Some of Queen's Most Prized Jewels Will Be Brought to Canada For, Royal Tour Opening May 15

By MOLLIE MCGEE

Canadian Press Correspondent

LONDON, May 4: (CP)- Once again family safes ave been opened, bank vaults visited and jewellers busy or the courts held by Their Majesties brought out of their hiding places the loveliest jewels English women own. The createst collections of pearls in London belong to royalty. Queen Mary's great ropes are frequently pictured and part of a great collection made . Queen Victoria. Some of them Revenue worn by the sad Tudor CATERING Queens, some by the Great Queen Elzabeth, but many of them have come in tribute in recent years from Maharajahs of the Indian Empire. A great many of the Royal treasures have been renovated and Details of e-set since the beginning of the present reign, Chief among the new jewels and among the most storic, is the Queen's crown of atinum and diamonds made with thes that can be detached so e can wear it—as she often does state occasions-as a circular in also be detached and worn as separate brooch. MUST GET USED TO IT

People in Prince Rupert as in other parts of the world must accustom themselves to many changes that are taking place and others that are likely to take place. We are tiring president, P. Frattinger getting used to new ideas of government such as compulsory marketing and wheat bonusing and there is no telling where these changes may land us. It is useless in worry over it or to feel that the country is going to the dogs. As has been said by Bruce Hutchison and others we are in the midst of a great revolution in which change? come thick and fast and not even the most enlightened person can tell where it will lead. Many people think they know, but they don't. All they do is to guess.

It is not only in Canada that changes are taking place. What is true here is true in almost all countries to a greater or lesser degree. Even in the totalitarian states the people seem to be acquiescnt but they ar still thinging of the past, the present and the future and making Junior Athletic Association at comparisons and they will have something to say before Ocean Falls. long. A Japanese newspaper tells that it was planned to season. send the Takarazuka girls on a theatrical tour of the United States and included in their repertoire was the love officers as follows: story of Townsend Harris, the first foreign consul to be posted in Japan. It seems that Mr. Harris, being cut off from the rest of his people for long periods, felt lonely so wright. he took to live with him a beautiful Japanese Geisha girl, Okichi. Harris was greatly esteemed in Japan and his act was looked upon as a compliment to the Japanese it is expected there will be keen people with the result that his story became one of the most popular subjects for dramatic illustration.

But, the Americans objected to the idealization of General Store. Possibly a team will their consul in this manner and forbid the act. A MIND IN THE MAKING Science and invention have brought to today's youth a broader horizon, a fund of information and an understanding of world events undreamed of a few short years ago. How they absorb this knowledge, how their minds are moulded and their young opinions formed is YOUR problem! What better way is there to present a clean and true picture of today's world to your child than through the columns of a good daily newspaper? By forming the habit of reading a newspaper your child will develop a broader general knowledge of world events, an enquiring thirst for complete information and a sense of balance that comes with knowledge. Through special departments, a good daily newspaper offers a wide variety of entertainment features for the young mind in addition to the daily . news. Let a daily newspaper help your child build a better, more tolerant and more understanding attitude toward the future.
