GAS PRICE FOR NORTH

In Prince Rupert It Will Be 21c Wholesale and 26c Retail—One Cent Higher On Islands

VICTORIA, August 2: (CP)—Under the new cut in gasoline prices as announced yesterday by the provincial government, effective next Monday, Prince Rupert comes in Zone Three including part of the mainland and the north end of Vancouver Island above Qualicum. The wholesale price there will be 21c per gallon, making a retail price of 26c when taking into account the 5c price spread limit.

Zone Six will include the Hope area and Skidegate, Massett and Arrandale where the wholesale price will be 22c.

In Kamloops the retail price will be 24c and Revelstoke, 25c. Basic wholesale prices range from 19c to 30c and retail prices from 24c to 36c according to location in the province.

Wholesale prices are calculated on delivery costs from the nearest distributing centre.

The provincial government anticipates no difficulty on this occasion in fixing gasoline prices in view of its powers to do so having been upheld last fall by the British Columbia Court of Appeal.

Dr. W. O. Carrothers, chairman of the fuel and petroleum board, announced the new prices.

In Vancouver T. E. H. Ellis, counsel for a group of oil companies, announced today that application will be made before Chief Justice Archer Martin in Victoria Friday for continuation of the injunction restraining the government from enforcing a gasoline price reduction.

PROPAGANDA

Practically every country is engaged today in a certain amount of propaganda. Germany is advertising her tourist attractions through the department handling the state railways and is sending out propaganda in many other ways. Japan is putting out newspaper and other propaganda. Italy is also sending out "information" which is largely propaganda. "Italy Today" tells about the method of government which has been adopted by that country and which is now in force. Under it all problems of production and distribution are regulated by the government through the corporations. Producers are brought within the framework of the state, steering a middle course between the unbridled individualism of the nineteenth century and the "deadening bureaucracy of the collectivist state." Social peace is the aim as well as more and better production. Disputes between capital and labor are settled by due process of law just as are disputes between individuals. That is certainly a step ahead of our system under which groups of individuals take the law into their own hands and so do employers and the outcome is a question of strength and not necessarily right.

Under the new Italian system the labor unions are under government control. Agreements made by them are binding contracts, binding on both sides, machinery being provided for conciliation should disputes arise. The unions are known as "Syndical Associations." These associations devote attention to educational as well as welfare work. They regulate vocational training and the conditions of apprenticeship in each trade, contribute to the relief of unemployment and also organize labor exchanges.

The corporations also co-ordinate and rationalize production. Private enterprise is shown how it can best work for its own and the common good. A representative of each corporation is chosen by the corporation to sit with other governmental bodies.

It will be very interesting to those who study things to watch the development of this new form of administration in Italy. If it proves a success over a term of years it will undoubtedly spread to many other countries. In that country it must be remembered that all governmental activities are regulated from above, just as they are in Russia. In both countries the systems look all right on paper but they are not yet what they would seem to be. According to reports that come through from visitors, strong compulsion is brought to bear from above in both Italy and Russia and it will probably be many years before anything like automatic operation of the system takes place.

NEW CHAMP COMING UP

JASPER PARK, August 2:—There will be a new champion at the Totem Pole Golf Tournament this year. This was learned today when word came from Edmonton that Lyle Hoar of the Mayfair Golf and Country Club, who won the trophy last season, found it would be impossible for him to get away to compete this year. Hoar won the famous trophy in the 36-hole final by defeating Bobby Hejdrink of Minneapolis.

The absence of Hoar as defending champion throws the competition wide open for the crowning of a new champion which ceremony will be performed on the afternoon of September 9 on the lawn in front of the Lodge. It is a time honored custom for the Lieutenant Governor of Alberta to conduct this ceremony and present the prizes. Hon. C. J. Bowen has announced that he will be on hand again this year.

Manager Robert Sommerville reports that entries are coming in steadily and close to one hundred already have been made. This promises another fine tournament with keen competition in every flight.

Much interest has been shown in the new Jasper seniors' event which takes place on Thursday afternoon of golf week. This is divided into two classes, "A" for 55 to 59 years of age and "B" for 60 years and over.

This is the first year the seniors have been given an event of their own in this outstanding tournament.

Westview Wins Over McClymont

Defeated McClymont Park By Score Of 6 To 4 Last Night

The senior boys' game in the Gyro playgrounds softball league last night saw Westview emerge victorious again. This time the victory of the West Enders was at the expense of McClymont Park which went down fighting by a score of 6 to 4.

Both teams scored three runs in the first inning and Keays of McClymont scored in the second on a hit and three consecutive errors to put his team one up.

From here until the fifth inning both teams played good ball. A few errors, due to the slippery condition of the diamond, were committed but none of them proved costly.

In their half of the fifth, Westview boys started to get to the slants of Simundson on the mound for McClymont. Husoy struck out but Mah followed with a sharp single and then took second on Blackhall's infield out, stole third and came home with the tying run on McNab's double. Brown hit safely but died on second when Simundson whiffed out Grimsson.

Westview tightened up in the field and held the opponents scoreless in the next three innings while pushing over two more runs in its half of the seventh inning on two hits and two errors.

Both teams played good ball throughout and, given a dry field and a few breaks, McClymont might easily have reversed the final decision.

In an excellently contested game which held the high interest of the fans, Velvet won over Pioneer Laundry by a score of 3 to 2. It was the second fixture of the Gilhuly Cup football series in the opener of which last Friday Velvet had defeated Navy. Thus they are two clear wins up on the fourth trophy to be competed for this year.

Velvet scored two goals in the first half while Pioneer was unable to connect. The Laundry, however, made a couple in the second to equalize and it was a nip and tuck contest until the dying moments when Jack Ritchie snared a fast one from close in which gave Ted Smith no chance.

Allan Smith and Bob Houston, the scorers for Pioneer, played a nice combination game. Casey Vink was good in goal for Velvet, making one particularly fine save off Nick Pavlikis' long drive in the first half. Scorers for Velvet were Jack Ritchie, two, and Baker.

Barely five minutes from the commencement of play Ritchie headed the ball past Smith, from a pass from Cameron, to put Velvet one up. Velvet again pressed and Baker converted on another pass from Cameron to pile up a two goal lead for Velvet. From that point on, however, to the end of the first half there were no further goals although the play still maintained its fast pace with the two teams alternately pressing but unable to score.

The second half began with the Laundry pressing steadily and, after some play around the Velvet goal, Smith beat Vink with a well placed shot to score the Laundry's first counter. Right from the centre off the Laundry continued to press and Houston finally scored from a play started by Sam Currie. The game was now tied up at a two all draw. However, Velvet regained control of the ball and Ritchie scored from close in thus putting Velvet in the lead again. In the closing moments of the game the Laundry strove to equalize but was unable to do so and the game ended with Velvet winning a closely fought out match by three goals to two.

Pete Doherty was referee.

John and Neil O'Brien, of Nova Scotia Reunited

PICTOU, N.S., Aug. 2: (CP)—John O'Brien was 18 years the last time he saw his brother Neil O'Brien. That was 43 years ago just before he left for Newfoundland to join a ship.

Unaware his brother was an employee of the Canadian National Railways here, John arrived in Pictou as chief officer of the Newfoundland government ship Beothic. Port officers discovered the relationship and the brothers were "introduced" to each other.

MANY FINE DOLLS SEEN

Judging Winners of Gyro Playground Contest Was Difficult

The finals of the Gyro playground doll contest was a colorful affair in the gymnasium building on Tuesday afternoon. Decision in all four divisions of the contest were close with the judges experiencing particular difficulty in the best dressed section.

Although not a prize winner the baby doll of Doreen Paul, dressed in a yellow knitted suit, deserved special mention.

After inspecting all entries, consensus of opinion of the judges seemed to be that it was unfortunate that all the dolls could not be prize winners.

The winners were:
Best Dressed Doll—First, Irene Hanson, (McClymont). Second, Sylvia Holkstead (McClymont). Third, Rose Marie Hartwig (Westview).

Largest—First, Hjoridis Sorensen, (Acropolis); second, Joan Adcock (Seal Cove).

Smallest—First, Mary Petersen (Seal Cove); second, June Berg (McClymont).

Most Original—First, Barbara Eastman (Seal Cove); second, Rena Ingram (Acropolis); third, Lillian Knutson (McClymont).

Judges for the event were Mrs. Croft Brook and Mrs. T. A. McWaters.

Following the judging of the dolls there was a short entertainment provided by the children themselves. The program was as follows:

Song, "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie," Lois Thompson, age eight, and Lorraine Youngman, age seven.

Song, "The West, a Nest and You" Norma Letnes.

Tap dance and recitation, Lorraine Youngman.

Song, "Cry Baby Cry," Lois Thompson and Lorraine Youngman.

Miss Netta McLeod sailed at the end of the week for a vacation trip to Vancouver.

Staff Sergeant Ernest Gammon sailed last evening on the Catala for a trip to the Namu district on official duties.

Dr. Neal Carter, director of the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station, returned to the city on the Prince Rupert this morning from a business trip to Vancouver, Victoria and Nanaimo.

P. Cravetto arrived home last night after a two weeks' holiday during which he went as far west as Calgary. He says he was keenly interested in the Turner Valley oil field which he considers a wonderful sight.

Mr. and Mrs. William Lambie returned home on the Prince Rupert this morning following a month's honeymoon trip as far south as California. The bride was formerly Miss Caroline Mitchell. They are taking up residence on Fifth Avenue East.

J. A. Vickers of Vancouver will be the speaker at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Rotary Club tomorrow. His discourse will be illustrated with pictures. Mr. Vickers also spoke before the Prince Rupert Gyro Club today with President W. M. Watts in the chair.

Corp. Leo Fielder, Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and Mrs. Fielder passed through the city at the end of last week on their way from Vancouver to Vanderhoof to which point Corp. Fielder has been transferred. He succeeds Corp. E. H. Clarke, formerly of Prince Rupert, who has been transferred from Vanderhoof to Cloverdale in the Fraser Valley.

The Basso family have a large garden with very fine berries and potatoes. Everything grows large and even the rabbits thrive. Mrs. Nelson has a nice place and so has Donato Cavalier. We had not time to call at every place but there were a lot of places just in that neighborhood that were outstanding. I wish I knew them all but it was impossible to call on each. Perhaps some other time I may be able to do it. There was the Jackson's, Gustavson's and Mrs. Group's all well kept and with distinctive features.

Henry Smith is building a greenhouse at the back of his house in which he will care for his cactuses. He seems to have caught that persistent and incurable disease which makes people grow cactuses. My wife has it and so have a great many other people around town. Mr. Smith has the beginning of a nice collection of cacti and when the greenhouse is finished we expect to see it expand by leaps and bounds. Pretty soon we shall hear of the organization of a cactus society in Prince Rupert.

I have mentioned Fred Wermig and his greenhouses before and then there is Sam Joy's nice place nearby and a very pretty garden across the road, one of the prettiest, that of Carl Ericson with a pretty rockery in front that is an asset to the avenue. I like Ninth Avenue.—H.F.P.

Ninth Avenue has many advantages over other parts of the city. One of these is that it is particularly well adapted to gardening. The soil is wonderful. Where else in the city can they grow such pansies as those grown by George Scott or such lettuces as grown by George Thain or potatoes like those produced by J. Basso. It is wonderful what each street in the city has to show if you only walk along without hurrying and note the work put into each.

Last night I wandered along Ninth from McBride to Fulton and outstanding from a floral point of view were George Scott's pansies. I am not given to exaggeration so I will not attempt to tell the size of the blooms. Mrs. Scott showed us around and the whole place indicated the careful cultivation of people who know how to grow flowers and do it well. The sweet peas, very fine ones, about as high as my head, were grown on the cordon system, with one stem only running up straight and nothing allowed to interfere with the development of large and beautiful flowers. The Scott place was outstanding.

There are two Thains living in that section of the city. William, the fisherman lives close to McBride Street and George, the carpenter along toward the other end. Both are keen gardeners and their places show it. George is an expert on vegetables but the roses and other flowers in bloom are an indication that there are great possibilities when Mrs. Thain has a

Hard To Shoot Crying Infant

Camera Man Found Lots of Them But They Quit and Smiled

TORONTO, Aug. 2: (CP)—Bawling babes are the bane of a photographer's life. Happy babies are found by the dozens but one cameraman says he hopes his assignments to photograph howling little ones are few and far between.

Called upon to get a picture of a wide-mouthed crying infant, he roamed the streets of Toronto for several days and each time he thought he had his subject, the child stopped yelling, looked at him and smiled. "I seem to have the kind of face that appeals to children," he said woefully.

Finally after numerous attempts, he was called to an institution, where nurses said they had a perfect model in action. He dashed out immediately but this child, too, was inspired by the photographer's friendly face and stopped wa-awing at once.

In disgust the photographer turned away to pack up his equipment, when the resourceful nurse quietly gave the little tike a tiny pinch and the performance was on again. The resulting photo disclosed a perfect specimen and just what the customer had ordered.

ACHIEVED FAME AS DIPLOMAT

LONDON, Aug. 2: (CP)—Baron Esme Howard of Penrith, who was British ambassador to United States for several years and served his country and many other important diplomatic capacities, died last night at his home in Ridgecombe, Surrey.

Lord Howard, during a long and notable career in the British diplomatic service, had represented his country in various capacities in many of the capitals of Europe and twice was assigned to the British embassy at Washington, first as councillor of the embassy and from 1924 to 1931 as ambassador succeeding Sir Auckland Geddes. Having prepared for the diplomatic service in early manhood, he took pride in characterizing himself as an "old diplomatist" as contrasted with those who had distinguished themselves in public rather than diplomatic life. Hence, his appointment as ambassador at Washington was regarded as a distinct success for the regular service which had been anxious to place that post again in the hands of a trained diplomat.

Although he became a linguist of ability, Sir Esme as a boy received only a secondary education at Harrow. He passed a competitive examination for the diplomatic service in 1885 and was appointed assistant secretary to Lord Carnarvon, his brother-in-law and father of the discoverer of the tomb of King Tut-ankh-Amen, who was then Lord Lieutenant of Ireland. Next he was attached to the British embassy at Rome for two years and in 1888 was transferred to Berlin as third secretary of the embassy. He retired from the diplomatic service in 1892 and in that year unsuccessfully contested Worcester-shire as a parliamentary candidate. He served as assistant private secretary to the Earl of Kimberley, secretary of state for foreign affairs, in 1894 and 1895.

With the outbreak of the South African war Sir Esme joined the colors and served as a trooper in the Imperial Yeomanry, winning a decoration for his services in the campaign. After the Boer war he reentered the diplomatic service and his career was marked by advancements which eventually made him one of the most distinguished diplomats of the British service had developed in many years. His first assignment after the South African war was as honorary second secretary at Rome. In 1903 he was appointed consul general for Crete and held that post until 1906, when he was transferred to Washington as councillor of the embassy. After two years at the American capital he served three years as consul general in Hungary; two years as minister to Switzerland and six years as minister to Sweden.

Difficult Post
The last assignment was regarded as the most difficult of Sir Esme's diplomatic career. It was during the war years, and because of the strong sympathy evinced for Germany in Sweden, the post was regarded as one of the greatest importance to England. Many difficult questions arose during those years but they were handled by Sir Esme in a manner that was regarded in England as masterly. During his six years in Sweden he gained an extensive knowledge of northern Europe and as a result he was elected as a member of the British delegation to the Paris Peace Conference where he gave valuable assistance in matters pertaining to that section of the continent.

In 1919, Sir Esme was raised to the rank of ambassador and was sent to Madrid, where he remained until he was named to succeed Sir Auckland Geddes as British ambassador at Washington. Sir Esme, born at Greystone Castle, Cumberland, September 15, 1863, came from one of the oldest and most distinguished families of England. He was the youngest son of Henry Howard A. Howard, although a Roman Catholic, played a prominent part in the defeat of the Spanish Armada. The Greystone Howards eventually turned Protestant, but Sir Esme returned to the faith of his ancestors before his marriage in 1898 to Lady Isabella, daughter of Prince Giustiniani-Bandini, whom he met when he became attached to the British embassy at Rome in 1886. They had five sons.

Sir Esme was created a companion of St. Michael and St. George in 1906 and in the same year was made commander of the Royal Victorian Order. He was created knight commander of St. Michael and St. George in 1916 and knight grand cross of the same order in 1923. He also was honored as knight commander of the Bath in 1919. He was later elevated to the peerage as Lord Howard of Penrith.

The appointment of Sir Esme as ambassador at Washington was made at a time when England was about to undergo one of the greatest governmental transformations in its history. Sir Auckland Geddes resigned shortly before the fall of the government of Stanley Baldwin, which was succeeded by England's first Labor government, that of Premier Ramsay MacDonald. Lord Curzon was still at the foreign office, and when it was decided to name a regular diplomat for the Washington post, Sir Esme was selected because of his outstanding record and his previous service at Washington. Some criticism was directed at the appointment by some Liberals and Laborites solely because it was felt that the Baldwin government should have left the appointment of the successor to Sir Auckland to the incoming government.

WAS COLD IN DEATH

Further Particulars Of Passing Of E. F. Jones On Way To Vancouver

Further particulars of the death on Sunday aboard the steamer Prince Rupert of city solicitor Edward F. Jones of Prince Rupert were received with the arrival of that vessel from the south today. He was discovered cold in death in his berth at noon Sunday by a steward who, sensing that something was wrong, notified the chief steward, John Walker, who, in turn, called the captain, Neil McLean. Mr. Jones was cold in death. An hour or so earlier he had called for breakfast in his room. He had become ill after eating.

Soon after the Prince Rupert put in to Alert Bay and there the coroner and police were notified. The coroner was notified that death was due to natural causes. The body was taken on to Vancouver.

A sister of Mr. Jones, who makes her home in England and Italy, arrived in Vancouver today, having been located at Benif and notified of the death of her brother.

The funeral will take place Friday with Ex-Ald. Theo Collart officiating representing the city of Prince Rupert.

BILL DANN IN GUIANA

Well Known Northerner on Fourth Trip to Hinterland

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Aug. 2: (CP)—Bill Dann, colorful oldtime gold miner and veteran of the Alaska gold rush and the Portland Canal district of British Columbia, is back in Georgetown again on another prospecting trip, his fourth to the British Guiana hinterland.

It isn't altogether unusual for Dann to leave Georgetown one week and be in Vancouver the next for he does much of his travelling by airplane. His first trip here was in 1927 and he termed it a huge success. He has found veins of 12 to 14 feet of free gold quartz.

"I'm not one of these 1939 model prospectors," he told reporters, "who go prospecting on feather beds and I don't look for all the comforts of home in the jungle. I go looking for gold and I find it."
