CANADA UNITED

Canada is united in face of danger. That is a great feature of the preparedness campaign which is now in progress. The leaders of the Conservatives, Social Credit and Co-operative Commonwealth Federation parties are to be congratulated on the stand they have taken. It is very important at a time like this that minor differences be dropped or postponed and that all turn their faces to the common enemy.

THE SITUATION

It is easy for the people here to look across Europe and wonder why this or that is not done. We can depend upon it that Great Britain and France are doing what is strategically the best. They have a plan and naturally we cannot know what that plan is. We must sympathize with Poland in being overrun by the Germany armies but it would have been impossible to move British or French troops to Poland in sufficient numbers to be of any material aid. Germany would see to that. Possibly an attempt to do that is what the Germans would have liked.

NATIONAL GOVERNMENT

It is suggested that, in view of the present situation, a national government should be formed at Ottawa. "Saturday Night" suggests that Dr. Manion and Mr. Woodsworth should have seats in the cabinet but it points out that this is not the kind of national government suggested by the critics of the Prime Minister. "They seem to feel that a national emergency is a heaven-sent opportunity for getting into the seats of power a class of men who may be able to get themselves elected to boards of directors but have never shown the slightest sign of being able to get themselves elected by popular franchise even to a board of school trustees." The journal suggests that these men might be useful in connection with the management of a munitions bureau but doubts their usefulness in political affairs.

FRENCH AND BRITISH CONTINUING INVASION

have been advancing rapidly into German territory. The same French sources declare that there has been heavy hand to hand fighting between the infantry forces, the French advance being supported by withering artillery and aerial fire. The line of French penetration is said to be along a distance of 125 miles between the Rhine and Moselle Rivers with the general objective along the Moselle and off to Saarbrücken, important industrial centre of the Saar Valley. Here there is a gap in the Siegfried Line and the area is not as heavily fortified as along the Rhine. Saarbrücken is fifty miles away from the frontier and four hundred miles from Berlin. The French troops are also said to be pressing towards Frankfurt.

French Fight Forward

The French army reported tonight that it had fought its way into the German forest of Bienwald, just north of Lauterbourg, French key to the western front. Meantime British reinforcements were moving up to join forces. French and British general staffs were in consultation.

This morning's Communique No. 7 from the French War Minister indicated that the Germans were offering stiff resistance but the French were pursuing action on the western front to relieve Poland from German pressure.

With Great Britain now pouring in land and air expeditions to join the invasion, pressure on the great German industrial areas is becoming intense. There have been violent air bombardments with, it is said, as many as three hundred British and French planes participating in the bombing of important centres.

General Gamelin, the French commander-in-chief is personally directing operations of the mighty French army, it is said.

An official communique says that France is safe from counter invasion.

French wounded are beginning to arrive in Paris from the lines. The German high command in Berlin persists in denying that there has been any extensive fighting on the western front and has dubbed as "nonsense" French reports that the French have advanced into Germany.

Daily advertising in the Daily News is sure to bring daily results.

Returning hurriedly back to Victoria to attend a specially called meeting of the cabinet to consider assistance of British Columbia to the Dominion in prosecuting the war, Hon. W. J. Asselstine, minister of mines, was here aboard the Princess Louise yesterday afternoon. Mr. Asselstine has been on a tour of the Atlin district and other parts of the extreme north of the riding which he represents in the Legislature. He visited Atlin, being held there for three days on account of weather, and also went in to Tulsequah by plane but was unable to make Telegraph Creek and Dease Lake as he had anticipated.

Speaking of Atlin, Mr. Asselstine reported that he had found that district very prosperous. Another new and important placer gold operation there, he reported, was that of Walter Johnson of San Francisco which is carrying on geophysical surveys on Otter Creek with Sherman Kelly in charge.

Mr. Asselstine was accompanied by W. A. Archibald of the Tourist Bureau who went north to take pictures, obtaining many excellent ones in spite of unfavorable weather which was encountered.

READY RESERVES FOR DOMINION'S NAVY IN SERVICE OF WARTIME

Trained Volunteers and Sailors on Both Coasts Available —Police Preventive Service a Factor
By CAPT. W. W. MURRAY M.C.
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada's small but efficient naval service, consisting of six modern destroyers and four minesweepers, provides a not unworthy reinforcement to the small fleets maintained by Great Britain on the Atlantic and Pacific. Whether this country will be able to have the destroyer Kempenfelt transferred to the Royal Canadian Navy as a flotilla leader is doubtful. When "last heard of" the Kempenfelt was doing her job with the Grand Fleet on the naval manoeuvres. She was to be released and purchased by Canada at the end of September if nothing happened in the meantime to disturb the international situation. But something has happened and Kempenfelt will likely stay in the Royal Navy.

Personnel of the Royal Canadian Navy is approximately 2,200 ranks and ratings, with a likelihood of many more being recruited. A shortage of naval officers is being overcome by drawing on the Royal Canadian Naval Volunteer Reserve and the award to suitable officers of temporary commissions.

Supplementing the active personnel of the R. C. N. are about 1,100 volunteer reservists and nearly 400 skippers and seamen of the fishermen's reserve on both the Atlantic and Pacific coast. Training of the latter is for mine-sweeping purposes. They are required to furnish their own boats with all necessary provision arranged for compensation in the event of injury or destruction.

R. C. M. P. Reserve

An added reserve for the R. C. N. is the Preventive Service of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. This force operates 35 patrol vessels, chiefly on the Atlantic and the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Of these eight are sizable cruisers, capable of sailing long distances on their own and the others are small speedboats, designed to compete with the fast run-runners operating off the coast.

The 235 men of the Preventive Service are trained in navigation and gunnery in addition to the normal duties of coastguards. In an emergency they would likely be given an opportunity to engage in the naval service and the ships might be equipped with mine-sweeping devices and depth bombs for anti-submarine work.

During the Great War, the Canadian Press recalls, extensive use was made by the navy of trawlers and drifters, and at its close four of the trawlers were retained in service as minesweepers for several years in Canada. One of them, the Thiepvial, made a trip across the Pacific Ocean to Japan some years ago. Later she struck a rock off Vancouver Island and went down. There were no casualties either on the lengthy trip or in the subsequent sinking.

Twenty-five years ago Canada's navy consisted of a couple of outdated cruisers, the "Niobe" at Halifax, and the "Rainbow" at Esquimaut. Both were conditioned at outbreak of hostilities, and the Rainbow, without any ammunition for her well-worn guns, set her nose out into the Pacific to look for the German cruisers "Nuremberg" and "Dresden." Ammunition was subsequently found, and the gallant old-timer, commanded by Captain Walter Hose, continued her patrol. Fortunately for the R. C. N., those crack German ships were not encountered.

The Dominion also possessed two submarines, purchased just at the outbreak of war and cleared in time from a United States Pacific Coast port to escape internment. There are no submarines in the service today.

Speedboat Sweepers

Many patriotically-minded citizens loaned their speedboats to the country during the last war and these did protective service in the way of mine-sweeping off the Atlantic Coast. Nova Scotians and Newfoundlanders were the reservoir from which Canada drew her naval personnel between 1914 and 1918. In large numbers, however, they enlisted also in the Royal Navy.

Whether the changed situation in the Pacific will bring about a change in the disposition of the ships of the R. C. N. has not yet been determined. Four destroyers and two minesweepers keep watch and ward off the British Columbia coast. It may eventually be decided to bring one, or possibly two of the destroyers to the Atlantic, and one of the minesweepers.

Following are the ships on the Pacific: Destroyers, St. Laurent, Restigouche, Ottawa and Fraser; minesweepers, Nootka and Comox. On the Atlantic: Destroyers, Saguenay and Skeena; minesweepers Gaspe and Fundy.

Moving Pictures Shown To Club

Very interesting moving pictures, some beautifully colored, of the Portland Canal district were shown by Father Anthony Meulenberg at the regular weekly luncheon of the Prince Rupert Gyro Club yesterday. There were scenes around Stewart, Big Missouri, Premier and Hyder as well as one reel of an airplane trip from Stewart to Ketchikan through the Dolly Creek Pass to Behm Canal. Father Meulenberg gave interesting descriptions during the showing of the pictures in which some well known personalities were seen. President W. M. Watts of the Gyro Club was in the chair and duly thanked Father Meulenberg on behalf of the members.

MANY AT DINNER FUN FILM IS SHOWN

Last night the Prince Rupert Club held a dinner dance which was attended by about eighty people in honor of Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Kergin who are leaving for the south next week. Dinner was served at 7 and, after a presentation to the guests of honor, the tables were cleared and dancing carried on for several hours.

In making the presentation Lieut. Col. J. W. Nicholls, on behalf of the club, spoke appreciatively of Dr. Kergin as a physician and surgeon, as a member of the club and as a citizen. All would regret his leaving the city. In reply Dr. Kergin said that years ago he had been told he should open up in some larger centre but he had never regretted his decision to remain in Prince Rupert. He had enjoyed life in the city and it was with a great feeling of sadness that they were leaving. The great feature of the life here was the wonderful friends they had made. To leave these friends was what he most regretted. However he would always look back to Prince Rupert as their real home.

The present to the doctor was a pair of totem book ends and a bouquet of flowers to Mrs. Kergin

A rip-roaring comedy with a great array of fun-making talent including W. C. Fields, Edgar Bergen, Charlie McCarthy, Mortimer Snerd, Constance Moore, Mary Forbes, Thurston Hall, Princess Baba, John Arledge, Charles Coleman, Edward Brophy, Arthur Hohl, Blacaman and Eddie Anderson comes to the screen of the Capitol Theatre tonight and tomorrow in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." It should provide acceptable diversion for these trying and nerve-racking times when war talk appears to be an obsession with so many people.

A feud between W. C. Fields and Charlie McCarthy is the motivating factor in "You Can't Cheat an Honest Man." They start quibbling from the time they meet and the conflict develops into major proportions with all kinds of pranks and antics as one tries to embarrass the other. It is the good old vaudevilian type of comedy with the principals engaging in their typical line of action.

and to Dr. Kergin's mother, Mrs. W. S. Kergin. Peter Laskie, president of the club, presided at the gathering.

KISS YOUR TIRED FEELING GOODBYE!

Peppless Many Suffer Low Blood Count—And Don't Know It. The baffling thing about low blood count is that you can weigh about as much as you ever did—even look healthy and strong, yet you can feel as if you had lead in your legs, dizzy, tired and peevish. Low blood count means you haven't got enough red blood corpuscles. It's their job to carry life-giving oxygen from your lungs throughout your body. And just as it takes oxygen to explode gasoline in your car and make the power to turn the wheels, so you must have plenty of oxygen to explode the energy in your body and give you pep and power. Get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today. They are world-famous for the help they give in increasing the number and strength of red corpuscles. Then with your blood count up, you'll feel like bounding up the stairs, and you're floating on air. Ask your doctor for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills today.
