Japanese Attack British Ships

Plane Reported On Fire Near Here By Master Of Steamer

No Idea As Yet As To What Machine, If Any, May Have Been in Trouble Off Lawyer Island—Investigation Immediately Started

Capt. William Palmer of the steamer Princess Charlotte, northbound from Prince Rupert to Skagway, at 11:45 this morning sent a message to Philip M. Ray of the Northern Shipping reporting an airplane on fire off Lawyer Island outside of Prince Rupert Harbor. The captain is reported to have seen the plane falling. Shortly after a Canadian Airways seaplane, engaged in fisheries patrol service, went out to the vicinity but returned soon after, reporting that it had seen nothing and that the sea was too rough with a stiff westerly breeze to make a landing. The plane reported many fishing vessels around the neighborhood and the suggestion was offered that it might have been one of these which appeared to be on fire. At noon the lighthouse tender Alberni went out to investigate. The Princess Charlotte did not deviate from her course but continued her northward voyage. There was no indication as to what plane, if any, was on fire. Air Marshall W. A. Bishop V.C., who has been on the coast on an inspection trip for the Department of National Defence, has left Vancouver this afternoon in long distance conversation with Canadian Press at Vancouver.

FLYING OF ATLANTIC

British and American Flying Boats Successfully Span Ocean In Opposite Directions With Air Mail

QUEBEC, August 7: (CP)—Thirty-three hours after having left Southampton, the Imperial Airways flying boat Cariboo landed in Quebec yesterday and, after a stay of two hours, continued to Port Washington, New York, thus successfully inaugurating trans-Atlantic air mail service. The Cariboo, making the ocean flight at 100 miles per hour without incident, made a stop at Botwood Newfoundland, enroute to refuel. Mid-way across the Atlantic she met the Pan-American Airways Yankee Clipper which set up a new speed record in the opposite direction. The Cariboo will leave New York Wednesday on her return flight to England.

DISPLAYS OF MIGHT

Great Britain, Germany and Other European Countries To Stage Manoeuvres This Week

LONDON, July 7: (CP)—Great manoeuvres of British military naval and aerial strength will be held this week-end coincident with similar manoeuvres in Germany as well as various central European powers including the Balkans. King George will have a busy week reviewing the various demonstrations.

Germany is continuing her preparations for military activities. She now has two million men under arms, some of whom were recently called up and have not been released, being told that they would be kept under arms until September. While the preparations are said to be for defensive purposes it is pointed out here that Herr Adolf Hitler knows well that none of the countries of Europe have any aggressive intentions so it is presumed the preparations are for offensive purposes. Civilians are limited very strictly in the use of petrol. Small quantities are allowed each person. Field Marshal Goering, in a speech yesterday, said that threats to starve Germany in case of war would be ineffective because Germany now had vast stores of grain and their air force would take care of the situation.

CHICAGO, August 7.—The University of Chicago apologized to former President Herbert Hoover on its nationally broadcast round table yesterday for a statement on last week's broadcast that he was "buying southern delegates to the 1940 Republican presidential convention."

The statement was made by Drew Pearson, Washington columnist, as a participant in last Sunday's round table discussion of public affairs.

Hoover, in a telegraphic protest to University President Robert M. Hutchins, had asserted that "a lie was broadcast to the whole country and demanded a 'full apology' be made on yesterday's round table broadcast."

Hutchins, bed-ridden with an injured back, referred the protest to Woodward vacationing in Michigan. Woodward made his apology known on the beginning of yesterday's broadcast and repeated at its conclusion.

In reviewing the activities of the session which adjourned suddenly, Martin listed 14 accomplishments which he said were achieved under the "banner of honest dealism." He said they testified to sincere Republican co-operation with the real Democrats in the fight to save America from the New Deal.

Simultaneously, Representative John J. Taber of New York, ranking Republican member of the house appropriations subcommittee, forecast a $5,000,000,000 net deficiency at the close of the current fiscal year.

JUST A VILLAGE

There's a place down in New England with five thousand population and they call it a village. Prince Rupert has slightly over six thousand and we call it a city. And yet Prince Rupert has most of the characteristics of a village. One of these is that we know most of our fellow villagers. We may not know them all personally but we know them by reputation. Some of them are much better than their reputations and some of them are nothing like as good.

Another attribute of a country village is that it usually turns out a number of people who become prominent. That is what is happening already in Prince Rupert. Young men have gone to live in many parts of the United States and are doing well. Very soon it will be difficult to keep a roster of prominent former citizens of Prince Rupert.

However, it's great to live in a village like this. Some would prefer to live in a town like Terrace or Stewart or Massett but a village is good enough for most of us. They say that Smithers is getting a little uppish for a town and pretty soon will blossom forth as a city. Then some years later it will become a village with five or six thousand people, all neighbors, most of them well known citizens, many of them with skeletons in their cupboards, others with fancied skeletons.

They say that Telkwa is getting to be quite a town since it established a creamery. However, it is quite a distance from being a city. In about twenty years it will also discover it is really only a village. Perhaps it will have a newspaper, too, like New Hazelton.

THINGS OF VALUE

Brazil is a country of which the average person knows little but the people there seem to know the value of ideas. One of them came up to the United States to attend a convention and made the wise remark that, if you loan another person one hundred dollars and later that man paid the debt, you were both in the position from which you started. If you gave some person an idea and he gave you an idea you both had two ideas and both benefited.

COURTESY

Last week the members of the Rotary Club heard a talk on salesmanship in which the speaker urged that every salesman should ask for the order at least four times before giving up. Then we come to George McCullagh, author of the leadership campaign, the brains behind the Toronto Globe and Empire and one of the trustees of the Toronto University. He was a securities salesman and he wanted to interest Bill Wright, millionaire gold miner, in something he had to sell. Wright became impatient and cut him off short. McCullagh had the good sense to stop and leave. When they met again McCullagh was recognized as the salesman who had enough sense to quite at the right time. He and Wright became great friends and it is Wright's money combined with the brains of the other that has made McCullagh famous.

LOST THREE BALL GAMES

Prince Rupert Gave Poor Account of Itself at Smithers in Week-End Series

Prince Rupert did not do so well in the week-end baseball series at Smithers, losing the first 9 to 3, the second 6 to 5 and the third 15 to 4.

In the first game Prince Rupert was leading 3 to 2 at the end of the fifth but the coast fielders then blew up behind Nick Chenoski who was by no means to blame for the defeat.

The second game was a creditable one but the locals were unable to get their batting eyes.

The third match was just a rout for Prince Rupert.

Andre Letourneau and Don Arney pitched the second game for Rupert while Letourneau, Arney and George Howe were all on the mound in the third. Herb Morgan was probably the best player for Prince Rupert. He played variously as catcher, first baseman and centre fielder.

All the local team returned home last night except Don Arney who will be back Tuesday night.

There is a possibility of a return series in Prince Rupert in about two weeks.

FISHERMEN BADLY OFF THIS YEAR

Fish Production Is Lower and More Boats Are Fishing, Making Unit Earnings Low—Conservation Measures

Reports on the season's operations to date together with a number of proposed conservation measures constituted the main items of business at the season's second general meeting of the North Island Trollers Co-operative Association held last week at the organization's Seven Mile Camp, Wish Point, Queen Charlotte Island.

Total tonnage handled by the Co-operative to the end of July this year was slightly over 1,000,000 pounds, a decrease of 480,000 from the previous season's figure. With a larger number of boats on the grounds this year, it is estimated that production and income per boat will average about half last year's figure and trollers are anticipating a hard winter with relief in prospect for many. Average selling prices are running about half a cent per pound under those of a year ago.

Turnover in the Association's two stores remains substantially at the same level as last year but service station business shows a marked increase. Final payments made this season on the packers "Hickey" and "Kanawaka" have cleared off the last of the Co-op's outside indebtedness and a healthy financial position is indicated.

The president, L. H. C. Phillips, occupied the chair at the meeting. No changes were made in the personnel of the Board of Directors and it is anticipated that the present members will carry on until amalgamation with the Prince Rupert Co-operative is completed.

Conservation Measures

Fish traps again came in for attention when it was reported that the Co-operative has joined with other fishing co-operatives and unions in presenting evidence in support of the strenuous fight fishermen have been making against traps.

A number of conservation resolutions called for:

A round table conference of those engaged in the fishing industry to formulate a comprehensive policy of conservation for application to British Columbia.

Prohibition of seining of herring for reduction purposes.

Prohibition of collection of herring eggs for commercial purposes.

Measures to protect the spawning beds which, it is claimed, are being washed out and silted up by drainage from cut-over timber lands.

A "work and wages" resolution called on the Provincial and Dominion governments to assure some assistance in the form of work to fishermen whose earnings this season are not adequate to enable them to purchase the necessities of life during the coming winter and following spring.

North Island Trollers Are Appreciative

Mrs. Beesie Redpath N. N. was honored at the recent general meeting of the North Island Trollers Co-operative Association when a vote of thanks was passed in appreciation of her services in giving first aid to the injured and visiting the sick at North Island this season. The meeting instructed that a letter be sent her expressing the thanks of the fishermen of the area.

Mrs. Redpath is the daughter of Capt. and Mrs. John Haan of Queen Charlotte City. She received her training in the Prince Rupert General Hospital and graduated some three years ago. She is well known in the northern district and has a wide circle of friends.

Tiny Ketch On World Cruise

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Britton of Seattle Are Now At Sea

SAN FRANCISCO, August 7:—At sea today was the 32-foot ketch Marlene and its crew—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Britton of Seattle—embarked on a world cruise they expect to complete in "four or five years." Their first stop they said would be at Los Angeles, then on to Honolulu, New Zealand and Australia. Their purpose is to concentrate on writing and photography.

Unusually late on account of having had heavy freights to discharge at waypoints, Union steamer Catala, Capt. James Findlay, did not arrive in port until 8 o'clock this morning from the south. She sailed later in the morning for Stewart, Anyox and other northern points whence she will return here tomorrow evening southbound. There were fifty round trippers on the Catala.

Prince Rupert Basks In Fine Summer Weather

Prince Rupert is glorying in the finest summer weather of the year and there are prospects of a continuation. Working hours are being cut as short as possible so that camps, picnics and outdoor life generally may be enjoyed while conditions such as these exist. Cloudless blue skies, blazing sunshine and a refreshing westerly breeze attracted a large proportion of the people of the city to the water yesterday and all means of aquatic transportation were in demand.

The maximum reading yesterday, according to the official record, was 66, not as high as the 73 recorded during the couple of warm days last week.

Fine, settled weather was reported all along the coast this morning.

It's the cumulative effect of advertising that counts.

WOULD CURB ORIENTALS

White Canada Crusade Launching Anti-Japanese Movement In Vancouver

VANCOUVER, August 7.—Campaign to arouse British Columbians against Oriental penetration because of current Japanese developments has been launched by the White Canada Crusade.

"I am confident that the crusade will sweep the province," said W. R. Page-Wilson, leader of the movement. "Letters are coming in every day from all over British Columbia, pledging enthusiastic support. The response is splendid. In the course of the next few weeks, branches will be started in many important centres."

The crusade has a six-point policy; the barring of all further Oriental immigration; controlling of Oriental economic penetration; dispersion of Oriental groups in British Columbia; opposition to the enfranchisement of Orientals, and compulsory registration of all Orientals in Canada. The crusade plans no violent demonstrations and intends to achieve its aims through entirely constitutional methods.

Independent of Parties. "We are absolutely independent of political party affiliations," Mr. Page-Wilson said. "We welcome support from all citizens, regardless of party membership, who believe in our aims and objects. As individuals we are confident that our members will support those men who will advocate a strong white Canada policy in Parliament."

Following adoption of a constitution by the executive, organization plans call for a central advisory council and a central executive board to determine policy and general administration, and a central executive staff to handle details of organization and co-ordination. In addition, each branch will have its own executive council to administer local affairs. There are no membership fees, the movement being supported entirely by voluntary donations.

Professor F. E. Buck, lecturer in floriculture at the University of British Columbia, is being sent to the Department of Agriculture to judge the gardens on August 28 and the flowers at the flower show and intends to achieve its aims on August 30.

CANCER TO BE FOUGHT IN RUPERT

Society Formed Here After Impressive Address By Dr. Huggard Heard At Public Meeting

After hearing an impressive address by Dr. Roy Huggard of Vancouver on the cancer situation in Canada a public meeting in the City Hall Saturday night decided to proceed with the organization of a Prince Rupert branch of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer. A local executive was named consisting of Dr. R. G. Large, chairman; Dr. Neal Carter, secretary; Mrs. G. B. Church, treasurer; Dr. C. H. Hankinson and Mrs. Alex. McRae.

The meeting was opened by Dr. C. H. Hankinson who commended the problem of cancer to the careful study and serious consideration of every citizen of Canada. He briefly referred to the form and objectives of the organization of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer.

Dr. Huggard, the speaker of the evening, said that approximately 1,000 British Columbia people died from cancer each year. The Canadian death rate per annum from the malady was 12,000. It was estimated that 50,000 Canadians had the disease. A portion of these would not recover. Some had no evidence or knowledge of being afflicted with the disease. It had become a great problem of national concern to improve facilities for handling cancer.

Scientific medicine, Dr. Huggard admitted, had little to contribute as far as the actual causative agents of cancer were concerned. However, intensive research was being carried on. This was a disease which physicians were able to treat successfully without knowing the cause, possibly more effectively than some diseases the causes of which might be known. Survival rates from cancer were steadily increasing. A five year survival was taken as practically indicative of complete recovery.

Many avenues of research must be explored. Certain of the habits and characteristics of the disease had been brought to light and its nature becoming better understood. There was an ever increasing degree of diagnosis accuracy. The disease could be detected in its early stages. Early diagnosis was a matter of great importance for, once there had been spread far afield from the point of origin or the secondary stage had been reached, the outlook was grave and in many cases hopeless. Hope of eradication of the disease was in the early stages. This was the most important factor. Approximately three-fifths of the cases occurred on the surface or in natural cavities which could be easily examined. Doctors were able by specific methods to determine whether areas which might be suspicious had positively developed the malady. Lumps, indolent ulcers and certain abnormalities in women should be investigated. Blood tests and laboratory procedure were of importance. It was a tragedy to hear persons come to a doctor with advanced cases of cancer saying they had not come sooner because they were afraid it was cancer. If treated early a large percentage of cases could be salvaged and the patients restored to their normal life. Fortunately, there were increasing cases of early diagnosis.

Discussing Treatment

Discussing treatment, Dr. Huggard warned against quacks who advertised easy and quick cures. In cancer the only test of successful treatment was the test of time. Two and two only forms of therapy had stood the test of time as far as cancer was concerned. These were surgical procedure in certain accessible areas and radioactive energy—radium or x-ray depending on the region involved. No longer need there be fear of surgical operations which were carried out today with a minimum of discomfort or mutilation. There was nothing to be gained but everything might be lost by postponement or short cuts.

Public education and dissemination of truthful information were being carried on. A three-fold program was being undertaken—first, research and study; second, education of physicians and, third, public education. A sum of $500,000 had been collected for fighting cancer in Canada but millions were required.

The aims and objects of the Canadian Society for the Control of Cancer were then discussed by Dr. Huggard. He bespoke the support of the public for the work of the society as a problem well worthy of attention and consideration. There was a way of enriching community life and, possibly, benefiting one's own self.

HOLLYWOOD, August 7:—Organized actors will refuse to play "Little Red Riding Hood" in the current wrangle over their union status it was claimed by Frank Morgan, player of befuddled roles, who is head of the Hollywood Screen Actors' Guild. Park Bears Not Biting

WASHINGTON, August 7:—Everything is about normal at Yellowstone National Park this year, except bear bites, the Department of Interior reported. Only 39 persons have been bitten this year and the record is running far behind that of a year ago. Officials said those persons who were bitten were violating the feeding or picture-taking regulations.

GREAT TALE OF HISTORY

Ronald Colman In "If I Were King" Is Showing At Capitol Theatre

The story of one of the grandest lover rogues of all time, Francis Villon comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre here during the first half of this week in "If I Were King" with Ronald Colman, famous for his fine romantic characterizations, playing the title role of one of the most colorful figures in the pages of history—Fifteenth century poet, playboy, lover and statesman who held France in the palm of his hand for one glorious week, only to be banished when he gave his heart to a royal princess whom he dared not love.

Frances Dee plays the part of the beautiful princess while Basil Rathbone is the eccentric king whose caprice causes Colman to find himself the temporary ruler of the land. Colman's tavern sweetheart is played by Ellen Drew, a new Hollywood star discovery. The cast also includes C. V. France, Sidney Toler, Henry Wilcoxon and Ralph Forbes.

The new "If I Were King" picture, with brilliant dialogue and amusing situations, presents the Villon story, it is said, in a totally different way than it has heretofore been offered either in literature or on stage or screen.

KELLEMS TO TRY AGAIN

Rancher - Evangelist - Traveler Is Going Back To Home In Oklahoma To Build Another Boat

SEATTLE, August 7.—Rev. Dr. Homer F. Kellem, Oklahoma rancher - evangelist - traveler, returned from Seward, Alaska, on the steamship Baranof with three of his crew of five, after the wreck of their thirty-eight-foot fishing boat, the Pandora, near Cape St. Elias, on a projected trip around the continent.

"I'm going back to my ranch in Oklahoma," he said, "to start building another boat. This time I'm going to have about a fifty-footer. A boat much bigger than that would not be able to navigate in the Arctic."

With Kellems were his twenty-one-year old daughter, Vivienne Cecil J. Brooks and A. Y. Owen. Ira Jones and Leo Clark stayed in Alaska.

Brooks and Owen said it was doubtful whether they would accompany Kellems if he tries the cruise again next year.
