NEW WHARF PORCHER ID.

Federal Government Engineer Here in Connection With Project—Site For Local Floats

A light wharf with heavy dolphins as a protection against the exposed position at that point is to be put in at Useless Bay on Porcher Island to serve the Reward mine and community, it is learned from C. F. P. Faulkner, assistant district engineer for the federal department of public works, who arrived in the city Friday night on the Cardena from Vancouver for a week's visit to this district. While here Mr. Faulkner will visit Porcher Island to make a survey preparatory to drawing up of plans and specifications for the new wharf. Mr. Faulkner will also make a trip up the Estcall River in connection with plans to clear that stream of obstructions to facilitate navigation to the Northern Pyrites mine.

The assistant district engineer, asked about the proposed new fishermen's floats for Prince Rupert, said that the Fairview Point site beyond Westview had been recommended by the engineering department. The recommendation now goes to Ottawa for final approval. Whether or not the work will be proceeded with this year depends upon the status of the appropriation which had been originally made for Seal Cove which has since been taken over for use as an air base.

On the way north Mr. Faulkner visited Bella Coola where extensive rebuilding and improvement of the wharf is just about completed, the work including replacement of the existing wharf head with a larger one and the erection of a new shed. Mr. Faulkner expects to return south on the Cardena on Friday night of this week.

BIG ENGINE ON DISPLAY

Locomotive of Royal Train Centre of World's Fair Show

NEW YORK, July 4.—The giant blue and silver Canadian National Railways locomotive 6400, which hauled the royal train of King George and Queen Elizabeth on part of Their Majesties' trip through Canada during the recent royal visit, was given the role of honor in the spectacular drama "Railroads On Parade" at the New York World's Fair as part of the fair's observance of the Dominion's national holiday. The 94-foot locomotive, which is the largest streamlined engine in the British Empire with one of its regular engineers, Roderick Macleay, at the throttle and fireman Fred A. Stierre also in the cab, was used in the grand finale of the railroad spectacle which is daily viewed by thousands of World's Fair visitors. With the entire cast of more than 200 performers on the huge revolving stage, McLeay slowly brought his spick and span 66,400 pound iron horse to the centre of the stage as the climax of the show. The locomotive will be used in the finale of the railroad spectacle during the month of July and at other times of the day will be placed on public exhibit. Scores of Canadian visitors were in the railroad pavilion audience when the big Canadian National blue and silver engine, the royal coat of arms on the tender and on a plaque on the front glistening in the warm summer sun, made its stage debut. Canadian National officials here for the ceremonies incident to the celebration of Canada Day at the fair included Norman B. Walton, vice-president in charge of operations, and A. A. Gardiner, Assistant general passenger traffic manager.

BRITISH LABOR

It is evident that British labor is politically like sheep without a shepherd. It has thrown over Sir Stafford Cripps because of his desire to form a united front against the present administration, accepting support from any possible source. Clement Atlee is ill and there is no other outstanding man in Parliament. There is talk of Ernest Bevin, leader of the exclusives, standing for Parliament at the next election.

NEED OF HOUSES

While there is at present a small amount of building going on, there is still a considerable demand for small residences and the demand is bound to increase as the work develops at Seal Cove. Some people who find they cannot rent have been forced to purchase homes in the city and this has had a stimulating effect on the real estate business in some quarters.

BEATING THE AIR

Hon. Dr. R. J. Manion seems to be beating the air when he criticizes the leader of the Canadian government, a leader who quite possibly will have resigned before the election takes place. Even if the Prime Minister decided to hold his position until after the election he will not likely continue in office long. Evidently after twenty years of leadership he is tired and wishes some other person to carry on the campaign for Liberalism.

PERSONAL ADVANTAGE

In political life the majority of people seem to be influenced in their voting very largely by personal advantage. It is claimed by Socialists, and by that we mean all those who advocate any form of socialism, that they are anxious to have a more equal distribution of the good things of life. That means they expect to live better than they do today. They expect personal advantage. We are not objecting to this point of view. It is quite legitimate but it is not the kind of aim that makes for a millennial condition. In the long run, it must resolve itself into a scramble for the best positions much as is the case today.

What we seem to need is some guarantee that the man who is able and willing to work, shall have the opportunity to do so and shall receive remuneration which will enable him to live decently. Most people would like to see a condition such as that in the world. Very few people would like to live in luxury while others struggle for an insecure and inadequate existence. Yet we see this condition, especially in the larger cities. To make it possible for all to live decently and happily, should be the aim, not only of statesmen but of all citizens.

RESTRICTS SPORTS

TOKYO, July 4: (CP)—The Army is "top dog" in Japan these days and sporting frivolities are discouraged. Consequently, the national sporting championships this summer will be on a very reduced scale.

LIFE'S DARKEST MOMENT

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., July 4: (CP)—Mel Trull, diminutive Indiana mile runner, dashed to the starting post of a high school race, stripped off his warm-up clothes, then discovered he had not put on his running shorts.

This is the time of year when the blue Himalayan poppies are in bloom. Bob Yates has a very large one of the Mecanopsis Baylei variety with 138 buds on it and probably more coming. Evidently it likes this wet season. He has other plants of the same variety in bloom but this one is the largest I have ever seen.

The sunken garden at the court house is beginning to show improvement. There is a mass of stuff planted and, while the cool damp weather has kept the annuals back, they will be quite strong when they start to bloom. The whole of the court house grounds, while quite late this year, will soon be a mass of color. The perennial bed on the other side nearest the harbor has been much admired, especially the lupins and augelegia. The latter are among the finest I have ever seen. The colors are soft and delicate.

It seemed a pity that Mr. and Mrs. Jack Johns found it desirable to leave their garden just as it was developing so rapidly along right lines. Possibly in their new location they will start all over again and make something of which to be proud. Fourth Avenue is a good place for flowers.

One of the always interesting gardens on Fourth Avenue is Moore's. I strongly suspect that Mrs. Moore is the gardener. Whoever does it has excellent taste.

In a garden that has plenty of room, the day lilies are extremely bright and the foliage is artistic. These flowers come in a wide range of yellows, orange to almost red. They bloom at various seasons although just now they are at their best in Prince Rupert. The prevailing colors here are lemon and orange, mostly lemon.

We get a good many inquiries as to what lilies do well in Prince Rupert outside of the day lilies, lilies of the valley and orange lilies. We know that a number of gardeners make a success of regal lilies by planting in a very well drained soil and placing sand beneath the bulb. I have had them five years and they come up and bloom each season. They should be in bloom two or three weeks from now or possibly a little later. —H.F.P.

NEW AND BETTER

COLD CURED ICE

For the Halibut and Salmon Fleets

Following the investigations of the Fisheries Research Station, the Company has just completed extensive changes and improvements in ice storage and ice delivery methods.

Ice for the boats will all be old ice, thoroughly cured or aged at new low temperatures. It will be delivered into the hold, even in the hottest weather, as cold as the storage room.

Fishermen are invited to inspect the new system. Better ice than ever before, at no increase in cost, means economy to the boat and improved quality in fish delivery.

TELLS OF ASSEMBLY

Rev. H. G. Funston Reports to Congregation on Recent Meetings in Midland, Ontario

Back in the pulpit at First Presbyterian Church after returning Saturday afternoon from Midland, Ontario, where he attended sessions of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, Rev. H. G. Funston reported to his congregation on that gathering. Keynote of the important church meetings, Mr. Funston said, had been the more than ever apparent necessity, in view of existing conditions, of a reconsecration of the churches and their people to aggressive and practical activity. There had been of late, the pastor said, too much of a tendency to concede to influences other than Christian. A virile Christianity was the only force to combat such influences as Fascism, Nazism, and Communism which were making great inroads. The assembly had heard how these 'isms were developing in India to a point where they were becoming a real menace. At home, Mr. Funston said, the empty pew was the most serious problem of the church. Importance of young people's activity for the church had also been stressed at the Assembly. Christianity implied more than mere church membership, the pastor commented.

Mrs. William Selwood and family were passengers aboard the Catala today going through from Anyox to Victoria where they will spend the summer holidays before proceeding to Trail to take up future residence. PICTURE THRILLER

Clark Gable and Myrna Loy Here in "Too Hot to Handle"

Thrills in the strenuous life of a newsreel camera man and romance between Clark Gable as an adventurer of the lens and Myrna Loy as a daring aviatrix come to the Capitol Theatre in "Too Hot to Handle," dramatic story of the love of two people whose lives are in constant quest for excitement. The picture opened last night and will be repeated tonight and Wednesday.

Gable and Walter Pidgeon play rival newsreel men covering fighting in the Orient. Constantly using trick and device to scoop each other, they clash when Miss Loy attempts a mercy flight with serum and Gable, barred from the field, reaches it in an ambulance but wrecks her plane.

Miss Loy's dash into South American wilds to find her long lost aviator brother, with Gable following with his cameras, are among sensational details as is also Gable's filming of a blazing liner from a plane piloted by Miss Loy.

The cast also includes Walter Connolly as the news reel manager, Leo Carrillo as Gable's sound man, Johnny Hines, Virginia Weidler, Betty Ross Clark, Willie Fung and Patsy O'Connor.

The picture shows for the first half of this week.
