Business retrogression, a stranger in these parts since early 1933, was around again in 1938 renewing some old acquaintances and encountering the high-hat in other familiar haunts.

Statistical tittle-tattle of the fall season broadly hinted at an early departure. But for a burdensome unemployment situation, few Canadians would be disposed to cavil about hardships of 1938.

If farm prices were low, crops were bountiful, wheat and fruit shipments to foreign markets were greater than in the previous crop year.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics index of the physical volume of business gives 1938 an economic rating about eight per cent below that of 1937 which, next to 1929, was a record year.

When it came As in the wide depression of 1930-33, the latest business setback, appearing in Canada around the end of 1937, came a few months after the trend turned downward in the United States.

Canadian business was thrown out of stride in the last year part-

TOURISTS WILL BE NUMEROUS

Visit of King and Queen and Unsettled European Condition to Boost This Business in Canada

OTTAWA, Dec. 31: (CP)—In view of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to Canada next May, the expectation is that the Canadian tourist season will be getting under way two months ahead of the usual time. Already hotel-bookings are much in demand in such cities as Halifax, Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Winnipeg, Regina, Edmonton, Vancouver and Victoria where it is already known Their Majesties will visit.

When the official itinerary is issued, it is anticipated there will be a rush of bookings which will tax all available accommodation.

Unsettled conditions in Europe will also, it is expected, have the effect of improving tourist business in Canada this year.

Engagements Limited The King and Queen will only be able to attend a limited number of public functions during their visit, and will not be able to accept hundreds of private invitations.

Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King announces, it is the desire of Their Majesties, the Premier said, to meet the public as much as possible in preference to private functions.

HER TRIP DIFFICULT

Stricken Suddenly at Isolated Radio Station, Mrs. Gilliland in Victoria Hospital

VICTORIA, Dec. 31: (CP)—Mrs. T. G. Gilliland was here today to undergo an emergency operation for appendicitis after an arduous trip in stormy weather from Estevan on the West Coast of Vancouver Island where her husband is an operator of the Dominion government radiotelegraph station.

A plane was sent to Estevan to pick Mrs. Gilliland up. It was so rough the plane could not approach the island so she was taken out in a rowboat and placed aboard. At Port Alberni the plane was forced down by low clouds, Mrs. Gilliland being transferred to a bus in which she continued the journey here last night.

Mrs. Gilliland was formerly at Atli Inlet on Queen Charlotte Islands where her husband was with the T. A. Kelley Logging Co. Prior to that he was an assistant purser on C.N.R. boats.

Miss Molly Winslow left by last evening's train to resume her school teaching duties in the Burns Lake district.

International Search Is Instituted Today For Cannery Tender

Three Canadian Government Vessels and American Coastguard Cutter Combing Stormswept Coastline and Islands of Chatham Sound

Canadian and United States government vessels are today combing waters and coastline between Prince Rupert and Ketchikan for trace of the Alaska cannery tender Virginia which left Ketchikan on Monday for Prince Rupert and has not been reported since. Normally the voyage should not have taken more than twelve hours or so but during the week sea conditions have been unusually rough with snow and dense rain contributing further difficulty to navigation for a good part of the period.

The United States coastguard cutter Cyane is searching from Ketchikan southward to the boundary. Northward from Prince Rupert, the lighthouse tender Alberni and the Dominion government cruisers Naskeena and Cloyah are spread out fanwise to scour the coastline and islands for trace of the missing vessel. The Canadian boats left port this morning.

Cloyah Reports Capt. Joe Gay of the fisheries patrol cruiser Cloyah reported by long distance telephone from Port Simpson early this afternoon that the morning search for the Virginia had resulted in no trace being seen of the missing vessel. Capt. Gay said he was now heading for Warke Canal and would return from there.

He reported the weather very rough in Chatham Sound, particularly around Green Island. The lighthouse tender Alberni, it was stated this afternoon, would endeavour to make a landing at Green Island to check up from the lighthouse keeper there if any trace had been seen of the missing boat.

Engagements Limited The King and Queen will only be able to attend a limited number of public functions during their visit, and will not be able to accept hundreds of private invitations.

Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King announces, it is the desire of Their Majesties, the Premier said, to meet the public as much as possible in preference to private functions.

THE COMING YEAR

The year just passing is one that has brought improvement to many and loss to others. It is gone and all the use we have for it is to learn what lessons we can and govern ourselves accordingly in the future.

For the year 1939 we see great improvement for Prince Rupert. We see a great deal of money being expended on the defence of the port. Contracts have been let for the work at the entrance to the harbor and at Alford Bay. Probably the largest expenditure will be made at Seal Cove, the administrative centre for the air force on the Northern British Columbia coast. It is rumored that there may be a dozen planes located here permanently, employing close to two hundred men, some of whom would be married men with families. This will not only be an important defence unit but also it should prove important to the business and social life of the community, bringing in new people with new ideas and incidentally a little new money. Besides that it will tend to make business for building contractors, even though the main contracts may be let to outsiders.

With the gradual return to a more normal condition of life in Canada and the United States it seems very probable that the pulp mill interests may be encouraged to make a start during the coming year on their project in this city. Should this happen the city would at once come to life but, even without that, Prince Rupert is likely to be a busy place during 1939.

Prince Rupert District

We have always said we believed that the fortunes of Prince Rupert and the district surrounding us are closely allied. If Prince Rupert grows, the city becomes a good market for the farmers. If the mines develop the Prince Rupert supply houses benefit. There is a community of interest which cannot but be helpful. Many things are likely to happen this year to improve conditions both in Prince Rupert and the adjacent country so we look for steady improvement in 1939.

GREAT PROSPERITY IS OUR WISH

For the coming year we wish the people of the city and the district, including the whole of Northern and Central British Columbia, both prosperity and happiness. We know many of the people personally and it would be impossible to write to them all.

Most of them read this paper so the many thousands of readers throughout this area including Portland Canal and the Islands are asked to accept this wish as being sincere and of the same effect as a personal message.

It's interesting to know when reading the Daily News that the people of the whole district are doing the same. of Vancouver and west of Edmonton holding membership in these organizations.

MINING INDUSTRY IS CANADA'S ANCHOR IN THIS TESTING TIME

Coming Year Holds Bright Promise Says Hon. T. A. Crerar, Reviewing 1938, With Its Increasing Fields

By W. H. WARD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, December 31: (CP)—Precious metals, oils and other minerals underlying the rugged surface of Canada constitute one of the most reassuring guarantees of the Dominion's future greatness and wealth and, with succeeding years adding to the growth of a lusty young mining industry, 1938 holds bright promise, according to Mines Minister T. A. Crerar. "I think we have little more than scratched the surface," the minister says. "Where our mines now are others can be found. The governments must provide all facilities possible to assist in their development."

The mining industry is a "sheet anchor" which has helped Canada to weather the storms of depression and, with a mineral wealth production of $457,000,000 in 1937 a $30,000,000 increase since 1935, its future seems assured, the minister believes.

Volume of output from time-tested mining fields swells each year and new names are added constantly to Canadian mining maps. In the far northwest the new Yellowknife field has caught the public imagination and industry is arising from the wilderness. Goldfields is another magic name in the mining world while the older fields of northern Ontario and Quebec constantly turn up new developments.

Advance scouts of the miners. Dominion government geologists hunt down likely areas for prospectors and drillers to tap the earth's surface in search of new riches. Tall stacks of smelters and dusty ore mills rise above the forests, adding to the country's wealth.

In the past year 18 new ore mills added their output to Ontario's volume of production. British Columbia reported 10 new mills, Quebec seven, Northwest Territories two and Nova Scotia one. Canada now has about 170 mills crushing gold ore to the extent of more than 50,000 tons a day.

Future in Gold
Provincial and Dominion governments have co-operated in providing outlets for the increasing flow of valuable minerals. In addition to a growing network of highways, a new railway designed for the mining industry was put in operation late this year. A branch of the Canadian National Railway's new line cost $5,000,000 and runs from Senneterre Quebec to Rouyn, past the doors of 99 producing gold mines and a score of others not yet producing.

Canada's gold mines have a bright future. "Should the production of this metal continue to increase at its past rate," said Mr. Crerar, "there is not likely to be any marked decline in the annual value of our mineral production except during periods of unusual industrial curtailment." "Excluding Russia, for which country figures of production are difficult to obtain, Canada is now the world's second greatest producer of gold although the United States, including the Philippines is a close rival for this position."

Canadian gold production for the first nine months of the year was 3,400,323 ounces, a substantial advance compared with 3,021,340 in the corresponding period of 1937. Ontario was the largest individual producer with 2,137,597 ounces compared with 1,919,391 ounces for the first nine months of the previous year. Quebec mines gave up 641,344 ounces compared with 517,493. British Columbia ranked third with 442,710 ounces compared with 368,858. Yukon and the Northwest Territories combined produced 45,728 ounces compared with 31,611.

Wealth in Oils
One of the most spectacular elements in Canadian mining in the past year or so has been the rapid rise of petroleum production, largely due to rapid expansion of the Turner Valley oil field of Alberta. Canada now produces more crude petroleum in four days than it did in any one month in 1935. "It is little short of amazing," said Mr. Crerar, "that, whereas a little more than two years ago its production of the fuel was relatively insignificant, the Turner Valley field is today one of the leading, if not the chief, sources of crude oil supply in the British Empire from the viewpoint of output potential."

Petroleum production in the first nine months this year tripled the output for the corresponding period of 1937 with 5,316,574 barrels compared with 1,903,168. Natural gas production was 23,244,450 cubic feet, a small advance compared with 22,171,855 cubic feet in the same period of 1937.

Lead, zinc and copper all increased although there was a decline in nickel and silver. Lead production totalled 319,467,899 pounds compared with 311,352,620 for the same period of the previous year. Copper was 441,216,461 pounds compared with 378,097,890. Zinc produced amounted to 235,217,930 pounds compared with 273,239,701.

Decrease in nickel production was greater than that in silver. Output of the latter metal was 17,193,554 compared with 17,920,031 ounces. Nickel volume was 159,363,075 pounds compared with 166,972,120 pounds for the same period of 1937.

YEAR'S END ARMS PLAN

John Bull Turned Out Big Tonnage in Fighting Ships in 1938

By J. F. Sanderson
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, Dec. 31: (CP)—Britain has been spending at the rate of $5,000,000 a day in 1938 in one of the greatest rearmament programs the world has ever seen. It embraces the army, navy and air force and is designed to make this country a match for any aggressor nation striking at her shores. The program started in 1935 and its peak will not be reached until 1940. It received a decided impetus through the Czech-German crisis when Britain seemed to be standing on the brink of war with the result the whole weight of the nation, physical as well as psychological, was thrown behind it. The year 1938 saw British shipyards turn out 79,875 tons of new fighting ships while the keels of many other vessels, to be delivered in 1939 or 1940, were laid. The 1938 program added four cruisers to the fleet, a 22,000-ton aircraft carrier, 10 large destroyers of 1,850 tons, eight submarines, three escort vessels, six minesweepers, two patrol vessels and a submarine depot ship of 8,000 tons.

Army Increase
It is impossible to outline the year's developments in the army simply by quoting figures. For instance, the strength of the Territorial Army, which corresponds to Canada's militia, increased from 9,046 officers and 149,797 men on January 1 to 10,263 officers and 183,814 men on November 1 but the whole organization was overhauled. (Later figures give the total to December 1 as 200,190.) The T. A.'s were organized on the same lines as the general army with mobile divisions, tank regiments, anti-tank regiments and field divisions equipped with Bren machine guns, anti-tank rifles, and all with an emphasis on mechanization and mobility.

The anti-aircraft defences of the country were entrusted to the T. A.'s during the year and the number of divisions increased from two to five. At the time of the September crisis, the T. A.'s were called to the colors and mounted guns throughout the country. The biggest drawback to the army's rearmament program has been the failure to get supplies and, since the crisis, there have been persistent efforts to overcome this serious difficulty. Most of the emphasis during the year was placed on air armaments. Britain is spending $600,000,000 this year and in 1939 will increase to $1,000,000,000 with the object of placing the air defence on a sound basis by 1941. The present building program of 1,750 first-line planes will be completed by March, 1939 and the 1939-40 program calls for 2,870 planes. These figures do not include reserve equipment which no country advertises. Since June, 13,670 men were enlisted by the air force with the force standing at 75,000.

OBITUARY FOR YEAR

Prominent Canadians of Church, State and Business in Death List During 1938

TORONTO, Dec. 31: (CP)—Death removed a long list of notable figures from the ranks of Canada's public men during 1938. Political, judicial and religious life suffered severely through the loss of outstanding leaders, many of whom were known internationally.

Early in the year the Dominion mourned Sir George Perley, one of her elder statesmen and Conservative representative of Argenteuil, Quebec, in the House of Commons for many years. Sir George was 86 years old. Hon. Walter Scott, 76, veteran politician and the first premier of Saskatchewan, died at Guelph, Ontario, in March.

Four Senators died during the year: A. B. Benard, Winnipeg; A. E. Fripp, Ottawa; E. W. Tobin, Bromptonville, Quebec, and A. J. Brown, Montreal.

Death of six members of the House of Commons occurred in addition to Sir George Perley. They were Dr. W. S. Hall, Edmonton East; A. M. Edwards, Waterloo South; Peter Sinclair, Queen's P. E. I.; F. C. Bets, London, Ontario; S. W. Jacobs, Montreal and D. W. Beaubien, Brandon, Manitoba.

Other prominent figures at the capital who passed away during the year were Hon. Martin Burrell, parliamentary librarian, and Sir James McBride, commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

Many Judges Died

The country's judicial ranks lost seven members of the high court bench including Chief Justice F. R. Latchford of Ontario who died at the age of 84.

The Roman Catholic Church mourned the death of Most Rev. M. J. Spratt, aged Archbishop of Kingston and Most Rev. H. J. O'Leary, Archbishop of Edmonton who died in Victoria. Two Anglican prelates died in Archbishop J. A. Richardson of Fredericton, and Rt. Rev. R. J. Lucas, warden of the Church Army who died in Worthing, England. In November Canon S. Gould, internationally known general secretary of the M. S. C. C., died after an operation. Rev. D. McDorum, Brockville, died in June a few days after his election as moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly, the church also losing a former moderator—Rev. L. A. MacGillivray of Guelph who died New Year's Day.

Sir John Aird, former president of the Bank of Commerce, died in November at the age of 83 and the next day the death of D. B. Hanna, former president of the Canadian National Railways, was recorded. Other prominent business men mourned were Lord Atholstan, Montreal, and W. F. Herman, Windsor, Ontario, prominent newspaper publishers. Frank Cockshutt, Brantford, Ontario, industrialist, Hon. Thomas Ahearn, Ottawa financier and Hon. C. P. Fullerton, former jurist and chairman of the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Sportsmen throughout the Dominion will miss George S. Lyor, golf's "grand old man," who died in Toronto at the age of 79. Ormond Beach, 27-year old Sarnia football player was killed in an explosion, September 21 and Joe Cattarinch, Montreal sports promoter, died December 7 in New Orleans.

BUSINESS TREND SWINGS UPWARD

balance, the continued substantial revenue from tourists and the growing production of gold by Canadian mines. The Dominion Bureau's commodity index stood at 74.1 (1926-100) in October, 1938, compared with 84.7 in October, 1937, revealing a decline of 12.5 per cent. The year saw the price of No. 1 hard wheat drop from $1.42 a bushel to 81 cents, oats from 53 to 28 cents, first grade steers from $7.60 per cwt. to $5.70, beef hides from 16 to 13 cents a pound and wood pulp from $26.90 a ton to $20.85.

Thus encumbered, Canada's export trade fell off 14.4 per cent in the first 11 months of the year, showing a total of $885,422,000 compared with $1,034,850,000 in the same months of 1937. Imports totalled $633,167,000 against $755,776,000, a decline of 16 per cent. At the end of November the balance of exports over imports stood at $252,275,000 compared with $279,074,000 at the end of November, 1937.

Grain exports totalled $77,552,000 in the first 10 months of the year against $108,172,000 in the same period of 1937, a decline of $30,620,000 or 28.3 per cent. Flour exports fell off about 15 per cent, fish exports 5.3 per cent, cattle exports 53.3 per cent, meat exports 14.3 per cent, plank and board exports about 25 per cent and cheese and metal shipments registered moderate recessions.

Strong Bulwark

The mining industry again stands out as one of the strong constructive features in Canadian economy. Gold production increased 15 per cent over 1937 with output of about $160,000,000 and the year-end finds about 150 million ounces of gold from ore, an increase of a dozen or more mills in the year. Copper production increased 17 per cent and nickel exports dropped about four per cent. Exports of the base metals registered moderate declines.

Industrial production moved at a slower tempo while waiting for the development of a definite business trend but confidence grew towards the end of the year and expansion was marked in some lines. Output of motor cars registered an increase of eight per cent in November over the same month of 1937.

Newsprint production in the first 10 months fell off 29 per cent, footwear production 12 per cent, textiles 8 to 10 per cent and iron and steel production 21 per cent. Production of pig iron totalled 605,102 long tons in the 10 months compared with 731,361 tons in the same months of the previous year. A drop of about 181,000 in the carloadings total or about eight per cent for the year, scarcely gave a true picture of the freight traffic situation. Grain haulage showed an increase of 71,000 cars and ore and pulpwood loadings increased 23,000 cars. The big decline—about 90,000 cars—was in the miscellaneous freight movement, the department in which the trucking business is making the greatest inroads. C. N. R. gross earnings show a drop of 8.3 per cent to December 7 compared with 1937 and C. P. R. gross 1.8 per cent while net revenue was down 84 and 23 per cent respectively.

Agricultural Field

The Dominion Bureau's estimate of the gross value of Canadian field crops in 1938 stands at $527,419,000 or about six per cent below the 19367 crop value. Cheese production in the 11 months totalled 118,370,162 pounds compared with 127,323,578 pounds in the same 11 months of 1937, a decline of seven per cent. Creamery butter production recorded an eight per cent increase in the same period.

Sales of hogs at Canadian stockyards in the first 50 weeks of this year, showed a drop of more than 40 per cent from the 1937 comparable figures. Sales totalled 677,347 compared with 1,003,458. Cattle sales declined 22 per cent and sheep sales four per cent.

Inspected slaughterings of cattle in 48 weeks totalled 802,906 compared with 870,909 and inspected slaughterings of hogs totalled 7,901,835 against 3,476,070, a decline of 16 per cent.

Exports of cattle to the United States to the middle of December dropped to 90,863 from 189,868 head in the corresponding period of 1937. Cattle exports to the United Kingdom more than doubled.

Increase in building in 1938 helped the economic picture to some extent. The value of building permits taken out in 58 cities in the first 11 months of the year was $57,384,055 against $2,288,022 in the same months of 1937, an increase of 9.8 per cent. The total this year up to November 1 was greater than for any corresponding period since 1931.

November traffic through the Welland ship canal was the heaviest on record. For the first 11 months traffic totalled 12,449,543 tons against 11,747,950 tons in the whole of 1937. Other canals report traffic increases.

Retail sales appear to have fallen off about seven to eight per cent in 1938 from 1937.

Activity in Boat Building is Year-End Feature—Business of Waterfront Fair Reflection of General Conditions

The New Year's Eve feature of the Prince Rupert waterfront as 1938 draws to its close and 1939 is about to dawn is the substantial activity in boat building. All the smaller yards have contracts for fishing vessels in hand and, soon after the first of the year, the dry dock will get its whack when construction gets under way of the new steel car barge for Okanagan Lake service. Taken as a whole, this winter sees more activity in the way of boatbuilding than for some time back. Not only is this the case right in Prince Rupert but it is also at points outside where boats are built.

Alexander's Ragtime Band Distinctively Novel—Irving Berlin Melodies

NEW YEAR'S FROLIC IS SEPARATE SHOW

Other special features at the Capitol Theatre should not be confused with tonight's mid-night frolic for New Year's Eve when there will be a specially arranged stage and screen show with the usual Hogmanay features.

Something new and unusual in the way of pictures featuring music comes to the Capitol Theatre here at the first of next week for the New Year holiday with a special matinee at midnight Sunday. It is "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

The story is adapted from the career of an obscure young musician who becomes famous as one of the greatest composers of modern popular hits. The poignant love story is enriched by strains of melodies from the outstanding favorites of Irving Berlin's music over a period of three decades.

Tyrone Power plays the part of the inspired youth who lived and loved his music. Alice Faye takes the part of the girl whom he loved and lost and won again. Don Ameche is the sincere and faithful friend. Ethel Merman, Jack Haley, Jean Herscholt, Helen Westley, Wally Vernon and John Carradine also have important parts.

From the standpoint of general construction and improvement work along the waterfront itself there was not the expansion in 1938 that marked 1937 when so much was accomplished of a permanent nature that could not be expected to be in any way duplicated during the year just closing.

As for general business of the waterfront during 1938, this fairly accurately reflected the general state of affairs with no very noticeable trend in one way or another on the whole. Continued better conditions for the salmon trollers probably balanced off a falling off in earnings as far as the halibut fishermen were concerned. Salmon canning was about the same as a year ago. It is a little early yet to judge what the New Year may bring forth. There are new factors and conditions arising that are a little difficult to appraise at the present time. However, there is no necessity for pessimism even if optimism may not be unbounded.

Announcements were received by friends in Prince Rupert this week of the marriage on December 22 in Montreal of Miss Jessie Elizabeth Williamson to Orville Frederick Denstedt. For several years Mr. Denstedt was a valued and popular member of the scientific staff of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station from which he resigned a year or so ago to take up work at McGill University in Montreal. Heartly congratulations will be extended from Prince Rupert to Mr. Denstedt and his bride.
