MERCHANTS PROTEST AGAINST DAY LABOR PLAN

CAPTAIN'S WATCH SENT UP BUT NO BODIES FOUND

Diver Evanson After Tailing for an Hour Fathoms Deep This Morning Broke into "Glen Rosa's" Cabin — "Bodies Are Not There" He Says

"The bodies are not in the cabin. I do not think they are anywhere in the boat. They may be somewhere around on the bottom among the piles, and I will make a thorough search there when I go down again."

Diver Ole Evanson, breathless from his trying exertions for fully an hour in ten fathoms of water working on the wreck of the Glen Rosa, jerked out the words this morning as he sat laden with his weight and water logged diving suit.

About ten minutes previously he had sent up from the wreck a light line bearing a bundle. At first as the watchers on the low platform of the wharf pulled on the line they thought from the slow, soft, gliding pull on the line that a body was tied to the end, and with a grim chilly suspense they waited for the appearance of the burden at the surface. But it was only a bundle of clothes.

There were a bed quilt sewed into a sleeping bag, two pairs of men's trousers (one with braces attached), a lad's navy blue jersey, two jackets, one little and one, the other a man's jacket, Captain Taland's waistcoat, and a sack in which were two pairs of new, high, strong boots, one pair for the boy, the other for the father, purchased the night before the disaster.

In the pocket of Captain Taland's waistcoat was found his watch on its leather fob. The hands pointed to just 6 minutes after 2. This is the exact moment of the disaster. Ed. Norman, who saw the boat careening over, made it 5 minutes past 2 a. m.

The boy's Ingersoll watch had stopped earlier in the night. During the full hour in which Diver Evanson was under water today he worked vigorously with his axe and fragments of wood rose to the surface. All the time he was down the diving suit, in spite of repairs, was leaking, but Ole stayed with the job.

"I will try and make another descent today," said Ole, "in order to fix at least one of the slings around the hull so that the wreck can be raised as soon as possible, but I must get warm and dry first."

Captain Babington's big derrick scow is in attendance to effect the raising of the wreck when slings are fixed by the diver.

LETTING MATTERS DRIFT

Committee Chairmen and Clerk to Do Purchasing for the Present.

A number of bills were ordered paid by the Council Wednesday afternoon in the course of the discussion on which Mayor Newton observed that he supposed they must let matters drift and have the chairmen of the several committees, with the assistance of the City Clerk, see to the purchasing until a regular purchasing system could be decided upon and brought into effect. This was agreed to.

WORK ON HYDRO-ELECTRIC

This afternoon a petition to the Council is being presented by ratepayers for signature protesting against any change being made in the plans for carrying out the work of the hydro-electric system so far as labor is concerned. When this matter was voted upon the people were promised that the work should be done by partly day labor and partly by station work. There having been some discussion in the new Council favoring the work being done by day labor entirely, the petition requests that the new Council carry out the promises of their predecessors. It is the result of a meeting of business men held yesterday.

G.T.P. IS READY TO SPEND UP TO TWENTY MILLIONS

E. J. Chamberlin, General Manager, Announces Tremendous Activity for 1912—As Many Men as Can be Got Will Rush Construction in the West

(Canadian Press Despatch.) Winnipeg, Jan. 26.—Twenty million dollars is what the Grand Trunk Pacific will spend in Western Canada on its main and branch lines, hotels and terminals, according to the general manager, E. J. Chamberlin, just returned from Montreal, where he has conferred with President Hays. The money is available and the only proviso is whether the company can get sufficient men.

A thousand men were employed on the western part of the main line this season, and this number will be greatly increased if possible. Complete 1,000 Miles.

The G. T. P. expects, before the end of 1912, to complete laying steel on over a thousand miles of new line, including 802 miles of branch lines. Work on the main line is to be rushed. From Prince Rupert east 135 miles are graded. Work on this section has been delayed, owing to the heavy tunneling, but Mr. Chamberlin has just received a wire from Chief Engineer Keliher saying that the tunnels were completed. This means that 185 miles of steel will be laid east from Prince Rupert by the end of the year, while steel will be laid on 130 miles of the east end of the mountain section. A gap of but 145 miles will thus be left, contracts for which will be finished by the end of 1912, opening the road clear through to the Pacific.

Three Branches to Calgary.

Turning to branch lines, the company expects to lay steel on all of the following by the end of the year. Most of them being already graded in whole or part:

Regina, south, 143 miles; Regina to Moose Jaw, 56½ miles; Moose Jaw in a northwesterly direction, 57 3-5 miles; Prince Albert branch, 51 miles; Battleford branch, 57 miles; Biggar to Calgary, 117 miles, 60 per cent. graded and 40 per cent. partly graded; Tofteld to Calgary, 94 miles; Hart to Brandon, 20 miles; Cutknife branch, 50 miles; Brazeau branch, 23 miles; Calgary to Lethbridge, 150 miles (contract to be let shortly).

The company, said Mr. Chamberlin, has been held up in laying steel by the failure of Nova Scotia and Sault Ste. Marie rail mills to deliver their orders, these two mills being eighteen thousand tons short of their orders for 1911.

Big Hotel for Regina.

Possibly Regina gets the lion's share, for in addition to the several branch lines the capital of Saskatchewan will see work started in the spring on a 150-room hotel, the construction of which will cost $75,000. The site has not yet been bought. The G. T. P. will also begin work on a $100,000 station and will shortly run a through service between Regina and Winnipeg.

Plans are compiled for the Edmonton hotel and work will start as soon as the city has signed up the agreement.

On June 1, a summer service between Winnipeg and Fort William will be started, connecting with the lake boats.

April 1, the G. T. P. will receive delivery of an immense amount of construction machinery and equipment. The general manager looks for a record year.

BURNS' ANNIVERSARY BANQUET

Scots Wha' Ha' Wi' Rupert Staid Foregather With the Haggis at the Premier Hotel Last Night

HIGH TRIBUTE TO OUR SCHOOL SYSTEM

There Were Speeches Both Witty and Wise, the Skirl of the Pipes and Songs Beloved by Brither Scots Wherever They Gathered on the Night Sacred to the Memory of Scotia's Bard

Banquets there have been in Prince Rupert from the earliest pioneer days, and wonderful banquets they were, as many and many an old-timer will tell you. But each succeeding banquet in excellence and in number of guests seems to have outdistanced its predecessor. Latest on the list is last night's Burns' Birthday banquet, given in the Premier Hotel, the scene of many old-time banquets, under the auspices of the thriving Saint Andrew's Society of Prince Rupert.

There was a large attendance. The long tables were lined with representatives of the Land o' Cakes, and their good Canadian friends. At the head of the board sat President M. J. McNeill of the St. Andrew's Society, supported by the treasurer, Mr. D. C. Stuart, in all the glory of the national garb, and near by the chaplain, Rev. F. W. Kerr, Director Malcolm McLeod and Physician N. M. McNeill, while all along the board might be seen the faces of such popular officers of the St. Andrew's Society as J. H. Kelly, A. M. Manson, W. G. Dennis, P. Black and Piper R. McLellan and others. The absence through indisposition of Hon. President G. W. Kerr and Secretary S. D. MacDonald was much regretted.

Prominent men of Prince Rupert, from the Mayor down, were present, as will be seen from the toast list, and the very best of talent was displayed in song and recitation, the recital by "Scottie" Dennis of "To a Haggis" and "Tam o' Shanter" fairly charming the assembly. Amongst the singers J. E. Davis, whose fine tenor voice is well known, was repeatedly encored even against the appeal of the chairman to refrain from encores owing to the length of the toast list. All others contributing songs earned intense appreciation and the work of Mr. Alex. Gray, as accompanist, was excellent.

RABBIE BURNS.

Beyond doubt the most striking feature of the banquet was the homage to the Haggis—"Great Chieftain o' the Puddin' race." Ushered in with the skirl of the pipes, the mighty "chieftain" was greeted with rapt ad-recital of the leading toast of the evening was appreciated to the full, and the toast drunk in becoming silence.

F. Stork's proposal of "Bonnie Scotland" with his brightly brought-in references to the name of the Black Douglas, whose "might" and "state" were features of Scottish history, and to the flask he purchased in Edinburgh as a gift for the parson, was immense. J. H. Kelly's reply on famous Scots and Scots in Canada was in more serious vein and excellent. W. E. Williams proposed "The Lassies" in witty manner, and Malcolm McLeod responded well. H. F. McRae's speech to the toast "Canada," with the lusty singing of "The Maple Leaf," stood out splendidly. Rev. F. W. Kerr and Tom Dunn in replying with apt local references delighted their hearers. "Our Province," well proposed by the ever popular Jack Beatty and responded to by Rev. W. H. McLeod and F. H. Mobley, drew's Society as J. H. Kelly, A. M. Manson, W. G. Dennis, P. Black and Piper R. McLellan and others. The absence through indisposition of Hon. President G. W. Kerr and Secretary S. D. MacDonald was much regretted.

Prominent men of Prince Rupert, from the Mayor down, were present, as will be seen from the toast list, and the very best of talent was displayed in song and recitation, the recital by "Scottie" Dennis of "To a Haggis" and "Tam o' Shanter" fairly charming the assembly. Amongst the singers J. E. Davis, whose fine tenor voice is well known, was repeatedly encored even against each with vigor and interest, was worthily received. In proposing "Our City," Mr. Thomas McClymont quietly and acceptably paid high tribute to Prince Rupert's splendid stand from the first for the maintenance of a school system worthy a city with such a future, and such present real growth. His advice to the Council present and councils coming to "keep out slums" was apt. "Keep out politics," he said, too, and everybody cheered. Mayor and Aldermen replied, the Mayor grateful for the young life blood of Scotland pouring richly

CHURCHILL FEARS NO IRISH RIOT

In Deference to Unionists He Says Great Meeting Should Not Be Held in Ulster Hall—Will Speak All the Same.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Jan. 27.—The danger of riots at or the siege of Ulster Hall, Belfast, on the night of February 8th seems to be lessened tonight when Mr. Winston Churchill in a letter addressed to Lord Londonderry, the leader of the Ulster Unionists, has expressed the feeling that the Ulster Liberals should be advised not to hold the proposed meeting in the Ulster Hall.

"But," continues Churchill, "I cannot draw back from exercising the elementary right of citizenship, and on the evening of February 8th I shall address a meeting in some other hall in Belfast."

PUBLIC WEIGHING MACHINE

Scales Have Been Installed and Are Now Ready for Business.

A report was read at the Council Wednesday afternoon that the weighing machine had arrived and had been duly installed. A discussion took place as to the appointment of a weigher, Alderman Morrissey pointing out that the installation had been made in a back street inconvenient to the people and he did not think there would be sufficient business to pay a man a salary.

Alderman Douglas said there was a man unable to do much else who would accept the job on a commission basis. On the motion of Alderman Montgomery the matter was referred to the Board of Works for consideration and report.

TAKING THE FINAL VOTE ON CHURCH UNION.

The time is at hand, points out the Vancouver News-Advertiser, for the laymen of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregationalist churches of Canada to deal with the question of church union. Assemblies, conferences, unions, the church press, the clergy, the elders, the delegates have all had their opportunity. Now the question is going to the court of last resort. It is referred to the church members by congregations, and the whole popular vote will be recorded. During the next three months all the members and adherents of the three churches concerned will be supposed to have considered the question and studied the basis of union. Representative gatherings of Congregationalists have by a large majority accepted the basis. It has been approved by large majorities in every Methodist annual conference. The Presbyteries by a majority of more than three to one have recommended union. It should be ascertained before this year is out how far these representative gatherings really represent the mind of the bodies to which they belong.

The congregations of Prince Rupert might do well to take up this subject at an early date. Full discussions of the subject would be of more than passing interest and of a certain educational value from a theological standpoint. In two of the local pulpits, the Methodist church and the Presbyterian church, the proposed church union will be the text on Sunday morning.

GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC FINANCES.

In yesterday's Empire appeared an editorial suggesting that the reason the Grand Trunk Pacific was not prosecuting its proposed new undertakings in this city, in accordance with the promises made at the time the citizens were asked to ratify the assessment agreement, was probably a matter of finance. In order to show that this railway company is short of funds a dispatch from Ottawa is appended showing that the railway is seeking legislation empowering it to issue additional debentures. But it seems to us there is room for an erroneous impression to be conveyed because of the fact that there are two Grand Trunk railway corporations, one known as the Grand Trunk and the other as the Grand Trunk Pacific. Perhaps both are applying for powers to raise further capital by the sale of debenture bonds, or perhaps it is only one of the two. We are inclined to the latter opinion because The News has also a brief dispatch from Ottawa, in which the Grand Trunk, and not the Grand Trunk Pacific, is seeking powers to raise capital. It is a press despatch and quotes from a notice in the official Canadian Gazette. As everything affecting the railway is of the deepest interest to all our readers, we append the two dispatches and leave the reader to draw his own conclusion.

THE EMPIRE.

"It is learned through official channels that the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway will seek legislation at the present session empowering the company to issue additional debenture stock, perpetual or terminal, up to a total of five million pounds. This means that, following the change of government, the Grand Trunk Pacific is being called upon to do its own financing, without throwing additional burdens upon the country. The company needs an additional fifteen millions to complete its railway, purchase rolling stock, construct branch lines, etc. Mr. Hays and his associates preferred to get the money by way of a government loan, as they got ten millions three years ago, but, this being apparently impossible, the company finds the further issue of debenture stock necessary."

THE NEWS.

"Notice has appeared in the Canadian Gazette that the Grand Trunk is applying for legislation to deal in securities of the Grand Trunk Western Railway Company up to thirty million dollars, and also to aid by a loan and guarantee act any company now or hereinafter incorporated and controlled by the Grand Trunk or the Grand Trunk Pacific. "For these purposes permission is asked to issue further Grand Trunk consolidated debenture stock at 4 per cent. interest."

HOW IS THIS FOR A KNOCK

Extract from an Article by "The Listener," One of the Editorial Staff of the Vancouver News-Advertiser, in Sunday's Issue.

When Bill Miner was in the beautiful Similkameen he made himself beloved, came and went and worked with the best, particularly distinguished himself by helping in a church bazaar. What it his bad angel had suddenly transported him to Vancouver in a time of snow like that which has ushered in the recent outages? What if he had trudged about for work in weak boots and scanty clothing while every crossing was clogged with mire or choked with several inches of snow, slush, or water? What if he had slipped and stumbled all day upon glassy pavements and evil-smelling hummocks of last week's trodden snow? What if he had shivered at corners while the snowbound car service kept him waiting for the means of returning from his long fruitless search for work to his miserable lodging?

What if his 10-cent meal had been snatched upon muddy floors, amid the sickening odors of sodden boots—and all these physical depressions and disgusts had filled his mind with the not unreasonable conviction that he had come to a city of don't-care, a slough of fat sheep who lavished thousands upon costly electric fighting while they wallowed in mud up to the knees?

What if he then observed that while the few main streets flaunted not less than six lights to each inhabited house, the rest of the big city, especially in the streets immediately adjoining these galaxies of costly illumination, were plunged all night in a forlorn and tempting twilight? What if he learned that some of the wealthier cattle left garages unlocked at night—that if a criminal got away with his booty on a borrowed motor car a few miles only so as to pass the city limits he was comparatively safe (owing to complicated disarrangements between the municipal and the provincial police spheres) from the pursuit of constables?

What if he had never heard of the existence of Mr. Cornwall, who alone of our citizens is on record as having stood up to and tackled (January 3, 1911) an armed footpad?

Would not Bill Miner's best self be quenched, and the bad man in him be tempted, irritated, precipitated almost into crime of the precise kind which in a brave, well-balanced, tidy and strenuously beautiful city dies down from the mere absence of disorderly and ugly suggestion, due to environment?

DRAMA OF THE BALKAN EMPRESS

Story of the Interesting Play Which the Servian Society Is to Stage on Saturday Founded on Real History.

All who are interested in the way the great Dominion of Canada absorbs, develops and converts into happy Canadians the people of other lands will be interested in the great dramatic show to be staged in Prince Rupert by the Montenegrin citizens on Saturday. "The Drama of the Balkan Empress" is a tragedy of the real history of the Montenegrin's land, and the story it tells is an intense and interesting chapter of love, treason and warfare not unlike our own "Hamlet."

Briefly this is the plot: Stanko, youngest son of Evan, Prince of Montenegro, loves Danice, daughter of a powerful leader, Perun. There is war between Turkey and Montenegro, and Stanko is a traitor to his land. Bribed by Ebrahim Ago, a Turkish emissary, he is about to join the Turks to make war on his father and brother George. George taunts Stanko, saying that he is going to marry Danice. Stanko upbraids Danice, believing her faithless to him. Dean upbraids Stanko for going over to the Turks, and Stanko stabs him. Danice declares that whoever kills Stanko shall have her for bride. Stanko's father is in ignorance of his younger son's treason, but Stanko's servant, Evo, to save his land misdelivers a letter from Stanko to Ebrahim Ago into the father's hands. George takes the field against the Turks. There is a great battle. Danice and her nurse search the battlefield and, finding Stanko amongst the wounded, Danice tries to kill him. He is saved by a servant, but Danice in despair drowns herself. The play ends with George giving thanks for victory over the Turks, though a fortune teller has warned him that his rule will be brief. Stanko escapes alive into Turkey.

Ambitious as the play is, tremendous trouble has been taken by the Montenegrins to rehearse and prepare it for the stage, and Saturday night's performance in the Empress Theatre will certainly be intensely interesting.

80 PER CENT. DIVIDEND Would Make You Run, Wouldn't It?

It's just as important to get good returns from your gun as it is from your cash, and you get both when you invest in a GREENER GUN. No other gun in the world can equal the greener for regularity and closeness of pattern, combined with striking force. The Greener was the first perfected choke bore and the system of boring, with which it won the Great London Field gun trials of 1875, etc., is still the best today, and, in fact, the only one guaranteeing a pattern of 80 per cent. of the charge in a 30-inch circle at 40 yards. This means hard hitting as well, and is but one of the many features covered by the Greener Guarantee. It's worth thinking and acting upon. Send for catalog, mailed free. It will be sure to interest you.
