Mrs. G. T. German arrived in the city on Wednesday from Victoria, Mr. German being here to assume duties as accountant of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal. They are taking up residence in the house on Summit Avenue in which Mr. and Mrs. Geoffrey Willett resided before leaving the city.

the finished article is rather more refined than he would have wished. There has been an exchange of very friendly letters and I think that after Sir Richard's explanation the figures were intended to be crude old Saxons, the whole controversy will end."

Man in the Moon

Quite possibly Hitler may have intended to fight but in the meantime he was having his bit of fun. Some of us could imagine him sitting in his easy chair in his mountain retreat chuckling to himself over the manner in which he had scared the whole world into arming and mobilizing. I could think of him as a crazy devil delighting in his work of torturing the nations prior to sending them to fight in a diabolical war.

There once was a ruler named Hitler

He couldn't have been much littler

He blew his own horn From the day he was born, And now he's a braggart, is Hitler.

He sits in his chair at Berlin And gives all the world a new spin

Yes he laughs and is gay At the things that he may Do to raise just a deuce of a din.

Eastern Canada buys Seven Million Pounds of B.C. Salmon

The Industrial East buys more than 7,200,000 lbs. of canned salmon from British Columbia. One of the most important units in this market is the Automotive Industry with 130,000 people dependent upon it, and eating their share of good things!

In addition to canned salmon, British Columbia ships more than half a million cases of fruit to the East, more than 180 million feet of lumber, many thousands of tons of lead and zinc, as well as large orders of other goods.

Consider the $40,000,000 the Industrial East spends annually in the Prairie Provinces for foodstuffs of all kinds. Does that money stay in the Prairie Provinces? No, a part of it keeps moving Westward to purchase in British Columbia its fruit, lumber, canned salmon, manufactures and many other things as well.

This direct and indirect business relationship with the Industrial East is a stabilizing factor in British Columbia's domestic commerce. Whatever your occupation, you benefit from these large purchases which help keep the wheels moving in almost every type of manufacturing and distributing enterprise.

The purchasing power of the Automotive Industry is felt right across the Dominion. It quickens the movement of domestic trade, creates Provincial purchasing power, sustains payrolls. Inter-provincial business of this kind is the foundation of Canada's economic stability, and therefore important to every home in British Columbia.

For statistical and further information about this industry, write to Automotive Industries, 1006 Lumsden Building, Toronto.

FALL IN ENGLAND Mrs. Stringer Is Welcomed

Autumn Comes to Old Country—Fashion Experts Tell What's What

By MOLLIE McGEE

LONDON, Sept. 30. (CP)—Autumn is arriving in England. Its advent is being announced formally by posters advertising conducted tours by rail of districts where the foliage is famous for fall colors and by the fashion show of wool wearables by the International Wool Secretariat.

Behind that formidable name hide busy government officials of the Australian and South African committees who publicize and promote the use of wool. Wool and winter are synonymous in England and this is where their campaign is centred.

Plaid is the new note in wool, not only for street wear but even for evening cloaks and evening dresses. This is held due to the royal visit to Paris where the enthusiastic designers, in search of something spectacular to affirm their interest in English royalty, seized on the most vivid fabric that came within their reach and was distinctively British.

Also inspired by Paris and their Majesties are the new "colors" "George VI. Red," "Queen's Blue" and "Guard's Red." Buyers from the great fashion houses of Britain, America, the Dominions and the Continent saw all these at the Wool Secretariat show.

It is estimated that about $150,000,000 will be spent on women's garments in wool during the coming year. The wool creations shown in the show included sportswear, fine evening dresses, brilliant jackets and dressy twin suits, woolen undies and even veils and hatpins.

Tribute to Queen—Among the particularly popular models were "the Highland Swing" a Highland coat of black wool with wide reverse and flap pockets piped with plaid to match the Glangary bonnet; "The Smiling Duchess" a compliment to the Queen—a black wool jersey dinner dress with flared skirt and the sash; "Dusty Answer," a wool dinner dress with long fitted sleeves, high neckline and flower buttons fastening to the waist; "Blue Violets," an amethyst evening dress with very full skirt and folded bodice.

Models that gave definite style hints were a plaid wool full-skirted dinner dress with white collar. With this was worn a headpiece of wool thistles mounted on a comb; a black coat of wool velour with scroll incrustations of flowers growing out of the flower-pot pockets; worn with an Edwardian hat; a hunting pink tweed coat trimmed with a long, broad band of black lambswool.

A special exhibition of fine wool undies—some almost impossible to distinguish from silk—is to be held in Paris next month.

Fashions for Men—Another angle on the clothes question was put before the National Federation of Merchant Tailors at Liverpool when H. E. Stocks of Halifax (England) addressed the 50th conference.

"I see in the younger generation a gradual yearning to wear a better and more distinctive type of clothing," said Mr. Stocks. "There may be vanity in the dandy but is it half as foolish as the kind which disdains good clothes?"

He made these fashion forecasts for men: The double-breasted dinner jacket will be more popular with young men. The double-breasted ulster and the sporting type of overcoat of the button-to-the-neck variety will completely outnumber the plain Chesterfield type of overcoat.

Customers, he said, should be encouraged to have a change of suit for every day of the week—it made a man look and feel better.

In Ice-Blue Gown—With regard to wedding clothes—of the feminine variety—the talk is still of colored wedding dresses. When Miss Eileen Gowers was married September 16 to Anthony Duveen—a relation of the famous Lord Duveen of the art galleries—she was one of a long list of brides of the immediate future who have chosen ice-blue gowns.

Royalty still adheres to the tradition of white however. Miss Mary Grant—god-child of Queen Mary and daughter of the Canon of Norwich—followed their custom and wore ivory satin with embossed embroidery giving redingote lines at her wedding early in September at Winnipeg, Sept. 30. (CP)—Attending the wedding of her son Alexander, and after three-and-a-half years' absence, Mrs. I. O. Stringer was welcomed in this city.

Mrs. Stringer, who left here soon after the death of her husband, Archbishop Stringer of the Yukon, has spent a good deal of her time since in Toronto with her sister, Mrs. J. M. Waters. "I'm going back there now," she said when seen at the home of her son's bride, Miss Avis Strang. "My youngest son is newly ordained and I'm going to keep house for him in Oshawa."

Her trip to England made a pleasant re-uniting of old acquaintances. "I looked up a number of the Yukon people," said Mrs. Stringer. "Among them I saw Rev. and Mrs. I. D. D. Diampre at Wareham, Dorset. He used to be a missionary at Whitehorse and Moose Hide. I had dinner on Christmas Day with Rev. W. J. Southam, who used to be rector of Holy Trinity Church in this city. I also visited Bishop and Mrs. H. A. Gray, who used to live at Edmonton."

She visited Archbishop and Mrs. W. Temple at York. "I've stayed four times now at Bishopthorpe York—in 1914 we were there with Cosmo Lang, when he was Bishop of York." The Bishop of London Dr. Winnington Ingram, entertained Mrs. Stringer, her son Herschel, and her son-in-law and daughter, Rev. and Mrs. C. R. H. Williamson, at Fulham Palace. The Archbishop of Canterbury, Dr. Gosmo Lang, had the Canadians as his guests at Lambeth Palace.

"So you see we had a wonderful time. It was especially nice having my daughter home from India."

Mrs. Stringer's four sons were re-united on the occasion of the wedding. The sons are Dr. Herschel Stringer from the Columbia Coast Mission, B. C.; Dr. Wilfrid I. B. Stringer, a doctor here on his way back to England; and the youngest, Rev. W. R. Stringer, newly ordained minister of Christ Church, Oshawa, who assisted at the wedding ceremony.

Kept Long Enough, CANTON AND ENDERBURY Goods Make Gifts

Boston Has Unique Bargain Store Where Prices Drop With Age

BOSTON, Sept. 30. (CP)—For 31 years a Boston basement store has been selling bargains. One woman bought there a $5,000 mink coat for $975.

Cornerstone of the business is the unique "automatic plan" based on the compulsory reductions in prices as the days go by. Thus after 12 days, an unsold article is reduced one-half, and one-half again after 18 days. If still in stock after 24 selling days, it is cut three-quarters. Goods not sold at the end of 30 days are given to charity.

The basement is a bazaar of bargains. Into the net of bargain fishermen is swept the rich catch of cancelled orders, surplus stocks, discontinued lines "seconds," "irregulars," bankruptcy auction fire and "going-out-of-business" stocks.

REINDEER ROUND-UP

More Than 4,500 Animals in Canada's Annual Round-Up

OTTAWA, Sept. 30.—Canada's reindeer herd now exceeds 4,500 animals, according to a wireless report of the annual round-up received by the Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa. A total of 4,181 deer, comprising 1,206 fawns, 1,963 yearling and adult females, 631 yearling and adult bulls, and 331 steers were put through the corals, while an estimated 750 deer avoided the herders and escaped the round-up by swimming a shallow bay.

The annual round-up is staged on the summer range on Richards Island, a short distance off the mainland. The deer are corralled and counted and certain mature steers and aged females surplus to the requirements of the herd are singled out for slaughter. Notwithstanding the usual losses incidental to reindeer herding and the annual slaughter of surplus stock to provide food and clothing for local needs, the herd has shown steady growth since the original 2,370 reindeer were delivered to the Mackenzie Delta area in 1935.

The movement of the reindeer to the winter grazing ground on the mainland preserve will begin after freeze-up. The herding is done by Eskanders brought from Norway, assisted by Eskimo apprentices who have been selected for training as a part of the government scheme of developing the reindeer industry in the Canadian north. The animals as a whole have become adapted to the climate and local conditions on the reservation and the industry has developed to the stage where the establishment of a native herd distinct from the main herd, is being arranged.

Annie Woodhouse, for her second offence on a charge of drunkenness, was fined $50 with option of fourteen days' imprisonment in city police court Wednesday.

Joint Occupation of Pacific Islands Excellent Example to the World

In a world of wars and rumors of war, thoughtful people in all countries have wondered whether it is possible to settle disputes between nations without resorting to force. With this thought in mind, it is cheering to know that the settlement which has just been reached by Britain and the United States on the ownership of the Pacific Islands of Canton and Enderbury establishes an entirely new principle of international relations.

Over these two islands there has been a controversy for the past twelve months. They belong to the Phoenix group, which is situated slightly south of the Equator, about midway on the direct line between Hawaii and New Zealand. Britain has claimed the ownership of the whole group of eight islands since 1892 and it was not known until recently that the claim was open to challenge. In May last year however, Canton Island was visited by a party of American astronomers who left a large plinth recording the purpose of the visit and bearing the United States flag in stainless steel. The Union Jack was raised in renewal of British sovereignty by H. M. Sloop Achilles on August 5, 1937. A British Assistant Commissioner arrived shortly afterwards to reside on and administer the island. In March of this year a formal proclamation of sovereignty over Canton and Enderbury—but not over the remaining islands of the group—was made by the United States.

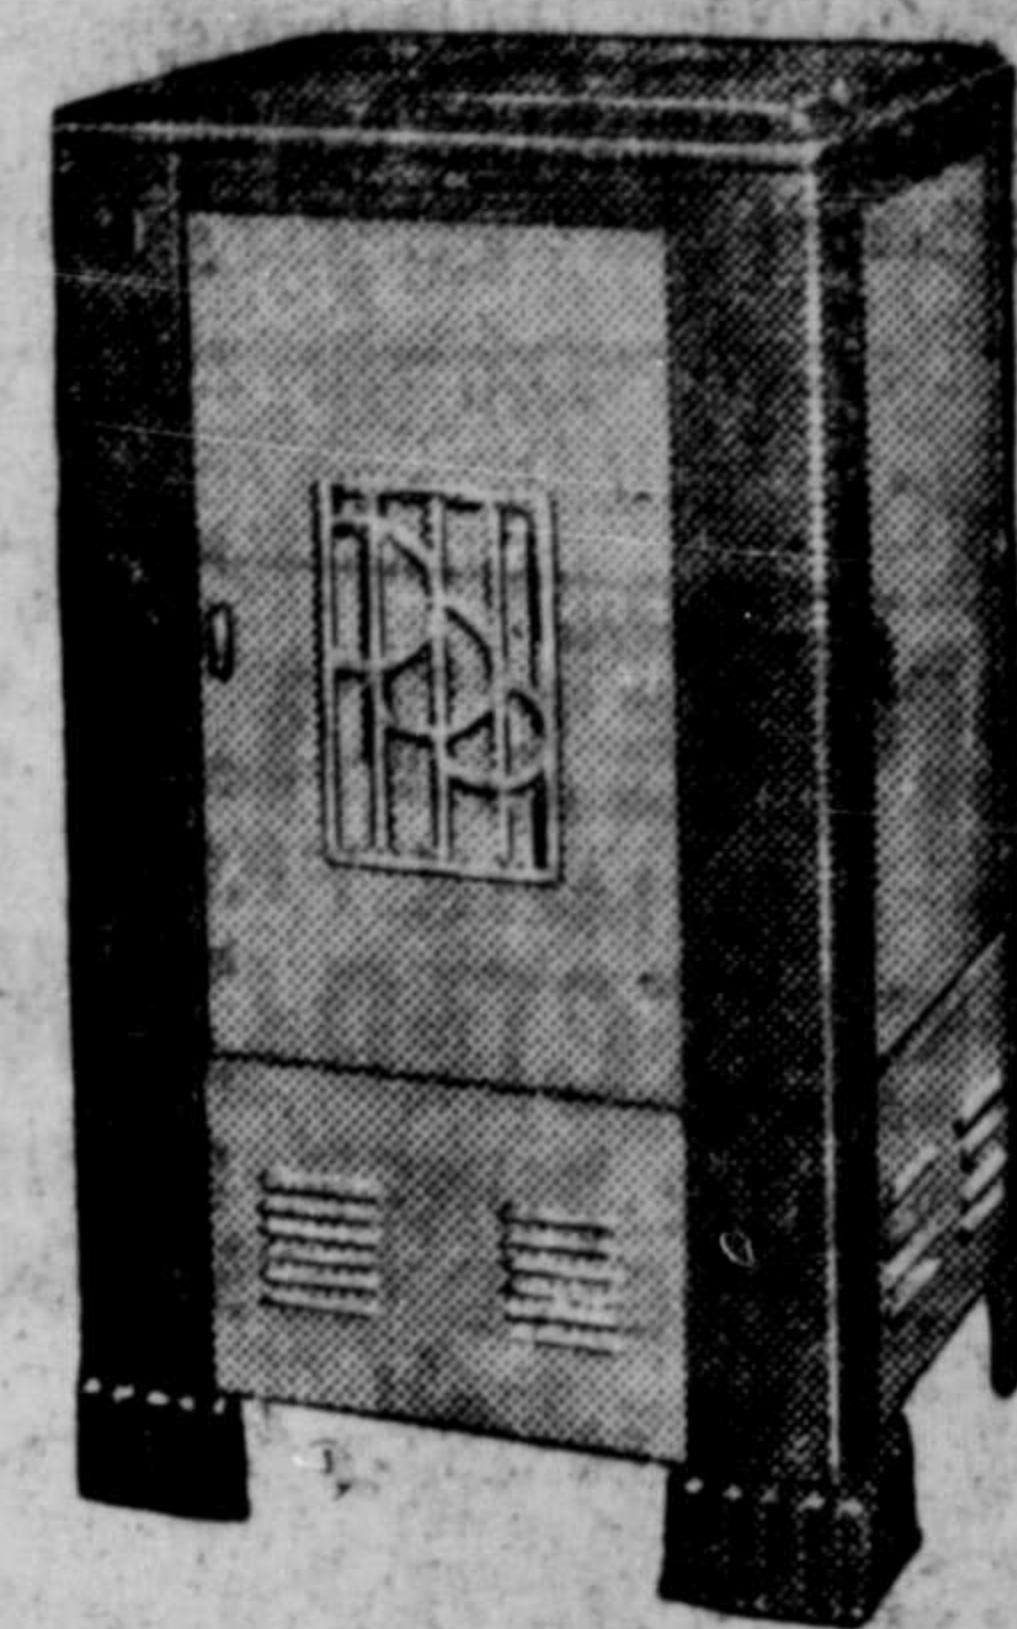

The settlement which has just been arrived at provides that Britain and the United States are to be the joint owners of the islands and everything on them. The aeroplanes of the British Empire and the United States are to have unquestioned right to use the island's airfields which are to be greatly improved and extended. When the airfields are in full operation, a British and American service of aeroplanes will link up the United States and New Zealand. Politically the islands will be governed jointly by British and United States administrators on precisely equal terms. The air base is to be purely civil.

The arrangement creates a strong new link between the two countries. But its most important consequence is the lesson it gives to the world in the peaceful settlement of international differences. "Such a settlement," said Cordell Hull, U.S. Secretary of State, "is a valuable lesson to the islands. Each had settled on Canton and each recognized that the islands had assumed greater importance since the development of aviation. At the same time each recognized that there was plenty of room for both to make use of the islands, particularly the lagoon at Canton. Therefore being practical people and desiring to effect a solution rather than to make a case, each had decided to leave the question of title on one side for a protracted period, and to concentrate on the question of use."

CENSUS OF SEA LIONS

OTTAWA, Sept. 30: (CP)—Any British Columbia salmon fisherman will testify there is a very sizeable population of sea lions in coastal waters but the Dominion department of fisheries wants a definite estimate of their numbers so it is conducting a census.

Under instructions from departmental headquarters at Ottawa, inspectors in British Columbia are counting sea lion noses at rookeries and the "hauling-out places" where the animals congregate in numbers. This has been going on since August.

Sea lions, big and powerful, do considerable harm to fisheries and damage to fishing equipment and the department is endeavoring to determine whether they are on the increase or diminishing. The animals prey on salmon with a consequent loss to fishermen. They also smash through fishermen's nets in hunting for food.

In order to give the fishing industry some protection against ravages of sea lions, the department has been conducting annual hunts at several of the larger rookeries during the past few years. These rookeries lie at points where important salmon runs pass by and where herds have been especially destructive. The hunts are carried on by men from departmental steamers.

Purpose of the hunts, of course, is to exercise control of the size of the herds, which otherwise might work too great havoc.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Capt. James C. Garvie, well known fresh water mariner of the north, whose death at Waterways, Alberta, was recorded yesterday as well remembered by old timers at Prince Rupert and along the Keena River between here and Hazelton. In the early days he served as skipper on vessels plying up and down the Skeena before the way was built. He is remembered as a man of particularly large stature and genial personality as well as an expert river navigator.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. Ben Roden, is due in port at 10 o'clock tonight from the south and will sail an hour later for ancur and waypoints.

C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. Henry Anderson, is due in port at 4 o'clock this afternoon from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Half-bur prices at Seattle this week have been ranging from 50c upwards. Landings have been quite heavy at the Puget Sound port in 1000 pounds having been in on Wednesday.

ling the nation's whole machinery of production and distribution. We of the C. C. F. believe that it must be made impossible for the few to exploit the many in the interests of private gain. We believe in service, and goods being made available at the cost of production.

In the event of war all agencies essential to war should be conscripted—money and property as well as human flesh and blood. A few profiteers should not be permitted to make millions and hundreds of millions out of war.

Watered stocks and monopolies were decry by the speaker who declared that the C. C. F. proposed to abolish the tariff and substitute import and export boards to facilitate the exchange of goods with other countries.

Railways and Banks

Turning to railroads, the speaker expressed opposition to two competing transcontinental lines. He urged one nationally owned and operated system and branch lines instead of parallel lines.

There should be real nationalization of banking services and of insurance. It was possible for the Dominion or the provinces to insure all the people of Canada at a fraction of the present cost, he asserted.

The C. C. F. said the speaker in conclusion, stood for a purpose in national life and that purpose was the development of the interests of the people as the first function of the state—homes before interest and welfare of the child—before profit—the making of conditions tending to the development of each individual to the utmost of his capacity—mentally, morally and physically.

BURNSLAKE MUSIC HIT AT CAPITOL

"Carefree," Starring Astaire and Rogers, is Tuneful Romance

Melody, comedy, romance and dance form the basis of "Carefree," musical hit reuniting Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, at the Capitol Theatre this week-end.

A group of Irving Berlin tunes and lyrics; a clever romantic triangle of a psychiatrist, an actress and a lawyer, numerous funny situations and four sensational dance routines are woven into a spectacular film entertainment.

Astaire portrays the psychiatrist and Ralph Bellamy the lawyer in the ingenious plot. Bellamy is engaged to Miss Rogers but sends her to Astaire for treatments when she can't make up her mind about their marriage. This move leads to all the trouble for Miss Rogers falls in love with Astaire and, when he refuses to unbend from his professional attitude, she inveigles him into paying attention by faking various mental ailments.

His efforts to cure her "maladjustments," her madcap adventures that result, the discovery that he himself is falling in love with her, and the prompt actions of the enraged Bellamy when he finds out what has been going on, all make for hilarious complications.

Three dance routines by the famous team, a novelty solo dance by Astaire, along with the catchy Berlin melodies, combine with the plot to make "Carefree" a most ambitious show.
