Kenneth Leslie's "By Stubborn" was the unanimous choice of the judges in the poetry division.

Leslie, now a resident of Boston, was born in Pictou, in 1892. Youth spent in his native province induced in the future poet a love of the sea, and a profound respect for the traditions of his people. His is essentially the Celtic outlook. Mr. Gibbon's Work

No Canadian writer has made a more significant contribution to interpretative literature than John Murray Gibbon, whose recently published study of the racial origins of the Canadian people, "Canadian Mosaic," received the general literature award. The book has been widely acclaimed by British and Canadian critics for its compelling human interest, sound scholarship, and as an important contribution to the solution of a vital national problem-the problem of Canadian unity.

Mr. Gibbon has travelled extensively, visiting Japan, Russia, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, and other countries. Since 1913 he has been resident in Montreal. Folk song and handicraft festivals sponsored several years ago at Winnipeg Quebec, and other Canadian cities were Mr. Gibbon's idea. The organization of these festivals in itself may be regarded as an important contribution to the moulding of a Canadian mosiac.

A Scot by birth, a citizen of the world by experience, and a Canadian by long residence and preference, Mr. Gibbon's reputation as one of Canada's outstanding literary men is secure. He is an authority on folklore and music "Steel of Empire," a comprehensive and absorbing history of the Canadian Pacific Railway is one of his most recent publications.
