Northern Canada Water Areas Are Shrinking Fast

Naturalist Urges Preservation of Water for Breeding Grounds For Ducks

WINNIPEG, Sept. 16: (CP)—Preservation of water areas in Northern Canada is necessary for continued provision of breeding grounds for ducks and the maintenance of the trapping industry.

Returning from a 5,000-mile airplane survey and census of birds in the northland, Cartwright said Canada is losing northern water areas "with the same devastating speed at which we lost them in the south."

The naturalist said ducks breed in concentrated areas and changing water conditions have brought a shift in these areas from season to season.

Explaining the method of computing the number of birds, Cartwright said the plane swooped down over the marshy edges of lakes with the pilot and observer noting the varieties of ducks scared up and computing the number per mile.

In large marshy areas flights were made methodically back and forth over the districts and an average per acre taken.

Warns People Against Accepting Unauthorized Accounts Of What Took Place

LONDON, Sept. 16.—Prime Minister Chamberlain returned today from one of the greatest peace missions in history, a man to man talk with Chancellor Hitler, asserting that he is fully satisfied "each of us fully understands what is in the mind of the other."

To the cheers of "Brav" and "Good old Neville" the Premier, tired after his air journey, said he now had to discuss the results of his conference with his colleagues. He warned the big crowd which met him at Heston Airdrome against accepting any unauthorized accounts of what took place in his conversation with the German Chancellor.

Rush Work On Newfoundland Airways Base

Workers Prepare For Accommodation Of Airlines as Prospects Of Experimental Flights Loom

NEWFOUNDLAND AIRPORT, Nfld., Sept. 16: (CP)—Preparations for the accommodation of trans-Atlantic air traffic are being rushed at Newfoundland Airport with the prospect Imperial Airways' big monoplane Albatross will make its first crossing.

Both Pan-American and Imperial Airways have unofficially set the year for the inauguration of a regular trans-Atlantic passenger service as 1939.

Two runways are being paved to be ready for experimental flights this fall. Administration buildings control tower and wireless stations are about ready for occupancy.

The present seaplane base at Newfoundland is at Botwood, 40 miles from here, where experimental flights were made a year ago. A proposal that Gander Lake only two miles from the airport be made the seaplane base, has been advanced. Its proximity to the airport is thought to be a great advantage. The lake is 30 miles long and two miles wide at its narrowest point.

The airport itself has been hewn out of the forest in Newfoundland's uninhabited interior. It is situated on a level plateau more than 500 feet above sea level in a sector that is practically free from fog and with an unobstructed approach from all sides.

It was built by the Newfoundland Government according to plans and specifications of the British Air Ministry.

BONNEVILLE, Utah, Sept. 16.—The world automobile speed record tumbled again yesterday as Captain George Eyston regained the title which John Cobb usurped. The new mark is 357.50 miles per hour.

Eyston drove his powerful Thunderbolt through a mile at 356 miles an hour on the north run and 358 on the return, exceeding the mark set by Cobb the previous day by seven miles an hour.

Treasures Left In Nova Scotia Sold In Province

HALIFAX, Sept. 16: (CP)—Most of the rare pieces of furniture collected by the Odell and Bliss families will remain in this province because Nova Scotian collectors bid higher than those who came from other parts of Canada and the United States to attend the auction which closed the estate of the late Miss Mary Odell.

Miss Odell, last member of the two families which left their mark on the pages of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick history, died several months ago, leaving a vast collection of antiques and rare pieces of china and jewellery. The treasures, collected by the two families over a period of 150 years, were said to be worth more than $50,000.

Bids were made by persons from all parts of the country but the most interesting one was a blind woman from New Brunswick. Her keen sense of touch stood her in good stead when four pieces of Limoges china were placed on the block. She was able to detect a crack in one of the plates that was not visible to the naked eye.

NEVILLE CHAMBERLAIN

In view of the prominence which the Right Hon. Neville Chamberlain has assumed within the past few days, many people will be interested to know just who he is and what he has done leading to such a high position of achievement.

Neville Chamberlain is a son of the well-known Joseph Chamberlain and half brother of Sir J. Austen Chamberlain, father of the Empire preference scheme. He was educated at Rugby and Mason College, Birmingham. He went into the family ironworking business and when he was about ready to go into politics was sent by his father to the West Indies to look after a plantation on which his father lost a quarter of a million dollars.

Returning to England Neville Chamberlain interested himself in municipal affairs and a little over twenty years ago became Lord Mayor of Birmingham. It was only at the close of the war that he went into national political life and was elected for the Ladywood division of Birmingham. In 1922 he became postmaster general, then paymaster general, chancellor of the exchequer, minister of health and was chancellor exchequer again in 1937 when he was chosen for his present high office. He is responsible for the legislation converting the huge war loans into new issues at lower rates of interest. He was in charge of the treasury when the country went off the gold standard and when war debt payments to the United States were stopped.

Mr. Chamberlain took the bold step recently of letting out the most popular Foreign Secretary England ever had and sitting quietly through a storm of abuse such as a Prime Minister is seldom privileged to hear. He had possibly two thirds or three quarters of the people of the country against him although practically all are with him today. He has managed so far to keep the Empire out of war and his last move has evidently caught the public fancy. He is a far bigger figure today in the eyes of the public than ever he was before and the people of the Empire are relying on him to pilot the ship of state safely through the rapids, shoals, rocks, storms and quicksands to a safer haven. He evidently is a man who keeps his head in difficult times and he seems like a safe man for a stormy period such as the present.

MAILS AND RAILWAYS

Editor, Daily News:

When one makes a study of the time-folders of our railway systems, the wonder surely arises in one's mind as to just why Sir Edward is so anxious in getting a chance to tear up the rails of the C.N.R., for if he is permitted to play his game for another 24 months, the C.N. will be lifting the rails themselves.

In the article of July 5, we referred to the C.P.R. holding the mail, passenger and express cargo from the Orient on board their boats two extra days, in order to load it on the five trains per day at Vancouver, while the C.N. gets one train away from the back-door of the coast city. We also referred to some 415,000 extra miles sailed, mostly C.P. boats under government bonus, to take that traffic away from the C.N.'s port of Prince Rupert. But we did not refer to the C.P. boats doing as much business in Prince Rupert as the C.N.'s, although it could not be seen that the C.P. owns a square foot of property in the northern port. On May 11 last, the M.P. for Vegreville, Alberta, asked (from his place in our Parliament) for the route of the mail from Vancouver to his home town. The answer he received was: C. P. Train No. 2 from Vancouver to Calgary; C.P. No. 525 from Calgary to Edmonton; C.N. No. 6 from Edmonton to Vegreville. Now, when we recall the fact that the route of the C.N.'s No. 2 is direct from Vancouver to Edmonton, and arrives there at 9:35 p.m., and No. 6 leaves at 10 p.m., it can be seen the direct connection that could be made. While No. 6 has gone when the C.P.'s No. 525 arrives at Edmonton at 10:15 p.m., so that mail is obliged to lay over in Edmonton until 10 p.m. the following day. Does not this arouse one's curiosity?

We will now refer to Calgary as a terminal on the C.P.'s Main Line; and Edmonton as a terminal on the C.N.'s Main Line. But the C.P. has their No. 52 (Great West Express) leave Edmonton at 10:50 p.m. for Winnipeg, and her route parallels the old G.T.P. line; then the C.P. has their crack train (The Chinook), and two other trains, leaving Edmonton and carrying the passenger traffic to their terminal at Calgary. But one can not get out of Calgary on the C.N. for their terminal of Edmonton or anywhere, on Sunday; they have a small local running via the old Can. Northern route on Monday, Wednesday and Fridays; and another small local via the old G.T.P. route on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturdays. Then they have another local leaving Calgary daily (except Sunday) over the old Geese Lake line to Saskatoon and on to Winnipeg by Worman Junction and Dauphin to serve the local traffic along the route. But no attempt is made to get traffic out of the C.P. terminal at Calgary as the C.P. is getting it out of the C.N. terminal at Edmonton.

We will now consider Prince Albert and the Battlefords, which is the C.N.'s territory. The C.P. built a line from Lanigan north to the C.N.'s line at (or near) Birch Hills, and run over C.N. rails some 26 miles to Prince Albert, use C.N.'s terminals, and C.N.'s bridge and line northwest for 60 miles to Didsbury; from Didsbury the C.P. builds a few miles of their own to Meadow Lake. And the same thing with the Battlefords. The C.P. uses the C.N. terminals at old Battleford, and their rails and bridge to North Battleford, and also the C.N. rails north for some 18 miles, and there they start their own line to Meadow Lake.

So it is very evident how the C.P. is using the C.N.'s rails, bridges and terminals at Prince Albert and the Battlefords to sap the C.N. of the business of their own territory.

Thus we could continue to enumerate such instances. But space forbids going further. But if anyone should doubt the accuracy of the material that forms this article, we would advise them to make a copy of it, and send it to every high official of our government or railways for their comment.

With kind regards to the Daily News.

In spite of the speed with which families have been leaving Prince Rupert, it seems we have a greater population than we had five years ago. Everything is all right if you don't weaken.

"It's a recipe for a tired room"

SAYS COLLIER STEVENSON
Nationally Known Authority on Interior Decoration
CANADIAN HOME JOURNAL

This Style Leader—"CONTINENTAL"—is Congoleum Gold Seal Rug No. 479.

"This 'Continental' is one of the finest patterns I have ever seen in Congoleum. It is smartly styled, richly coloured and in harmony with the spirit of modern decoration. Yes, it's a good recipe for tired or dismal rooms."

Outstanding as this pattern is, it is only one of the many amazingly beautiful Congoleum Gold Seal rugs now on display in good housefurnishings stores. And remember—Congoleum Gold Seal Rugs have other advantages than their beauty. They are sanitary, easy-to-clean—a damp mop keeps them spotless—and they lie flat without fastenings of any kind. Visit your dealer's and inspect the new Fall line . . . today.

Bob Davidson Maple Leaf Hockey Star Eats Delicious QUAKER OATS

Helps build Muscles and Strength for Coming Season!

"I need the most nourishing food I can get—that's why I eat delicious Quaker Oats" says Bob Davidson. He's right! For creamy Quaker Oats is full of muscle-making proteins—carbohydrates that create pep and energy. It is now known that oatmeal is the richest source of that precious nerve food "Thiamin". Perfect health is not possible without it. You should have "Thiamin" daily because it is not stored in the body. And, remember, only Quaker Oats contains healthful Vitamin "D".

"Judge Hardy's Children" Revolves Around Life at Washington

"Judge Hardy's Children," with Lewis Stone, Mickey Rooney, Cecilia Parker, Fay Holden and the rest of the "Judge Hardy Family," will be seen here tonight and tomorrow as the sequel to "You're Only Young Once." In the new picture Stone and his family visit Washington, D. C., for amusing adventures amid lobbyists and in high society.

Stone, as the father and judge, is called from the country town to serve as a power commissioner at the national capital. While he grapples with problems and lobbyists, Mickey Rooney falls in love with a little French girl and gets himself ousted from a fashionable dancing school when he teaches her the "Big Apple."

Cecilia is infatuated by handsome Leonard Penn, who plays a State Department employee who is deceived by a pair of lobbyists. The judge extricates his offspring from their tribulations in situations sometimes comical, sometimes heart-gripping. Mickey appears in his first dinner jacket.

George Seitz, who directed the first two of the series, directed the third picture from a screen play by Kay Van Ripper, based on the characters created by Aurania Rouvrol. He took his production unit to Washington for location work and the picture shows interiors of public buildings there which have never before appeared on the screen.

Comedy highlights include the "Big Apple" episode, the new tuxedo sequence, comical quarrels between Cecilia and Mickey as brother and sister and funny flirtations between Mickey and Ann Rutherford.

Players include Betty Ross Clark, Ann Rutherford, who played the heroine of "Of Human Hearts," Robert Whitney, New York stage actor and new leading man discovery who plays Cecilia Parker's home-town sweetheart, Jacqueline Laurent, French actress recently brought from Europe and making her American film debut, Ruth Hussey, Jonathan Hale, Janet Beecher and Leonard Penn.

The Library of Congress, Lincoln Monument, Washington Monument, Hall of Archives, National Capitol, new Supreme Court Building and other Washington details take the audience on a literal visit to the U. S. capital with the "family."

Anglican Young People Meeting; Plans For Season

The first meeting of the Anglican Young People's Association was held last Wednesday evening in the Cathedral Hall. There was a good attendance of members including a number of newcomers. Peter Allen, the president, conducted the meeting which consisted chiefly of business concerning the ensuing year. The resignation of Dick Meadows necessitated the election of a treasurer, Alf Rivett, being chosen. Arrangements were made for a weiner-roast to be held on Wednesday September 21 across the harbor, weather permitting. Marybelle Stiles and Bertie Cross offered their boats for the occasion. After the adjournment of the business meeting the members enjoyed a social time, refreshments being served.
