DUKE OF DEVONSHIRE, GOVERNOR GENERAL OF CANADA IN WAR, DIES

Visited Prince Rupert in Fall of 1919—Passed Away At Chatsworth House in Derbyshire Today After Long Illness

LONDON, May 6: (CP)—The Duke of Devonshire, K.G., who was Governor General of Canada during the latter years of the Great War, died today after a long illness. He was sixty-nine years of age. Death came at Chatsworth House in Derbyshire. He had been in failing health for six months. A close friend of the Royal Family, he was knighted in 1916. The year after the close of the Great War, the Duke of Devonshire visited Prince Rupert and at that time officiated at the laying of the keel of the steamer Canadian Scottish which was built at the dry dock there.

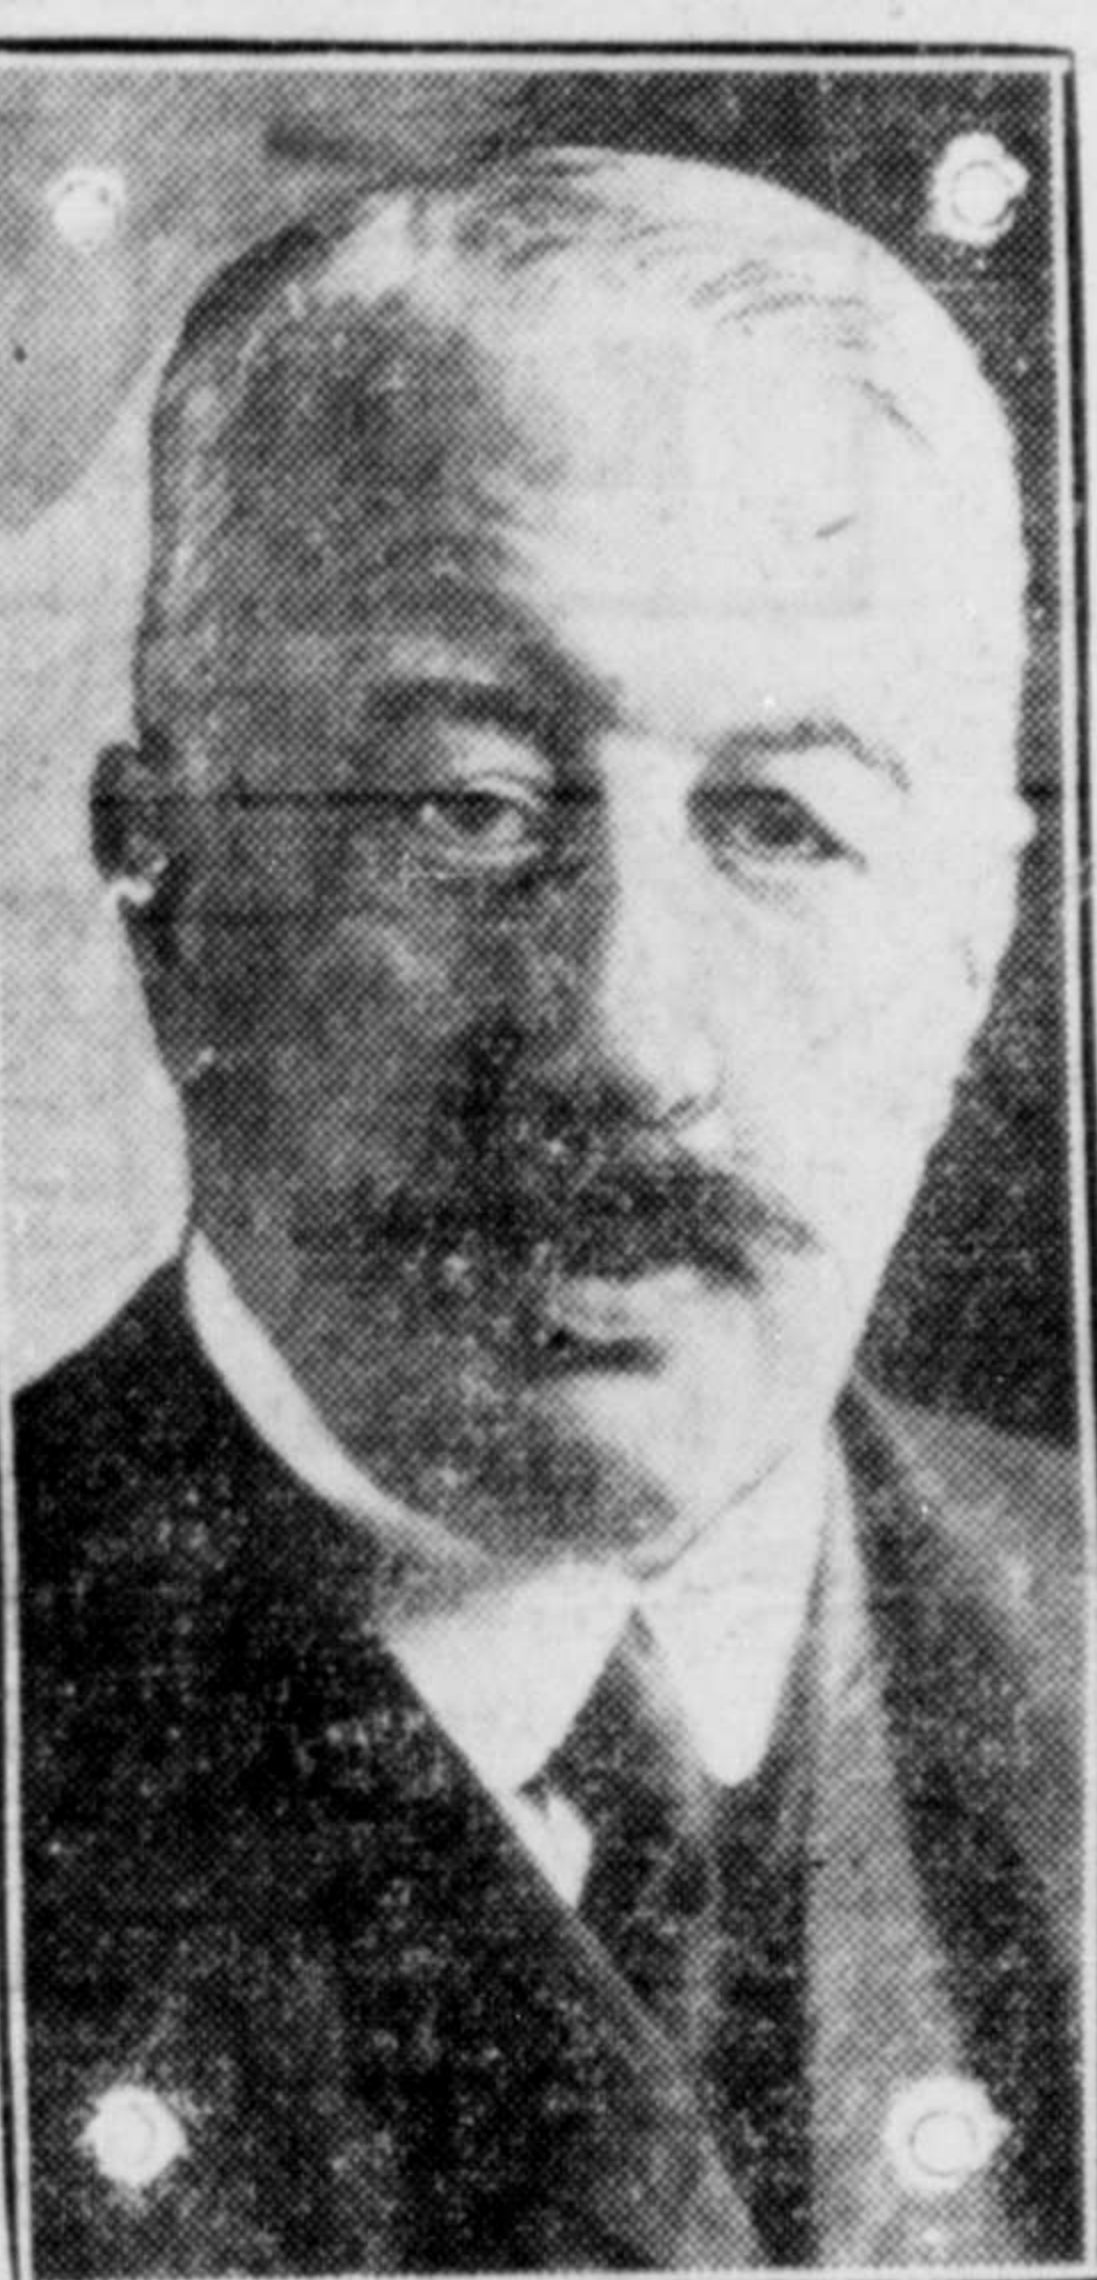

Victor Christian William Cavendish, ninth duke of Devonshire, held a title originally conferred in 1894 upon an ancestor for the able part he played in the revolution which, in 1688, placed William of Orange on the British throne. Born on May 31, 1863, Victor Cavendish was 40 years old when, in 1908, he entered into his inheritance on the death of an uncle. The title carried with it one of the greatest estates in the British Empire but, in common with many another family of the landed gentry the years following the World War saw its value dwindle until the duke was forced to sell Devonshire House in Piccadilly, London, and finally turn the family possessions over to a corporation to ease the burdens of taxation.

That corporation, the Chatsworth Estates Company, was formed in 1928 with a capital of $11,520,000. It took over Carlton Gardens, London; Chatsworth House and Hardwick Hall, in Devonshire; historic Bolton Abbey, Yorkshire; Compton Place, Eastbourne, and Lisborne Castle, Ireland. The landed possessions totalled 186,000 acres and at the height of their prosperity in the '80's the dukedom enjoyed from them an annual income of $900,000. In addition the family held rich mineral and manufacturing interests in Lancashire and the foresight of the duke's grandfather had constituted the Cavendishes as landlords of virtually the whole of the flourishing seaside resort of Eastbourne. Their fortunes continued at high tide until well into the war.

The duke was Governor General of Canada from November 11, 1916, to August, 1921. Within that term he had the unique experience of reviewing on successive days armed battalions of French chasseurs who were on a good-will tour of America, and United States, infantry en route overseas. These events occurred June 28 and June 29, 1918, the latter day marking the first time that armed soldiers of the United States had entered the Dominion since the War of 1812.

Effective Vice-Roy
The activities of the Duke of Devonshire during his sojourn at Rideau Hall as Governor-General of Canada were not spectacular, but they were quietly effective in that he pursued an even course through waters that were much troubled by the hundred and one issues developed out of the war. He arrived in Canada at a time when the Canadian people were beginning to experience the full force of the responsibilities they had assumed in the conflict, and were assessing these responsibilities in all their ramifications. While he could not influence the military side of Canada's war effort as his predecessor, the Duke of Connaught, had done, he nevertheless exerted himself to the utmost in stimulating the social and

NIPPONESE ARE STILL WEAKENING

Savage Air Raids on Chinese Cities in Retaliation for Severe Reverses in Shantung Campaign

Much Of Lost Land Re-Taken

Guerrillas and Communists Are Approaching Walled City of Peiping

SHANGHAI, May 6: (CP)—Their offensive by land balked by armies of Chinese irregulars who have driven them back from within striking distance of the strategic Lunghai Railway and whose activities have disrupted their lines of transportation preventing them from bringing up either artillery or reinforcements except by travelling hundreds of miles overland by foot, the Japanese yesterday endeavouring to bolster up their failing campaign in south Shantung province by savage air raids on Soochow and other points. There were heavy casualties among the civil population but the Japanese, as a result, gained little, if anything, from a standpoint of military advantage from these air attacks. Dozens of Japanese motor trucks were reported yesterday to have fallen into the hands of the Chinese irregulars.

The Chinese claim to have recaptured approximately half of the territory in south Shantung Province which was won by the Japanese in their three weeks' offensive from Linli.

As the conflict ends its tenth month, reports are circulated that Chinese guerrillas and Communists are approaching the walled city of Peiping which has been held by the Japanese since early in the war.

The Chinese counter-attack on the Yangtze River is claimed to have occupied Tangtu, severing Japanese railroad communications between Wuhu and Nanking.

National Mobilization
TOKYO, May 6: (CP)—In view of the situation in the Chinese campaign, the Japanese government is invoking further provisions of the recently enacted mobilization in the effort to speed up the campaign more effectively.

HEARS MANY VIEWS

During the course of its hearings in different parts of Canada the Rowell Commission had to listen to a great many views in regard to what should be done to improve conditions in Canada. One of these came from the British Israel World Federation which asked for the scrapping of the present economic and governmental systems and the establishment of a national body without legislative power to administer the affairs of the country on the basis of the ten commandments and the Mosaic law. These laws, according to Rev. R. J. Springett, Dominion Commissioner for the Federation, provide for a uniform system of taxation, for the handling of debts, for the proper management of land and the regulation of production. To put in force this system, he claimed, was inevitably the only solution of the world's troubles. Under this system the people would pay a tenth of their income to the state and from it would be kept up the services of the church, provision for the poor, the fatherless and the widows. Every person would contribute the tithe, rich and poor alike, excepting only the unfortunate or the aged. Interest charges would be abolished and currency and credit would be the prerogative of the state.

In the preface to the brief, the British Israel Federation proclaims what it states is an "irrefutable fact" that the Celto-Saxon peoples of the world, that is the people of the British Empire, the United States and French Canadian people of Canada, are the direct and lineal descendants of Israel and are the present day Israel of the Bible and as such are charged with leading civilization into a new world order in which government in all its details shall be administered in accordance with the Divine constitution and the Divine economic system as set forth in the Bible—both old and new testaments.

JAPANESE IN CANADA

Because we happen to disagree with the action of the Japanese in invading China does not mean that we are opposed to Japanese in this country. Most of them are fine law-abiding people who came to this country to better their prospects in life. They have undoubtedly, found better opportunities for advancement here than in their native land. They are energetic, industrious people, good fishermen, good boat builders, keen and reliable. The chief objection to them is that they are so keen that they nose out white people from their jobs. They are so industrious that they make a living where white people would starve. They spend their money chiefly among people of their own race and the fishermen mostly come from the south and take their earnings from the fisheries to Vancouver or Steveston to spend during the winter. It is also charged that their standard of living is lower than that of the average Canadian and that, by competition in the labor market, they tend to drag down the standard of all others. Objection is rather to their virtues than to their failings. Being of a different race it is claimed that they do not assimilate well with Canadians and that the offspring of mixed marriages are under a severe handicap in the battle of life.

THEIR LEAD IS REDUCED

New York Yankees Threatening Cleveland Indians' Supremacy in American League

WASHINGTON, May 6: (CP)—Cleveland Indians had their margin of leadership in the American League reduced to one full game yesterday by losing a free hitting contest to the Washington Senators by a score of 8 to 6 while the running-up New York Yankees slugged out a twelve to ten victory over the lowly St. Louis Browns. The Athletics dropped into seventh place below the Tigers.

In the National League the New York Giants suffered their third defeat of the season when they were beaten 5 to 2 by the Cincinnati Reds. The Chicago Cubs won a wild 21 to 2 victory over the cellar-dwelling Phillies and are now three games behind the Giants in second place. Success of Saskatoon Arena Sets Movement Going REGINA, May 6: (CP)—Success of Saskatoon's new hockey rink, reported to have operated at a profit of $20,000 last winter, has started a movement for a new artificial rink here.

At a board of trade meeting plans were made for an ornate new building.

Methods of financing may be similar to those used in Saskatoon when $10 shares were sold to the public and larger blocks to business firms. Total cost is estimated at $140,000.

More than 130,000 people paid to see hockey games in the new Saskatoon artificial ice arena last season, Norman Coach, rink manager, announced.

The rink management donated use of the rink to 30,000 public school children for 159 hours of skating, and 244 hours to collegiate and public school students for hockey matches.

Cash collected from 132,259 paid admissions to hockey games totaled $71,738.

Marked Improvements in Native Villages of This District are Noted by School Superintendent

A marked improvement during the past year or so in Indian villages on this part of the coast is noted by Rev. F. A. Anfield, superintendent of the Alert Bay Indian school, who is a visitor in the city. Mr. Anfield came north in company with Capt. Gerald H. Barry, inspector of Indian Schools, and with him visited a number of the villages. Mr. Anfield will sail by the Cardena tonight on his return to Alert Bay.

Community pride and civic consciousness are gradually becoming more and more manifest in the native villages, Mr. Anfield finds. In some of the villages there has been a great deal of new home building. Notable among these villages are Bella Bella, where ten fine new houses have been built during the past, and Kitimaat, where there have been nine built. At Kitkatla and Klemtu also new homes have been built. Civic improvements in the villages have also included installation of light plants, water systems, sidewalks, etc.

There is also an improvement in the school work being carried on in the various villages, says Mr. Anfield.

Joe Davis, Chesterfield, retained the world professional snooker championship by defeating Sidney Smith, Doncaster, 37 frames to 24. A break of 98 featured Davis' closing play.

MORMON HISTORY

Dr. W. T. Kergin Much Struck By Visit to Salt Lake City—Tells About it to Rotary Club

Speaking before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at luncheon yesterday, Dr. W. T. Kergin, who made a trip through the United States during the winter, spending part of the time in California, said all admitted that California had a fine country. The people admitted it themselves and, indeed, they constantly reminded you of it. While he was there rain and wind storms reminded him of Prince Rupert. In the summer it was so hot that the Palm Springs hotel closed down. However, California had both coast and mountain climate. He hoped that some day people would be able to live here in the summer and like the birds fly south for the winter.

Dr. Kergin went on to tell of a recent visit to Salt Lake City. The weather was fine and the city had a fine setting with keen bracing air. The city was about one hundred years old, had fine broad streets, large and imposing stores and as many churches as any other city of its size.

The visitor was particularly struck with the Temple Square where most of the Mormon buildings were including the Temple and the huge Tabernacle. Every half hour a guide takes around a party of tourists, explaining about the buildings and the history of the founders of the city.

It seems that in 1930 it was revealed to Joseph Smith where to find the golden tablets and he was also given the interpretation by divine inspiration. It gave the history of the early inhabitants of this continent, they being, according to the story, the lost ten tribes. This Book of Mormon is looked upon as sacred and inspired.

The mormonites increased in number rapidly and, due to persecution, they left for the west, travelling three months and seventeen days from the Missouri River

DEATH OF PATRIARCH

Job Spencer Dies at Kitkatla—Was One of Few Remaining Links With Olden Times

Job Spencer, well known and venerable resident of Kitkatla, passed away at his home in the native village down the coast on Wednesday after a brief illness. He was one of the gradually diminishing links with the past when the natives were heathens. He had lived to see numerous changes and improvements among the native people.

Mr. Spencer's passing came as a shock to the entire village of Kitkatla and all joined in paying their tributes of sympathy to the widow and surviving relatives.

The funeral takes place today under the auspices of the Excelsior Club.

to the present site of Salt Lake City where they decided to remain. They arrived in July and laid out the city. They plowed 1600 acres of land and seeded it in the spring. Then came a plague of crickets which threatened to destroy the whole crop. The people assembled and prayed for deliverance. Almost immediately there appeared great flocks of sea birds which settled down on the grain fields and ate the crickets and so the crop was saved. The Mormons erected a monument to the seagull in their Temple Square.

The speaker said he was much struck with some of the Mormon work. They had a great many churches, all of which were of an institutional character, being used every evening. In the Temple members were baptized and marriages were celebrated. The Tabernacle was a larger building 250 feet long and 150 feet wide with out any supporting columns. It seated 8,000 people and its acoustic properties were so excellent that it was possible to hear a pip drop. The great organ was sometimes heard over the radio in Prince Rupert.

FRIZZELL FARMING

Gardening on Rather Extensive Scale at His Place on Skeena River

George Frizzell is going in for gardening on a rather extensive and varied scale at his hot springs resort on the Skeena River. He has two acres of land cleared and under cultivation. This year he is trying out tomatoes, cucumbers and such lines with a view to ascertaining if they can be successfully matured. An interesting innovation is the use of natural warm water on the ground for forcing growth. Mr. Frizzell is also trying out a patch of wheat.
