DEFENCE POLICY NEEDS CLEARING UP ASSETS BRITISH UNION LEADER

Labor Delegate to Conference at Sydney Urges Definite Basis for Dominions and Colonies

LONDON, January 28: (CP)—Divergencies of opinion existing in the various dominions and colonies regarding Empire defence policy urgently need clarifying in the opinion of Ernest Bevin, general secretary of the Transport and General Workers' Union. Mr. Bevin was a member of the British delegation at the second unofficial British Commonwealth Relations Conference held in Sydney, Australia, last September. In an address to the Royal Institute of International Affairs, the labor leader in giving his impressions of the conference, declared the differences ought not to be left to be settled or dealt with at a moment of crisis.

"In this defence problem," Mr. Bevin said, "you have to remember that in Great Britain we are bound by the Eden declaration of April, 1937, in which the British people, without question, without being able to say anything, must, if that pledge is put into effect, go to war to defend any part of the British Empire and the countries with whom we have treaties."

On the other hand, he pointed out the Dominions, under their interpretation of the Statute of Westminster, believed they had no reciprocal obligation. He thought the British people would not be a party to such an undertaking were they conscious of the fact that they are under an obligation to go to war to defend any part of the British Empire while any other part of the Commonwealth might, through her parliament, declare her neutrality.

"There appear to be great divergencies of opinion on this question," he said. "We had a large number of professors with us and there was a tendency to belittle them, but I am impressed by the fact that, so far as Canada is concerned, it is out of the universities that the new civil service will come, it is out of the universities that a very large extent that those who make policy in Canada will be found."

"If the theories and the attitude of the defence problem and the constitutional problem gain ground—and they are gaining ground throughout the British Commonwealth—then the quicker the whole matter of defence is placed on a sound and agreed basis the better it will be for the Commonwealth as a whole."

Canada's Position
The theory that there is such a thing as a divisible Crown seemed to Mr. Bevin to be "perfectly far-fetched" and would not hold good in a crisis of that character. It might result, he thought, in secession at a critical moment, "but, what is worse in my view, it may lead to the building up of a strategic policy by the Imperial defence authorities which may break down at a critical moment unless an understanding is arrived at between the constituent parts of the Commonwealth."

"You will find that Canada does not desire to be consulted on foreign affairs, and this illustrates my point, if one is to take the view of the Canadian representatives," Mr. Bevin declared. "They say: 'We do not want this close consultation, because by the very act of consultation we may be assumed to be entering into commitments.' And that, I suggest, for the sake of both parties, is a very unsatisfactory state."

Headed by E. J. Tarr, Winnipeg; chairman of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, the Canadian delegation to the conference was made up of J. S. McLean, E. H. Blake, Prof. N. A. MacKenzie, A. Brady, Toronto; G.

Encouraged by Arrival of Canadian Grain, East Port Seeks More American

BOSTON, Jan. 29: (CP)—Frank S. Davis, manager of the Maritime Association of the Boston Chamber of Commerce, encouraged by the coming of 280,000 bushels of Canadian wheat to Boston for shipment to Europe as a result of the reciprocal trade agreement, has asked the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation to give Boston its share of the movement of 100,000,000 bushels of the 1938 United States wheat crop bound for Europe. The Canadian wheat ordinarily would have shipped through Canadian ports. Davis said that, despite the fact that rail differentials favor Baltimore and Philadelphia as ports, equitable distribution of the business should yield the port of Boston a substantial share.

Democratic Nations Must Some Time Resist Attempt To Rule World By Force---Chamberlain

Premier Insists, However, That He Will Still Strive For Peace—Tone Not as Forceful as Had Been Anticipated

BIRMINGHAM, England, January 28: (CP)—Democratic countries "must inevitably resist" any attempt to dominate the world by force, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain declared in an address to the nation tonight. After surveying the big increase in Great Britain's armed forces, Mr. Chamberlain reiterated his determination to work for peace. There could be no doubt of the peaceful intentions of this country, the Prime Minister said, but "we feel it is now time that others should make a contribution to a result which would overflow with benefits to all."

The tone of Mr. Chamberlain's speech was not as forceful as predicted in some quarters in view of the general European situation and the speech of Chancellor Adolf Hitler planned for the Reichstag on Monday. The Prime Minister urged a policy of making the country stronger and at the same time continuing efforts to keep peace. His tone was in line with utterances of others of his ministers throughout the country during the past day or so.

Mr. Chamberlain said he had examined the armed forces of Great Britain a few days ago and was convinced that they were "very greatly improved not only as regards increase in guns and accessories but also in organization for directing and manning them."

P. H. Linzey returned to the city on the Princess Adelaide (L.S. 10) from a trip to Vancouver.

British Cabinet Ministers Are Urging Preparedness As Defence Being Reorganized

LONDON, January 28: (CP)—British cabinet ministers, speaking in various parts of the country, are reviewing the new armed strength of the nation. The country is determined to be prepared for a fresh crisis, they declare. Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, declared that a strong Britain was the best guarantor of peace. He referred to the important position of this nation as a mediator in European affairs.

Montagu Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, and Lord Willingdon, former Governor General of Canada and Vice-Roy of India, were among prominent Britons who broadcast a direct appeal in German to Chancellor Adolf Hitler and the German people yesterday to make a supreme effort to avert war.

Meantime, the government continues its steps in readiness for war. Lord Chatfield, known as "The Strong Man of the Royal Navy," is expected to be brought into the cabinet as minister of co-ordination of defence. Major General Weymouth has been appointed director of mobilization.

LOYALISTS UNBEATEN

So Says Chief of Spanish Government Forces In Spite of Barcelona Refugee Problem

VALENCIA, Jan. 28: (CP)—General Mola, whose determination is credited largely for the long stand of the Spanish loyalists against the insurgents, especially in connection with the defence of Madrid, insists that the Spanish government forces are by no means beaten as yet. "The loss of Barcelona will increase rather than diminish loyalist determination," he declared.

Meanwhile, the insurgents continue their drive north from Barcelona and have made further advances. Apparently, the intention is to complete the conquest of Catalonia with as little delay as possible.

Half a million people of Barcelona are being fed from food stations established by the insurgents. These stations were almost stormed by the half starved populace in the anxiety to receive bread and milk.

Tens of Thousands of refugees continue their flight before the advancing rebel troops towards the French frontier where barricades have been erected in the endeavour to check the influx. Establishment of a neutral zone, where refugees might find haven, is being proposed.

France is reported ready to admit 150,000 Spanish refugees but does not want to take 200,000 government soldiers although it does not see how it can refuse them.

CRISIS IMPENDING

Possibly we are on the brink of another crisis that may plunge Europe into war. One does not have to be a pessimist to be led that far. It is just as sure as we are here that, if Great Britain becomes involved in a war against the dictatorships, Canada will be in it almost immediately. Parliament is in session and quick action will be demanded.

We all hope that this threatened crisis will pass without bloodshed as long as it is peace with honor. The whole Empire, evidently, is against another Munich. If the Empire is forced to fight, it must be the best fight we can put up. There must be no holding back. The fight will not have been of our seeking but it seems that Canada has awakened to the realization that we must defend ourselves and acquit ourselves like men.

This is nothing to worry about. It is a condition that has seemed inevitable for some time in face of the aggressive attitude of the dictators. If war does come it will be a fight in which the keenest people will be those who are usually known as the working classes.

WRONG VIEW OF DEFENCE

We must apologize to our readers for possibly taking the lowest view of the defence program as it affects this port. We spoke of the financial importance of the scheme when we should have first congratulated the Department of Defence and, particularly Hon. Ian McKenzie, on recognizing the military importance of this port and taking the proper action to meet the situation.

PULP MILL SITUATION

Now that it is evident the old pulp mill site has been taken over by the Department of Defence for an air base and that no site for pulp mill purposes will be available on Shawatians Passage, consideration will have to be given to the possibilities of other local sites. One possibility would be the site of the reduction plant on Tucks Inlet but that would mean the bridging of the narrows, possibly where the present water main crosses from Shawatians. Another site available with deep sea shipping possibilities would be at Ridley Island adjoining the Billmor mill site or possibly the mill site itself. This site would give both rail and water transportation. The possibility of a site alongside the drydock where the ships were built years ago has been mentioned and also a site at the lagoon at the Westview end of the townsite. The difficulty with both of these sites would be to find booming accommodation. Logs could not be assembled at either place in any number but would have to be boomed somewhere across the harbor. It is possible there may be other suitable sites but they do not seem to be likely to meet all the requirements.

ENGLISH SPORTS PROMOTER TO ENLARGE WHITE CITY STADIUM

Canadian-born Brigadier General A. C. Critchley, formerly of Calgary, Alta., has become the czar of sports in England. Here is an architect's drawing of the White City stadium in London, England, as it will look when enlarged to accommodate 163,000 spectators. Critchley will spend £250,000 on the enterprise and will also be assisted by the government in his latest venture. They will establish a new underground (subway) spur to serve the stadium, providing service for 1,000 passengers per minute. The outstanding English sports promoter is pictured on the right. Incidentally, it will be the world's greatest sports stadium.

SPORT CHAT

Eddie Oatman, whose 24 consecutive years in professional hockey is nine years better than his closest rival, Eddie Shore of Boston Bruins, is playing his 32nd year in hockey with Duluth Zephyrs of the Amateur International League. With the exception of 1932 and 1934 when he acted as referee and 1936 and 1937 when he coached Yorkton, Sask., Terriers, he has been an active player since 1903 when at 14 he joined the Tillsonburg, Ont., Juniors. He is now 49.

Last year Eddie applied for his amateur card and went to Prince Albert as playing-coach of the Minot, Northern Saskatchewan League. When they disbanded he was called to Duluth to bolster the Zephyrs' defence. His name is most closely associated with Western professional hockey, the Western Canada and Pacific Coast Leagues. He was selected on Western All-Star teams for ten consecutive seasons. Oatman competed in four Stanley Cup finals, most famous of which was the series of 1915-16 when the West, represented by Portland, made its first challenge for professional supremacy, meeting the Canadiens in Montreal. Portland won the first game but lost out three games to two.

Interviewed recently, the wiry 155-pounder explained why, nearing the half century mark, he can return to active hockey. He said his endurance was due to physical fitness and a sturdy pair of legs, result of clean living and good condition the year round and an excellent foundation in the game 20 years ago "when a player was expected to play 60 minutes without skipping a breath." Asked for a comparison between the fast skaters of yesterday and those of today, Oatman very definitely votes for the old timers. "The old timers were just as fast and, what's more, they could keep up that pace a full game. The trouble with the young fellows today is they train to play three minutes at a stretch and after their time is up their tongues hang out and they're hollering for relief."

Eddie Shore returned to the Boston Bruins line-up five years ago tonight after a 15-game suspension from the National Hockey League following his accident with Ace Bailey, Toronto, forward. Bailey suffered a fractured skull in collision with Shore at Boston and has not played since. After Bailey's recovery 14,000 fans at Toronto cheered as the two clasped hands in friendship.

The snowball frolic dance of the Junior Chamber of Commerce last night was an outstanding social affair, proving a most enjoyable success for some two hundred persons who attended.

Decorations of the hall were an elaborate feature which attracted much favorable comment. Snowballs were suspended from streamers and colored balloons were also used with effect. Charlie Balagno's Orchestra played tunesome music from a snowfort.

Dancing was in progress from 10 p.m. until 2 a.m. with a break at midnight for delicious refreshments which were served under the direction of Ross Ingram.

Sam Joy was master of ceremonies and kept things moving in an excellent manner.

The general committee consisted of Sam Joy, Lawrence Pierce, Ross Ingram, Clarke McLean, Robert Tobey and George Dybhavn.

Hugh Forrest and C. G. Ham presided at the door.

Wait, Mother—Ask Your Doctor First

Never Give Your Children Unknown "Bargain" Remedies To Take—Unless You Ask Your Doctor. Unknowingly You May Be Risking Their Health—Just To Save A Few Pennies

A MOTHER may save a few pennies giving her children unknown, unproved preparations. But the life of a child is precious beyond pennies. So—Ask your doctor before you give any remedy you don't know all about.

When giving the common children's remedy, Milk of Magnesia, never ask for "Milk of Magnesia" alone—but always ask for "Phillips'".

Because for three generations Phillips' has been favored by many physicians as a standard, reliable and proved preparation—marvelously gentle for youngsters.

Many children like Phillips' in the newer form—tiny peppermint-flavored tablets that chew like candy. Each tablet contains the equivalent of one teaspoonful of the liquid Phillips', and a big box costs but 25¢ at your drug store.

A bottle of Phillips' liquid Milk of Magnesia costs but 25¢. So—it is a fact that anyone can afford the genuine. Careful mothers ask for it by its full name "Phillips' Milk of Magnesia."

BRING IN SETTLERS

Jurist Urges Federal Loans For 20,000 Settlers On Farms In Canada

B. C. FARMERS OPPOSED VERNON, Jan. 28: (CP)—The British Columbia Chamber of Agriculture, in convention, passed a resolution opposing any subsidized plan of new settlement in British Columbia so long as farmers already here are in no better position than they are today.

FORT WILLIAM, Jan. 28: (CP)—Proposal for a gigantic colonization scheme under which the Dominion government would advance $29,000,000 in loans for the establishment of 20,000 settlers on farms in 1939 was outlined by Judge John McKay of the County Court when he addressed members of the Bay Bar Association here.

He proposed settlers be located within six miles of the Canadian National transcontinental railroad in the "Great Clay Belt" of Quebec and Ontario and in the northern sections of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia.

Loans would be at the rate of $24 for each acre of good arable land brought under cultivation in timbered areas in Northern Canada, repayable in 10 years with a five percent yearly interest rate.

Judge McKay would have such a colonization plan continued over a period of years.

"This policy would secure each year the location of a farming community of about 100,000 and a nearby urban community of about 60,000 all tributary to the Canadian National Trans-continental railroad," he said.

Settlements would be located between Quebec, Cochrane, Hearts Nakina and Sioux Lookout in Ontario; Winnipeg, Swan River, Hudson Bay Junction in Manitoba; Prince Albert and Battleford, Saskatchewan; Edmonton and Jasper Alberta and Prince Rupert, British Columbia.

To obtain such loans, each settler would have to agree to bring 40 acres of land under cultivation and, in addition, could obtain $500 for the purchase of livestock.

Colonization railroads would be built, connecting with main trans-continental lines; timber and mineral resources developed and employment provided for single job less in clearing land at remunerative wages.

Judge McKay believes many refugees from Germany and Czechoslovakia could be brought to Canada for settlement.

"Canada should maintain the noble Christian British policy of receiving all refugees fleeing from the Pagan oppressors," he said.

Such a colonization scheme would also open the door for settlers from Great Britain; from Canadian urban centres and create he said, employment for many workers in towns and cities of Canada.

Story of Arduous Drifting Experience of Smith Brothers of Massett Reaches Here—Another Rowboat Mystery—Herring Seiners Move Down Harbor

Three days of drifting in the wild waters of Dixon's Entrance during the height of one of the winter's worst storms followed by more than another day of being marooned on a rocky shore without fire, food or shelter is the story of Charles and Corbett Smith, Massett brothers, following their safe return home after being rescued by a courageous expedition organized by authorities and friends. It is one of the epics of the early year storm which swept the northern British Columbia Coast for about three weeks, almost continuously, and was responsible for at least one tragedy and other narrow escapes. The experience of the Smith brothers commenced on Friday, the thirteenth, and culminated in the complete wreck of their small gasboat the Mabel. However, they might have been more unfortunate, the brothers admit, in expressing gratification that, due to the splendid efforts of their friends, their lives were saved.

The Smith brothers were returning along the north coast of Graham Island of the Queen Charlotte group from Naden Harbor to their home at Massett when their small boat broke down with engine trouble and started drifting. Fortunately, the occurrence was witnessed by fishermen from some distance and the matter reported, enabling a search to be instituted. Meanwhile, however, one of the worst storms of the season had arisen from the southeast and the small vessel was rapidly carried far out to sea. Followed three days and three nights of tossing into the open Pacific. Almost continuous pumping became necessary owing to the fact that the seas were constantly breaking over the tiny craft. Finally, on the third night, when the Mabel was off Cape Muzon, Alaska, the wind went into the southwest and the Mabel drifted into Cordova Bay before a gale of hurricane force. After weaving her way amid treacherous reefs and a tortuous channel of the area, she finally crashed on to the southernmost tip of the dread Barrier Islands. In the pitchy darkness of the Monday following Friday the thirteenth, the Mabel became a total wreck within a matter of moments, leaving her crew virtually marooned without fire, food or shelter after they had already been continuously drenched for three days and three nights with no sleep whatsoever. They were completely exhausted and in a generally precarious condition.

Explanation in regard to a twelve-foot rowboat being found by Bert Hanson adrift off White Cliff Islands as he came in from Oona River, Porcher Island, yesterday with his gasboat Mayen has not yet been explained. The discovery was reported to the police who are endeavouring to establish identity of the owner of the boat which was taken to Oona River by Hanson who left for his home there this morning.

Capt. Cecil H. Roberts arrived in the city on the Princess Adelaide yesterday afternoon from Vancouver, being here in connection with the purchase of a local boat.

Herring seiners, which have been hauling fish out of the water in Tucks Inlet for several weeks, moved down the harbor this week and are now fishing right in front of town. Good catches are still being taken for the Port Edward and Tucks Inlet reduction plants.

Capt. Harry Calderwood of the Digby Island ferry boat Catherine B., after having been confined to his home with illness for the past three weeks, is reported to be doing nicely and should soon be able to resume his duties. Meantime, the Birnie continues to carry out the Digby Island ferry service in place of the Catherine B.

Union steamer Venture, Capt. John Boden, arrived in port at 11:30 last night from the south and sailed at 6:30 a.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints. Spring salmon are being caught in fair numbers by native trollers these days in the vicinity of Port Simpson. It is reported by Dominion Constable A. J. Watkinson, skipper of the Indian Department cruiser Naskeena, who visited there yesterday.

Meanwhile on the Queen Charlotte Islands, search parties sent out by Constable Walter Middleton were already examining the north shores of Graham Island. By Tuesday morning the search party, now consisting of two Haida boats from the village of Old Massett—the packer Edenshaw, skippered by her owner, Capt. Douglas Edenshaw, and with David Parnell and John Hagerman, also in the crew, and the Waterfall, with Capt. Henry White, Ernest Yeltatsie and Joe Wiah—were far out upon the Pacific, carefully combing the waters between Langara Island and Cape Muzon for sign of the missing boat. Eventually, they decided to examine the Cordova Bay area where they felt there was a reasonable chance of finding either the shipwrecked men or wreckage of their boat. The two boats spread out, one to search one area and the other another. At 3 o'clock on the Tuesday afternoon, David Parnell, look-out on the Edenshaw, observed a signal. Approaching, they had the thrill of seeing the Smith brothers whom they at once took aboard in an exhausted condition. Meantime, the Waterfall had discovered drifting wreckage. She was signalled and, together, the two boats proceeded to Hydraburg where the two shipwrecked men were given proper attention and messages broadcast to discontinue further search and allay anxiety.

Throughout all this time the weather had been extremely rough and it was no easy task the rescue boats had had in crossing Dixon's Entrance and Chatham Sound, navigating their way among the dangerous reefs and submerged ledges of Cordova Bay. Even after they found the Smith brothers, their difficulties were not entirely over as thirty miles had to be covered

WILL TRY EVEREST

Expected British Climbers To Make Another Assault on Great Peak

BOMBAY, Jan. 28: (CP)—Another assault on Mount Everest, the world's highest peak, is likely to be made by British climbers in 1939. W. H. Tilman, leader of the recent expedition, which was repulsed by the elements, is now stated to be on his way to Tibet, on whose frontiers Everest stands. His object is to see the Political Officer in Sikkim and obtain permission to organize an expedition.

F. S. Smythe, a member of Mr. Tilman's party who arrived in Bombay from Colombo, is returning to England from his third attempt on Everest. He has visited India on three other occasions to scale other peaks in the Himalayas. The conquest of Everest, he said, was an ideal worth striving for. He agrees with Mr. Tilman that the only way to do it is to continue the effort year after year with a smaller personnel of climbers, "hoping that the Clerk of the Weathers will shed his wiles."

Mr. Smythe did not think that an airplane could be of any great use to climbers on Everest, though a plane was being employed to drop provisions and flash weather messages to the German climbers on Nanga Parbut. For one thing it would be unsafe for planes to fly over great heights and especially so in the treacherous weather conditions of Everest. Lord Clydesdale, who had considerable experience of mountaineering and aviation once told him that if an airplane was forced to land at great altitudes, it would be difficult to take off again owing to the rarefied atmosphere.

The Government of India has made permanent arrangements to safeguard the memorials erected near the village of Totto, in Chillas to the members and porters who lost their lives during the German Nanga Parbut expeditions of 1934 and 1937.

Decline is Attributed to New Law in New York

NEW YORK, Jan. 28: (CP)—A sharp drop in the number of marriage licenses issued in New York City last year compared to 1937's figure is officially attributed to a new law requiring pre-marital blood tests. A total of 131,442 licenses was issued in 1938 as against 162,706 in 1937. Most of the decrease was reflected in figures for the last half of 1938. The blood test law became effective July 1, 1938.

HISTORY OF ABORIGINES

Recalled By Recent Show Put On At Terrace by Kitselas People Under Chief Mark McKay

After the presentation of an entertainment at Terrace by forty-seven natives of Kitselas depicting ancient customs of their tribe, the Native Brotherhood and Sisterhood of Kitselas has been inspired to send to the Daily News an outline of some early history of the native peoples of this part of the country.

"We remember the days of the early preachers," says a letter received at this office from Kispix. "First to come among the Tsimpsians was Rev. "Father" William Duncan who left Plymouth, England, December 22, 1856, and reached Port Simpson October 1, 1857, to begin his first missionary labors among the then uncivilized Tsimpsian. Afterwards he moved eighteen miles southwest of Port Simpson and established the Christian mission at old Metlakatla.

"A few years afterwards came Rev. William Pollard of the Methodist Church to organize missionary work at Port Simpson in 1874, conducting the first baptism of children in Chief Skagwats' house on February 27, 1874. Mark McKay, now adjutant of the Salvation Army at Kitselas, was among those baptised by Mr. Pollard at that time.

"Later still came Rev. Thomas Crosby who preached the gospel among the Tsimpsians along the coast, up the Skeena River and on to Alaska.

"Since those days the Kitselas village has been moved from its old location in the Skeena Canyon. Some of the Kitselas people are still there while, some in the intervening forty-eight years, have gone to Port Essington, others to Old Metlakatla and still others to New Metlakatla.

Many of the old tribal customs and dances were revived in the entertainment at Terrace, those taking part including Chief and Mrs. Mark McKay, Miss Madeleine George, Mrs. George Beaven, Miss Flora Beaven, Miss Amelia Beaven, Jeffery and Lillian Beaven, Miss Laura Hudson, Edgar Hudson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert McKenzie, Freddie McKenzie, Mr. and Mrs. David Mason, Chief and Mrs. Sam Kennedy, Miss Phyllis Kennedy, Mrs. Edward Bolton, Mrs. Flora Bolton, Roy Bolton, Carl Bolton, Mr. and Mrs. John Cecil, Ben Seymour, Miss Josephine Seymour, William Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. Sam George.

Proceeds of the entertainment amounted to $37.

In "Block Heads" Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy find themselves in the surroundings of a swank, modern apartment house. This offers no bar to their continuous antics, the austerity of the background making their gags even more ludicrous. The supporting cast includes Patricia Ellis, Minna Gombell, Billy Gilbert and James Finlayson. In "Rich Man, Poor Girl" Robert Young is a millionaire playboy who is willing to move into the flat occupied by his secretary's family. The girl does not want to marry a million dollars and, when Young threatens to give his fortune away, there are many hilarious results. Ruth Hussey, new to the screen, is cast opposite Young. Lew Ayres and Guy Kibbe also have important parts. Lawson and Mr. and Mrs. Sam George. Proceeds of the entertainment amounted to $37.
