Douks In Southern Interior Starting On Rampage Again; Bombings And Firings General

NELSON, April 24: (CP)—One school was burned, another was bombed and unsuccessful efforts were made over the week-end to burn and bomb two other schools, a planing mill and a Catholic church in the Doukhobor settled districts of West Kootenay and the Grand Forks areas over the week-end. None were injured in any of the incidents.

The Champion Creek school was razed by fire. The verandah was blown from the Ootischenia school without injury to the teacher. William Milne, who was in the living quarters at the time, dynamite under the brilliant school failed to explode. The mill there was fired but it was discovered in time to be extinguished. Ties were burned at Grand Forks and an attempt to burn the Catholic church at nearby Canyon failed.

FUNERAL OF "BUN" SMITH

Many Paid Tribute at Obsequies Last Friday Afternoon

BURNS LAKE, April 24.—The remains of the late B. A. Smith were laid to rest Friday afternoon. Mr. Smith, known to all his friends as "Bun", was one of the leading men in this district and his jovial presence will be missed by many. Deep sympathy was expressed for his widow in the many beautiful wreaths and flowers which both covered and surrounded the casket. Rev. J. McCormick conducted the funeral service which was held in St. John's Church.

Before two o'clock the church began to fill and by 2:30 one hundred people were present. The opening hymn, "Lead Kindly Light," was followed by a prayer and psalm. Mrs. McCormick gave a beautiful rendering of that appealing hymn, "A Few More Years Shall Roll." The short address by Rev. J. McCormick dwelt on the certainty of life after death, relieving the sad tension of the atmosphere with a strong note of hope. The service closed with "Rock of Ages" sung with great feeling by the congregation.

W. Wilson looked after the seating and Mrs. Wilson accompanied the singing at the organ. The procession of cars following the remains to the graveyard was the greatest in Burns Lake for many years, practically the whole community attending with many friends from outside.

Funeral services were held at Burns Lake, B.C., on Monday, April 24, 1939, at 2:30 p.m. The deceased was B. A. Smith, 62 years of age, of Burns Lake, B.C. The funeral was held in St. John's Church, Burns Lake, B.C., and was conducted by Rev. J. McCormick. The service was a simple one, and was attended by a large number of friends and relatives. The remains were laid to rest in the Burns Lake cemetery.

HER WAYS QUEENLY

Princess Elizabeth Has Grown Up Fast—Likes Geography But Has Simple Pleasures

At Awkward Age

Is Already Enjoying Some of Privileges Reserved For Adult Royalty

By WILLIAM MCGAFFIN Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, April 24: (CP)—Elizabeth Windsor has reached the awkward age. Her 13th birthday last week found the blond princess grown tall—but it also found her acting with dignity becoming the probable future Queen.

During the absence of King George and Queen Elizabeth in Canada and the United States in May and June, the King's Office in the United Kingdom will be administered by a Council of State of which His Majesty's brother, the Duke of Gloucester, will be the head. At the same time, in the public mind, Princess Elizabeth, as heir-presumptive to the throne, will emerge one of the most important as well as popular royal personages in the British Isles.

Princess Elizabeth's behavior already suggests the queenly manner. She is fast becoming adept at the peculiar backhand wave used by "mummy" and "grandmama queen" to acknowledge the plaudits of the crowd. She is prim and correct beyond her years, in vivid contrast to her eight-year-old sister, Margaret. Graduated from the nursery a year ago, Elizabeth was promoted from half socks to long stockings. She has discarded her hair ribbon. She wears shapelier shoes.

In general, in consideration of the fact the Princess is rapidly growing up (she is only an inch shorter than her mother) she is beginning to enjoy some of the prerogatives reserved to adult royalty. But she is not old enough to accompany her parents on their overseas peregrinations. Hence she won't be able to go to Canada and the United States this summer—much to her disappointment.

Lover of Animals

Princess Elizabeth, who likes animals—and horses best of all—already has a law in mind "I ever I am Queen."

According to the story, once in a burst of ecstasy she exclaimed: "Horses have such a pathetic look. I don't know what it is about them that makes them look so lovely. If ever I am Queen, I shall make a law forbidding people to ride or drive on Sunday. Horses must have a holiday."

Still another reminder of her juvenile status is the nickname "Lilybet" which she has not yet shaken off. She has been known as Lilybet ever since her baby tongue failed to manipulate "Elizabeth" property.

JugoSlavia Is Now With Axis

ROME, April 24: (CP)—Italy claims a new victory for the Rome-Berlin axis. Week-end conversations at Venice between Foreign Minister Ciano and JugoSlav Foreign Minister Cincin-Markovich ended yesterday with a statement that he promised "faithful collaboration" of JugoSlavia with Italy and Germany.

Department Of Defence To Be Given Quarters

The Department of National Defence, it is now reported, will have offices in that part of the new Federal Building which was originally planned to accommodate the Government Telegraphs.

ASSIGNED TO ROYAL SERVICE

Over Two Thousand C.N.R. Employees To Work for King—Members of Train Crews Named

MONTREAL, April 24.—More than 2,000 men of numerous classifications of employment will be required for the operation and service of the royal train during its progress over the lines of the Canadian National Railways, according to a statement made today by N. B. Walton vice-president in charge of operation for the national system. For the actual operation of the royal train there are now being selected thirty-six engineers and an equal number of firemen to form locomotive crews. Of that number fifteen individuals of each classification will be engaged in the central region of the national system which covers a large part of the province of Ontario and Quebec. An equal number will be selected for the western region which includes the prairies and British Columbia. Then for the Atlantic region, including eastern Quebec and the maritimes, six engineers and six firemen are being named. For service in the three regions named, nineteen conductors are being selected as well as forty-three trainmen.

The men required for the direct operation of the royal train number in all 134 and form but a small proportion of the more than 2,000 individuals whose services will be requisitioned. Some of these other men will ride the royal train while large numbers will have their appointed places and duties at stations and terminals where the royal train will be serviced each day during a scheduled stop.

Officers of the national system actually riding on the royal train will include the region vice-presidents, each of whom will travel throughout his own jurisdiction. Accompanying the vice-president throughout assigned territory will be a general superintendent.

In addition to these officers responsible for the operation of the train there will be numerous experts in charge of the air conditioning, the electric lighting and other mechanical features of the train. The railway staff on the royal train will also include telegraph operators.

Special Service Functions

As all travellers are aware, it is necessary to perform a number of service functions on all long distance trains operating in Canada. For this special occasion the number of men ordinarily required will be greatly increased in order to expedite the movement.

At divisional and terminal points where such service functions are performed, these forces will attend to the replenishment of the water supply, the ice supply, cleaning of the exterior of the cars and a complete examination of trucks, wheels and all operating parts of the train. The men being selected for this work are being chosen with the same care exercised in the choice of the engineers, firemen, conductors and trainmen and this care in selection is being extended further back to numerous other workers who perform duties in connection with signals, crossings and the maintenance of way.

SCRAP IRON SHIPMENTS

Editor, Daily News:
It is not uncommon that scrap iron generally is being used as a useful commodity but, at the present time, the rush for huge quantities of scrap iron indicates that there is a sinister purpose in its use.

Very recently a quantity of scrap iron was shipped south and already a bigger quantity is to be collected according to information we have received.

Be it far from us to try to meddle in private business. We certainly do not wish to obstruct it but, as members of a race which is menaced by rapacious powers, we wish to do our part in shortening this malicious war and secure peace, independence and prosperity for our friends and countrymen who are suffering unbelievable hardships through a war of which they are entirely innocent.

The increase of the junk iron trade spells more blood on the hands so callously are they handling it. We believe that a free and happy China stands for more and more substantial trade for the American continent than the short and insecure war profit which is now being piled up by very few individual concerns. And so, these days, when the whole civilized world is shocked and in fear of wholesale war, which in size and ferocity will overshadow the previous one, we should do our part for the preservation of world peace.

We believe that the citizens in our community largely see with disgust the destructive policy of the Japanese militarists in dealing with China. Therefore, we wish to appeal for aid in curtailing trade in materials of destruction, knowing full well that such action will be the best policy for everybody in the long run. Thanking you for your valuable space.

REHEARSAL OF DANCES

Outstanding Display of Terpsichorean Art to be Shown Here This Week

Parents and friends of the dancing pupils of Mrs. H. H. Hodgson and her daughter, Miss Nona Hodgson, witnessed last night at the Capitol Theatre the final dress rehearsal preparatory to a public recital to be staged later in the week. It was quite evident from the rehearsal that this revue is to be one of the finest presentations of its kind ever offered in Prince Rupert. Mrs. Hodgson and her daughter have been engaged for several months in preparing the pupils for the show which is both large and colorful. There is a splendid variety of classical, comedy and novelty numbers, depicting much versatility in the terpsichorean art. Some twenty-five talented and graceful local dancers, ranging upwards from tiny tots, take part and there are numerous and varied costumes, some of which are very elaborate while all are most attractive.

There are seventeen numbers in all and the program takes the better part of an hour and a half. With several solo numbers, ballets and ensembles are featured. There are two general groups, one consisting of smaller girls and the other of larger. The repertoire is well balanced and the routines are in excellent shape. There is sufficient variety to provide special interest for individual tastes and general appeal for all. Highlight numbers include "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs," with Yvonne Riffou as a sweet and captivating princess, Hawaiian and military numbers, a beautiful scarf dance by Miss Nona Hodgson, a highland fling and sword dance excellently done by little five-year-old Heather Brewer.

The increased depth of the stage which was recently effected greatly enhances the presentation. Special lighting effects have been arranged.

The Prince Rupert Boys' Band, under direction of Bandmaster Robert Greenfield, is assisting in connection with the recital and the accompanists are Mrs. J. S.

Black and Harold Davey.

afternoon at Buckingham Palace. Her sister is a member of the junior organization, the Brownies.

The fact that Elizabeth is only second in command is evident, they say, of the hard and fast rule the organization follows—on royal order—against giving her preferential treatment simply because of her status.

Another example of the "sensible way" her parents are bringing her up is that she is allowed only a shilling a week pocket money.

Principal playmate of the heir-presumptive to the throne is her sister. They spend many hours playing house in a toy bungalow—a pursuit the elder princess does not feel is too childish despite her advancing years. She goes domestic there even to the point of washing dishes and scrubbing floors.

But she has many other ways of amusing herself. She rides a bicycle around the palace gardens, is an expert horsewoman, tries fishing when she is in Scotland and practises gold under her father's coaching.

Elizabeth closely resembles the King but has a robust appetite. Among her favorite dishes are boiled mutton and caper sauce, stewed rabbit, calves' liver and bacon and steamed puddings.

She sees lots of films at private showings in the palace, knits, swims, collects stamps and national dolls, plays tunes on her miniature piano and takes cooking lessons from the royal chef.

Plans Advanced For Leadership Training Course

Plans for the leadership training school to be held in this city under the direction of Bert Fiddes, secretary of the Boys' Work Board of the Religious Education Council of British Columbia, are rapidly nearing completion.
