AT ARMIENS GERMANS KNELT WAR WAS LOST

Canadian Victory at Amiens Was Black Day for Enemy Army and Leaders Urged Immediate Peace

By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M.C. Canadian Press Staff Writer

Twenty years ago tomorrow Canada with tumultuous acclaim from sea to sea heard the news of the armistice ending the war in which, during its sanguinary four years, hundreds of thousands of her sons had been engaged.

On board a special train in the station of a remote village in the Champagne district of France the armistice was signed at five o'clock in the morning of November 11, 1918. Rethondes, where this momentous document was accepted by the defeated army, had no spot in the world's gazetteers before the war. Today it is recalled as the place to which the German emissaries came on November 8, 1918, to sue for peace.

In Brandon, Manitoba, and Waterloo East, Ontario, by-elections there are Liberal, Conservative and C.C.F. candidates. The voting takes place next Monday.

General Expulsion Order is Expected to be Next Nazi Move

BERLIN, Nov. 10. (CP)—A formal message of regret has been received from Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet following the death of Ernest von Rath, secretary of the German Embassy at Paris, who was the victim of a Polish-Jew assassin's bullet. Bonnet announced that a charge of premeditated murder was being laid against young Herschel Grynszpan who shot von Rath. Meantime the Nazi government is taking even more stringent measures against Jews and there have been demonstrations with further pillaging of Jews and their property.

Minister of Propaganda Goebbels issued a brief appeal to Germans today to desist from further anti-Jewish demonstrations after synagogues in many cities had been badly burned or badly damaged. The demonstrations began with renewed intensity after the death of von Rath. Stores were wrecked in widespread demonstrations. Goebbels said that a final answer will be given in the form of laws or decrees. Many Jews interpret this to mean that a general expulsion will be ordered.

G.O.P. IS GAINING

Come-Back as Result of Tuesday's Election Even Greater Than at First Apparent

Views On Results

What Party Leaders Think—La-follette Rule in Wisconsin Ends—Some Western Returns

The New United States Congress standing as a result of Tuesday's elections is as follows:

SENATE: Democrats 67, Republicans 23, Farmer-Labor 2, Progressive 1, Independent 1, Doubtful 2, Republicans gain eight; Democrats lose eight.

HOUSE: Democrats 259, Republicans 166, Progressives 28, Republican gain 77; Democrats lose 70, Progressives lose five; Farmer-Labor, lose two.

GOVERNORS: Democrats 30, Republicans 18, Republicans gain 77; Democrats lose nine; Progressives lose one; Farmer-Labor lose one.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10. (CP)—Further complete returns from the United States elections of Tuesday indicate an even greater come-back for the Republican party than had at first been anticipated although the Democrats still retain control of both House of Representatives and Senate by substantial margin and won more than half of the gubernatorial contests. The Republicans are already assured of 165 seats in the House which is a gain of seventy-seven.

Even Postmaster James M. Farley, Democratic chairman, admits that the Republican gains far exceed Democratic expectations. Former President Herbert Hoover looks upon the result as a public disapproval of the New Deal.

Republican National Chairman Hamilton describes the Republican victories as a "protest at the present maladministration." William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, sees in the results the rout of the Committee on Industrial Organization.

Final returns from the State of New York show Democratic Governor Herbert Lehman victorious over racket-busting District Attorney Thomas Dewey but by a margin of but 66,000 as compared with 800,000 in the last election.

Governor Phillip LaFollette, whose family has controlled Wisconsin politics for many years and who ran on a revised New Deal program in this election, was defeated by his Republican opponent.

In California California's weekly $30 a week pension referendum, one of the most contentious questions the voters have ever been asked to pass upon, is definitely defeated. Forty-five years of Republican rule in California is broken with the election of Culbert Olson, Democrat, as governor over Governor Frank F. Merriam. William Gibbs McAdoo, who was eliminated in the primaries by Sheridan Downey, the successful Democratic Senatorial nominee, yesterday submitted his resignation without completing his term which would have expired early next year, making it necessary for Governor Murrain to nominate an interim successor.

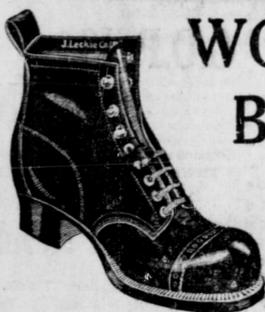

Senator Homer T. Bone and five Democratic representatives are elected in Washington with a sixth representative doubtful. Warren G. Magnuson of Seattle, one of the members of the Alaska international highway commission, was re-elected.

For the first time in eighteen years Montana sends a Republican senator to Washington. In Minnesota, the Farmer-Labor governor, Elmer Benson, is defeated by his Republican opponent.

Maryland replaces its Republican governor, Harry W. Nice, with Herbert O'Connor, Democrat.

UNITED STATES ELECTIONS

It is evident from the United States election returns that the Democratic party headed by President Roosevelt is losing ground. The question is whether it will be able to stem the movement sufficiently to enable it to retain office after the next election.

Although both the House of Representatives and the Senate have changed their complexion considerably, the change is not enough to give the Republicans control. If the same rate of loss continues, the Democrats will have lost control, even if they do not lose their president two years from now. Much will depend upon the industrial and economic conditions obtaining during the next two years.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

We are often told how foolish it is to let politicians govern the country and yet, when the work is done by the permanent staff, it is often not done so well. We see that made clear in the case of the recent regulations issued from Ottawa in regard to the larger boats of the halibut fleet. These regulations are not made by politicians but by the permanent staff of the department under authority of Parliament. They are supposed to be experts. If they had allowed the member for the district to make them, there would have been regulations suited to the conditions which exist here. Whenever we see the work of the permanent staff at Ottawa, whether it be in connection with aids to navigation or other examples of their wisdom, we increase our admiration for politicians. Hanson would have given us reasonable navigation rules. Hanson would have given Prince Rupert the light at Bonilla. Hanson would not have made such restrictions that a boat cannot operate between the city and the Salt Lakes, carrying passengers to and from Prince Rupert's favorite swimming resort. May the good Lord give us government by politicians instead of by departmental heads who know nothing of local conditions.

ANOTHER BRITISH FAIR

Almost every year England has a British Industries Fair. This year it will be held in London at Olympia and Earl's Court and in Birmingham from February 20 to March 5. To give some idea of the extent of the accommodation needed, there will be in connection with the Birmingham exhibit a thirty-acre parking space for six thousand cars. It takes an hour to clear that many cars. This is the twenty-fifth fair of its kind held since 1915 when it was but a small wartime affair.

(CP)—Representatives of twelve thousand miners of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick as well as mine operators and business men generally are meeting here with a view to studying means of bringing about a stimulation of the coal mining industry. Alberta and British Columbia coal mining interests may be invited to participate in the campaign.

Have you seen the Lambeth Walk? If not, don't worry. You have not missed anything.

Teacher noticed that one of her pupils was being dreadfully teased by the other little boys during playtime and drew near to the group to hear what was happening.

"Come on, Bill," they were insisting, "tell us what your father is." But the child remained obstinately silent.

Teacher decided that she had better interfere and breaking up the group, took little Bill aside.

"Why wouldn't you answer their question?" she asked gently.

At first Bill would not reply but in the end, it seemed to be almost a relief to him and he burst out: "Father's the bearded lady in a circus, miss, so, of course, I couldn't say."

AT ARMISTICE GERMAN'S KNEW WAR WAS LOST

dent Woodrow Wilson and the French and British governments. And on that point Marshal Paul von Hindenburg, Supreme Commander of the German forces, has this to say on October 3: "General Headquarters holds to the demand made by it on Monday, September 29 of this year, for an immediate peace offer to the enemy."

The offer found its way through the United States ambassador in Switzerland, to President Wilson; but the United States executive would not act independently. He communicated the terms to Clemenceau of France and Lloyd George of England. Meanwhile there was no diminution of the furious attacks before which the German Army was reeling. Its morale had greatly deteriorated; its will to resist had collapsed.

"In deep inward anguish I could only say: 'There is no hope, Germany is lost.'" Thus wrote Ludendorff on the conditions he had to deal with on October 25. Haste was now imperative. "In the German note of October 27 we capitulated," he wrote.

Events accelerated Germany's activities. Valenciennes had fallen. Everywhere the field-grey soldiers were being hurled back. On November 6 it was announced a German commission had been appointed to devise means of agreement "concerning an expected armistice."

Marshal Foch communicated the route which the enemy's envoys must take on entering the war zone. They had to advance to the French outposts by the Chimay-Fourmies-La Capelle-Guise Road. There the German delegation was met by French officers and conducted to the station at Rethondes, where Foch's special train was drawn up.

In Great Britain the terms of the armistice had been completed several days before. Sir Sam Faye, president of the London and South Western Railway, who had much to do in the direction of military transport during the war, has disclosed that on October 24 he was at the War Office, "engaged all day with the General Staff, fixing up ideas of an armistice for the Western and other fronts."

Germans Aghast
Sir Sam discussed the clauses next day with Sir Henry Wilson, Chief of the Imperial General Staff. On November 4 he "went through the terms of the armistice, which has been settled at Versailles for presentation to the Germans when they give in."

What took place at Rethondes now is history. The Germans asked for an immediate cessation of hostilities which Foch peremptorily refused. The generalissimo then read to the enemy the terms imposed by the Allies, and informed them these must be accepted. There would be no modification. Aghast at the severity of them, the German envoys sought permission to commu-icate them to their Army Headquarters at Spa, Belgium. For this purpose they were accorded 72 hours grace. A messenger was despatched to Spa; and he returned on the morning of November 11, bearing with him the unqualified acceptance of the Germans.

In the railway car at Rethondes signatures were affixed to the 35 clauses of the armistice document at 5 a.m., with six hours allowed wherein to have all belligerents notified that the Great War had ended.

At eleven o'clock on the eleventh day of the eleventh month "cease fire" sounded.

World To Mark Signing Of Armistice 20 Years Ago

LAST POST FOR GREAT WAR CHIEFS

Canada's Sir A. C. Macdonell And Sir Henry Burstall Among Commanders Who Still Survive

Armistice celebrations recall that few of the supreme commanders who directed the campaigns of the Great War are alive today—20 years from the conclusion of hostilities. Last post has been sounded for all the commanders-in-chief whose theatre of operations was the Western Front with the sole exception of General J. J. Pershing of the United States Army.

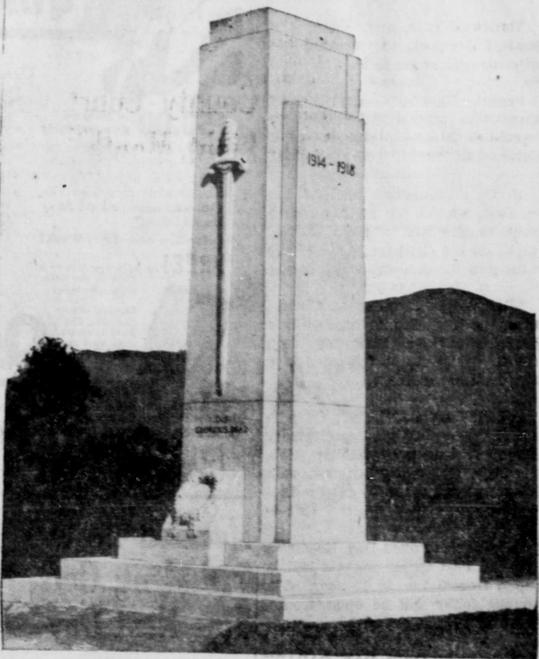

Lord French, who took the original British Expeditionary Force to France, and his successor, Earl Haig, died many years ago, their relations embittered by acrimonious controversy which had its roots back in the first months of the war.

Sir Horace Smith-Dorrien, succeeded in France in 1915 and sent for a brief space to direct the campaign in East Africa, Lord Allenby, conqueror of the Turks in Palestine, Lord Herne, Lord Plumer and Lord Rawlinson, commanders respectively of the First, Second and Fourth Armies in France, Sir John Monash, brilliant leader of the Australian Corps—all are dead.

None of the three commanders of the Canadian Corps is alive today. Sir E. A. H. Alderson, Lord Byng of Vimy, Sir Arthur W. Currie have died within the last five years. Of the four divisional commanders who were left at the armistice two are alive—Sir Archibald C. Macdonell in Kingston, Ont., and General Sir Henry Burstall in England. The others, Sir David Watson and Sir F. O. W. Loomis, are dead. The necrology extends to others whose names ranked high in the story of the Canadian Corps: Sir E. W. B. Morrison, who commanded the Canadian artillery, Sir James H. MacBrien, one of the outstanding brigade commanders, have passed to the Valhalla of soldiers.

So it is with the French commanders. Marshal Joffre—the vieux Pere Joffre—Marshal Foch, General Lanrezac, Maud Huy and numerous others are survived only by Marshal Philippe Petain, hero of Verdun, and Marshal Gouraud. The situation is little different Prince Rupert's cenotaph where Remembrance Day ceremonies will centre tomorrow.

EDITORIAL

REMEMBRANCE DAY

Tomorrow is Remembrance Day, the particular occasion on which Canadians honor those who fought overseas in the the Great War. Many Prince Rupert people will wish to attend the service in the morning at the Cenotaph in remembrance of those who died. All will use their influence to make Canada a better place for the soldiers and their dependents.

It is satisfactory to know that Canada is not again at war and it is hoped that she may never have occasion to unsheathe the sword. If she does fight, it will have to be in a good cause and she will then as in the past give a good account of herself.

Mrs. Robert Brasell will leave on tomorrow evening's train for a visit at Vanderhoof where a sister resides.

ARMISTICE DAY WEATHER

Weather conditions appeared this afternoon to be favorable for the Armistice Day proceedings tomorrow. Should however, the weather turn unfavorable, there will be merely the parade to the cenotaph and the depositing of wreaths with the service at the Capitol Theatre. The weather forecast is for continued fair and cold.

Canada At War TWENTY YEARS AGO

(Written for The Canadian Press By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY, M. C.)

Two years ago last July the city of Valenciennes paid a signal tribute to the memory of a Canadian hero when, in a ceremony that was both brilliant and moving, the citizens of that town of Northern France named one of their streets L'Avenue Hugh Cairns.

The tribute was to a young sergeant of the 46th Canadian Battalion—Hugh Cairns of Saskatoon—who won the Victoria Cross in the streets of Marly, suburb of Valenciennes, November 1, 1918. Like so many upon whom that cherished decoration was bestowed, however, the Canadian sergeant lost his life in consequence of the action which brought him his supreme distinction.

The gesture of the citizens of Valenciennes, however, recalled that, in the vicinity of this town, the Canadian Corps on November 1, 1918, fought its last set-piece action of the Great War. Like those that had preceded it in the three years of the existence of the Corps, the action at Valenciennes was an outstanding triumph. It was exclusively a 4th Canadian Division engagement with the 10th and 12th Infantry Brigades chiefly participating. On this day, however, the Canadian artillery played a conspicuous role. The work of the gunners invariably excellent at all times, was several degrees more so in the bitter fighting of November 1.

From the day on which the Canadians entered Cambrai, three weeks previously, the war had changed. Trench lines no longer existed. Day after day the enemy retired and, directly on his heels, came the advancing Canadians. Many towns and villages had been released. Thousands of civilian inhabitants who, for four years, had lived in the thralldom of the German army greeted with ecstatic joy the arrival of their liberators. The march of units through these places was a triumph but its accompaniment was always the staccato rattle of distant machine guns as the Canadian skirmishing screens drove back the enemy.

Attack on Mount Houy

The demoralized Germans pulled themselves together long enough to make one desperate bid to stay the advance. They chose to defend Valenciennes and they had hastily converted the slopes of Mount Houy, about two miles to the south, and the numerous slag heaps of that neighborhood into veritable fortresses.

At 5:15 o'clock on the morning of November 1 the last big action of the war began with the attack of the 10th Brigade on Mount Houy. It was quickly over although bitter while it lasted. The seasoned veterans of the 10th Brigade, magnificently aided by the artillery, took Mount Houy in their stride and fought step by step through the crowded villages south of Valenciennes. In despair the enemy threw immense masses of men into the battle, men "apparently thrust into the line by a Staff which had lost its head completely and staked its last hope on numbers alone," comments one historian. The German infantry were brave but theirs was a hopeless struggle. Their casualties were enormous.

With the 10th Brigade fighting northward to Valenciennes from Mount Houy, the 12th Brigade crossed the Scheldt Canal, to the east of the city, and cleaned the enemy out of its tortuous streets. This was a difficult task since the place was full of inhabitants and artillery could not be used. But, within three hours from the opening of the engagement, the Canadians were masters of Valenciennes and were pursuing the defeated enemy towards St. Saulve and Onnaing.

Five miles to the north-east were the twin towns of Quevrehain and Quevrain, between which ran the Franco-Belgian frontier. Sixteen miles further on was Mons. And, with Valenciennes "tucked away," the Canadian Corps set its face towards that city where, four years before, the war had begun.

THE SILENCE

(Jay Ess)

It is a truism that repetition dulls interest yet it is certain that the observance of the silence this year will be as real a tribute as ever before. We have much to think of, so much that nothing can distract us.

We have learned much in the twenty years since war ended. The almost hysterical outbursts of patriotism of those years have gone. In their place is a truer realization of the sacrifices made by those "who did not come back," and a realization that, by many who did come back, the sacrifices are no less real. Let us then thank Almighty God because they say their duty and they gave.

"At the going down of the sun,
"And in the morning,
"We shall remember them."

In our hearts, too, there is an almost inexpressible feeling of gratitude for the recent deliverance from a war that would have brought immeasurable tragedy and suffering with it to Prime Minister Chamberlain who brought the peacemakers together before, rather than after, a war, who was prepared to give his all for the sake of peace, a more difficult sacrifice than for the sake of war.

So, in the unbroken silence, our thoughts go back in loving and proud memory and our hopes forward with the conviction that the world has a saner outlook, a better assurance, that "their sacrifice was not in vain."

May they softly rest.

Canadian Legion Perfects Arrangements for Observance of Armistice Day

The Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League held its regular monthly meeting last evening in the Canadian Legion Clubrooms with President Jack Preece in the chair.

Final arrangements were made for the Remembrance Day parade. The members will turn out in full force and, after the ceremony, will take part in the "March Past." In the evening the annual Armistice banquet will be held in the clubrooms and there will be a program that will recall memories of twenty years ago when at last peace came to a worn and weary world.

In connection with the Remembrance Day ceremony at the Cenotaph, strong exception was taken to the inconsiderate behavior of a few drivers of cars and trucks who, during the two minutes' silence, have been so unkind of the solemnity of the occasion as to drive past, breaking the silence and showing disrespect to the memories of the dead. It is hoped that no one will be guilty of such unseemly conduct this year.

The branch is arranging to have colored copies of a picture of His Majesty King George VI, Patron-in-Chief of the Canadian Legion, presented to each of the schools in the city.

Applications for regular membership from W. E. Drake, A. C. Harman and V. G. C. Houston were approved as were also the transfers of Immortal hush that falls upon the world, Bringing the blessed quietude of surcease, Almost of late to flaming cities hurled, Breathing upon the troubled nations—"Peace!"

Mystic communion, strangely calm and still, Where glory broods o'er smiling popped plain.

Great silence, born of twenty menaced years, Speak to the heart with deeper eloquence;

Lest it be vain—their sacrifice—our tears Teach us to keep eternal vigilance.

SPECIAL APPEAL: The Canadian Legion B. E. S. L. appeals to the public generally and to all drivers or cars or trucks especially to observe the two minutes' silence while the Cenotaph Memorial Ceremony is in progress on Friday forenoon.

Alex McLean and C. C. Jackson. Following the adjournment of the meeting the members were entertained by a display of moving pictures by Dr. Neal M. Carter. The pictures in themselves were of great interest and this running commentary of Dr. Carter added further to the enjoyment of the members.

VISIT TO KITWANGA

Home Extended to Party From Kitkatla

Kitwanga, Nov. 10.—The visit of Edward Gamble and party to the village of Kitkatla took place on Saturday last. Gamble was accompanied by Nelson, Henry Brown, Henry Lewis, Arthur Lewis, William Beynon, the latter secretary to the Chief. A party welcome was accorded as they alighted from their plane at 2 a.m. The Kitwanga Pole Band played a rousing tune. Then Rev. B. Shearman gave a brief address of welcome. At 3 a.m. a short service was held in the Church Army. The visitors were addressed by the Rev. Councillor M. Bright. After the service the party divided and took refreshments at the home of Joe Williams and Robert...

Terrace Board Of Trade May Function Again

TERRACE, Nov. 10.—The Board of Trade has decided to hold a meeting next Wednesday in an attempt to revive interest in board affairs. It is felt by some of the old members that Terrace should have a body of responsible citizens who like to meet periodically to discuss local affairs. The past few years have been years of depression but it is felt that an effort made these days, when things are not so bad as they were, might be a boon to the district.

Catholic Bazaar Held At Terrace

TERRACE, Nov. 10.—The Catholic bazaar, held in the Orange Hall, Terrace, on Saturday proved to be a great success, both as a popular event, as attested by the large number of people who were there, and by the financial returns. Several prizes were distributed to the holders of lucky tickets. The first, a cash prize of $15, went to the Seaton family. Other local people won lesser sums and one winner in Saskatchewan gained a hamper of groceries. Following the main proceedings, which was to dispose of the tables filled with useful and pretty things, a social evening was spent in the Church House, which is adjacent to the church itself. Rev. Father de Keijser presiding.

and Mrs. Sampare. The hospitality extended left nothing to be desired. Those who organized the entertainments and refreshments were Mrs. Ryan, Mrs. Sampare, Mrs. Cadwalader, Mrs. Semidecks, Mrs. Williams, Mrs. Harris, Mrs. C. Smith, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Willetts and Mrs. Weget, Charles Smith, George Moore, T. Weget, H. Willetts, Charles Derrick, Solomon Bryant, J. Williams, G. Sampare, D. Williams, R. Fowler, R. Harris, M. Bright, P. Benson and W. Morgan. The Totem Pole Band was much in evidence during the stay of the visitors in the village. Numerous Speeches At the meetings in the hall, many speeches, reminiscent of olden days, were made. Chief Edward Gamble gave a rousing speech in appreciation of the kindnesses extended to him and his party and W. Beynon gave an interesting address on first-hand information on the Native Brotherhood. The visit was a memorable one in many ways and the villagers of Kitkatla will have much to listen to when their chief arrives home. The C. N. R. train ride from Prince Rupert to Kitwanga was the first train journey ever made in the lives of Edward Gamble, James Lewis and Henry Colisson.

BIG STORM ON ISLANDS

Some Hectic Trips Were Made During Duster—Rough Weather For Some Time

The fishing fleet and small vessels at sea and in port suffered a severe shaking up recently when the Queen Charlotte Islands experienced one of the worst storms in years, according to word received in Prince Rupert. It was a thundering gale from the southeast which came up quite suddenly and caught some unawares. The York, Capt. Ernie Webster's troller from Prince Rupert, had started out the morning of the storm and, just as he got outside of Lawn Hill buoy, the full force of the storm struck him. He turned back and it took him ten hours to make the short distance to Sandspit. Most of the time he seemed to be almost standing on the walls of his pilot house as the wind struck the little craft so hard that it went over on its beam ends. Many marvelled that Webster was able to get his boat back safely at all through the boiling seas. Later he started out again and made the trip across safely.

The same afternoon, when the seas and gale were at the worst, the cruiser Cariboo, owned by a Vancouver hardware company, arrived with the decks showing signs of the blow. Life boats had been shifted and worked loose. Later the Cariboo was stormbound for several days at Queen Charlotte.

There was also some anxiety concerning Bob Frizzell's launch Silene from Prince Rupert. It had started out the same morning but had seen the storm coming and turned back to safety, being delayed for several days, however, in returning to Prince Rupert.

Another hectic voyage was that of Capt. E. Crawford of Port Clements who had started to go home from the Skidegate troling grounds by way of the east coast. He got around Ross Spit and into Massett Inlet with little damage to his craft. During the recent storms several boats of the Prince Rupert troling fleet tried time and again to make the crossing across Hecate Straits but each time had to turn back.

Reg Green on Job The tug Daly of the Armour Salvage Co., Prince Rupert, arrived on the Islands between storms. Capt. Reg Green never lost a minute in hooking on to the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s camp scow which he delivered to Prince Rupert. The scow had been collecting coho salmon during the season at Skidegate Bar with J. Murray in charge.

Capt. J. B. Scott arrived at Skidegate with the forestry cruiser Lillian D. after coming up Moresby Island from Pacofi in one of the big storms in the course of a trip from Prince Rupert on departmental business. He also got a real dusting. E. S. Richardson, fisheries inspector for the Queen Charlotte Islands,

Skidegate Social Club Busy Again

Mrs. Yerner Douglas Elected President—Bridge Party and Dance Already Held

SKIDEGATE, Nov. 10.—The Skidegate Social Club has been reorganized for the winter season and has already commenced activities. At the opening meeting of the season there was a large attendance and six new members joined. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. Yerner Douglas. Vice-President, Mrs. Al Beebe. Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. George Chastenas.

Entertainment Committee—Mrs. Fred Atkins, Miss Mary Mathers and Verner Douglas. Refreshment Committee—Miss Jean McIntyre, Miss Eileen Gale and Miss Helen Turner.

There were seven tables at the first bridge evening of the season held by the club. Mrs. Turner won the ladies' prize and Al Beebe, the men's prize with the consolation "ward" to Mrs. Yerner Douglas. Dainty refreshments were served and playing of games followed. There were about thirty-five present.

Another function staged by the club was a dance in the Queen Charlotte City Hall. There was an excellent attendance and a very enjoyable time was spent by all. Over $20 cleared was the satisfactory financial result.

BRIGHT IN SMALL LOTS BATH, England, Nov. 10. (CP)—Dr. J. A. Fraser Roberts, principal investigator for the Burden Mental Research Trust, says Britain's brightest children usually come from the smallest families. He made a five-year study here.

was also out during the storms to southern Island points and was held up for some time awaiting an abatement. Among the Prince Rupert trollers getting in from the Islands just before the big storm was the R.W., with Roy Wicks and Arnold Pallant on board. Trollers which waited the storm out and came across since included the Bum, Capt. Oke Jackson, and Skeena M., Capt. Emil Jensen.

LEAVE MINE ACT ALONE

Smithers Chamber of Mines Opposed to Changes

SMITHERS, Nov. 10.—At a well attended meeting of the Omnica Branch of the British Columbia Chamber of Mines held in Smithers, the proposed amendments to the Mineral Act were dissected and discussed and it was the general opinion of all those present that there were no benefits accruing to the prospector from any of the proposed changes.

The proposed new four-line staking of mineral claims was roundly condemned and it was felt that it was just one more obstruction in the path of the prospector and that it would deter these men from having any ambition to enter the hills.

The proposed change in the assessment work was also regretted as it was felt to be placing the indolent and lazy man on a par with the man who is industrious and tries to get things done. The old and well tried method was to do one hundred dollars worth of work per year for each claim held. The new proposal is to do twenty days work per claim for the first year and thirty days work in each succeeding year. Some energetic prospectors would do more work in one day than others would do in five days. Also by compelling what might be called a technical man, as the prospector undoubtedly is, to do thirty days work to produce the equivalent of $100, as it had been in the past, is putting a very small valuation on his work.

It was the opinion of the meeting that, in view of the fact that the Mineral Act had operated in its present form for thirty years without disclosing any very obnoxious features, it was good enough to leave alone and a motion was passed.

People who smother to death die because oxygen has been completely cut off from them. Just as surely you are slowly smothering if your blood lacks red corpuscles. Red corpuscles are your oxygen-carriers. They carry the oxygen you breathe in to every part of your system. Your nerves may become jittery—you tire quickly—feel depressed. What you need is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. LOW PRICES CALIFORNIA

Roy Vandersluys Tells of Ridiculous Rates Paid for Food Supplies in Los Angeles

The ridiculously low prices at which food is sold in California was one thing that struck Roy Vandersluys as outstanding about his recent visit to the Golden State. Among the prices he noticed were bacon at 18c a pound, coffee at 10c a pound, big boxes of matches three for 10c, beans five pounds for 17c, tomato sauce 2 1/2c a can, apricots 9c a can, peaches 3 cans for 25c, potatoes 15c for 25 pounds, oranges three dozen for 10c, tomatoes five pounds for 10c, bananas three pounds for 12c, apples six pounds for 10c, grapes five pounds for 10c, grapefruit ten for 15c, cabbage 1c a pound. While these were special sale prices they seemed so low that it was difficult to see how the growers could live. Store clerks and other employees were paid well and so were artisans, however.

Mr. and Mrs. Vandersluys were away about five weeks. They also visited Calgary and other points before returning to the coast at Vancouver. "Van" attended the Rotary Club luncheon in Calgary and he says they are a real live bunch there. They visited with Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gulick who are doing well there. Glen being a member of the Rotary Club. Returning to the coast they travelled by the Glacier National Park where a wonderful highway almost seven thousand feet high took them over the tops of mountains higher than the range between Prince Rupert and Terrace and surmounting difficulties not to be met with there. These roads were of non-skid concrete and were splendid.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Joy went with them as far as Los Angeles and back to Vancouver. While in the south they met a number of former Prince Rupert people, Bill Joy and Bill and Fred Martin are all following their trade as plasterers and so is Fred Shaw, Jim Richmond, whose father was formerly in the restaurant business here, is now running the Sea Food House, a very fine cafe on Wilshire Boulevard, Hollywood, the building being unique in that it is covered on the outside with shells. The father is a pastry cook at Long Beach and is doing well. All the members of the family are married.

Mr. Vandersluys was particularly interested in the manner in which bakeries are conducted and picked up some useful information while away.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

Repairs to the coast freighter Salvor, which was damaged two weeks ago in a stranding on Truro Island in Portland Inlet, were completed at the local dry dock yesterday afternoon and the vessel left this morning for the Skeena River to load canned salmon for Vancouver. The repair of the Salvor was a ten-day job.

The American mission boat Western Hope arrived in port Tuesday evening from Massett after a stormy passage. Aboard were Rev. A. Abraham, the missionary in charge, Dr. and Mrs. Duncan McColl of Queen Charlotte City, C. A. Smith and Albert Anderson of Massett and F. Bellis, engineer.

Constipated? You Should Get at the Cause!
Lots of people think they can't be "regular" without frequent trips to the medicine chest. "I just dose up and get it over," they tell you. But doctors know they don't "get over" at all—until they get at the cause of the trouble! Chances are it's simple to find the cause if you eat only what most people do—meat, bread, potatoes. It's likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It's a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines and helps a bowel movement. If that fits you, your ticket is a crunchy breakfast cereal—Kellogg's All-Bran. It contains the intestinal tonic, vitamin B₁. Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and just watch the old world grow brighter! Made by Kellogg in London, Ont.

Father Gilbert Rehm of Swiss University Faculty Interesting Visitor in City

An interesting visitor for a couple of hours in Prince Rupert this week was Father Gilbert Rehm, identified with the scientific faculty of a University in Switzerland, who was here aboard the steamer Princess Norah after making the round trip to Alaska.

Father Rehm, who specializes in entomology and has travelled extensively over the world in search of insect specimens, just recently arrived from the Orient after spending a couple of years in India and Japan.

On his trip to Alaska, Father Rehm was particularly interested in the "ice bug," a glacial insect.

While in Prince Rupert, Father Rehm called at the local Roman Catholic Church and priests' residence, being also extended courtesies by Bishop G. A. Rix of the Anglican Church whom he chanced to encounter.

Father Rehm belongs to the Franciscan Order, one of the precepts of which is frugality.

"DEAD END" KIDS HERE

Powerful Drama of City Streets is Week-End Feature at Capitol Theatre

Twenty-four hours of throbbing life in city streets, paved with riches and poverty, comedy and tragedy, romance and heartache, are portrayed in the thrilling and poignant drama, "Dead End," which is the feature this week-end on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here. The "Dead End Kids" of the original New York stage cast are seen in the picturization of the characters of "Tommy," "T.B.," "Angel," "Dippy," "Solt" and "Milty."

Sylvia Sidney and Joel McCrea are starred at the head of the outstanding cast in a human story. Miss Sidney is the girl who valiantly fought a losing battle to keep her young brother Tommy from a sanitarium's fate and to raise them both out of the slums. McCrea is the poor architect whom she loved, who dreamed of tearing down all the tenements in the world and who himself loved beautiful Wendy Barrie who had found a way out of slums into penthouse luxury. Humphrey Bogart is the killer who is drawn away from his haunt in the slums to see his mother and boyhood sweetheart. Clair Trevor is the sweetheart who has taken the easiest way. Allen Jenkins is the killer's henchman.
