France Looks With Suspicion On Mussolini's Endorsement Of Cabinet Shuffle

LONDON, Feb. 17: (CP)—Acting together over Austria, Great Britain and France, it was learned last night, will ask the Hitler government of Germany to make a declaration of future intentions in regard to Austria. Support will be given to Chancellor Kurt von Schuschnigg in any move to resist Nazi control and insure complete Austrian independence.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the House of Commons today that Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador to Berlin, had been instructed to indicate to the German government "the interest which the British government takes and has always taken in the Austrian question."

Meantime from Vienna comes word today that Austria has served notice that she expects Germany to fulfill promises of the Hitler-Schuschnigg agreement in the same measure as did the Austrians by naming cabinet ministers acceptable to Germany and by granting amnesty to Austrian political prisoners. Officially inspired newspaper statements declared that Hitler, in his address to the Reichstag on Sunday, should guarantee Austrian independence—directly and not indirectly.

Arthur Seyssingh, new Austrian minister of the interior and one of the Nazi cabinet appointments, is going to Berlin, carrying Chancellor's views on the subject.

The Austrian federal diet is convoked for next Wednesday. Italy has given official benediction to the Hitler-endorsed changes in the Austrian cabinet.

French foreign officials voice the suspicion that Mussolini has abandoned Austria to Germany in return for a promise by Hitler of support for further Italian territorial conquests in Africa.

Terrace Bandits Took No Booty

Were Disturbed In Act and Had to Hurry Away Before Hold-Up Consummated

A pair of armed men who held up J. Smith's store at Terrace on Tuesday evening were disturbed by outside help while engaged in their act and made their getaway without taking anything, according to word received at provincial police headquarters here. Two suspects, arrested as the train was leaving for the coast later in the evening, are being held at Terrace. They have given the names of Ernest Anderson and James Bennett.

The fire department had a call at 3:20 yesterday afternoon to the residence of L. Astori sr., Fourth Avenue East, where sparks from the chimney had set the roof afire. Slight damage was done.

MUST LOOK NORTHWARD IN FUTURE

This District is British Columbia's Potential Mineral Storehouse, Dr. Mandy Tells Gyro Club

As the older mines of the southern part of the province become exhausted, British Columbia will have to look to newer territory for its mineral supply and the most likely territory is the great empire of Northern British Columbia tributary to Prince Rupert, declared Dr. Joseph T. Mandy, resident mining engineer for the north-western mineral survey district, in addressing the Prince Rupert Gyro Club at luncheon yesterday. Perhaps the future perpetuation of the mining industry of the province will have to rely on the exploitation of the mineral resources of Northern British Columbia and its future. As long as there is a mining industry on earth, there will be one in Northern British Columbia, he asserted.

In opening his address, Dr. Mandy lauded the Gyro Club on its intention of interesting itself in the natural resources and industries of the district. If one was to interest himself in the sale of these resources, he should have a knowledge of them.

Mining was a pioneering industry. It took the country in the raw and developed it. The work of the prospector and miner was of prime importance.

Dr. Mandy briefly reviewed the history of British Columbia mining. It had had its inception in a locality close to Prince Rupert, namely the west coast of the Queen Charlotte Islands where the first gold had been found. It was a far cry from the $20,000 initial production there to the 1937 production of $73,000,000 in this province. In the course of the last twenty-two years the mineral production of the province had been $1,515,000,000 of which $164,000,000 had been from Northern British Columbia.

The mining industry, the speaker pointed out, was subject to the things as affected other industries including world affairs and international relationships. It was unique and different from other natural resources, however, in that its resources did not multiply. It was a "wasting industry" for once a mine was taken it could not be replaced.

Mining, therefore, was dependent upon the work of technicians—the prospector, who found the minerals; the geologist, who ferreted out minerals from their hiding places; the mining engineer who worked on the economic problems of extraction, and the metallurgist, who dealt with treatment. Sale, consumption and financing were also important matters.

The speaker then turned to the question of perpetuation of the mining industry. He told how the key or source of the minerals of Northern British Columbia was the intrusion of a vast mass of igneous rock known as the Coast Range granodiorite batholith—rock which had come up from the depths in ages past, bringing up the mineral solutions which formed the mineral deposits.

Economic aspects of mining were then touched upon. Rock which today was considered useless might tomorrow be capable of profitable treatment. With the depletion of the higher grade ore, it became necessary to turn to the lower grade. New processes were being constantly devised. Some day it

He declared that eighty per cent of the good agricultural land of the prairies was already under cultivation. That the three prairie provinces could support a population of thirty million people was a delusion, he asserted, although changed farming conditions might result in an enlargement of the industry.

HYDRO DEBATES WILL LIVEN ONTARIO HOUSE IN NEARING SESSION

Echoes of October Election and Question of New Power Contracts to Animate Proceedings Opening February 23

By HAROLD J. FAIR

TORONTO, February 17: (CP)—Power policies, rather than a heavy legislative program, appear headed for the political spotlight when the second session of Ontario's 20th legislature opens February 23. Power is expected to furnish one of the main items for debate. Lieutenant-Governor Albert Matthews will make his second appearance at a Queen's Park opening in two months. Appointed in November after Premier Hepburn's death, he opened the special "succession duties" session called in December after Premier Hepburn's death. The Liberal government was returned in the October 6 general election.

A week after prorogation of that session, the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission announced it had renewed contracts with three Quebec power companies—Beauharnois Light Heat and Power, McLaren-Quebec and Gatineau—whose agreements were denounced in the 1935 session that saw an ineffectual three-day Conservative filibuster to prevent cancellation of these contracts and one with the Ottawa Valley Company.

The power question bulked large in the campaign that sent Premier Hepburn back to Queen's Park with support of 66 members in the 90-seat House. Liberals charged a Conservative victory would mean restoration of the agreements the government had labelled "illegal, void and unenforceable." Already Conservatives have charged the government with "double dealing" and the argument will continue when the administration seeks legislative validation of the agreements.

Leopold Macaulay, member for York South and former highways minister, leads the 23-man Conservative opposition in the absence of Conservative Leader Earl Rowe. In the Liberal sweep, Mr. Rowe was defeated in Simcoe Centre. Still Conservative leader, he directs the party from his House of Commons seat at Ottawa.

The premier counts a straight Liberal force of 61, two less than after the election, due to vacancies. In addition Mr. Hepburn has the support of two Liberal-Progressives and one Independent-Liberal, Labor Minister M. M. MacBride. Only third-party member in the House is Farquhar Oliver, United Farmers of Ontario representative from Grey South.

First death in the newly-elected legislature occurred February 3 when Milton D. McVicar, Liberal member for Lambton East, died of pneumonia. The other vacancy occurred when William F. Schwenger, Liberal member for Hamilton Centre, was appointed a country court judge.

Conacher Shoots The 17 Liberals and 12 Conservatives who succeeded former members in the October 6 voting got a taste of parliamentary procedure at the three-day special session, opened December 1, to buttress the succession duties act. It had been called by the premier to strengthen legislation facing a court test that cast doubt on collection of succession duties, one of the province's major revenue producers.

An idol of the ice lanes and formerly one of Canada's greatest athletes, Lionel Conacher, Liberal member for Toronto Bracondale,

Inspector's Views On Junior High School

Editor, Daily News: I would be pleased if you would give me the use of your columns to make a few necessary comments upon a letter published recently in your newspaper signed by a person as "A Parent Teacher." This person makes certain comments pertaining to educational policies in general and to proposed educational changes in the city which, as a representative of the Department of Education, I should discuss. The following observations are made in the above-mentioned letter:

- 1. That there are "certain serious obstacles" existing in the junior high school organization.
2. That the junior high school is an experiment.
3. That the Department of Education "considers academic proficiency as the measure of success of a teacher."
4. That the junior and intermediate children of this city are "to be sacrificed."
5. That the Booth School Building is fitted primarily for elementary school purposes and hence unsuitable for secondary school work.
6. That the proposed secondary school will be overcrowded.

Japan's War Machine Hampered In Drive Towards Lunghai Railway

SHANGHAI, Feb. 17: (CP)—Although resistance to Japan's smashing onslaughts north of the Yellow River was reported crumbling last night with the Japanese war machine continuing to roll on almost unopposed and Japanese vanguards were reported almost in sight of the vital Lunghai Railway and the strategic cities of Changchow and Kaiheng just south of the river while hundreds of thousands of Chinese troops defending the railway were threatened with being trapped by two Japanese armies advancing from different directions there was a different story today with Chinese red army and guerrilla units reported to have captured every station along a seventy-five mile stretch of the Peiping-Hankow Railway behind the Japanese lines in north China. The Japanese have been using the line to feed reinforcements attempting to drive south across the Yellow River to cut the Lunghai Railway.

Chinese planes, manned by foreign legionnaires, are reported to be wreaking heavy losses on Japanese troops and fighting equipment. No less than thirty Japanese tanks and an ammunition dump are said to have been destroyed.

Shanghai Incident An incident of United States marines for the fourth time turning back an armed Japanese patrol of thirteen men who were attempting to enter the American defence sector of Shanghai's international settlement came as marine officers and Japanese authorities conferred in an attempt to amicably settle the issue of authority in the settlement.

Lieut. Commander R. Bourke, V.C., D.S.O., R.N.V.R., after spending the past week visiting in the city, will return on the Prince Rupert tonight for Victoria.

are in full accordance with the revised curriculum and that no serious obstacles exist. The writer of the letter should be more specific and state what the serious obstacles he or she has in mind are. The Department is at all times willing to consider constructive criticisms founded upon fact and experience. Second, the junior high school is no longer an experiment. It is an accomplished proven type of modern school organization. It has been in existence now for over ten years in British Columbia. Today, in this province, there are 26 junior high schools with over 300 teachers and with a total enrollment of over 10,000 pupils. Five of the nine Canadian provinces namely Manitoba, Nova Scotia, British Columbia, Ontario and Alberta, are now organized on the junior high school principle. The central schools of England are organized with much the same principle in view. The 6-3-3 plan of school organization has proven most acceptable in this country, in England, and in the United States. It is not an experiment, but sound educational practice. In the third observation it is implied that the Department of Education considers academic proficiency solely as a measure of success of a teacher. Certainly, academic aims of the junior high school, (Continued on Page Two)

IMPORTANT CONTEST

When the election is held in the constituency of Dewdney to choose a successor to the late Dr. F. P. Patterson, an effort is likely to be made to wrest the seat from the Conservatives and possibly to elect a C.C.F. member. That would give the C.C.F. control of the opposition with the right of the party to nominate its own leader in the House and draw down the salary that goes with it.

In the meantime if no change takes place in the party representation, it is understood that Herbert Anscomb, Conservative member for Victoria will act as leader of the opposition and the fact that he holds that position will give him a great advantage over all other claimants as leader of the Conservative Party in the province of British Columbia.

ALBERNI ALSO IN LINE

A meeting was held last week in Port Alberni attended by the school trustees of the Alberni and Port Alberni school districts at which the feasibility of establishing a junior high school to serve both cities was discussed and the establishment of the school favored. It was decided to get in touch with the department of education at Victoria with a view to having the junior high established at the commencement of the next school term. At the meeting Inspector G. H. Gower, formerly of Prince Rupert, strongly urged the establishment of the junior high.

It was noticeable in the report of the proceedings that not one person representing either city was opposed to the establishment of the school.

LOCAL DEFENSES

Some people wonder why we do not tell them more about the plans for local defenses. If they think again they will realize that nothing should be published which might prove an aid to a possible enemy. It is already news that an airdrome is to be constructed here and as soon as work commences on it or on any other defensive operations doubtless a possible enemy would get word of it without reading it in the newspapers. It would not need much of a spy system to ascertain what is going on here.

It may be mentioned in this regard that the clearing of thirty-five acres of land on Prince Rupert harbor has nothing to do with the airdrome and is quite a distinct project. Tenders have not yet been called locally but word has been received from Ottawa that this will be done very soon.

MOTHERS-DAUGHTERS

The Mother and Daughter banquet of the Canadian Girls in Training of First United Church, held last night in the church parlors, was an interesting, enjoyable and colorful event with about ninety in attendance. The guest speaker was Mrs. J. T. Mandy whose subject was "Making Faces." Miss Betty Wilkinson, president of the Canadian Girls in Training, was toastmistress.

The tables were attractively decorated, each representing a group by colors and motifs. The head table, representing the church, was adorned in C.G.I.T. colors of blue and white; the senior table, representing outdoor activities, in red and white; the intermediate table, the school, in rainbow colors, and the junior table, the home, in green and white.

There were five toasts. That to the King was observed in the usual manner. The toast to the Church was proposed by Miss Betty Barber and responded to by Rev. J.C. Jackson; to the Home, proposed by Miss Marie Lock and responded to by Mrs. G. V. Wilkinson; to the School, proposed by Miss Pearl McInnis and responded to by Miss Barbara Daniels; to Girls' Outside Activities, proposed by Miss Helen Green and responded to by Miss Maxine Heilbroner.

Greetings of church organizations were presented—the Ladies' Aid by Mrs. J. S. Irvine; the Women's Missionary Society by Mrs. E. P. Jenner; the Junior Choir by Miss Swana Olafson; and the Sunday School by Wilfrid Hicks.

Leaders of groups took a prominent part in the affair as follows: Mrs. W. A. Riddell, superintendent of the Canadian Girls in Training; Mrs. L. I. Pugsley, senior group; Mrs. Arthur Sutton, intermediate group, and Mrs. D. R. Barclay, junior group.

Ladies of the church assisted in connection with the banquet.

Service on Sunday

Mother and Daughter Sunday was observed on Sunday morning with a special service appropriate to the occasion in First United Church. Mrs. W. A. Riddell was the principal speaker, her subject being "Standards for Youth." Miss Helen Green gave a brief talk on the aims and objects of the Canadian Girls in Training. Misses Betty Payne and Betty Wilkinson read the Scripture. There was special music by the Junior Choir with Miss Joy Green as soloist. There was a good attendance at the service of which Rev. J. C. Jackson was in charge. Miss Kay Shrubshell and Miss Ina Montgomery were ushers.

VIEWS OF INSPECTOR ON JUNIOR HIGH SCHOOL

democratic proficiency is a necessary qualification for teacher-certification. The Department, however, recognizes that scholarship alone does not necessarily make a teacher by the fact that teachers are required to serve with interim certificates. These certificates do not become permanent until they are judged as satisfactory teachers by the inspectors.

The fourth observation and implied charge is that the junior and intermediate children of the city are to be sacrificed. This is a serious charge. I may state that the educational authorities in this city are aiming in this proposed re-organization for the welfare of all the children. The remainder of this present letter will substantiate this statement.

In regard to the fifth observation I desire to state that the Booth School building is presently fitted for secondary school work. Indeed, I believe, although I stand to be corrected on this point, that the building was erected with a view of its serving as a high school when the secondary school population would warrant its use. I state most emphatically that there is not a facility in the Booth School which will not serve better for secondary school purposes. The auditorium, the industrial shops, the home economics quarters, the physical recreation shed, and some space, which at the present is going to waste and which could be used for library and other purposes, are all located at the Booth School. The work entailed in these facilities is primarily of a secondary school character, namely from grades 7 to 12 for children from twelve to eighteen years of age, marking one of the most critical periods of a person's life.

The sixth observation is that the proposed secondary school will be overcrowded and some figures are presented. In presenting these figures the writer of the letter has misinterpreted what is actually proposed. The proposal is that only grades 7 and 8 of the Booth School would form, with the present High School, a combined junior and senior high school in the Booth building. The Borden School would remain an eight-grade elementary school as at present and its pupils would enter the high school at grade 9. Still the grade 7 and 8 pupils in the Borden Street School would take the expanded industrial courses offered in the Junior High School. This would give the new unit at Booth an estimated school population of just under 400, a number which the building can accommodate and accommodate, under a secondary school organization far more efficiently than it is doing at the present time.

The proposed secondary school organization would permit the extension of secondary school teaching, with specialists in each subject, down to grade 7. This would lead itself to greater subject options to a more elastic time-table, and to the breaking down of the past regimentation of pupils "out of the community." The re-organization is aimed to bring the Prince Rupert system more in harmony with the revised curriculum. On this point, the writer of the letter is rather inconsistent, not to say illogical, when with one sentence he or she attacks the old academic curriculum and with the next sentence attacks conscientious and well-considered proposals to alleviate the situation. The writer shows profound ignorance when he or she attacks the present Minister of Education by implying that, because he is a professor from the university, he aims at keeping the school under the domination of the university. To people, who are conversant with the situation, the reverse is true.

In the February issue of the B. C. Teacher, which arrived on the mail yesterday afternoon, the principal of the Kimberley High School describes the setting up of a six-grade high school in that community. Here is a place a little smaller than Prince Rupert. He reports great improvements, among them "wider subject offerings in both schools (Junior and Senior High Schools), increased extra-curricular activity, more economical use of the special rooms, more economical use of equipment, more guidance of the pupils (particularly by needed in Prince Rupert), increased pupil participation in "school government." He further adds the following words which are specifically adapted to our local situation: "Kimberley's experience would tend to show that the six-grade high school is a common-sense answer to the problem of secondary education in districts where the total school population, in all grades is 2000 or less."

The claim that the elementary school children are to be discriminated against in the proposed re-organization is groundless. To be sure, we would like to have an auditorium for these children. There is at present only one school-auditorium in the city and this one can be more efficiently used by secondary school children than by elementary school children. From 12 to 18 years is the time when the training for future citizenship can be most effectively accomplished. All that the children, moved from the Booth building, would lose would be this auditorium and they will get that later when they are more fit to use it. Again, elementary school work requires no mass movements from room to room. Secondary school work does and the present high school is greatly handicapped because of this inability to move.

The proposed re-organization is not a makeshift. It has been deeply considered with a view to giving Prince Rupert, under the accommodations available, a system which will provide Prince Rupert children the opportunities which children of other communities are receiving. It is not "a farce and an insult to modern progressive education." Indeed, it is in line with progressive education.

If the person who writes as "A Parent Teacher" is protesting in good faith he or she should reveal his or her identity. Indeed, I welcome the person to my office in order that I may discuss the situation with him, or her. I might also state that I shall be very pleased to discuss more fully the proposed re-organization with the citizens at any public meeting.

Inspector of Schools.

"LET THE OTHER FELLOW THINK THE IDEA IS HIS"

SAYS DALE CARNEGIE

Author of the famous book "HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE"

"You may win a man over to your way of thinking by sheer force of logic but usually it doesn't pay to try. There's an easier way. The secret is simple. Let him think the idea is his. Then he'll be for it 100%. We all have more faith in our own ideas than in those that come to us second hand."

"And he did. There was nothing unusual in his suggestions, but when finished, the sketches represented his ideas and he was all for them."

"He bought them, of course, and has bought scores of others since. He feels that he is helping to create the designs—and so he is."

"A certain well-known designer of women's dresses learned this truth, after trying to sell her sketches to a large dress manufacturer without success. One day, she brought in half a dozen unfinished sketches. She asked the buyer to do her a little favour—to tell her how to finish them up so his firm could use them."

"This simple technique works extremely well, because no man likes to feel that some one else's ideas are being forced upon him. So, instead of presenting complete ideas, offer suggestions. Let the other man think out the conclusions for himself."

Treat Colds Proved Way

This doubly-proved treatment relieves colds without "dosing." Proved in world's largest colds clinic; further proved by use in more homes than any other medication of its kind. Just massage VapoRub on throat, chest, and back at bedtime. Its poultice-vapor action starts bringing relief almost at once. Loosens phlegm, eases coughing, helps break local congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Brown-Cameron To Compete In Billiard Event

A meeting of the Canadian Legion billiards committee was held last evening to arrange for the city billiards championship competition for this year. There are only two entrants—Don Brown, the holder of the trophy, and Neil Cameron, who won the cup twice previously. The committee decided that there would be one match of 1000 points to be played in two blocks of 500 points each. The first game will be played on Tuesday evening next and the second block the following night. Both players have been practising steadily for some weeks now and breaks of over forty are common so an unusually keenly contested series is promised. A special prize will be given for the highest break over 50 points. Officials will be J. A. Allen, referee; G. J. Dawes, marker and C. L. Youngman, scorer. Jack Preece is chairman and Jack Judge manager.

Debate on Interesting Subject At Anglican Young People's Meeting

A debate was the feature of the evening at a well attended meeting of the St. Andrew's Cathedral branch of the Anglican Young People's Association in the Cathedral Hall last night. The subject was "Resolved That Motion Pictures are More Injurious than Helpful." Those taking the affirmative were John O'Neill and Jack Storrie while the negative was upheld by Peter Allen and Harold Ponder. The judges, Mrs. Joan Cross and Gordon Letnes, decided in favor of the negative.

During the course of his remarks, John O'Neill said: "It has been said that when Bud Fisher started the comic strip 'Mutt and Jeff' reading went out of fashion. We might with as much truth say that, when the moving picture show became popular, not only reading but also thinking went out of fashion. Before the advent of the movie, boys and girls had the time and the power of concentrated thought to enable them to read and to be thoroughly familiar with the works of Scott Dickens, Kingston and other writers of good, wholesome books. Today, as teachers well know, it is a difficult and heart-breaking task to get even high school pupils to read and report on one or two good books outside the prescribed school work."

Harold Ponder summed up the argument for the negative in well through-out words: "Pictures new being produced keep people aware of what happened in the Old Land years ago, making it possible for them to benefit by past mistakes. The geographically educational pictures, such as the travelogues show the climate, industries and costumes of other countries. The sport pictures help to develop clean healthy minds. The scientific pictures, although short and to the point, show the progress of modern inventions. The microscopic pictures of germs greatly magnified make people realize the actual danger of different diseases. The news pictures give us the opportunity to see and hear the political, historical, and social highlights of the present time. I would like to draw your attention to the fact that, unless moving pictures were beneficial, students would not be allowed to attend at a reduced rate. Also those in authority would not see fit to grant half holidays for the sole reason of permitting students to see such educational pictures as 'Man of Aran' and 'Africa Speaks.' Motion pictures are open to rich and poor alike and, despite the fact people may not have enough money to travel, they are given access to the entire world by seeing the motion pictures taken by globe-trotting reporters."

Following the debate, the members joined in a very lively discussion on the subject.

No Wonder
 You Are Constipated!

What do you eat for breakfast? Coffee, toast, maybe some eggs? What do you eat for lunch and dinner? Bread, meat, potatoes? No wonder you're constipated—due to lack of "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean the amount you eat. It means the kind of food that forms a soft, bulky mass in the bowels. It's this mass that helps your bowels move.

The common sense thing to do about it is to eat a natural laxative food. Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast will give you just the "bulk" you need. And in grams you, in addition, Nature's great intestinal-ionic, vitamin B. Eat this crunchy toasted cereal every day, drink plenty of water, and life will be brighter for you! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in London, Ont. Sold by every grocer.
