Final Settlement of Fishing Dispute Off Alaska Coast—Nippon to Punish Poachers

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 26: (CP)—Following negotiations which have been reported under way for some time, United States and Japan last night finally settled their quarrel over Japanese salmon fishing in Alaskan waters. Japan reassured the United States that she is suspending the three-year salmon fishing survey started in 1936 and will not issue licenses for fishing in Alaska waters. Further, offenders will be punished. The dispute had threatened an undeclared war between the fleets of the two countries particularly in the Bristol Bay area.

Dalglish, Maitland garage owner, and an employee known by the nickname "Scotty." Soon after, a telephone operator at Spencerville reported that the three abductors had been captured four miles north of Spencerville and taken to Prescott. EASES KING'S BURDEN

Prime Minister Mackenzie King has found the power export problem a very difficult one. Ontario has at the present time more power than is needed and there is a shortage of power in that section of the United States bordering on Ontario. Premier Hepburn made an effort to secure the right to export this surplus power but the Dominion Government decided to place the matter in the hands of Parliament and now it is announced that President Roosevelt is opposed to it and Secretary Hull objects to any partial plan to secure power, preferring to wait until Canada is ready to go through with the Great Waterways scheme as a whole which provides not only for a waterway to the ocean but for the generating of power incidentally.

HOLD THEMSELVES IN READINESS

According to Secretary of State Hull of the United States, his country is not looking for a quarrel with any nation but the administration feels that there is something more important in the world today than to shut themselves in and prevent an enemy landing on their own shores. There are certain fundamental principles which the country must support, particularly in the Pacific area. The United States is opposed to the "rule by force" idea which is prevalent today and it will be the policy to work, either alone or in co-operation with other nations, to promote and preserve law and order, morality and justice as the unshakable basis of her international relations.

Mr. Hull says it is impossible to withdraw from the rest of the world so he prefers to become a part of the world, because isolation does not mean security. He intimates his desire to make a reasonable contribution to a world order based on law and thus discharge the responsibility of the country to itself both today and tomorrow. No other course would be worthy of the great democracy.

We take it from Mr. Hull that, should occasion arise, he will use force to destroy force in any part of the world if it is in the interests of American citizens and world morality.

POSITION OF THE NATIONS

The position of the nations seems to be something like this:

Germany will seize another slice of Central Europe just as soon as it is necessary to keep the German people from thinking about themselves after they have assimilated Austria.

Czecho-Slovakia is nearly half German and fears she may be the next victim.

France says she will attack Germany if Germany takes Czecho-Slovakia.

Italy awaits a favorable opportunity to march into

Victoria Dominoes Are In Vancouver

Come Over From Victoria in Spite of Refusal to Resume Senior Series and Are Beaten

VANCOUVER, March 26: (CP)—Although they had announced that they would not resume the provincial men's basketball championship series after the British Columbia Basketball Association had ruled a 32 all draw instead of a 34 to 32 win for them in Wednesday night's game, the Victoria Dominoes played here last night, the Vancouver Westerners winning 38 to 33 to tie up the play-offs at one game each. The Dominoes had won the first game 57 to 47 and insisted that they also took the second from the Vancouver Westerners. Later, however, they accepted the Association ruling of a draw following an official scoring error.

The third game will be played tonight.

TEAM OF GYMNASTS

Six Local Men, Led by Director Of Recreational Centre, Leaving Monday Afternoon For Vancouver Meet

The team to represent the Prince Rupert physical education and recreational centre at the provincial inter-centre gymnastic competition and mass display at Vancouver next week is finally announced as consisting of Bertie O'Neill, Emil Blain, Albert Mah, George Ferguson, John Grimsson and Robert McLean. In charge of Harry Gordon-Cooper, director of the local centre, the team will sail Monday afternoon aboard the Princess Louise for Vancouver and is due to return home on the Prince Rupert a week from Wednesday morning.

Financing of the trip has been completed except for $30 which it is hoped to raise between now and Monday. The boxing tournament on Thursday night netted about $60.

SPORT CHAT

Major B. C. Hawley, O.B.E., member of the Rugby Union committee, has been appointed honorary manager of the English team to tour South Africa this summer. The team sails May 20.

Maurice Tate, Sussex cricketer on his arrival in England after playing in the Argentine, denied he received an offer to return as coach of the Argentine Cricket Association.

Holder of the South African open and Amateur golf championships, A. D. (Bobby) Locke, 20, won the Transvaal open tourney with a record aggregate of 277 strokes for 72 holes. Previous record of 281 was held by Sid Brews, South African pro.

Great Britain will have 11 entries in the European athletic championships to be held in Paris September 3, 4 and 5. Total entry list will be restricted to 100.

Dr. A. David, Bishop of Liverpool, says football pools are "the most insidious form of gambling ever devised."

Miss E. I. Caldwell, lawn tennis professional coach, was accepted as an amateur entry in the women's squash racquets association championship tournament in London.

Ten boxing tournaments between May 2 and June 22 have been arranged in South Africa for the forthcoming tour of the British Royal Air Force team.

STILL AN AMATEUR

LONDON, March 26: (CP)—To preserve her amateur status, Miss Pam Barton, former British and American woman open golf champion, is giving away the entire proceeds of her book and now is training for this year's competitions.

SETS RING PRECEDENT

LONDON, March 26: (CP)—When the King jumped into the ring at Albert Hall to present prizes to London Federation of Boys' Clubs tournament winners it marked the first time an English monarch had stood in a boxing ring in public.

Spain, or Egypt or Palestine and will try to mesmerize Britain into allowing her to do so.

Britain is on the fence except that she will not allow France or Belgium to be invaded and will carry out treaty obligations with Egypt and Iraq.

Canada will take no action until forced to do so by the exigencies of the situation but, undoubtedly, will be part of the Empire when needed.

United States is saying nothing specific but is very likely to take part to help the world democracies.

Japan would like to let go of China but does not know how.

China is beginning to let the world know that she has Japan in a trap purposely set for her and is likely to drub the life out of her little neighbor if she can keep her people enthused.

Russia says she is ready for war, will defend her own territory and, if necessary, assist other nations that need help.

COMMENT ON RUPERT

Smithers Editor Sees Much Merit In System of Administration In This City

Smithers is taking an interest in Prince Rupert and in its system of government. The Interior News published in that town has the following editorial article this week: "A lot of rain has descended upon the already-pure people of Prince Rupert since that time, about half a decade ago, the municipal system of a mayor and council had become so effective in extravagance and waste and patronage that in order to safeguard the shareholders and protect the credit of that city it became necessary to appoint a commissioner to administer the affairs of that municipality.

"The council, to a greater extent than even the provincial government, were targets for every legitimate and illegitimate appeal, and, human frailties being as they are, many propositions were entered into that came close to sinking the tugboat.

"W. J. Alder was appointed commissioner for that city and he started right in to tell the people that ward politics had to come to an end, that the people could have, not what they all clamored for, but what the city could find money for and what was of essential necessity.

"Today Prince Rupert is standing solidly on at least one foot. Her indebtedness has been cut in that long major operation of administration by a commissioner, her bonded indebtedness has been more favorably re-written, economies have been effected, until Prince Rupert is now in the position of paying her own way and doing a little better.

"In this condition the time is seen by Prince Rupert people where they can ask for some change. We ask: 'Just why?'

"Fearing the return to council and aldermen, business men are already taking steps to head off that possible catastrophe, and we believe it was C. V. Eviit who suggested the city manager plan. The city manager system may be fine, but there are varying opinions on that point. One thing is certain: it would pave the way for all the wire-pulling that came so close to wrecking the city under the council system.

Sensible Idea

George W. Nickerson offered the sensible idea when he advocated that the city manager, if any, be appointed by the government, as is the present commissioner, Mr. Alder.

"But if that is to be the case, why change at all? From this long distance it is possible to see the general situation of civic improvement in Prince Rupert's economic set-up in much better perspective than the people right at home. There may be minor details with which we cannot be expected to be familiar after long absence, and which may even alter the argument. But it does appear that Mr. Alder has succeeded in placing Prince Rupert in good financial health, and whether the present system of commissioner or the newer idea of city manager is to be accepted it does look like good logic to suggest that Mr. Alder remain at his post if the taxpayers desire to keep away from the extravagance and inefficiency of community control of its own affairs.

"We consider that Mr. Alder has done a good job as commissioner. He has saved that city from her own people in a way. And a parallel is offered in our neighboring city of Prince George, where Mayor Patterson has, over a long term, resuscitated that city and put its finances on a solid footing while carrying on all or most of the essential works.

"The most idiotic of all election slogans is that which presumes that the great majority are ignorant and easily carried away, and which blats out that it is time for a change.

"Unless, as we say, there are some details — very important details — the people of Prince Rupert would be doing that city a mighty fine service by seeing to it that any system of government adopted in the near future should offer nothing less in the matter of economy and efficiency than that displayed by Mr. Alder."

Water Predicts Majority in Canada in Few Decades

Suggests Immigration

Sir Evelyn Wrench Does Not Like Tendency in Canada

B. I. Norman Smith, Canadian Press Staff Writer, LONDON, March 26: (CP)—"The English-speaking Canada is serious in the desire to preserve its racial preponderance its inhabitants will have to regard the duties of parenthood more seriously."

Thus wrote Sir Evelyn Wrench in an article given great prominence in the Times upon his return from a visit to Canada. The noted publicist and Imperialist declared there is every reason to expect that the majority of the Canadian people will be French-speaking within 30 or 40 years.

He had gone to Canada, he said, to settle in his own mind the conflicting reports of disunity and unrest in that Dominion. And the founder and vice-president of the Overseas League, who enjoys a good hearing in this country where his interest in Dominion and Colonial affairs is widely respected, came back to write and speak not of Canada's disunity but of her need for renewed immigration on a planned scale.

Sir Evelyn was impressed by the fact that "at long last the Canadians were coming into their own." French-Canada opinion was summed up as follows:

"Confederation was an absurdity, neither economically nor geographically is Canada an entity. The real Canada is the St. Lawrence area, which should be a French-speaking Dominion. The rest of Canada should either form local Dominions or be absorbed by the United States. French Canada needs the 20th-century civilization of Hollywood, American radio programs and a certain type of American magazine. French-Canada is essentially conservative and proposes to preserve the spiritual heritage of its forbears, but it has no desire to cut off from the British Crown."

Sir Evelyn made it clear he was not alarmed by this increasing proportion of the French-speaking population. And he was glad to note that the French Motherland albeit "after a long period of neglect, is taking more interest in her offspring." Eminent French writers and publicists were visiting Canada and distinguished French-Canadians were visiting France. The old and the new were being drawn more closely together, intellectually and in sentiment. But Sir Evelyn declared there seemed to be no desire for a political rapprochement with the French republic.

Attached to Crown

"French-Canada is self-absorbed. The turmoils of Europe seem very remote. There is, however, a very real attachment to the British Crown, which for nearly 200 years has safeguarded the religious institutions of French-Canada."

There was real need, however, for a freer intellectual exchange between French-Canada and Great Britain. Lord Tweedsmuir had done good work by associating himself with French-Canadian life. But it should be carried on by others as well, and there should be a great exchange of visits between representative figures of both countries.

"Canada is heir to two great European cultures. At a time when outward events seem destined to draw the two Western Motherlands closer together French-Canada, their joint offspring, should be a valued link. The intellectual coming together of old and new France is regarded in Great Britain with cordial sympathy. Nor is the passionate devotion of French-Canada to the faith of its fathers any bar to complete co-operation. In an age when a crude materialism threatens Christianity throughout the world the fact that on the banks of the St. Lawrence is to be found an essentially Christian civilization is reassuring."

Reviewing the much-discussed problems of defence and rather minimizing the significance of isolation talk regarding Canada, Sir Evelyn proceeded to the question of migration. He found "much divergence of opinion" on the need for a greater population in Canada. But he ventured to sum up his own views in this way:

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—"A very real need for new blood."

Prince Edward Island—"General prosperity offers opportunities for a limited number."

Quebec—"Useless to attempt immigration."

Ontario—"Perhaps a farm school for children."

Prairies—"Not before two or three good harvests have been gathered."

British Columbia—"Greatest possibility for large-scale immigration preferably group settlement. Cries out urgently for population to develop its untouched resources."

Sir Evelyn stressed that no immigration from England should be done in haphazard fashion. It was a highly-technical subject best met by group settlement and farm school schemes—particularly of the Kingsley Fairbridge type.

He didn't hold Canada up to prospective emigrants as a land of milk and honey. Hard work and loneliness faced the would-be settler, together with strange and difficult conditions.

Stan Johansen returned to the city on the Princess Norah yesterday afternoon from a trip to Vancouver.

Spring Sale Of Orange Ladies

Affair Was Quite Successful Yesterday Afternoon in Spite of Unfavorable Weather

Despite inclement weather, the annual spring tea and sale of home cooking by the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Association in the Oddfellows' Hall yesterday afternoon drew quite a good turn-out and was successful. Mrs. Robert Murray was general convener of the affair and Mrs. G. Krause received the guests.

The pouring table, at which Mrs. J. R. Murray and Mrs. J. W. Moorehouse presided, was covered with a beautiful lace cloth and there were yellow candles in silver holders with a silver basket of flowers. Daffodils were effectively used in decorating the tea tables. Serviteurs were Mrs. M. M. Lamb, Mrs. William Davidson and Miss Dora Smith. Mrs. H. B. Eastman was cashier and Mrs. Fred Barber and Mrs. J. S. Black were in charge of the kitchen.

Mrs. Vic Menzies and Mrs. R. T. Anderson presided over the home cooking table. Mrs. Frank Ellison and Mrs. Henry Smith jr. had charge of the sale of candy while Mrs. George Howe and Mrs. William Richards looked after the fancy work sale.

In the raffles, Lee Dell won a pair of pillow cases; Miss Doris Webster, a doll, and Mrs. Gus Krause, a sack of sugar.

Book prizes were presented to Madeleine Youngman and Jackie Finlayson.

The Children's Story Hour will resume weekly programs next fall with the added feature of a marionette theatre made and operated by Mrs. Trevor Johnston of Prince Rupert.

Miss Olga Zelisko left on last evening's train for a trip to Winnipeg.

Man in the Moon

I wish I were a humorist. I would sometimes make up a joke about the newspapers, the editors, the city commissioner, the bankers, the policemen and the bums. As Jake says, they are all too funny for words.

I wish I were an office boy, then I would be active enough to dodge missiles.

I never could quite understand that what a lad throws is a missile. If he fails to hit, it is a miss, what he throws his heart at is a Miss. Our language is funny, it seems to me.

If a bride wishes people to think she has been married a long time, let her carry the suitcase.

It was an Alburni writer who said their local Board of Trade competed with the churches in the matter of empty seats. And yet he does not seem to have visited Prince Rupert.

Canvasser: "You pay a small deposit, then you make no more payments for six months."

Lady of the house: "Who told you about us?"

The state of matrimony is said to be one of the United States.

"Ah! Tom, isn't it delightful that we are to be married? With such love as ours, we can almost live on bread and water, can't we, dear?"

"Easily, my pet," answered Tom with great emotion. "You furnish the bread and I'll skirmish around for the water."

DOG ESCAPES FLAMES

LONDON, March 26: (CP) — A pomeranian dog, trapped in a burning cottage, protected himself by burrowing under rubbish. The dog escaped the flames but had nearly drowned in water poured on the blaze.

INDIA IS NOW QUIET

Raiding Tribes Taught Lesson And Frontier Tranquil Again

CALCUTTA, March 26: (CP) — The northwest frontier is usually thought of as India's most turbulent gateway but there are some bonny fighters on the northeast as well.

Between India's fertile plains and the Chinese frontier lies a tangle of hills skirted by India's famous river the Brahmaputra and containing the headwaters of three great Burmese rivers, the Chindwin, Irrawaddy and the Salween, and several important Chinese streams. In these hills live primitive and vigorous tribes. Among them, in India's easternmost province, Assam, are the Naga tribe noted head hunters in former days and perpetual raiders of their peaceful neighbors on the plains.

Before bringing them under control the British authorities had heavy fighting with them in the last century. In the unadministered territories on the Assam-Burma border the Nagas still delight in capturing their neighbors for slaves, and a year ago the deputy commissioner of the Naga Hills with a military escort marched up to stop their misdeeds.

Three officers of the Assam Rifles have now been awarded the King's Police Medal for gallantry during these operations. The official report describes how during the column's withdrawal the commandant's small force was heavily attacked in thick country and was in danger of being overwhelmed but coolness and tact extricated it.

Special tribute is paid to Subadar Bhoto Gurung, who was covering the withdrawal. "By his skilful leadership he occupied the only possible position in a very short time; and the covering fire of his party, opened at a critical moment, undoubtedly saved the rearward from being charged down upon by the enemy whom they could not see and whose obvious intention was to overwhelm the column through sheer weight of numbers."

Halibut Boats to Leave Next Week—Indian Department Cruiser, With New Engine and Thoroughly Renovated, Due Back Next week—Control of Fishermen's Unions

Early next week will see the first vessels of the local halibut fleet getting away in readiness for the opening of the 1938 fishing season on April 1. The Cape Beale, one of the larger vessels, will clear Sunday or Monday for the farther removed Area No. 3 banks by way of Alaska ports but the majority will be leaving later direct for Area No. 2

signed. On this being done, the announcement will be forthcoming. The provincial police boat P.M.L. 8 returned to port at 7 o'clock last evening from Kitimaat where it went in connection with the investigation of Frederick Grant, an Indian, who lost his life in a Bishop Bay logging camp where he was employed. Circumstances of the fatality were found to be entirely accidental. Burial took place at Kitimaat.

With Capt. John Boden back in command, Union steamer Cardena arrived in port at 4:30 yesterday afternoon from the south and sailed at 9 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

According to information reaching here this week, no less than 18,551,000 pounds of fresh fish were landed at the Boston fish pier during the month of February. This fish is a factor of competition with Pacific Coast halibut on the eastern markets.

The Indian Department's cruiser Naskeena, which has been in Vancouver for the past few weeks having a new engine installed and undergoing alterations and a general overhaul, is expected to leave Vancouver this week-end on her return to Prince Rupert with Engineer Tom Moorehouse in charge and should be back here some time next week. The Naskeena has had the old 40-60 Eastern Standard engine replaced with an 80 h.p. Vivian full diesel. The engine is now under pilot house control and improvements to the vessel have included the putting in of new rails.

Capt. John Clausen, well known local salmon packer, who has been on a vacation trip to Norway and elsewhere in Europe, returned to the city on the Princess Norah yesterday afternoon.

Apparently there has been a move on foot by the Committee for Industrial Organization to gain a foothold among the fishermen's union organizations of the British Columbia coast. Speaking on the situation, Percy Bengough, vice president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, is reported as saying: "The split in the organized fishermen's movement is the work of outsiders and we have to look to those that came in last for the cause of the division by introducing other unions where there was no need for them."

An announcement of interest with respect to the future control of a well known salmon cannery of Prince Rupert district is expected to be made next week. The deal has been completed, only the final papers remaining to be signed. On this being done, the announcement will be forthcoming. The provincial police boat P.M.L. 8 returned to port at 7 o'clock last evening from Kitimaat where it went in connection with the investigation of Frederick Grant, an Indian, who lost his life in a Bishop Bay logging camp where he was employed. Circumstances of the fatality were found to be entirely accidental. Burial took place at Kitimaat.

Experts Praise Lowly Herring

Plea Made For It By Eastern Cooking Experts

NEW YORK, March 26: (CP) — A plea for the kipped herring is made by cooking experts here. It is a rather neglected food this side of the Atlantic. Americans do not know it from cradle days as do the English and the French, yet it is a succulent, robust delight once your palate accepts its gusty flavor.

A Scottish member of the Home Institute staff, reared in England, suggests eating these smoked delights for supper with plain boiled potatoes, sliced tomatoes, bread and butter and plenty of black, strong tea served with milk.

Lay the kippers on a baking sheet on a piece of brown paper and place in a hot oven 10 minutes. You and the oven will smell like kipper for a week, but there will be no regrets, she says.

MAKING HITLERS

Training Youths As Nazi Leaders In Germany

BERLIN, March 26: (CP) — A whole generation of "future Adolf Hitlers" is being groomed in Germany. At the age of 12, the pick of the boys of the nation are being launched on a course of training which will not end until they are 29 years old.

The first stage of training, from 12 to 18 years, will be completed at "Adolf Hitler Schools" of which there will be one for each of the 32 German districts. Here the "future Fuehrers" will not be taught but must work themselves into National Socialist ideology, according to Dr. Robert Ley, Nazi Labor leader.

Successful matriculants from these schools will next enter one of four "Universities for Nazi Leaders" for courses in rifle shooting, equestrian sports, light athletics, flying, skiing, mountain climbing, and spiritual development. Twelve weeks each year will be devoted to practical work in political offices.

The student is then released to complete his academic work or learn a profession after which he will qualify for the degree of "Political Leader" by a six-months' study of the German east.

Essential qualifications for entry to the schools are ability, bravery and courage. Students will be chosen by regional Nazi leaders on the recommendations of group leaders and will be supported during training by the party.
