TRACKS MISSING OFFICER FOLLOWED 3 MILES AND ARE LOST

Search Is Now Being Concentrated on West Side of Divide on Mountainous Princess Royal Island

Foot tracks of the missing officer having been traced a distance of some three miles out of Surf Inlet whereupon they were lost, provincial police, game wardens and airplane, under direction of Staff Sergeant Ernest Gammon, today continued the search for Constable Clifford Prescott of the British Columbia police, stationed at Butedale, 100 miles south of Prince Rupert, who has been missing since Monday afternoon when he left Surf Inlet to cross fifteen miles overland across rugged Princess Royal Island to Butedale, failing to reach his destination.

According to announcement at divisional headquarters of the provincial police here at noon today, searchers picked up Prescott's tracks out of Surf Inlet and followed them about three miles to a point one mile past Paradise Lake where they became lost. The footprints suddenly stopped in the old blazed trail about half a mile west of the divide in high mountains of the island. Now the search is being concentrated in that area. Yesterday a Canadian Airways seaplane piloted by Gordon Ballantyne started searching from Butedale but was hampered by poor visibility. Today flying conditions are favorable and the plane is out again.

Fred Nash B.C.L.S. of Terrace, who last fall was over the little-used trail which Prescott intended to follow, has volunteered to assist in the search and will arrive here tonight from Terrace enroute to Princess Royal Island. The P.M.L.S. local police boat, will take him immediately to the scene of the search.

KING IS HOPEFUL

His Majesty Says Human Feeling Is Still Most Potent Of All World's Forces

LONDON, June 24: (CP)—King George told a distinguished audience at the city of London's welcoming home luncheon yesterday that he hoped the royal tour might "be of some importance in its influence on the Empire's future destiny."

His Majesty said that the deepest impression of the tour was "that even in this age of machine's mass production, human feeling was still the most potent of all forces affecting world affairs."

The King said that it was his desire to serve the ideals of the Commonwealth which had led him to undertake the journey.

The sincerity of the welcome "stirred us profoundly," the King said.

Break Up Fleets Of German Ships

Jewish Owner Was Heavily Fined And Sent To Prison

BERLIN, June 24: (CP)—Dispersal of the fleet of ships of the Jewish Arnold Bernstein Line and the German Red Star Line is about to take place, according to Hamburg reports.

The "Penland" and the "Westerland" of 16,000 tons each, are to be sold to a Belgian shipping company, while the remaining seven vessels, totalling 36,000 tons, are expected to remain in Germany and may be scrapped.

Arnold Bernstein, Jewish owner, was sentenced early last year to two years, six months penal servitude and a fine of 1,000,000 marks, ($410,000) on a charge of having violated currency regulations.

SHIPMENTS OF LUMBER TO BRITAIN

Defence Needs Boosts Timber Market In Old Country

By Stuart Underhill Canadian Press Staff Writer VANCOUVER, June 24: (CP)—Building to house Britain's expanding army and shelter her civilian population in the event of war appears to be keeping open the United Kingdom market to heavy supplies of British Columbia timber.

International uneasiness restricts the trade, but lumber shipments are sharply above last year's and exporters here believe that with housing more or less inactive, 50 percent of the British imports are for government works.

Under this heading come defence projects such as air raid shelters, and trenches, evacuation camps and new barracks, and building required by increased employment in industries affected by the armaments program.

April shipments of British Columbia lumber to the United Kingdom were 77,250,000 feet, bettered only once in the past two years when 82,000,000 feet went in July 1938. Shipments for the first four months of this year totalled 248,000,000 feet compared with 245,000,000 compared with 245,000,000 feet in the same period last year.

Advantage of Wood Lumber experts here are quick to cite the advantages of wood over concrete or steel in the construction of bomb-proof shelters. A wooden shelter in a cellar or otherwise underground could be repaired easily, is more resilient to shock and could be dismantled and put to other uses once the protective need passed. It is also cheaper to erect.

A further need for lumber is seen in a reported defence precaution requiring stocks of timber to be placed near all bridges in order to effect rapid repairs if they are damaged.

Considerable stocks of lumber also are expected to be required by the British government's plan to establish camps to serve as peacetime holiday resorts or country schools and as wartime evacuation settlements.

The initial program calls for 50 camps, capable of holding from 300 to 500 persons and designed for immediate expansion to accommodate as many as 5,000 each. Considerable reserves of lumber would be needed for the possible expansion.

Even the "Grow More Food" campaign designed to make Britain as self-sufficient as possible is expected to benefit the British Columbia timber trade. One of the greatest difficulties in a program of agricultural expansion in England is adequate housing for farm workers.

In addition to the erection of new barracks for the regular and conscript armies, a more normal but still crisis-born demand for timber appears in the north of England where the flow of government armament orders has had the effect of maintaining industrial activity at a high pitch.

Instead of curtailing their orders when Chancellor Hitler precipitated a still unsettled crisis by absorbing Czechoslovakia, British importers continued to buy timber on a gradually strengthening market.

The demand was aggravated by their reverse action in September when suspension of import orders allowed existing stocks in Britain to dwindle rapidly.

Weather Forecast

General Synopsis—Pressure remains high off the British Columbia coast and low over the Rocky Mountain range. Showers have occurred over the southern interior. West Coast of Vancouver Island—Fresh northwest winds, mostly fair and somewhat warmer.

TAKING NO NAVY OF BRITAIN IS FORCE

Great Britain Makes Position Clear To Japan in Regard to Running of Foreign Policy

TIENSIN, China, June 24: (CP)—Terms of liquidation of the Tientsin blockade have been presented to the French and British consuls-general by the puppet provisional government of Peking. The terms are understood to follow closely those previously stated and to represent demand for a complete shift in British Far Eastern policy.

CARDIFF, Wales, June 24: (CP)—Speaking here, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain said he had advised Tokyo that "no British government could submit to dictation from another power as to its foreign policy." The Prime Minister characterized Japanese actions in Tientsin as "high handed and insulting."

NAVY OF BRITAIN IS FORCE

Despite Land and Air Strength, It Provides Balance of Power As in 1914

NEW YORK, June 24: (CP)—Much is heard of huge conscript armies and mighty air forces but despite this, the British Navy maintains its traditional role as one of the paramount forces in European affairs, said Ralph Barnes, New York Herald Tribune correspondent, in a London dispatch to his paper.

Every primary move in a European chancellery today is influenced by the existence of the British fleet, he added. Though Germany and Italy may hold an advantage over the western European democracies in air power, Great Britain and France have geared their industries to give them equality in the air with the axis alliance in the near future, Barnes said.

The dispatch continued "If, in the case it were to come to a fight, Soviet Russia were to prove a sure ally of Britain and France, the combined air power of this triangle would provide a formidable opponent for Germany and Italy. Moreover, Russia's great manpower would be available where most required, the border states of eastern Europe.

"Experience in the Great War proved the danger of attempting to predict developments in a general European conflict.

In Case of Deadlock

"Yet it is conceivable that in the next war it would come to a deadlock on land and in the air. In such a case what would be left?—the British fleet. This conclusion is based on the supposition that roughly the navies of France and Italy would neutralize each other, and that, except for submarines, the small German naval force would be occupied primarily in the Baltic.

"The threat to the British fleet from submarines and airplanes? Experts at the British Admiralty hold that the fleet will be able to cope with the menace and that the fundamental strategy of sea power remains substantially what it has been in the past.

"Be this as it may, every primary move in a European chancellery today is influenced directly or indirectly by the existence of the British fleet. Without the fleet, the alliance would swing so violently in favor of the axis alliance that 'chancellor Adolph Hitler and Premier Benito Mussolini could prepare immediately for a field day of new exploits beyond the present German and Italian frontiers.

As Nelson Said

"Admiral Nelson, the man who prevented Napoleon from bringing Britain to her knees, said that British battleships were the best negotiators." Today, most students of the Great War hold to the view that the strangling effect of the blockade, which British sea power made possible, had a great deal to do with the final decision. Capitulation to blockade is a phrase often used to describe what happened to the Central Powers.

"Sea power should not, of course, be emphasized to the exclusion of other factors. But in studying the European scene of today it is important to note that it is the British fleet which seems to provide the balance as it did in 1914."

BRITISH BUSINESS BETTER

J. M. Keynes, making an economic forecast in the monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada, suggests that the volume of business in Great Britain during the present financial year will exceed that of any other year by a substantial margin. This prophesy is based mainly on the fact that the government proposes to spend at least six hundred and thirty million pounds on the defence budget, of which not less than three hundred and fifty million pounds will be borrowed. This spending is twice as great proportionately as that of the United States under the Roosevelt administration. This will give employment, it is estimated, to approximately a million more people. At present the number of unemployed in Britain is set at a million and a half. While the situation resembles to some extent that in Germany it is with the difference that, while Great Britain can hope to finance the large expenditures, Germany, Italy and Japan cannot hope to do so. In those countries, as a result of investment in war preparations, the standard of living is falling. In Britain the tendency is for it to rise.

IN CANADA TOO

Mr. Keynes says nothing about the situation in Canada but it is certain that the expenditures of large sums of money on defences is bound to absorb a good deal of local labor. It will increase the trade of the country and make it seem more prosperous. It was something that had to be done yet we do not like having to do it. That is one of the penalties of living in this age of militarism. For a few years at any rate it puts off having to undertake any important public works in order to find employment for everybody.

WHY NOT A FLAG

Now that we have a King of Canada why not have a flag of Canada? Some people think it might be looked upon as a disloyal act to choose a flag of our own but no one ever suggested that Australia was disloyal when that country put the Southern Cross on a Union Jack and called it the flag of Australia. No one objected to South Africa having a flag. Canada must have a flag soon, so why not now?

PRINCE RUPERT TAKES OPENER OF KETCHIKAN BASEBALL BY 10 TO 7

Large Crowd of Fans Sees Home Town Win Out in First Game of International Series Which Continues Over Week-End

Bunching their hits for six runs in the second inning and taking advantage of the breaks to add a couple more runs each in the seventh and eighth innings, Prince Rupert took the opening game of the international baseball series from Ketchikan last night by a score of ten to seven. Jack Lindsay, playing a steady game and being accorded consistent support by his field, was the winning pitcher. Harry Ludwigen, the new Ketchikan moundman, whom the locals had little difficulty in finding, gave way to Gay Helland in the eighth but the change made no difference to the outcome. One of the largest crowds that has been seen on the Acropolis Hill grounds in many a day was on hand to witness the game and the interest that was displayed augurs well for the remainder of the series which continues tonight and tomorrow afternoon.

The second inning scoring merry-go-round started when Windle made a safe single which went for three bases as Willis Miller, out in the right field garden, let the ball go through his legs. Bury hit a grounder into left field and scored Windle. Comadina got to first when Ludwigen tossed the pick-up to second for an unsuccessful trap play on Bury between second and third. Lindsay grounded to short and Bury was out at third. Gurvich got to first when Eastham dropped Ludwigen's throw. A lusty two-bagger by Stiles brought in Comadina and Lindsay. Simundsen, who was to prove the hitless wonder of the evening, was out, second to first. Johnson's single scored Gurvich and Stiles. Mitchell singled and Johnson went to second. With Windle up for the second time in the inning, Ludwigen threw the ball away to second and Johnson came safely home but the ball was at the plate before Mitchell arrived.

Ketchikan's big inning was the fourth when the visitors scored four runs as a result of fast work on the bases. McIsaac, the first City's heavy hitting third sacker, was hit by the pitcher. Eastham bunted and Johnson dropped the throw. Bauer fanned and Jones was safe at first on a fielder's choice, McIsaac being safe at the plate on a close call. Continuing squeeze play tactics, Brooks bunted and Eastham was safe for another Ketchikan run. Smith hit safely to right field and scored Jones and Brooks. Ludwigen took a walk but Stedman and Spinder went down to infield flies.

The visitors added another in the fifth. McIsaac singled to left field and stole second while Eastham was up. Eastham was out, second to first. Bauer got first when Lindsay chose to make a bad toss to the plate. McIsaac squeezing in. Jones filed out to centre field and Brooks was down, third to first.

Ketchikan tied up the count at six all in the sixth. Smith cracked out a hot grounder to left field and was safe at first. Ludwigen was out, pitcher to first. Stedman fielded to first. Spinder hit into right field to score Smith. McIsaac was deliberately walked and Eastham filed out to centre field.

Prince Rupert went two ahead in the seventh. Johnson walked. Mitchell bunted out and Johnson was safe at second. Windle's safe hit into deep left field scored Johnson. Bury got to first on a bunt. Comadina was safe on second and Windle scored when Bauer fumbled. Lindsay was out on a nice running catch by Smith.

There were eight grades in the Callow, Washington, grade school and one boy in each grade. To make a ball team, the lads roped in the school marm who scooped up flies on the first bounce at right field.

There's been a White Sox team in Chicago since 1876 when that was the name of the National League entry. When they became the Cubs, Charles Comiskey called his transplanted St. Louis American club the "White Sox" in 1890.

Jopie Waalberg, Holland's holder of world breast stroke records, may swim at Leeds and Sheffield swimming meets this month. She will be pitted against Doris Storey,

Yorkshire holder of the national title. Formerly a racing cyclist, now a London opera basso, Eric Pinze cycles to keep fit. He likes to ride to the Savoy Hotel, rendezvous of limousines, for his lunch. A team of six Argentine golfers has arrived in England to compete in the open championship at St. Andrew's. "Miss I. Greville" was defeated in the Middlesex women's doubles tennis championship match in London the other day. "Miss Greville" is the pseudonym of Princess Maria Christina of Spain.

TWO FILMS FEATURED

"Man To Remember" and "We're Going to Be Rich" At Capitol Theatre

"Man to Remember," drama of the horse and buggy doctor days, and "We're Going to Be Rich," a comedy featuring Victor McLaglen and Gracie Fields, comprises an entertaining double bill at the Capitol Theatre here tonight only.

In "Man to Remember" Edward Ellis is cast as a small town physician, Anne Shirley as his ward and Lee Bowman as his son. The story covers a period of twenty years, starting with the return of the doctor to his native town to start life over anew with his small son after the death of his wife. The career of his personal sacrifice is vividly unfolded while his effect upon the little community which looks upon him as a failure is dramatically depicted. The fighting of an epidemic of infantile paralysis is one of the dramatic highlights of the story, the obscure old practitioner emerging as the hero of the hour. There is also a romantic climax.

"We're Going to Be Rich" has a hitherto unfamiliar section of the world as its locale. That section is Melbourne of the Eighties. The story is that of a ne'er-do-well dreamer and his music hall songstress wife in the boom days. Brian Donlevy heads the supporting cast to McLaglen and Miss Fields, being the third member of the triangle.

TEACHERS HONORED

Presentations Made to Miss Caroline Mitchell and Miss Mary Hartin

At a special meeting of the staff of King Edward School yesterday afternoon, opportunity was taken to make presentations to two of the members of the staff who are leaving.

Miss Mercer, in making a presentation to Miss Caroline Mitchell, referred to the splendid support and loyalty that she had had from her at all times. Her work in the classroom had been of the highest character and her interest in extra-curricular activities had been of the greatest value. It would be very difficult indeed to replace her. She extended the heartiest congratulations of the staff on her approaching marriage and the best of wishes for the future. Miss Mitchell admitted she would miss the happy companionship of the teachers and the association with the pupils very much. She would always have the happiest recollections of these years and she would value the gift all the more for what it stood for.

To Miss Mary Hartin, who leaves for London, England, on exchange for a year, Miss Mercer conveyed the best wishes of the teachers. The idea of exchange of teachers was a progressive move and she was sure Miss Hartin would make the fullest use of it and at the same time be a decided acquisition in the schools in which she would be teaching. Miss Hartin felt rather taken by surprise. She thanked the teachers for their kind remembrance and would think of them often during the year she would be away.

Guests included Mrs. J. S. Wilson, Miss D. Rothwell and Miss D. Priestley.

Fly To Zealand With Own Wings

Southern Dominion's New Bombing Planes To Try Distance Flight

LONDON, June 24: (CP)—Twenty Vickers "Wellesley" long-range bombers, ordered by the New Zealand government, will be flown to the Dominion soon by New Zealand pilots specially trained in England.

Authorities said the machines would be ferried to New Zealand in flights of four, but that no attempt would be made to establish a new distance record.

"They are merely being sent by air instead of being shipped by sea to give the personnel experience," an official said. First of the flights will leave England next month and others will follow as the machines are delivered from the assembly line and tested.

Capt. W. P. Armour sailed last night on the Princess Adelaide for a business trip to Vancouver.

Tonight's train, due from the East at 11 o'clock, was reported this afternoon to be on time.

THREATEN TO SCALP TEACHER

Rev. W. H. Pierce Tells of Seeing Attempt Made on Life of Missionary

It was on a Sunday afternoon and the Indian children of a nearby village were in Sunday school with young William Duncan, later to be known as Father Duncan, as their teacher. Suddenly four men entered the room, flourishing their scalping knives and threatened to cut off Duncan's scalp. They were angry men and it looked serious for the young man.

Duncan was cool and unafraid. He turned to the men and asked them what they wanted.

The natives continued to flourish their scalping knives and said they wanted Duncan to stop ringing that bell, the church bell, which called the children to Sunday School.

Duncan faced the men and told them he could not stop calling the children to Sunday School. The natives liked the courage of the missionary and retired one by one and from that time he carried on the work unmolested. One of the children at the school was Rev. W. H. Pierce who told the story to the Rotary Club at its luncheon Thursday. He offered to show the Rotarians the scalping knives at the museum if they would come there. He would also show them the knife used to scrape the blood from the scalp after it was taken off the human head.

Mr. Pierce told of the coming of the Hudson Bay Company to Port Simpson where they asked the visiting traders if they would agree to keep the laws of the Indians. The visitors promised to do so and were allowed to remain. They traded furs for articles the company brought and there never was any trouble between the natives and the whites in his time.

The natives had their own type of civilization, the missionary said. The Indians here now spent many thousands of dollars in Prince Rupert and he urged that they be given good treatment. Today there were 20,000 Indians going to school every day and they were increasing in numbers each year. He had had to travel 600 miles to go to school and that was why he was educated to be a missionary to follow in the footsteps of Father Duncan.

Epstein's Adam Restarts Storm

Sculptor's Latest Creation Reopens Old Controversy

LONDON, June 24: (CP)—A lot of people are mad at Jacob Epstein again. That's not big news, though, because some people are mad at him most of the time.

Epstein is a 59-year-old American-born Jew of Russian-Polish blood who hammers statues out of huge chunks of various kinds of stone, tags them with provocative names and exhibits them.

Epstein's newest work is "Adam." It's an unusually frank nude male figure of alabaster, six feet high. The head is tilted back, thick legs support the heavy torso and the huge arms bend in with fingers stretched flat on the muscular breast.

The sculptor, who says it's his most important work, explains: "I saw Adam as epitomizing man's appetite and aspirations."

A good many people think he might have been more modest about it.

This isn't the first time Epstein has gone to the Bible. A year and a half ago he finished "Consummation Est" (It is Finished), a huge recumbent Christ, with an Egyptian-like beard. But the people came to see it by the thousands. They did it with his previous Christ (without a beard) a few years ago. That one was called "Ecce Homo!"

LUNAR FLIGHT

LIVERPOOL, June 24: (CP)—A successful ascent to the moon within this century is practical, says Prof. A. W. Low, president of the British Interplanetary Society which is urging the Air Ministry to experiment with rocket ships.

ROYAL ROVER SCOUTS

EDINBURGH, June 24: (CP)—Prince Gustav Adolph of Sweden and Prince Emmanuel of Liechtenstein will be on the stand with the Duke of Gloucester for the march past here of the Third World Rover Meet, convening at Crieff.

Mr. Pierce told of the large number of visitors who attended his talks at the Prince Rupert Museum. He mentioned how they appreciated what they saw and heard and he strongly urged the need of a new museum building in the city. As it was, only fifty could be admitted to the building at one time. When they went out another group came in.

Salmon Canning Season to Get Under Way Tomorrow Evening—Halibut Landings Average During Past Week

With no expectations of anything exceptional in the way of a run this year but with everything in readiness for an orderly and uninterrupted season's production, salmon canning will get under way in Prince Rupert district on Sunday evening with the opening of the season for fishing with sockeye gillnets. Market conditions are favorable at least for the better grades of fish and prices for sockeye to the fishermen have been agreed upon at 48 1/2c, an increase of one cent over last year. The number of gillnet licences taken out this season is about normal.

The canneries operating in the district this season will be as follows:

- Naas River—Arrandale and Wales Island.
- Skeena River—Inverness, North Pacific, Sunnyside, Cassiar, Carlisle and Claxton.
- Butedale—Butedale and Klemtu.
- Bella Bella—Namu.
- Smith's Inlet—Margaret Bay.
- Rivers Inlet—Beaver, Provincial, Goose Bay, Wadham's and Good Hope.
- Queen Charlotte Islands—Pacofi and Lagoon Bay.

Halibut landings at Prince Rupert during the week up to and including yesterday were of about average volume at a total of 527,900 pounds of which 214,700 pounds was from Canadian vessels and 313,200 pounds from American. Prices continued steady and little changed from the level at which they had been running for some time. The high price of the week for Canadian fish was 7.3c and 5c paid the Thrasher for 3,000 pounds and the low 6.2c and 5c received by the R.W. for 6,000 pounds. For American fish the high price of the week was 8c and 5.5c paid the Esther, Howard B. Lorelei and Tordenskjold for catches of 18,000, 10,700, 14,500 and 39,000 pounds respectively. The low American price was 7.3c and 5.5c which the Nordic was paid for 13,000 pounds. The grand total of halibut landings at Prince Rupert for the season up to and including yesterday was 6,921,000 pounds including 3,074,000 pounds from Canadian vessels and 3,847,000 pounds from American. This compared with a total for last season at a corresponding date of 5,612,150 pounds consisting of 2,812,650 pounds from Canadian vessels and 2,799,500 pounds from American.

C.P.R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. William Hughes, arrived in port at 6 o'clock last evening from the south and sailed at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and way-points.

With a fair-sized list of passengers, C.N.R. steamer Prince George, Capt. James Watt, arrived in port at 9:30 yesterday morning from Vancouver, Powell River and Ocean Falls and sailed at 3 p.m. for Anyox and Stewart whence she is due back here this evening southbound.

New Fishermen's Floats

Following the receipt in Prince Rupert this week of plans for projected new fishermen's floats at the port to augment those already in existence on the waterfront just east of the dry dock, there has been considerable discussion as to just where the site will be. Evidently this matter has not yet been definitely decided upon. One proposed site is at Fairview Point, some distance west of the present town-site. Another is just west of the elevator off Westview. It is also suggested that it might be possible to put in the proposed new floats in the vicinity of the present ones. At least one thing seems to be definite and that is that Seal Cove cannot now be used on account of the site there being taken up for air base development. The estimate of cost of the floats is now placed at $46,000.

The big British sailing yacht Fantome, with owner, Hon. A. E. Guinness, and party on board, was back in the harbor yesterday afternoon after a cruise of Alaska waters as far north as Glacier Bay, stops having also been made at Ketchikan, Juneau and other Alaska points. The Fantome left this morning for Wark and Portland Canal waters. Next week she will be heading south again. Mr. Guinness and other members of the party expressed pleasure at the keen delight of their cruise, especially the scenery. Capt. W. W. Mounce, having stopped over at Ketchikan while the Fantome was cruising north of there in Alaska waters, is again aboard as pilot. Capt. W. J. Moore, who piloted the vessel in the north, left the ship here and sailed by the Princess Adelaide last night on his return to Vancouver.

CANADA HER OWN BEST CUSTOMER

for Canadian farm products in the natural state as all other countries combined.

"In the fiscal year ended March, 1938, Canadian export trade consisted of 40.2 percent full manufactured goods, 33.2 percent semi-manufactured goods and only 26.2 percent other products," Mr. Black emphasized. "In effect the world was saying to Canada: '73 per cent of your exports to us are to be fully manufactured or partly manufactured products.'"

The president reviewed briefly the Canada-United States trade agreement, the possibility of increasing employment in the field of manufacturing, particularly through establishment or expansion of secondary industries, and the growth of taxation.

Stating that a special committee of the association had been set up during the year to deal with the question of national defence and that the services of the association had been offered to the government, Mr. Black, in order that there should be no misapprehension as to the views of the association, quoted the following statement which had been approved by the executive council:

"It would be unfortunate, if in offering our services, the impression were created that we consider war manufacturing beneficial to industry in the long run. Such is not the case. Just as Canada would be much better off if there was no war, so would Canadian industry experience a more lasting and healthy prosperity in following peace time manufacturing."

"When such items as the shrinkage of export markets, the displacement of normal procedure, the breaking up of staffs of employees, labor troubles, the accumulation of useless machinery and obsolete plants, the increase of taxes and the inevitable following depression are considered, they far outweigh any temporary and artificial benefits which might be obtained by the industrial system from Canada's participation in war."

Peace Preparedness

In spite of such considerations Mr. Black continued: "We have to face the stark reality that, if we are attacked by countries using existing weapons and methods we will go down to destruction unless we are prepared and able to resist and we will lose, not only our material possessions but also, what is more important, our lives and liberties as well. It must be realized that Canada is in a far more vulnerable position than she was in the Great War."

Pointing out the predominant role which industry played in modern warfare, Mr. Black said that, acting on the belief, along with other countries, that there would be no more great wars, at least for several generations, Canada had neglected its defences with the result that today the country was "woefully behind in preparation, lamentably undermanned in personnel and deficient in equipment for defence." Some progress had been made during the last two years in the face of great difficulties but, after 18 years of indifference and neglect, much remained to be done and the national program should be extended and pressed forward with all possible haste.

Mr. Black emphasized the importance of experimental work. It was not possible to shift quickly from peace time to war time production and many months were necessary for the tooling up of factories, the preparation of specifications and the securing of special new machinery.

Another point emphasized by Mr. Black was that, in the event of war, Canadians would have to depend on themselves to a greater extent for their supplies of defence materials. Hitherto, reliance had been placed largely on Great Britain.

Trade Agreement Commenting on the Canada-United States trade agreement Mr. Black said official trade figures appeared to indicate that, even after the conclusion of the pact, United States tariff rates against Canadian products remained sufficiently high to prevent increased imports from Canada except during relatively prosperous years such as 1936 and 1937.

"On the other hand," Mr. Black added, "the fact that Canadian imports from the United States remained at a level well below the pre-agreement year of 1935 despite the recession in business in 1938 over 1937, appears to indicate the tariff reductions granted by Canada to the United States were so important and reduced Canadian tariff rates to such a low level that importations into Canada could be maintained, even during the period of relative business depression."

The most effective method of increasing the national income, in the opinion of Mr. Black, was to manufacture as much as possible of the raw materials of the farms, mines, forests and fisheries in Canada with the help of Canadian workers, supply the Canadian demands from Canadian sources and export the surplus to the greatest possible extent in the form of finished or partly finished products.

Turning to the subject of taxation, Mr. Black quoted figures to show that 21.7 cents out of every 100 cents received by all the people of Canada was being taken away from them in taxes. In spite of these enormous taxes, governments were not paying their way and were going more heavily into debt each year.

"If taxes continue to grow," asked Mr. Black, "how is industry going to save sufficient money to accumulate reserves to replace buildings and machinery, to buy new equipment, to finance experimental work, to search for new markets and to carry it over the inevitable dull periods? How is industry going to hold or increase our exports, with continually rising taxation and resulting increased costs, against severe competition with countries with low taxation and low standards of income and living? If industry is to bear the double burden of maintaining and providing new employment and also of providing the sources of such a large proportion of all taxes is it not reasonable to ask for fair treatment for industry?"

If industry is to bear the double burden of maintaining and providing new employment and also of providing the sources of such a large proportion of all taxes is it not reasonable to ask for fair treatment for industry?"

On Saturday afternoon last the pupils of Knox United Sunday School held their annual picnic and enjoyed races and various sports events, afterwards partaking of a hearty lunch provided by the teachers.

On Sunday evening a goodly number attended Knox United Church to hear the report of the church conference in New Westminster given by R. W. Riley, lay delegate. ## NEW AND BETTER COLD CURED ICE

For the Halibut and Salmon Fleets

Following the investigations of the Fisheries Research Station, the Company has just completed extensive changes and improvements in ice storage and ice delivery methods.

Ice for the boats will all be old ice, thoroughly cured or aged at new low temperatures. It will be delivered into the hold, even in the hottest weather, as cold as the storage room.

Fishermen are invited to inspect the new system. Better ice than ever before, at no increase in cost, means economy to the boat and improved quality in fish delivery.
