MIKE GURVICH IS HELD RESPONSIBLE BY JURY FOR KILLING OFFICERS

First of Inquest Hearings in Connection With Tragedy Here Last Week is Held—Many Witnesses Tell Tragic Stories

That Inspector William J. Service and Sergeant Robert Gibson came to their deaths from gunshot wounds caused by a 38-calibre revolver fired by Mike Gurvich who thereby committed murder was the finding of a coroner's jury Monday night at the conclusion of an inquest into the double shooting tragedy at divisional headquarters of the provincial police in Prince Rupert on the afternoon of July 4.

Taking of evidence at the inquest hearing last night occupied over two hours' time. The jury deliberated for the better part of an hour. T. W. Brown had charge of the presentation of evidence, the assembling of which had been directed by Inspector John Shirras, who has been conducting an investigation into all circumstances surrounding the triple tragedy.

Deputy Coroner A. J. Lancaster presided over the inquest with F. M. Davis acting as official stenographer. The jurors were George Hill, former J. H. Macey, R. W. Cameron, W. J. McCutcheon, H. A. Duhamel and Fred Cameron.

The witnesses were John Michael McNulty, Constable D. W. Taylor, Corporal Harold Raybone, Miss Helen Walker, E. O. Aves, Sergeant Ernest Gammon, Constable Terry Stewart, Constable G. H. Clarke, Staff Sergeant G. H. Greenwood, Edward J. Smith, Rosario Mazzel, Dr. C. H. Hankinson, Dr. L. W. Kerwin, John Gurvich and Spiro Gurvich.

John Michael McNulty described the purchase on the afternoon of July 4 between 1:45 and 2 o'clock by Mike Gurvich of a box of 38 Smith & Wesson 38-calibre revolver bullets. Gurvich had showed him (McNulty) a cartridge and asked if he had any like them.

Constable D. W. Taylor, district clerk of provincial police, told of the silence of the building being disturbed about 2:30 on the afternoon of July 4 by four explosions, which sounded like shots. There were two series of two explosions. Witness thereupon left his office and went into the hall up which he looked. The divisional office was about thirty feet away. Going up the hall, he glanced into the divisional office but saw nothing. As he emerged from his office, however, he had recognized the face and figure of Mike Gurvich.

WORKLESS DISCUSSED

Strong Views Expressed at Meeting Of Canadian Legion Executive

In preparation for the regular monthly meeting on Wednesday, the executive of the Prince Rupert Branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League met last evening. President Jack Preece was in the chair and other members present were W. J. Rance, H. A. Breen, Henry Smith, C. L. Barker, J. M. Walker, H. T. Lock, A. K. Nelson and M. J. Dougherty.

In addition to routine business, the matter of the recent unemployed crisis in Vancouver was discussed. Satisfaction was felt at the action of the Provincial Command supported by the various branches. Over four hundred unemployed ex-service men had been withdrawn from the ranks of the unemployed before the trouble came to a head.

Constable Taylor told of disorder in divisional office. A large desk had been pushed slightly away from the wall. Two chairs were overturned as well as a wastepaper basket. Paper was strewn over the floor. The telephone was on the floor under the desk. Witness found two pieces of lead from bullet—one on the floor and one embedded in the wall at a height of about six feet in a direct line from the office door.

Inspector Service, Taylor informed the inquest, was born July 2, 1893, at Ballymena, Ireland. He had been 25 years with the police. Sergeant Gibson was born in Scotland March 5, 1888, and had been with the police twenty years.

Corp. Raybone Corp. Raybone told of having stopped about 2:15 that afternoon near the corner of Third Avenue and McBride Street as he was going to the Court House to chat with Harvey Dumas. He saw Mike Gurvich drive past towards the Court House. A little later, the conversation with Dumas having ended, witness continued towards the Court House. Near Mitchell & Currie's shop, he saw Gurvich drive past from the Court House. He was travelling 30 to 35 miles per hour. As he approached the Court House door, he met Charles Graham, inspector of mines, who told him there had been four shots. Entering the door into the corridor with gun in hand, Raybone saw Taylor coming from the district office toward the divisional office, with gun in hand.

BULLETINS

HUGHES PASSES MOSCOW MOSCOW—Howard Hughes and companions on their world flight, expected to reach Omsk before noon today after the third leg of their projected speed flight. They arrived at Moscow from Paris at 12:13 a.m. Pacific Standard Time, completing the 1541 mile flight in seven hours, forty-five minutes and took off Omskwards at 2:20 a.m. Pacific Standard Time. It is believed that Hughes is well ahead of the record of Wiley Post which he is attempting to beat.

BABY'S BODY FOUND NELSON—The body of baby Carmen LeJeunesse, who disappeared from her home last May and who it was feared might have met with foul play, was found in a stream near Ymir yesterday. The child had been neither drowned or assaulted an autopsy on the body showed, Sergeant C. G. Barber, provincial police, said. The definite cause of death has not been revealed but police declare there is no doubt the child did not fall into the creek accidentally.

MORE AIR RAIDS VALENCIA—Twenty-four persons were killed by two insurgent air raiders on Cartagena today.

JAPANESE RAIDS CANTON—Two air raids by Japanese today killed 100 Chinese and wounded an estimated 200. Attack was apparently directed on the railway station. Two hundred were killed in an air raid on Henkow.

Fred Soles, Elder Son Of Police Officer, Is Victim Of Sad Tragedy

Skiff Overturned While Landing Was Being Made At McNicholl Creek—Body Found Later on Sandy Shore

This community was shaken by still another tragedy in which Fred Soles, 17-year-old son of Corp. George H. Soles of the city detachment of the provincial police, lost his life during the night at the mouth of McNicholl Creek across the harbor. In company with Albert Phillipson, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Phillipson, Fred Soles had crossed the harbor in a rowboat. As they were going ashore, a skiff upset and the heavily clad youths were thrown into the water. For some time, young Phillipson held to the other lad but finally had to let go. Shortly after, the body was found on the sand of the beach. It is believed that Fred had been able to almost reach shore when he became exhausted. Campers made Albert Phillipson comfortable and sent word across the harbor.

Nationalization Of Bank Of Canada Was Valuable Legislation

Olof Hanson Tells What He Considered Most Important Work of Session—Says United States More Hopeful Regard Future

Speaking this morning of the work of the recent session of Parliament at Ottawa, Olof Hanson, M.P. for Skeena, expressed the view that the Bank of Canada Nationalization bill was possibly the most important piece of legislation enacted at the session. "It marks the first move towards the nation obtaining control of currency and credit which is a primary aim in social evolution," commented Mr. Hanson.

The housing loan legislation was also of much importance, Mr. Hanson felt, particularly that whereby it became possible for the communities to derive benefit. There was a good possibility, Mr. Hanson believed, of Prince Rupert being able to take advantage of the legislation.

The abolition of the eight per cent sales tax on building materials would benefit British Columbia, the member declared.

Loans to municipalities for self-liquidating works should help greatly to solve the unemployment problem. Already the government had been approached with many applications under this scheme. Criminal Code amendments had also constituted outstanding legislation. The increasing of the fines and penalties for reckless and drunken driving should prove of much benefit.

Election Act revisions were also worthy pieces of legislation. Investigations The findings of the investigations into the railway problems and the

THE SWEDISH SYSTEM

We are often being told about the wonderful system they have in Sweden and how Canada might well emulate that country. Without wishing to detract from the many splendid things they do in Sweden, we might mention that half of the people in Sweden live in one-room apartments. In spite of that, Sweden has no slums. We have this on the authority of Sweden's housing authority, Dr. G. Myrdal, who has been visiting the United States. In Canada a few people live in one-room shacks usually built by themselves as a means of saving rent but the average family would think it a great hardship if it was compelled to live and sleep in one room year in and year out.

LIBERAL SCHOOL OF THOUGHT

According to President Roosevelt "the Liberal school of thought recognizes that new conditions throughout the world call for new remedies. In this country people who hold to this school of thought insist that these new remedies can be adopted and successfully maintained under our present form of government, if government is used as an instrument of co-operation to provide these remedies."

The President says: "I mean the believer in progressive principles of democratic representative government and not the wild man who, in effect, leans in the direction of communism for that is just as dangerous as Fascism."

CONSERVATIVE SCHOOL OF THOUGHT

The Conservative school of thought, as defined by the United States President, does not recognize the need for government itself to step in and take action to meet new problems. It believes that individual initiative and private philanthropy will solve them, that we ought to repeal many of the things we have done and go back, for instance to the old gold standard, or stop all this business of old age pensions and unemployment insurance, or repeal the securities and exchange act, or let monopolies thrive unchecked—return in effect to the kind of government we had in the twenties.

THE CANADIAN SYSTEM

The Canadian system of government is different from that in the United States. Accepting the definition of the United States President, there are Liberals in both parties. Also there are Conservatives in both parties. When the Bennett administration secured passage of a law to regulate marketing of wheat and other farm or garden products, that was liberalism but when the same government placed a law on the statute books to give protection to industries that were already doing well, that was Conservatism. When the Communists advocate changing the system of government by force and setting up a dictatorship of the proletariat, that is a reversion of a thousand years.

'SPORT'

SPORT CHAT

Marathon swimming has come and gone, with its gold and glitter and its grief and grease. And of all the swimmers, good and bad, who forsake their amateurism for the pot of gold at the end of the miles of bitterly cold water and relentless churning, perhaps Ernst Vierkoetter has come out best. The Canadian National Exhibition decided this year to stop staging its marathon swims. But smiling Ernst now living in Toronto, gave up the game long ago, with money in the bank and a couple of substantial jobs on his hands. Now, at 37 and expanding at the waistline, he is content to teach swimming to novices "from seven to 70" and to amuse himself at his piano. The marathon game was good to the German music teacher and he was looking to the future when he collected his purses.

It was just 11 years ago this summer that Vierkoetter swam into $30,000 at the first C. N. E. swim along the Toronto waterfront. Thousands, who had come expecting to see George Young repeat the triumph he had scored the year before in California's Catalina Channel, watched the black-greased body of the stubby Uhlar, wear down every other swimmer in the 21-mile race. The Catalina Kid was pulled from the water after five miles and Vierkoetter was the first of the only three to finish. When summer comes now Vierkoetter has little time for his piano; he is giving lessons 60 to 70 hours a week at the Baraca Club and the Eglinton Hunt Club—and he loves it.

Mothers bring their children to him because Ernst has a pleasant chuckle and a way of inspiring confidence in the water. He likes backward children best but delights in studying anyone's mental attitude toward the water. "I suppose it's psychology," he says, and there is scarcely a trace of German accent left. "It's interesting to see how they react at each little forward step in the lessons." His shoulders are hunched a little, like those of a man who has spent his life doing the crawl stroke. Perhaps there are two or three men who have passed more of their lives in the water than Vierkoetter. He won his first race when five years old. The war cut deep into his amateur career and when it was over Germany wasn't allowed to enter the Olympics until 1928. By that time he was a professional with 25 national and international amateur medals in his collection.

On August 24, 1926, Vierkoetter swam the English Channel to within a mile of the English coast. A week later he swam the Channel from Cape Griz Nez on the French coast to the white cliffs of Langdon Stairs, just above Dover. That was the hardest test of all. "I still feel the agony of swimming and swimming and getting nowhere," he recalls. "You have to do that, you know when the tide changes I did it for three hours." It was pitch dark and all that guided him was the tinkling of a tiny bell on his trainer's boat. In 1927 he came to Canada and cleaved through icy Lake Ontario to win the first C. N. E. swim. The following year he brought out his wife and baby daughter to become Canadian citizens. That year no one finished the cruel grind but Vierkoetter went farther than anyone else 12½ miles, and the C. N. E. committee split the $25,000 prize money evenly among 12 contestants. Vierkoetter, taken from the water unconscious, went to bed with influenza two days afterwards and still suffered pains two years later.

In 1929 Vierkoetter swam second to Edward Keating of New York. In 1930 he was fifth to Marvyn Nelson of Fort Dodge, Ia., and in 1931 third to George Young, who re-established himself in the eyes of Toronto people. Then Vierkoetter retired. "A man has eight good years in him as an athlete, no matter when he starts," Ernst thinks. "Then he should quit because he is on the decline. I am satisfied. I pulled out when I had my health. My wife and little girl and I like it here."

INDIANS IN FIRM LEAD

Now Have Three Full Game Margin in American League—Giants Wavering in National

CLEVELAND, July 12: (CP)—By winning another close verdict from the St. Louis Browns Sunday Cleveland Indians increased their margin of American League leadership to three games over New York Yankees who lost to the Boston Red Sox. Washington Senators playing at home, took both ends of a double-header from the Philadelphia Athletics and are now solidly ensconced in the first division. The Detroit Tigers are now in the second division, having lost to Chicago White Sox Sunday.

In the National League the Pittsburgh Pirates continued their drive pennantward by taking both ends of a double-header from the St. Louis Cardinals Sunday and beating the Chicago Cubs in a series opener yesterday. The Pirates are now but one and a half games behind the leading New York Giants. The Cincinnati Reds displaced the Chicago Cubs in third position in the National League Sunday by scoring another victory over them and improved their position by defeating St. Louis Cardinals yesterday.

Trail Riders Making Trips in Jasper Park Country

JASPER, July 12.—Bent upon viewing the famed Columbia ice field, massive glacial cap which forms the source of rivers emptying into three oceans, trail riders using this Canadian alpine village as a base are turning southward into the very heart of the Rockies for their summer treks. Feature trip of the year carries them over the new government highway by motor to the frigid tongue of the Athabaska glacier. There they join forces with mountain guides and return to Jasper by saddle around beautiful Maligne Lake and over the spectacular skyline trail. Seven days are required for the entire journey which includes a day's boating on the trout waters of Maligne Lake and so effectively combines motor-ing and trail riding over the stupendous ranges of Jasper National Park.

A trip of unusual scenic beauty, this new route takes the enthralled rider through districts which abound in game and are unusually rich in mountain flora. Each night camp is pitched in a new location, sometimes on a summit bench overlooking snow-capped terrain and lake-dotted valleys, next on the brink of a crystal waterfall tumbling its way to the nearest river.

Each of the expeditions departing from Jasper is under the personal supervision of that veteran of the trail, Major Fred Brewster, a name that has been synonymous to the Canadian Rockies for many years. It is from his base, too, that the eleven-day Jasper-Mount Robson saddle trip originates as well as the shorter rides into the rugged area more proximate to Jasper. The skyline trail ride of four days begins at Shovel Pass and winds its way upward to an elevation of more than 8000 feet to unfold a dazzling panorama of mountain grandeur.

Indications point to an unprecedented influx of visitors into the Maligne Lake district this year. Each summer this form of vacation, often capped by a week's speckled trout fishing, is becoming more popular. Headquarters after the destination is reached are generally at Maligne chalet, picturesquely located on the shores of the myriad-colored lake that has been described repeatedly as the most beautiful in the world.

Italian Consul Is Entertained

Dr. G. Brancucci Is Speaker At Home of Mr. and Mrs. Mazzel

In honor of the first visit here of the Italian Consul, Dr. G. Brancucci, a large gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mazzel, Seventh Avenue West, last evening. Dr. Brancucci gave an interesting speech on the situations of the day, stressing the point that "youth must play an important part in the patriotism of their adopted country."

Refreshments were served and a social time brought the evening to a close. Dr. Brancucci is returning by trail today to Vancouver where he is located.

James McGiashan returned to the city on yesterday afternoon's train from a trip to Terrace.

John McInnes, president of the Ocean Shipping Co., and Hugh Dalton, British Columbia secretary of the Canadian Manufacturers Association, sailed yesterday afternoon by the Prince George on their return to Vancouver after spending a few days here on business in connection with possible future use of the port for shipping.

IN THE HYGIENE COURT OF JUSTICE

Business Man Accused of Rheumatism

(Before Mr. Justice Kruschen)

JUDGE: Have you anything to say, prisoner, before sentence is passed?
PRISONER: Well, my lord, I can't see that rheumatism is a crime.
JUDGE: In these enlightened days all preventable illness is a crime—just as much as suicide is. You've no right to have rheumatism—lowering your efficiency, spreading blood, making yourself a liability to your family and your country, instead of an asset. Do you know that rheumatism costs the country millions of weeks of work a year?
PRISONER: But I couldn't help getting rheumatism, my lord.
JUDGE: Don't be so sure! The common cause of rheumatism are constipation and excess uric acid. As man to man, can you stand there and tell me that you can't prevent these?
PRISONER: Give me another chance, my lord!

JUDGE: In this Court of Hygiene we don't punish—we reform. You are released on probation for three months, on condition that you start and religiously keep on taking the "little daily dose".
PRISONER: But—but that's exactly what my doctor ordered me years ago!
JUDGE: And you took no notice.
PRISONER: Well, my lord, the expense...
JUDGE: Expense? Nonsense! The Kruschen habit costs much less than a day, but it will reform your body and soul. Get rid of the poisonous waste matter from your system, and you will be a new man—keen, cheerful, efficient, without a care in your heart or an ache in your body. Go away now and don't let me see you here again, or it may be a more serious matter. Next case!

KRUSCHEN'S SALTS

relieve constipation and rheumatism

Kruschen is a combination of several mineral salts which your body must get, in some way, to keep the blood pure, the inside clean, and the system generally toned up, but which you can't get in Nature's own way without abundant exercise and fresh air. You should have those salts every day; hence the importance of the "little daily dose". Every drug counter sells Kruschen in 25c, 45c and 75c bottles. It's the little daily dose that does it.

WHIFFLETS From The Waterfront

As forecast yesterday in the Daily News, official notification was made by the International Fisheries Commission last night of July 29 at midnight as the date for the closing of halibut fishing this season in Areas No. 1 and 2 between Cape Spencer and California. July 29, one day later than last year's closure, will be the last day on which fishing will be permissible. Thereafter boats fishing for sable or cod in Area No. 2 will be permitted to land a pound of halibut for every seven pounds of the other varieties. Lay-over periods of boats under the voluntary curtailment plan are now suspended and the boats may leave at first henceforth, doing their lay-over periods after July 29. Heavier catches have been made this year than last, the commission states.

With 225 passengers on board C. P. R. steamer Princess Charlotte, Capt. William Palmer, was in port from 8 o'clock this morning to 12:30 noon southbound after a specially arranged cruise voyage to Alaska. It is the second special cruise of this nature which the Princess Charlotte has run this season.

Eight halibut vessels landed catches at Seattle yesterday totaling 127,000 pounds as follows: Wizard, 40,000 pounds, New England, 8½c and 8¼c; Federal, 23,000 pounds, Whiz, 8¾c and 8½c; Argo, 18,000, Booth, 9¾c and 7c; Wireless, 18,000, Sebastian, 9½c and 7c; Eastern, 15,500, Washington, 9½c and 7c; Dawn, 1,000, Whiz 8c and 7c; Lane, 5,000, Booth, 9¼c and 7c; Huskie L., 6,500, San Juan 9¼c and 7c. Several thousand pounds of sablefish and cor were also sold at Seattle yesterday at 4c per pound.

The W. No. 9, Capt. Martin Skog, which has been engaged in fishing for summer herring for the past month for the B. C. Packers reduction plant at Port Edward, has transferred her scene of operations from North Island to Zayas Island but weather conditions have been none too good of late and it is expected the vessel will soon be withdrawn from this line of fishing. Salmon offal will now be available for the Port Edward plant which has been in practically continuous operation now for several months.

Bringing in a couple of passengers from Manson Creek in the Omineca district who caught the steamer Princess Louise before she sailed for Alaska, a Canadian Airways seaplane arrived here yesterday morning. A couple of hours later it left on its return to the interior.

Corp. Harold Raybone, for several years skipper of the local police boat P. M. L. 8, has been transferred to Victoria and, with Mrs. Raybone and family, expects to leave this Friday for his new post in the south.

Big Steel Schooner Enchantress Now at Ketchikan On Her Way To Alaska and Hawaii

Capt. Charles Kinney, veteran coast navigator, was here Saturday afternoon aboard the Princess Alice returning to Victoria after having piloted the big sailing yacht Enchantress of Los Angeles along the British Columbia coast from Victoria to Ketchikan in the course of a cruise which will extend from Alaska to Honolulu.

KETCHIKAN, July 12.—With its owner, Morgan Adams, president of the Mortgage Guarantee Company of Los Angeles, and party of guests aboard, the steel schooner Enchantress was here at the weekend in the course of a cruise to Alaska and Hawaii.

Mr. Adams not only owns the Enchantress but he navigates her. He was at the wheel taking his turn on watch during the roughest part of the voyage up the coast from Los Angeles from which port the palatial schooner sailed.

"We experienced stiff north-westerly weather after getting clear but, considered on the whole, it was a good cruise," the skipper said.

The Enchantress is a large sailing vessel. She is 136 feet over all and 100 feet at the waterline, with a 27-foot beam and 15-foot draft. She is powered with a 210 horsepower Superior diesel. The towering masts are capable of carrying 12,700 square feet of sail. Built by George Lawley and Sons, the famous Massachusetts yacht builders, the Enchantress is one of the finest of her type. She is a sister ship to the Westward, owned by T. B. Davis of Cowes, England.

Sailed Yankee

The sailing master of the Enchantress, Capt. Ole Gundersen, of international racing fame, who sailed Gerald Lambert's Yankee across the Atlantic to race in the Cowes regatta, has also sailed among other notable yachts the Resolute.

Mr. Adams, who was a commander in the United States navy during the world war, has been cruising to Alaska via British Columbia ports of call, specifically to fish and hunt.

"We plan to go as far north as Sitka and then we shall sail for Honolulu. We expect to be away two months," Mr. Adams said.

The guests of Mr. and Mrs. Adams on the cruise are Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schroder, John Scott and Emerson Spear, all of Los Angeles.

Nelson Taylor, who has had plenty of yacht racing experience, is the navigating officer of the Enchantress. Charles Haupt is the chief engineer. The crew consists of six men on deck, two engineers and three stewards.

MIKE GURVICH IS HELD RESPONSIBLE BY JURY

as he could." She heard a car drive away.

E. O. Aves, working in the general office on the floor above, heard two shots, a cry and then two more shots. He left his desk with the idea of proceeding downstairs whence he thought the sounds had come. The time was 2:24 p.m. He saw Mike Gurvich appear at the top of the stairs at the main entrance of the building. He (witness) called to Gurvich: "What the hell's the trouble below?" Gurvich looked at witness, did not reply and proceeded outside. Witness called again to Gurvich from the main entrance door: "What's wrong? Is there anything I can do?" Gurvich slammed the door of his car and drove off. He swung the car around quickly. Witness then proceeded downstairs and saw Taylor and Raybone coming from opposite ends of the building. Charles Graham was also there. Taylor said "Come and see what's happened." Witness then saw the bodies.

Sergeant Ernest Gammon told of seeing the bodies of Service and Gibson. The former was lying on his back and bleeding from the head. He accompanied the body to the B.C. Undertakers. He searched the remains and found no weapons or ammunition. Deceased was wearing civilian clothes. He had no weapon and no ammunition. Sergeant Gibson was not in the habit of carrying his gun loaded. Sergeant Gammon told of the position of the bullet marks on the wall. One would have been parallel with the head of Service if standing. The two bullets found in the office, Sergeant Gammon said, had not passed through anybody's body. Witness had not been in the building at the actual time of the shooting but had received a message on the street as he was returning to the Court House.

Pursued Gurvich

Constable Terry Stewart was at the city police office that afternoon. He was not on duty nor was he in uniform. On instructions received, he ran out of the city police office with Constable Clarke. They were to hail the first car that came along. At the corner of Third Avenue and Fulton Street, he tried to stop a car driven by Mike Gurvich. He was not looking for Gurvich at this time but was seeking a car to go to the Court House. Gurvich was travelling at between 55 and 60 miles per hour. As Stewart ran into the middle of the road and put up his right arm and shouted to him to stop, Gurvich cried out: "To Hell with you, you dirty — ——" The next witness saw of Gurvich he was standing in the middle of Sixth Street with his gun in his hand. After some shots, witness went into the Royal Hotel beer parlor and there he saw Gurvich lying on the floor. Beside his right hand was a revolver. Witness picked up the revolver, broke it and handed it to Staff Sergeant Greenwood. Stewart stayed with the body and accompanied it to B. C. Undertakers. In the clothing were found four exploded shells, one unexploded and a summons all of which had been later turned over to Staff Sergeant Greenwood.

Constable George Clarke told of the serving of a summons against Gurvich on the morning of July 4 for trespassing on property of the Canadian National Railways. He had gone with the summons to Gurvich's place of business but he was not there so he left the document and went on to the Post Office. Returning shortly after, he was hailed near the corner of Third and Sixth Street by a man in a car. "Hey, Clarke," were the words which had been used. It turned out to be Mike Gurvich who said he had been to see his lawyer and that the summons had not been properly served. "It should have been given to me," Gurvich had said. Clarke replied: "You have it now?" Gurvich replied he had. "That's all I'm concerned with," said Clarke.

That afternoon, Clarke continued, he was on duty in the police station. On instructions, he started to go to the Court House with Constable Stewart. At the corner they hailed the first car, one driven by Mike Gurvich. Gurvich Swerved but did not stop, shouting: "Go to Hell, you dirty — ——" They were not looking for Gurvich at that time. The next they saw of Gurvich was in the middle of the road at Sixth Street with a gun in his hand.

Asked for details as to his instructions at the police station, Clarke said he and Stewart had been told to proceed to the Court House. Gurvich's name had not been mentioned. The message from the Court House had been "Inspector Service and Sergeant Gibson have been shot." Constable Taylor had given the message which Clarke had received. Staff Sergeant Greenwood had instructed them to go to the Court House.

Recalled to the stand, Constable Taylor said he had mentioned Gurvich's name in the phone message to city police. He had spoken to Staff Sergeant Greenwood.

Staff Sergeant Greenwood told of Constable Stewart handing him inside the doorway at the Royal Hotel a 38-calibre revolver—forehand model Hopkins and Allen, five chambers. At this point the death gun was produced. It contained three exploded and two unexploded shells. The gun was not registered.

In Beer Parlor

Edward J. Smith, waiter at the Royal Hotel, told of having known Mike Gurvich since May 1924. He would say he was mentally unbalanced. He had seen him running around, "hollering and yelling." He had never seen him with a gun before. On the afternoon in question he saw Gurvich come around the front window of the hotel with gun in the air. Coming, he had explained "I got Service and I got Gibson for butting in" or words to that effect. He was nervous and jumpy and "hollered" everything he said. He called for one beer, picked up the gun and called for another. "I won't cause any trouble in here," he had said.

Rosario Mazzei, taxi driver, was sitting in his taxi on Third Avenue across from the Royal Hotel. Mike Gurvich drew up alongside in his car. He came over to the window and said: "I got those two — ——" "Who do you mean?" asked witness. "Service and Gibson," Gurvich replied. "I'm hung," Gurvich had added. Gurvich, witness said, was excitable and nervous. He had a revolver which he was waving to and fro. Witness had known Gurvich all his life. He used to take spells during which he was very excitable, very wild. Witness had never seen him with a gun before. Witness would say that Gurvich was not a capable person to have a gun or to drive a car "during those moments." Nevertheless, he used to drive in that condition.

Doctor's Evidence

Dr. C. H. Hankinson told of being called to the Court House at 2:30. Driving hurriedly along Third Avenue, he had noticed two officers with guns in their hands at the Royal Hotel. He heard shooting. Coming to the conclusion that someone must be hurt at the Court House, he speeded up as fast as he dared. He met Taylor in the corridor, was informed by him what had happened. Then he found Service lying dead. Then the doctor gave his attention to Gibson. A hypodermic was administered to combat shock and, as soon as the ambulance arrived, the officer was removed to the hospital. Meantime Dr. J. P. Cade had arrived. During treatment at the operating room in hospital, it was found that the explosive force of the bullet had been so great as to drive part of the skull into the brain. There was the wound in only one place. There was no thigh injury. Sergeant Gibson never regained consciousness. At 3:45 a.m. he attempted to cough. Then a change came and at 4:15 a.m., with members of his family present, he died. The precise cause of death was a bullet wound shattering brain substance, producing hemorrhage and shock and interfering with functions controlled by the brain. There had been very serious brain damage. Deceased might have been sitting at the time. The death bullet was produced and its course in the head described by the doctor.

There was some question as to how long it took the ambulance to come. It was established that it was probably about fifteen minutes and not longer than twenty-one minutes. Dr. L. W. Kergin testified as to the wound which had killed Inspector Service. He described where the bullet had entered. It had evidently smashed the vertebrae and paralyzed the respiratory centre at the back of the head, causing immediate unconsciousness and death.

Gurvich's Mental Condition

Called to give evidence as to the mental condition of Mike Gurvich John Gurvich, his brother, said he was 24 years of age. In 1932 he (witness) had taken him to mental hospital at Essondale where he had spent two and a half or three months. His actions had been kind of noisy and rowdy and at one time he had started to fight witness and his brother. They had quietened him for a time but he had got out later and had been found in an altercation on Fulton Street. Finally, it had been necessary to report the matter to the police with the result that all had agreed he should be sent below. Accordingly, he went to Essondale. Since that time Mike Gurvich had been "up and down." Last year he had not been "feeling so good" and went south. His spirits had been low on July 2, 3 and 4 of this year. He complained of feeling sick and talked about his operation and headaches. He did not have much money and, besides worrying about his sickness, had been bothered because he thought of being married in September and felt that he would not be able to do so. He had had an operation on his tonsils some years ago. He had also been deeply affected by the death of his father to whom he was very close. Witness had never seen Mike with a gun. He knew nothing about the gun he had.

Spiro Gurvich also told of Mike being very restless and uneasy during the last few months. He had moved his lodgings around from place to place. He was inclined to be violent and quarrelsome and would "fly off the handle" very easily. Witness had never seen Mike before with a gun or revolver a few minutes before he was killed his eyes were bulgy, his face flushed and he was half sneaking. When witness had attempted to approach him, he said: "You get back or I'll shoot you too."

T. W. Brown offered to present to the jury a telegram describing the condition of Mike Gurvich when he was in Essondale but the jury did not consider it required this. After its duties had been briefly described by Mr. Brown and the coroner, the jury retired to consider its verdict.

The verdict, as summarized at the outset, was returned about an hour later.

MYSTERY IN FILM

"Bulldog Drummond's Revenge" And "Big Broadcast of 1938" At Capitol Theatre

The business of guarding military secrets from foreign and hostile nations forms the background of "Bulldog Drummond's Revenge," latest of this series of detective-adventure pictures which is one of the first of the week feature pictures on the screen of the Capitol Theatre. The title role is played by John Howard, supported by John Barrymore, Louise Campbell, Reginald Denny and E. E. Clive. In this case a fictitious explosive is stolen from its inventor by a crooked servant placed in his employ by a spy ring. The servant attempts to carry the explosive to his employers in continental Europe. How he is frustrated in doing so forms the basis of a thrilling story with a diverting romantic angle.

The other end of the double bill is "The Big Broadcast of 1938," a lavish potpourri of music and mirth, with a cast which includes such favorites as W. C. Fields, Martha Raye, Dorothy Lamour, Shirley Ross, Ben Blue, Lynne Overman Rufe Davis and Grace Bradley. It is the story of a transatlantic boat race and a handsome radio announcer who finds it difficult to keep track of the ex-wives to whom he is paying alimony. Song hits include "You Took the Words Right Out of My Heart," "Mama, That Moon is Here Again" and "Thanks for the Memory."
