Seizure Of United States Steamer City Of Flint By Germany Raises Fine Point

"Mercy Ship," Alleged to be Carrying Contraband, Taken Into Russian Port By German Warship—Soviet Washes Its Hands

RELEASE IS DEMANDED

WASHINGTON, D.C., October 24: (CP)—The United States government was expected today to demand that Russia release the steamer City of Flint on the grounds that Germany had no right to send the vessel into a neutral port regardless of any contraband she might have carried.

MOSCOW, October 24.—The Soviet government, preserving strict neutrality under international law, today referred the case of the United States steamer City of Flint, seized as a contraband prize by a German cruiser and taken to Murmansk on the Arctic Russian coast where it was in turn taken over by the Russian authorities and the German prize crew of eight interned, to the United States embassy at Moscow for decision. The Soviet holds that the case of the City of Flint is a matter for United States rather than German disposition.

FINE IS IMPOSED

The local halibut boat Mother III, Capt. A. Antonsen, was fined $200 by Stipendiary Magistrate Andrew Thompson today on a charge of fishing for halibut in a closed area in contravention of the International Fisheries Commission regulations. A charge of fishing in Area No. 2 with an Area No. 3 licence was dismissed.

The case of the Borgund, Capt. Anton Dybhavn, is now proceeding.

WEDDED AFFLICTIONS

LONDON Oct. 24: (CP)—Lillian and Caroline Barnes, twin deaf and dumb sisters, will be married soon to men similarly afflicted.

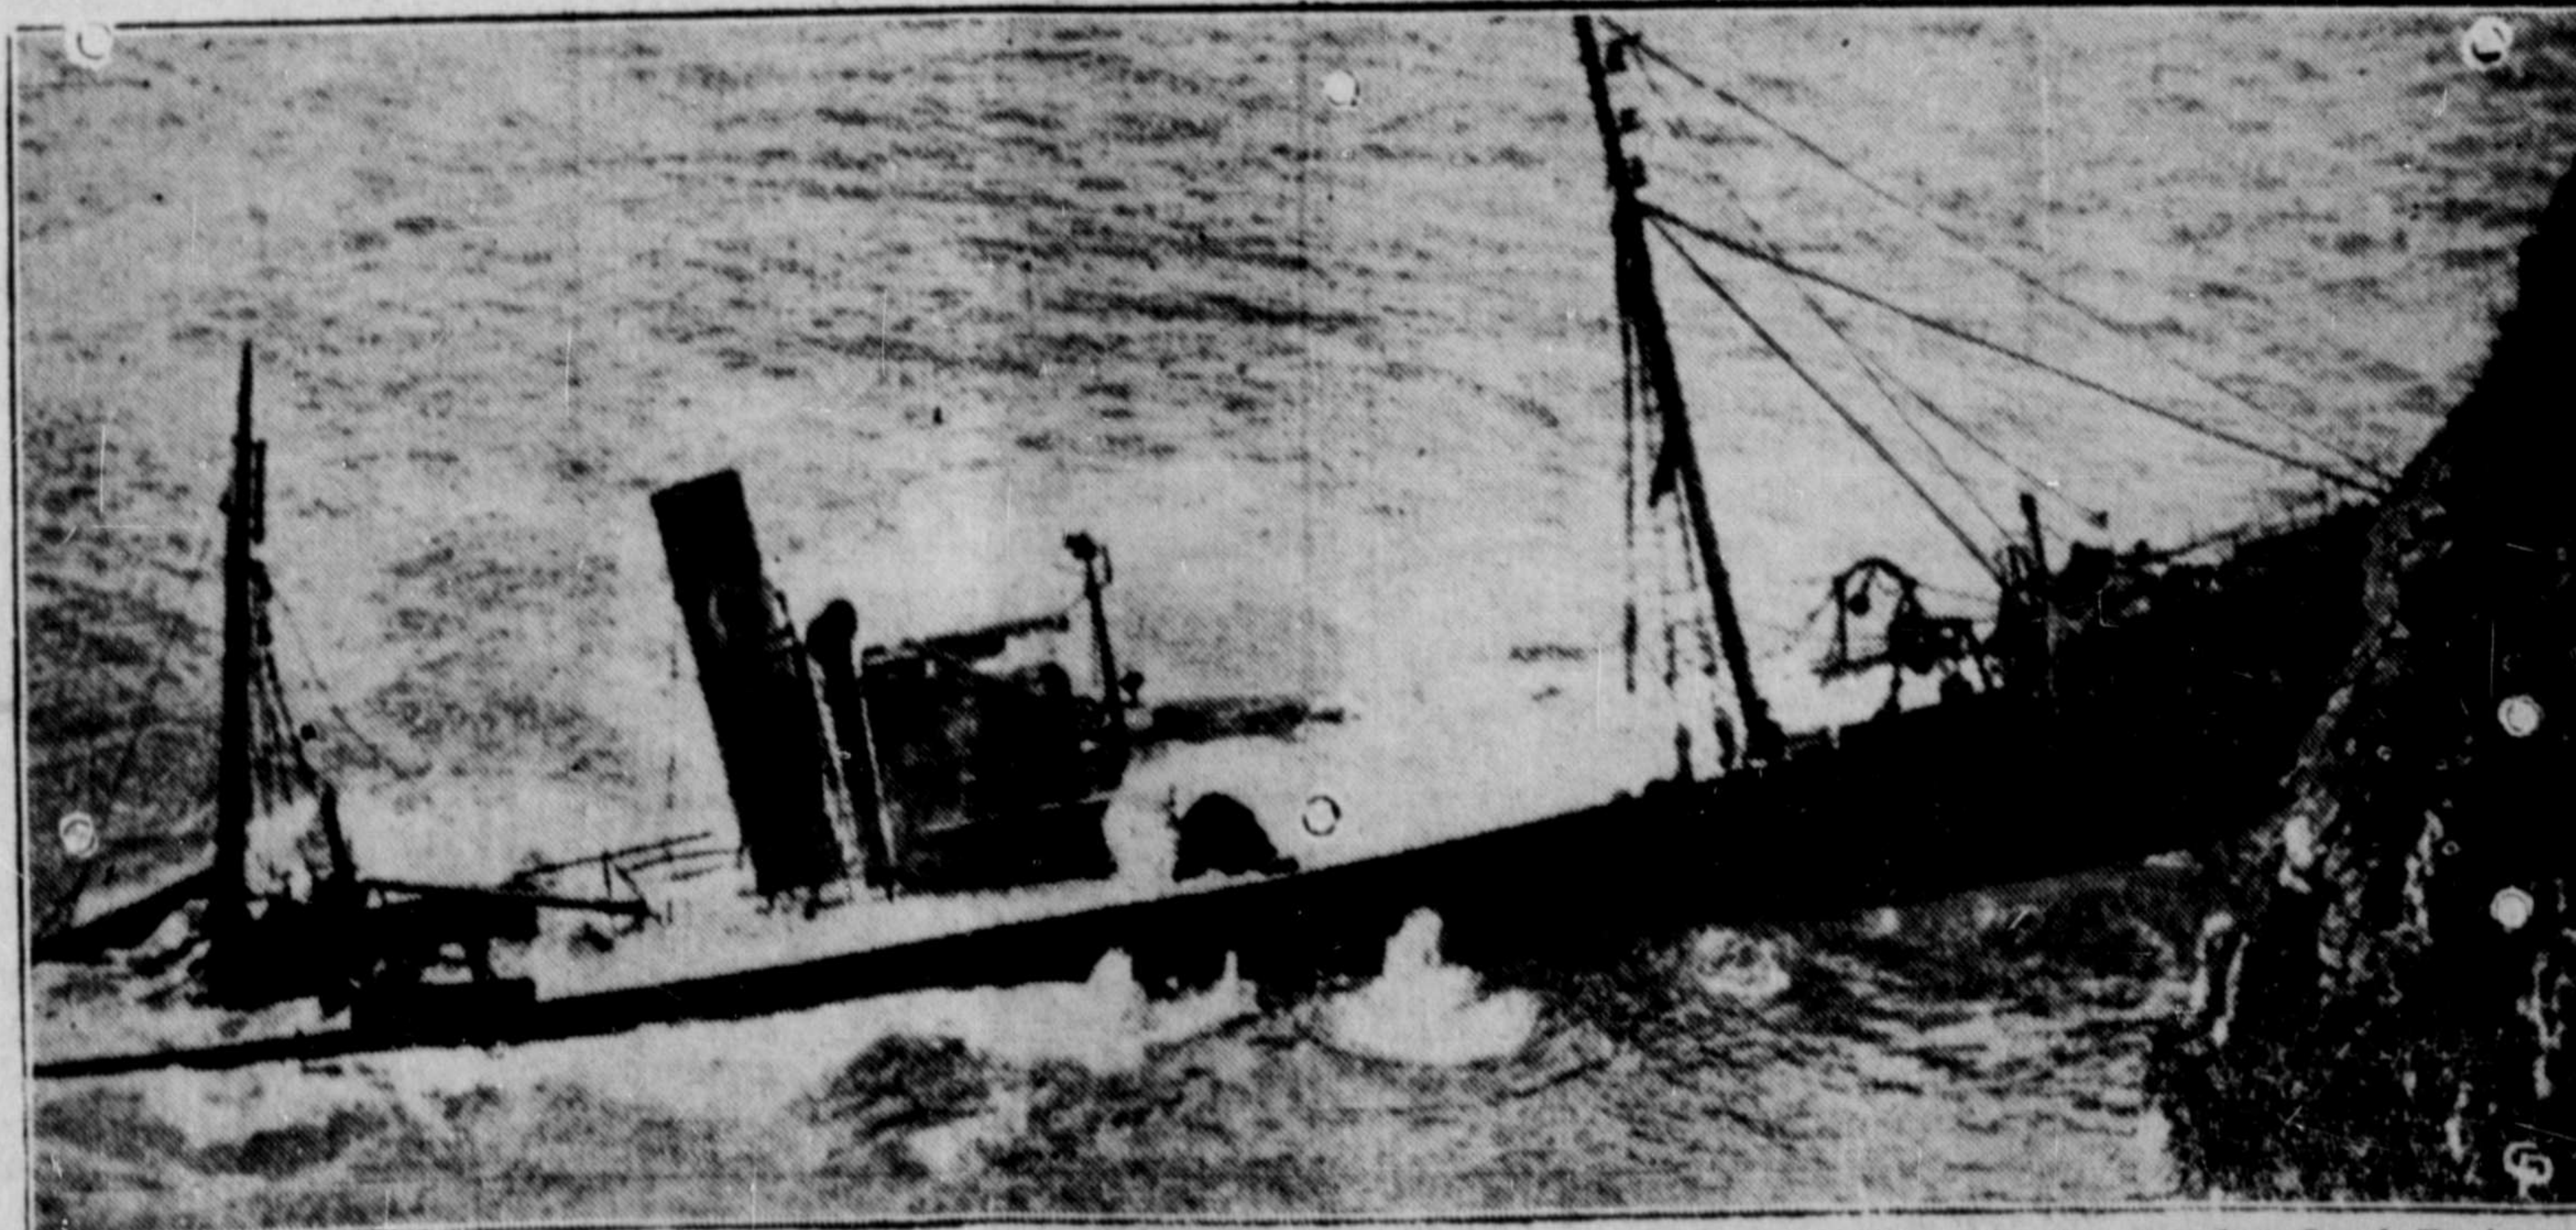

The City of Flint, it was revealed last night, had been seized in the Atlantic on Friday by the German raider Emden. She was laden with tractors, grain, leather and other commodities from United States for England. The Germans claim that she carried contraband, a claim that promises to raise an international issue.

The City of Flint, flying the Soviet flag, was at first taken to Tromsø, Norway, and thence on to a bay near Murmansk. Later the Soviet authorities seized her and interned the German prize crew.

According to preliminary views expressed at the White House in Washington the City of Flint was on a legal voyage and was not carrying contraband under international law. However, the United States Department of State was looking into all phases of the situation and the White House was awaiting an official report on the whole incident. There appears to be no doubt that the United States will question the right of Germany to seize the vessel and take her into a neutral port. United States vessels have been stopped at sea and searched but this is the first occasion on which one has been seized.

Advises received at Stockholm, Sweden, assert that the City of Flint was on an errand of mercy, having on board thirty-eight survivors from the British steamer Stonegate which had been sunk in the Atlantic, presumably by a German pocket battleship. It was the City of Flint which picked up many survivors from the liner Athena at the first of the war and delivered them to Halifax.

QUEBEC ELECTION

Quebec voters go to the polls tomorrow in their general provincial election and the outcome will be followed with interest through Canada even though war news is still the transcending subject of the news these days.

We are constrained to agree that Premier Duplessis is not to be commended in precipitating a provincial election on the issue of contentious matters seriously affecting the national life of Canada at this particular time when there seemed to be no real good reason for an appeal to his people. The election itself, however, is the sole business of the people of Quebec.

It is not the first time that federal questions, entirely out of the smaller jurisdiction, have been drawn into provincial elections in order to provide a talking point for the politicians. Unfortunately Duplessis' action, reckless to say the least of it, has a disuniting influence at a most unpropitious time.

What will happen in Quebec tomorrow we would not essay to predict. Party lines are pretty well broken up. The Liberal party is still split there. The Conservative party, as such, is not in the picture. The contest has been between Premier Duplessis's Union Nationale, J. Adelard Godbout's official Liberals and Paul Gouin's Action Libérale Nationale.

Possibly the most significant feature of the campaign was the announcement by Rt. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, minister of justice, and three of his companion members from Quebec in the federal cabinet that they would resign if Duplessis was to win. Such a break-up in the federal cabinet at this time would be a serious thing for the country. Doubtless, Mr. Lapointe and his colleagues considered well before they made that threat.

CIVIL LIBERTIES

We notice our good friend Mr. Justice A. M. Manson expounding on the subject of civil liberties in wartime, a matter of much interest to us all these days. There is no good reason why civil liberties should not be discussed in war as well as in peace although possibly there should be a little more discretion in such serious days as these than in the good free and easy days of peace when almost everything goes.

Intelligent people who undertake to talk about civil liberties just now, especially in public, temper their remarks with due moderation. For the unintelligent there are special powers in the hands of the authorities which will compel them to restrain themselves whether they like it or not. This is a time when the interests of the state must come before those of the individual and the most of those who are wise enough to discuss civil liberties are wise enough to be told how far they should go without requiring the assistance of the authorities to keep them within due bounds.

MARRIES FRIEND OF HIS "GIRLHOOD"

Once a gentleman, always a gentleman, the old maxim goes, but that doesn't apply to a lady. Mark Weston, shown here with Miss Alberta Bray, was an outstanding English woman athlete, winner of the shotput championship for Britain in 1924, until doctors performed an operation which changed Mary Weston into Mr. Mark Weston. Miss Bray was Miss Weston's girl friend. Now Miss Bray has become Mrs. Mark Weston. They are shown here as they appeared shortly before their recent marriage. Oddly enough a similar case is that of Zdenka Koubka of Czechoslovakia, who, after an operation in New York, will marry a "girlhood" friend.

British Sailors Contend Flag Of Eire Not Enough Under War Conditions

DUBLIN, Oct. 25. (CP)—Refusal of British crews to sail Irish mail boats between Holyhead and Dublin under the tricolor of Eire has revived consideration of proposals to form an Irish mercantile marine. Eire at present has only about 200 seagoing craft, the passenger and mail services with Britain being operated by British controlled companies.

It is argued that if Eire had her own boats and crews, difficulties like those recently at Holyhead would never have arisen. The British sailors declared they would not sail the boats under any but the Red Ensign because they could not be sure of getting compensation if they were sunk by u-boats while flying the Irish flag.

AIR CHIEF OF CANADA SOLO FLIER

Bishop Came Out Of Great War With Highest Honors Of British Arms

OTTAWA, October 24. (CP)—William Avery Bishop, Canada's air marshal and head of her military aviation, left Royal Military College when 20 years old to go overseas as a lieutenant in the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

Four years later when the First Great War ended, Bishop had these achievements to his credit: He had brought down 72 German airplanes on the western front and was tops among the Allied airmen. He had risen to the rank of lieutenant-colonel and won the Victoria Cross. He was officially credited with more than 170 air battles.

Li-Col. Bishop was the first man to receive the Victoria Cross, the Distinguished Service Order and the Military Cross, all in a single investiture by the King. He is also Chevalier of the French Legion of Honor, holds the Croix de Guerre with two palms, the special medal of the British Air Fleet Committee, gold medal of the Aero Club of France and the special war medal of the Aero Club of America.

Air Marshal Bishop is a firm believer in the potency of aerial warfare and is on record with this statement in a public address before the present war: "I believe that in the event of European trouble our most valuable form of co-operation (with Great Britain) would be highly-trained air personnel."

Empire Organization

Today Bishop is busily engaged in the organization and training of that personnel and will play a large part in the establishment in Canada of training areas for airmen from other parts of the Empire.

Bishop was born in Owen Sound, Ontario, February 4, 1894. At college when war broke out, he lost no time in getting into the Canadian Expeditionary Force. In August, 1915, in France, he was transferred on his own request to the Royal Flying Corps.

On the western front he piled up a record unmatched by any flier of the allied forces and succeeded only by Germany's Richtofen, but war writers agree that Bishop's achievement was possibly the greater. He engaged in more combats single-handed and brought down more enemy planes behind their own lines.

In one day Bishop brought down five German planes. In another he went up nine times after enemy planes and nine times engaged them. His greatest successes were solitary flights where, as one writer says, "he took fearful chances."

Narrowest escape Bishop had was in one of his early flights. On March 25, 1917, when the Germans were in a strategic retreat to the Hindenburg Line, he glided back over the Allied lines with a dead engine. Above him were two German planes, but he landed safely.

Bishop's winning the Victoria Cross was an exploit of June 1, 1917. Before sunrise, Bishop, flying alone, went over the German lines to raid an airdrome. There was no sign of life around that airdrome so he continued on his way till he found one. At the airdrome seven planes were being readied for the air.

Bishop swooped down, destroyed two of their planes. Two others took after him. One of these he destroyed and damaged the other before returning to the Allied lines.

In June, 1918, he was detached for service on the British air ministry staff. In August he returned to the Canadian headquarters staff to organize an air branch and was engaged on this when the war ended.

Commercial air ventures which he engaged in Canada during the war were disappointing. He returned to England but came back to Canada and on an outbreak of the present war was vice-president of a large oil company.

The Canadian government made him air vice-marshal in 1936. In August last he received the rank of marshal.

The air marshal's publications include "Winged Warfare," "Hunting the Huns in the Air" and "The Flying Squad."

He married in 1917 Margaret Eaton Burden, daughter of C. E. Burden and niece of the late Sir John Eaton of Toronto. There is one son and one daughter.

BOWLING BANQUET

Distribution of Prizes Was Feature of Affair Last Night

The annual banquet and distribution of prizes of the Canadian National Recreation Association Lawn Bowling Club was held in the Commodore Cafe last evening with sixty members and guests present. F. S. Walton, chairman of the club, was in the chair and in his usual inimitable way made everybody welcome. After a sumptuous dinner, the toast to the King was duly honored following which W. H. Tobey, president of the Recreation Association, was called on and, in an address that was both humorous and serious, he left the gathering with a few thoughts for their future consideration. The report of the secretary, J. A. Frew, showed the club to be in a very healthy condition, the membership being up to the limit with the present facilities. However, with the new green available next year, as it is fully expected it will be, accommodation will be provided for a larger membership, thereby providing recreation and entertainment for a greater number than has been possible in the past.

Short speeches were made during the evening by F. A. MacCallum, Frank Dibb, Arthur Sutton, Jack Preece, G. P. Tanker, G. W. Cripps, Thomas McClymont, R. M. Winslow, M. A. Burbank and others, all of whom paid tribute to the place the Bowling Club occupies in the recreational life of the city. The balance of the evening was spent in song and story, contributed to by R. E. James, W. D. Vance, Angus Macdonald, D. A. MacPhee, J. A. Frew, Sergeant Eckhurst, 16th Canadian Scottish and Reg. King. The latter, a recent arrival in the city, proved himself an entertainer of unusual ability, his monologues being well chosen and exceptionally well delivered. Musical numbers were delightfully rendered during the evening by Fred and Russell Cameron with S. C. Thomson accompanying on the piano.

The success of the evening was largely due to the committee in charge comprising Jack Preece, R. E. James, J. A. Frew and A. R. Nichols who have handled these functions for the past few years and each year apparently endeavor to improve on their previous efforts and evidently with some success.

The prize list for the year was as follows:
J. W. McAuley Trophy—Singles championship, Jack Preece.
Hartt Shoe Trophy—Singles championship runner-up, D. A. MacPhee.
Benson Studio Trophy—League championship, R. Gammon, W. D. Vance, F. S. Walton and Geo. Hill (skip).

NAZIS' MENU IS LIMITED

With Most Things Rationed And Imported Foodstuffs Scarce Palatable Meals Are Difficult

By Louis P. Lochner Associated Press Correspondent BERLIN, October 24: (AP) — How to make palatable dishes for the family on war rations is a problem the German hausfrau has had to face from the very beginning of the war. With bread cards, flour cards, meat cards, fat cards and a variety of other cards in vogue, shopping has become a fine art. One hausfrau took the trouble of counting how many coffee beans the little paper bag containing her weekly ration actually had. The result surprised even her—16 beans from which to brew coffee for a week. The Nazi Women's Auxiliary is trying to step into the breach and help out the puzzled housewife with daily bills of fare. Until cold weather sets in the daily ration can be made palatable by fruits of various kinds. Later, it is to be assumed, something else must be thought up. Here are sample menus devised by the auxiliary for four days for a family of four:

Thursday— Breakfast: "mixed" coffee (meaning a few coffee beans mixed with chicory, barley or some other ingredient), 1 1/2 pints of milk (skimmed), bread, jam and artificial honey. Dinner: Pear soup, spinach, potatoes, pork sausage. Supper: Left-overs of dinner, spinach, potatoes and gravy. In addition, plum cake.

Friday—Breakfast: Like Thursday. Dinner: Carrots, apples and potatoes boiled together as one dish, sour milk, canned cranberries. Supper: Tomato salad, bread with sausage, oil sardines or cold meats (if available).

Saturday — Breakfast: "Light" oatmeal soup (presumably meaning with plenty of water), bread with jam or artificial honey. Dinner: Soup made of herbs (if possible with bread added), sauerkraut with bacon, potatoes. Supper: Mixed salad made up of boiled potatoes, tomatoes and cucumbers; bread with canned fish; "German" tea (meaning tea made of whatever herb or tree blossom grows in that particular section of the country).

Sunday— Breakfast: Jam and fresh fruit, home-baked white bread, honey or marmalade, tea. Dinner: Plum soup, pork or lamb roast, cabbage salad, potatoes, chocolate pudding with vanilla sauce. (This is assuming that the butcher will have a roast for this family of four. Housewives already complain that this is often not the case. Every citizen is entitled to one pound of meat—including canned meats and sausage—per week.) Supper: Tomatoes with whey—cheese mixed with herbs, fried potatoes, "German" tea.

Restaurants Hit

If perchance the family should decide that, of a Sunday, it would like to indulge in the luxury of going to an ice cream parlor, it will find itself out of luck. At best, it can obtain only a watery sort of substitute for ice cream. Since September 13, the use of unskimmed milk has been forbidden to ice cream manufacturers.

If the family should hanker for "real" and not "German" coffee, hence go to some coffee shop or confectionery, it never knows whether coffee will be available, or whether, as happens in many cases, "real" tea is the best to be obtained instead of coffee.

QUEBEC TO VOTE THIS WEDNESDAY

Elections Wednesday To Send Only 86 Members To Assembly Instead of 90

QUEBEC, October 24: (CP) — Quebec voters will choose 86 members for the Legislative Assembly in the provincial elections this Wednesday instead of 90 as in previous elections.

This reduction was brought about by the redistribution bill passed by the legislature shortly before prorogation last April. In the shuffle of constituencies, several Montreal seats were rearranged, though the number remained the same and four seats elsewhere in the province disappeared.

Kamouraska, Riviere du Loup, Richelieu, Vercheres, Vaudreuil and Soulanges were merged into three seats — Kamouraska-Riviere du Loup, Richelieu-Vercheres and Vaudreuil-Soulanges, while Chateauguay, Laprairie-Napierville and St. Johns became Chateauguay-Laprairie and Napierville - St. Johns.

On the island of Montreal, where there are 15 constituencies, boundary changes eliminated the St. Lawrence and Dorion seats, while Westmount and St. George were merged and new constituencies of Jeanne Mance, Notre Dame de Grace and Outremont were formed.

Changes in Montreal brought uniformity in the number of electors in each division, making the average about 15,000 to a constituency.

Oppose One Another

Because of the changes several members have been left without constituencies and in at least two instances in this election members of the last legislature will be opposed to one another in the voting.

In Lotbiniere the present Union Nationale representative, Maurice Pelletier, has Rene Chalouit, National member from Kamouraska, as an opponent, while Hon. T. J. Coonan, minister without portfolio and former St. Lawrence representative, and Frank L. Connors, Liberal, are candidates in Montreal-St. Ann, Mr. Connors' constituency.

It appeared for a time that W. R. Bulloch, former Union Nationale member for Westmount and Gilbert Layton, former minister without portfolio, who represented St. George, would be opponents in Westmount-St. George. Both had withdrawn their support from the government party. Mr. Bulloch running as a Conservative and Mr. Layton as an Independent. However, Mr. Bulloch transferred his candidature to Montreal Notre Dame de Grace, which got part of his old riding of Westmount in the redistribution.
