ESTHONIA RUSSIAN Move Puts Former Russians Under Protection

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (CP)—Peter Great picked an unattractive spot for the capital (St. Petersburg) on the Baltic and the sea led to western Europe. Russia's looking west again under present ruler, Joseph Stalin, moved in on Esthonia. His deal with that country, making it almost a protectorate, places Russian military forces 250 miles farther west and gives Russia command over the entire North Baltic. Besides, Esthonia's ports are while Peter the Great's was St. Petersburg, then Peter moved to Leningrad) is not. The end of war between Russia and Esthonia is the British blockade of the North Sea would prevent ships from going out from Esthonia into the Atlantic but Esthonia has another way out through the far northern ports, through the White Sea, blocked by ice half the year but which is open and connected with Leningrad by railroad.

Born of Versailles Esthonia's chief prize is its ice-free port of Tallinn. With an area of 1,126,000 square miles and a population of 1,126,000, Esthonia is one of the smallest of the states that were created after the war of 1914-18.

For nearly 200 years—until 1918 Esthonia was a part of Imperial Russia. Bolshevik forces tried to make it a part of Russia again in 1918 but were driven out with the help of Finland and the British.

Esthonia is a land of forests, farms and small villages and is so flat that no part of it is more than 450 feet above the sea.

The Esthonians are probably of Celtic origin like their northern neighbors, the Finns, and their language is one of Europe's most mysterious, related to the Finnish and Hungarian.

Founded as a republic, Esthonia adopted a fascist-like form of government in 1934 but returned to a democratic system by popular vote in 1937. Education is free. Konstantin Pats, a lifelong campaigner for constitutional reform, was elected president in 1936.

Pats, as a young man, took part in the Russian revolution against the Czar in 1905. Sentenced to be executed, he got out of the country. He first became premier after the Russian revolution of 1917 had succeeded.

Natural Products

The National Geographic Society lists butter, foodstuffs and timber products as Esthonia's exports. Germany and Great Britain are her best customers.

Tallinn, with 246,500 persons, is the capital. Called the "nightcap town" because of the pointed towers on its remnants of medieval wall, it is a busy modern seaport with grain elevators and refrigerating plants.

Esthonia keeps a standing army of around 12,000 officers and men. She can augment this with a reserve force of 90,000. Her air force consists of 70 planes. Her navy consists of one torpedo boat, two submarines, four gunboats and a dozen smaller craft.

Battleship Hood is Also Reported Damaged—Survivors So Far Placed at 370 In Admiralty Announcement

LONDON, October 14: (CP)—Sinking by German submarine attacks of the British battleship Royal Oak with possible loss of 830 men and damaging of Hood, largest battleship of the British Navy, were announced today, marking the first major reverse the British have suffered at sea since the loss of the aircraft carrier Courageous by a submarine torpedo on September 17 when 515 men were lost. It is seen as Chancellor Adolf Hitler's response to Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's rejection of his peace proposals and also concentrated attempt of Germany to break the British naval blockade.

Russo-Turk Pact Signed

MOSCOW, Oct. 14: (CP)—Turkey is reliably but unofficially reported to have signed an agreement with Russia protecting Russian rights in the Black Sea and its outlet, the Dardanelles. Official announcement of the agreement, which is described as not as sweeping as Moscow sought, is expected soon, perhaps tonight. Observers believe that the accord will also define Russian-Turkish relations with respect to their roles in European war.

SPANS ARE DESTROYED

Allies Are Still Looking Out For Major Offensive By Germans

PARIS, October 14: (CP)—French military advisers say that the destruction by the French of three big railway bridges over the Rhine is to forestall any attempted German surprise offensive through French Alsace. This action was taken after heavy German troop concentrations were reported along the frontier from Lauterbourg to Switzerland, a heretofore relatively quiet area.

North of the upper Rhine sector, Germans are reported by the French to have massed enough tanks and heavy artillery between the Moselle and the Rhine to launch a large scale offensive at any moment.

Meanwhile Berlin reports suggested that the lull in German military activity on the western front is expected to continue at least until Russia and Italy are ready to speak. German conversations with these countries being already under way.

STOCKHOLM OPTIMISTIC FOR PEACE

Indications Are That Soviet Demands Upon Finland Will Be More Moderate Than Anticipated

STOCKHOLM, October 14:—Although the Swedish government yesterday ordered the strengthening of military defences of Upper Norrland in northeast Sweden near the Finnish border as a precaution against the possible effects of Soviet incursions on Finland, official quarters in Stockholm today expressed optimism that a peaceful settlement would be reached between Soviet Russia and Finland on the basis of concessions to Russia much more moderate than had been at first anticipated. It is believed here that Russia may not seek control of the Aland Islands at the entrance of the Gulf of Bothnia but may be satisfied with smaller and less important islands.

Meantime King Haakon of Norway, King Christian of Denmark and the President of Finland have accepted an invitation of King Gustav of Sweden for a conference to be held in Stockholm next Wednesday with a view to taking appropriate action with a view to reserving the neutrality and independence of the Scandinavian nations in view of the Soviet threat. This would be a meeting somewhat similar to the Malmö Conference of December 9-14 when the Scandinavian nations reached a mutual assistance pact which was instrumental in keeping them out of the Great War. There is a difference on this occasion, however, in that Finland was then a part of Russia.

At Moscow, the talks between Russian and Finnish representatives have been postponed while the Soviet gives consideration to the representations of United States and Scandinavian nations on behalf of Finland.

Plans for the possible evacuation of school children from Swedish cities are being considered by the government.

In Helsingfors the President of Finland ordered the placing of police and all administrations under emergency law.

The measures being taken, it is still emphasized, are entirely precautionary.

President Roosevelt Spurns Indirect Suggestion Of His Mediation To Rescue Hitler

Paradoxically enough, the same Adolf, who was shouting threats of frightfulness just a week ago to all and sundry who might oppose him particularly Great Britain, is now nervously awaiting for President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States to call off the dogs of war. But President Roosevelt is spurning his appeals with the statement that a direct appeal will have to be made to him before he will essay to intervene and then it will have to be with the approval of all the belligerents concerned.

Russia Backs Demand Made Upon Germany

LONDON, Oct. 14.—Another baffling international situation is the demand which Lithuania is making for the return of Memelland from Germany, which lifted it last year. The interesting feature of the Lithuanian demand upon Germany is that it is made with the agreement and support of Russia. So once again the question is: Where does Russia stand?

LINDBERGH OUTSPOKEN

Says Canada Has No Right To Involve United States In European War

WASHINGTON, D.C., October 14: (CP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh called last night for the maintenance of the United States embargo on offensive weapons and suggested that Canada has not the "right to draw this hemisphere into a European war simply because they prefer the crown of England to American independence."

Lindbergh said that the United States was duty bound to protect sister American nations from foreign invasion but "they should not place us in the position of having to defend them in America while they engage in wars abroad."

The reference was obviously aimed at Canadian participation in the war against Germany. A new supporter for repeal of the arms embargo in the United States Senate yesterday was Senator Robert A. Taft of Ohio, Republican.

LINDBERGH'S PRONOUNCEMENT

Colonel Charles Lindbergh does not think that the British and French are fighting the cause of democracy but that it is only a fight for the balance of power. Evidently, he is impressed with the Nazi doctrines and the German method of government and the system of seizing the smaller nations and enforcing on them allegiance to Hitler or to Stalin. When the Colonel escaped with his family from the dangers of living in the United States he did not fly to Germany. He went to England for safety. While we recognize the ability of Lindbergh as a flyer we do not think that makes him a statesman or an authority on the rights of nations.

GIBBS' LATEST BOOK

Sir Philip Gibbs' new book "This Nettle, Danger" is a book about modern conditions, especially in England, in which English, American and German characters loom large. Their characteristic differences are shown clearly. Mostly the story deals with life of the English aristocracy with an American newspaper correspondent as the chief character and his sister closely interwoven into the story.

While this book lacks that emotionalism and dramatic powers which is the charm of less able writers, it is intensely interesting to any person who has tried to follow modern international trends. Here is how one of the characters sums up the present foe of this country:

"Germany is putting back the clock. She is putting it back as far as the dark ages when her tribes were the outer barbarians whom Caesar fought. They were touched for a time by the Latin spirit. They were Christianized and, therefore, civilized with Rome as the spiritual headquarters of civilization and moral law. But it was a veneer which did not go deep. There is in the German soul still the ancient paganism of their dark forests. Unknown to themselves Wotan is still their god. This man Hitler is the personification of the old pagan chiefs. His Nazis are the braves of the German tribes. They are out to smash the Latin tradition in which they were held for a thousand years. They will crucify Christ again. With the hammer of Thor they will try to smash Latin and Christian civilization as once they invaded Rome and tore down its temples."

"The clash, when it comes, will not be political but moral or spiritual. It will be the struggle of Christendom against the resurrection of paganism. Unfortunately, we shall be the victims of a frightful paradox which I find amusing but distressing."

And then again in his analysis of the character of the English people an American who has lived in England a good many years says to another American a newcomer "You'll know more about England and its people when you've been here a few years longer. And then you'll know how much you don't know. These English folk are pretty wise. They're best when things go badly with them. I've found them steady under fire."

On the whole the book is well worth reading at any time and especially at a time like this when the world is in turmoil. It helps us better to understand the Germans, the English and the Americans.

PETTICOAT ARGUMENT ADVERTISED Wedding Bells GOODS SELL But No Wives

To Wear More Or Less For Hour-Glass Figure 'Poses' Question

By MARY ELIZABETH PLUMMER Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 14. (CP)—The furore over the backless, hour-glass corset and whether it is really here to stay to give woman wasp waister, wily-nilly, poses a few other questions of great importance.

Are ladies bustling right back to the petticoat era, when six or seven starched undershirts gave a parachute effect to the silhouette?

If the girls don't whaleboned corsets, what happens to those wispy bits of silk, the "briefs and bra's"? Is it all going to add up to less, or more, underwear?

Well, the lingerie situation is somewhat confused. Some authorities say, "Yes, more." Some say, "No, less."

The style experts in two opposing camps agree, however on one point: "Red flannels are absolutely not on the horizon."

One smart says, "The tightly laced 'old-fashioned' corset, which extremists are advocating is out. We believe a gross exaggeration of the figure is repugnant to women of good taste—they believe they will refuse to accept it."

Another shop advertises "hour-glass slips—for the new corset," and "rustle under bustle," a back-pleated petticoat, "available in black, wine green or brown." Another offers "an enchanting wasp-waisted slip" that "won't make a wrinkle under your most fitted basque."

A department store advertises: "Put ladies back into silk panties. Some Revivals"

There is, moreover, a "swing slip," described as suitable for new full skirts; there are negligees with molded basque waists bustles and nepliums; nightgowns with tiny, fitted waists and decorative touches described as "old-fashioned, grandmother details."

College girls are buying them, it seems, in preference to tailored pyjamas. Another old-time lingerie revival is the bodice and "bobbin," offered by one store in candy pink, black or white.

They're described as "modesty pieces, revived from the days when a lady's contours were contrived into slender spool middle, rounded-out bosom and hips. Tight-waisted little bodice, with a modesty frill... tight-waisted on 'bobbin' to fit under that frill, and a great, full skirt shirred on."

Despite all this, Mrs. Adam Gimbel, of Saks-Fifth Avenue, believes girls will wear no more lingerie than last season, maybe less. The trend she said, is always toward less.

What women wear, she added, will be ultra-feminine ruffles on petticoats. Some lingerie "frou-frou, with a touch of naughtiness." Eyelet embroidery, ribbon beading, but certainly no "layers and layers of underwear."

To be, another leading style connoisseur, believes it will all add up to a little more bulk. "Corsets will not be worn next to the skin," she said. "The 'shimmy shirt' is coming back—a little shirt made of chiffon or sheer silk trimmed with lace and worn next to the skin. Underwear will be very feminine, with lace and ribbons."

Canadian Consumer Survey Covers 33 Brands of Commodities

TORONTO, October 14: (CP)—Canadians seem to have pretty much the same food likes and dislikes whether they live in the Maritime Provinces or British Columbia.

The Bureau of Advertising of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association finds that in canned goods, for instance, well-advertised brands hold a dominating position in the market.

The bureau conducted the most comprehensive analysis of the market for consumer products ever undertaken in Canada. Seventy-two Canadian daily newspapers from coast to coast co-operated in making the survey. A questionnaire covering 53 kinds of commodities was published twice in each paper in June and thousands of the forms were filled out by the householders.

The 292-page report, just issued under the title "Canadian Consumer Survey," deals particularly with food, packaged and canned, beverages, cereals, flour and baked goods, shortening, soaps, cleansers, dyes, tooth pastes and mouth washes, drugs, cosmetics, cars, gasoline and oil, refrigerators, razors, tobacco products, housing and rentals.

One feature of the analysis was the multiplicity of the canned goods reported. Yet, of the 32 brands of bean soup reported, two accounted for 98 percent. In every case five or six brands accounted for from 75 to 90 percent of the habitual purchases.

In many cases the percentage of those reporting the use of specified products varied widely from city to city but where the product was used the uniformity of consumption levels was apparent.

Survey Objectives

The primary objectives of the survey were to obtain dependable information on (1) percentage of Canadian public using specific commodities, (2) average consumption of these commodities per household, and (3) use by brands. The survey questionnaire was developed with the co-operation of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, the Canadian Association of Advertising Agencies and market research, sales and advertising executives in Canada and the United States.

For purposes of tabulation, 20,000 questionnaires were selected from those received from 54 cities. Distribution of the questionnaire was balanced according to population density and income groups based on reported rentals and value of homes.

Adequacy of the sample and the statistical competence of its distribution were discussed in detail with Dr. Robert H. Coats, Dominion Statistician, and members of the staff of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics before tabulation was begun.

SMEATON, Sask., Oct. 14: (CP)—William Halderson believes his wheat-growing record will prove to be the best in Saskatchewan this year—83 bushels of Thatcher an acre from a 12-acre field. Other farms in this area have yielded as much as 75 and 77 bushels an acre.

Heads of Evacuated Households Return to Bachelor's Life

LONDON, October 14: (CP)—Although marriages are on the increase throughout England, wives grow scarcer. Since the evacuation of so many households, husbands who must remain in the city for business reasons are left with the dishes and the household to care for. Some of them have joined together and started "bachelor clubs" to solve the loneliness problem and also cut down on the rent.

Stanley, a butcher's assistant started a club for himself and four other husbands. He collects a weekly fee from each of them and, by buying in bulk and doing his own cooking, he manages to feed them well and even manages some extras like newspapers, cigarettes and a bottle of beer or two in his parlor—the "clubroom."

Other husbands just move in with each other, close up one flat and share expenses in the other.

HERE'S ONE FOR RIPLEY

WINNIPEG, October 14.—Page Mr. Ripley, believe it or not!

Here's a grain handling story for the books! It occurred at Dauphin, Manitoba, where a heavy grain crop is being shipped from the district and the odds against the incident were thirty-three millions to one.

On August 29 four Canadian National Railway grain cars were loaded at Dauphin and routed to the Lake Head elevators by the Manitoba Pool elevators. On September 7, within ten days, the same four cars were back under the spouts of the Dauphin elevators for a second load of grain. Records show Canadian National car numbered 504581, 503946, 507084 and 501113 took part in this amazing co-incidence.

One of the statistical experts of the Canadian National car service department delved into figures and worked it out that the odds against such a quick repetition of the same four cars turning up at the same elevator within ten days worked out at 33,909,519,118,502 to one, believe it or not.

Beat that one if you can, Robert L. Ripley!

WOMEN IN WAR WORK

Meeting Held Here to Perfect Arrangement Next Week

In connection with the Voluntary Registration of Canadian Women for war activities an enthusiastic meeting of heads of various women's organizations of the city was held yesterday afternoon in the City Council Chamber with Mrs. C. E. Witt, district organizer, presiding.

Arrangements were perfected for the opening of a booth in the Besner Block which will be used next week to receive registrations. A large and general response on the part of city women is anticipated. The purpose is to ascertain what women are able and willing to do in assisting in the common cause. It is made clear that the general idea is to enrol women for spare time work in their homes or otherwise such as sewing, knitting, etc. Work of the Red Cross, first aid societies and other organizations will not be interfered with but, on the other hand, there will be co-operation. Members of the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, etc. already registered. The importance of individual registration of women at this time is emphasized.

Twenty organizations were represented at yesterday's meeting. Each of these will be responsible for half day's work at the registration booth next week.

Mrs. W. D. Vance is secretary of the central committee and Mrs. M. Carter, treasurer.

YIELDS BIG THIS YEAR

Train of 100 Cars Needed To Move Grain From Saskatchewan Acreage

HARRIS, Sask., October 14: (CP)—The largest farm in Saskatchewan and one of the largest in Canada, near this town 40 miles west of Saskatoon, harvested 111,413 bushels of wheat and nearly 100,000 bushels of coarse grain from its 6,500 cultivated acres this year.

The farm is owned and operated by T. B. Wilson and four 16-foot harvester-threshers working at the same time glean the grain quickly after it ripens. These machines march swiftly across the fields cutting a 64-foot swath and threshing and clean the grain at the rate of 9,000 bushels a day.

A number of years ago from 125 to 150 horses were required to operate the farm, but the huge barns now house machinery. The 1,500 acres formerly used to raise horse feed is now marketable crop land.

Wheat yielded from 30 to 34 bushels to the acre and the grade of deliveries so far has been No. 1 hard. Barley yielded around 50 bushels an acre of No. 1 grade.

It is computed that a solid trainload of more than 100 cars, each of 2,000-bushel capacity, will be required to move the grain from this one farm.

Hear Complaint On Maine Coast

Boats of Foreign Registry Said To Be Operating In Detrimental Way

AUGUSTA, Me., October 14: (CP)—Complaints have been received by Commissioner Arthur R. Greenleaf of United States Sea and Shore Fisheries Department that large boats of foreign registry are conducting extensive selling operations in the Gulf of Maine.

The Commissioner has been told that five trawlers have been converted into seiners which are believed to transfer their fares to the large craft, known as a "floating factory" which converts the fish into fertilizer and lands it at American ports.

This practice has been done on the Pacific Coast with results said to be so detrimental to the herring supply that legislative action has been forced.

The complainants express the belief that these fleets might base in Canada or Newfoundland waters, and the operations take place outside the 12-mile limit, in which case the matter would become an international problem. It is said that the sardine industry would be greatly affected by these operations and at the present time this is one of the largest and most dependable industries on the Maine Coast.

CAVES ARE RENDEZVOUS

Air Raid Shelters Provide Meeting Places For Parisians

By WILLIAM McGAFFIN
Associated Press Staff Writer
PARIS, October 14: (AP)—The cafes close at 11 p.m. here now—but the abris stay open all night. They are rapidly beginning to rival the cafes as a meeting place for old friends and a contact ground for new.

"Abri" is French for air raid shelter. You see the sign on every few doors now—indicating a deep wide cave, or a reinforced basement, or perhaps a metro (subway) station.

Going walking these days is much like climbing a mountain. The abri signs are the rocks to which you throw an imaginary lifeline, then gingerly pull yourself along.

Like the mountaineers, you never set out without another essential piece of equipment which provides a certain amount of security if caught between heavens. The mountaineer carries an axe, Parisians, like Londoners, a gasmask.

The long corrugated metal cans—gray, brown or green—in which they are carried have become a standard costume accessory here as in England, now, along with milady's purse, milord's stick. Cloakroom attendants no longer smile when the bon vivants check their gasmasks along with their chapeaux. People overnight have developed a new manner of living. They have started napping in the daytime whenever possible so as to be awake at night for raids.

Two Good Reasons
When a newcomer takes a hotel room, the first thing he asks to see is not the fire escape, as of old, but the abri. Then he enters his room and if it's dark, draws the curtains tight before he dares turn on a light. There is a heavy penalty if he doesn't, under violation of "communication with enemy" regulation.

He naturally opens the windows before turning in. Not only for the old reason of sleeping in fresh air—but for the new one of being more certain to hear the alarm. Before opening up, however, he must turn off the lights again.

Then he stumbles over to bed—beside which he has carefully parked his gas mask, a flashlight, and, fireman style, a pair of pants—and drops into fitful slumber.

My experience is that I usually awake with a start an hour or so later from a nightmare which has been full of realistic planes and booming anti-aircraft guns. After cursing myself for being such a fool, I sink back to sleep—only to be awakened this time by the real thing.

It's not so bad since they quit sounding the alarm the moment an enemy plane had crossed the frontier even though it might be bound only for the Maginot line. Now the system is to sound only on "imminent danger of attack."

But the mental hazard of that is bad enough. Who said the war of nerves ended when the war of guns began?

CITY MANAGER PLAN

Editor, Daily News:
At a recent meeting of the Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council, it was felt that the public should be enlightened on the forthcoming plebiscite on the city manager plan as follows:

- Real property owners, licence holders and citizens over the age of twenty-one who have paid the last annual poll tax are entitled to vote on the question.
 - The City Manager Plan shall embody a council of five, elected from and by real property owners, licence holders and citizens over the age of twenty-one years who have paid the last annual poll tax, such council to serve for a three year term and serve without pay and to hold monthly meetings.
 - A Mayor to be chosen from the members of the council by themselves or, if unable to agree, the member receiving the highest number of votes automatically becomes mayor.
 - The Council to appoint a city manager and fix his salary within limits fixed by such legislation, namely: a minimum of $3,000 per annum and a maximum of $6,000.
 - The city manager to be appointed for an indefinite term and may only be removed for cause and may demand written charges and a public hearing, all authority for his removal to rest with the council.
 - The powers of the council to be restricted to matters of policy, its main function being to act in an advisory capacity and shall have no powers over the removal or employment of city employees.
 - These are the main items, the others being of a minor nature. All are subject to change by the provincial government but we feel that the public should know what they are going to vote for and we, as citizens of this city, should get out and vote a change in the present system, if we wish to preserve what is left of our schools, streets and sidewalks.
 - What to take next Thursday? Your poll tax receipt and your determination to vote for a change.
- T. ELLIOTT, Secretary,
Trades and Labor Council.

BOARD HAS LONG MEET

Hospital Directors in Three-Hour Session Last Night—Transfer to New Building Brings up Problems

Problems arising out of the transfer from the old to the new hospital occupied the attention of the regular monthly meeting last night of the board of directors of the Prince Rupert General Hospital which was a three hour session.

The board has made arrangements for a loan of $20,000 from the Royal Bank of Canada to be used in cleaning up the indebtedness on the new hospital which amounts to an estimated $23,000, final settlement having not as yet been made with the contractors. The loan arrangement will be drawn upon as required, hypothecation of hospital bonds being one of the provisions of the arrangement.

There was a lengthy discussion on the building and $20,000 on the contents on the basis of the existing distribution among companies and agencies. The co-insurance rate is 241 on building and 429 on contents. Present insurance on the old hospital building, amounting to $30,000, will be cancelled and the structure will be re-insured for $3,000.

The question of furniture for the secretary's office in the new hospital was discussed and it was decided to leave it meantime in the hands of the house committee.

It was decided to put in a refuse incinerator at an estimated cost of something over $500. A system of dictaphones between floors which has been in trial will be retained. The attic of the new building, being used for storage purposes, will be partitioned and cupboards installed.

Donations for the new hospital continue to come in, those reported upon last night including a gas oxygen machine from Dr. W. T. Kergin, anaesthetic table and other items of equipment from the Prince Rupert Medical Association, a bed from Mrs. J. M. Morrison and further donations from the St. Andrew's Society Women's Auxiliary.

General Business

Miss Jean Harrison R. N., lady superintendent, in her monthly report at last night's board meeting, reported that work was proceeding satisfactorily at the hospital. The maids were now established comfortably in their new home at the corner of Fifth Avenue and Hays Cove Circle.

The finance committee report, presented by F. A. MacCallum, showed a total of 1467 hospital days for the month of September at $3.31 per hospital day. Disbursements for the month amounted to $4859.49 current and $510.70 capital.

Mrs. H. L. Landry, reporting for the Women's Auxiliary, informed the board that the recent annual bazaar had resulted in the highly gratifying sum of $336 being netted. It had been decided to pay for two electric refrigerators which had been installed in the diet kitchens. Blinds for the nurses' and maids' homes had also been ordered. The board expressed its appreciation of the support and work of the Women's Auxiliary. The lady superintendent reported that a radio nuisance was developing at the hospital, the impression among patients and friends being that they were at liberty to bring in all sizes and conditions of radios without any sort of regulations. It was decided by the board to clothe the lady superintendent and the managing secretary with authority to control all use of radio in the hospital. It was felt that use of radios should, as far as possible be confined to small sets with self-contained aeri-

The handling of military patients in the hospital, now that Prince Rupert has become a military centre, came up with correspondence from the Department of National Defence on the subject. The Department will be advised that there is no accommodation available exclusively for military patients who will have to be handled in the usual way. The Department will also be advised that, as far as isolation facilities of infectious cases are concerned, this is a civic responsibility.

Resentment was expressed by the board at the making of deductions by the Department of Pensions and National Health on sick mariners' accounts for operating room charges, the Department of National Defence for military patients and the Canadian National Railways Employees' Medical Aid Association for laboratory services. Such matters as these will be brought before the annual convention of the British Columbia Hospitals Association which will be held on October 23, 24 and 25 at Victoria and which
