EXCURSION IS MARRED BY TRAGEDY

Purser of Princess Alice Victim of Untimely Accident at Stewart—Remains Landed Here

Tragedy struck at the Vancouver Board of Trade goodwill excursion at Stewart late yesterday afternoon. The victim was Harold MacDonald, purser of the excursion ship, who lost his life in falling from a dock at the northern mining camp.

The tragedy occurred at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Accompanied by his assistant, Colonel Marsh, Mr. MacDonald, who was an enthusiastic amateur photographer, had gone to the Crawford Dock at Stewart to take a picture of the Princess Alice which was moored at the nearby Premier wharf.

The death fall was witnessed by several members of the excursion party as well as other spectators. Dr. M. M. Morrison, resident physician at Stewart, and Provincial Constable L. F. Requa were in immediate attendance and at an inquiry it was established that the circumstances of the tragedy had been entirely accidental.

The Princess Alice, diverting from her regular excursion schedule, arrived here at 10:15 this morning with the body and left at 11:30 for Zeballos, Vancouver Island, the next call in the course of the excursion. The body was turned over to the B. C. Undertakers for preparation for shipment.

Mr. MacDonald was one of the best known coastal pursers of the Canadian Pacific Railway. His regular ship was the Princess Elaine on the Vancouver-Nanaimo run and he had been specially commissioned to some north with the Board of Trade party. He was well known at Prince Rupert as a relief purser in the past.

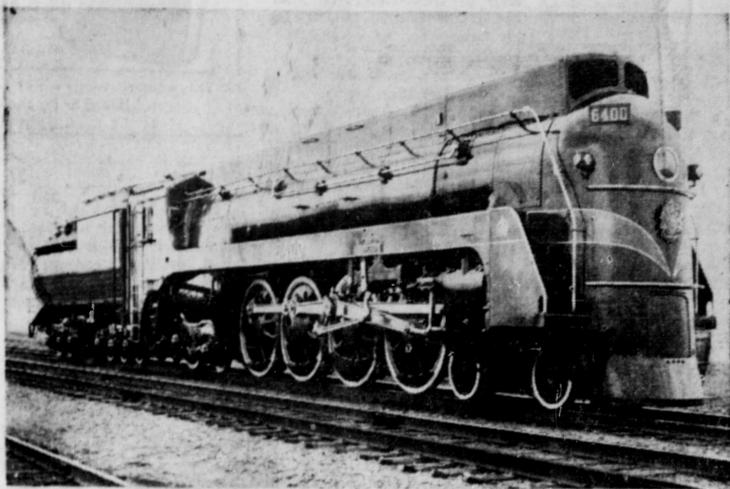

A native of Belfast, Ireland, and fifty-two years of age, Mr. MacDonald had been with the British Columbia Coast Steamship Service for some twenty-five years or so. He is survived by his widow.

Courteous and efficient, Mr. MacDonald had numerous friends all along the coast and he was highly esteemed.

"One of the very finest men in the service of our company," was the comment this morning of Capt. William Thompson, master of the Princess Alice.

Naturally, the tragedy threw a gloom into the ranks of the Vancouver excursionists all of whom were deeply regretful at the untimely demise of the popular officer.

Great New Engine Which Carried King On Tour Of Canada Is Going to Fair

STREAMLINER IS BEING DISPLAYED

MONTREAL, June 9.—The giant "6400" locomotive of the Canadian National Railways, which finished its task of hauling the royal train to the Niagara frontier Wednesday night, returned to Montreal today. It was sent to the railways shops here for a final polishing up before going on exhibition at the New York World's Fair on June 15.

Still displaying royal colors with royal coat of arms on front and sides, it will be placed on the display tracks of the railway exhibit and will also have a place of honor in the transportation pageant throughout the month of July.

The royal "6400" and the other locomotives of the same type in use on the national system are among the most powerful and serviceable engines in operation on North American rails.

In regular daily service they cover from 10,000 to 14,000 miles every month, more than three times the distance between Montreal and Vancouver. They have been covering this big monthly mileage without a hitch ever since they were put into service two years ago.

Designed by John Roberts, chief of motive power and car equipment, with the assistance of the National Research Council at Ottawa, the "6400's" follow a streamlining plan which makes them a striking and beautiful example of modern motive power.

They are more than 94 feet long with tender and have driving wheels six feet five inches in diameter. They are the largest streamlined locomotives in the British Empire and can attain 100 miles per hour.

HAPPY IN NEW LAND

Sudetens Find Canadian Prairies Much To Their Liking

WINNIPEG, June 9.—Sudeten refugees recently settled in the Walburg district of Northern Saskatchewan, experienced many happy surprises when they arrived in the western farming areas.

They were relieved when they learned there was no need to arm against Indians, pleased to know they will be able to grow potatoes and make sauerkraut in Canada.

J. J. Wiler of the colonization department of the Canadian National Railways, in charge of three large parties of refugees, found they are excellent settlers.

What strikes them most in this country is the freedom of movement, Mr. Wiler asserted.

They have to adjust themselves to that. The thing that overjoys them is the abundance of good food. They are fond of work and were pleased when told they will be able to raise pigs.

The refugees were amazed to find they did not have to hew new homes out of the wilds. In only a few cases have they had to erect buildings as most of the farms they bought are already equipped.

Made Clear That Offer To Negotiate Is By No Means Weakness Sign

Berlin Papers Suggest That Great Britain Should "Let Deeds Follow Words"—Halifax Plain Talk

LONDON, May 9: (CP)—The British press today warned Germany that Great Britain's willingness to settle differences between the two nations by negotiation must not be interpreted as an indication of weakness.

They referred to statements in Parliament yesterday by Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Foreign Secretary Halifax who expressed Great Britain's willingness to explore Germany's demands for expanded "living space" provided mutual confidence was restored in both nations.

German papers in Berlin, commenting on the statements, advised British statesmen to "let deeds follow words."

Viscount Halifax, in speaking, made it clear that any more attempts at aggression by European nations would meet with firm and far-reaching resistance.

King And Queen Meet Members Of Congress And Honor Great Dead Of United States Today

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 9: (CP)—A reception at noon today in the main rotunda of the Congress chamber when Their Majesties received five hundred members of the United States Senate and House of Representatives and a visit to Arlington National Cemetery where a wreath was laid on the tomb of the unknown soldier as the British Empire's tribute to America's war dead were the principal features of the second busy day of the visit of King George and Queen Elizabeth to the Capital of the United States.

At Mount Vernon a wreath was also placed by His Majesty on the tomb of George Washington, first President of the United States. The trip up the Potomac was made this afternoon with President Franklin D. Roosevelt on U.S.S. Potomac.

For the congressional reception, the high domed Chamber was banked with ferns and palms within while the great Dome and the large grey circular Capitol building were draped with flags and patriotic emblems of the two nations without.

No less than 4500 spectators witnessed the reception, these including the relatives of the senators and congressmen.

There were scenes of great enthusiasm from the cheering crowds as the youthful appearing King and the smiling Queen drove from the White House, where they had been guests for the night, to the Capitol. It was a warm, sunny day and the crowds seemed a veritable sea of many colored parasols.

Federal government employees were given choice positions at the entrance to the Capitol. The Queen was dressed entirely in white with typical off the face hat. The King wore formal morning clothes with silk hat. In response to the great ovation which was accorded as Their Majesties entered the Capitol, the Queen gave gracious hand waves and the King repeatedly raised his arm.

The royal car had passed through lines of United States soldiers standing with fixed bayonets. Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, met the King and Queen as they stepped out of their car and (Continued on Page Four)

PRINCE RUPERT'S OBJECTIVES

One of the Vancouver Board of Trade visitors to the city this week seemed much interested in Prince Rupert's objectives. He remarked that the city at one time had a pulp mill as an objective. He said he had asked a number of citizens what they had in sight for the improvement of the city. One man had replied that there was nothing in sight but to close up and move away. Another had said that failure of the fishing meant ruination to the business men. None had expressed any hope of anything helpful except the possibility of the establishment of an air base at Seal Cove and the placing of a permanent air squadron there. Beyond that he did not see that the city had any hope. It was a sad tale and, evidently, did not impress the visitor. Asked as to the possibility of getting a highway through to the outside world, more than one said they were supporting a scheme for highway construction about 150 miles east of the city and that, in a few years time, they hoped to have some work done nearer home.

MORE OBJECTIVES

The Daily News objects to these objectives. We suggest that one of the immediate objectives should be the establishment of a pulp mill in or near the city. Another objective should be the building of a highway to Terrace, letting the people east of that point look after their own section but with the co-operation of Prince Rupert, not with the abandonment of its own project.

If it is decided by the people of the city to abandon the highway project and be for the next fifty years more or less cut off from the interior, then we should say so and unite on at once getting a road to the top of the mountain and another around Kaien Island, the first objective being to connect the city with Billmor and Port Edward. We have refrained from asking for these things of recent years because we felt that the first objective should be a highway to Terrace.

Twenty-five years ago the people of the city asked for a road around the island and, in response, a thousand yards of it was cleared and graded at a point about half way between the city and Kaien. This is now grown up thickly with alder trees which would make excellent fuel for stove or fireplace.

Another objective might well be the popularizing of deep sea salmon fishing for sportsmen. This is something in which the hotel people might well co-operate. At Victoria where fish are not any easier to get than at Prince Rupert the sport has become very popular and is worth a great deal to the city.

Other objectives might easily be planned that would benefit the city. A new museum would be a great thing for the city and so would further beautifying until every place in the city has a garden which tourists would like to see. The civic centre is a very worthy objective and by making living conditions better in the city will help to keep people who retire from flitting south. An active home building campaign should prove a great civic asset. Who has other objectives to suggest?

Last night's Stuart Football Benefit Shield football fixture was productive of an interesting game with Velvet winning from Pioneer Laundry by the only goal of the game. Weather conditions were ideal and a good crowd enjoyed the game. As a result of the match, Velvet and Navy are tied in the Stuart Shield standing. A postponed game between Pioneer Laundry and Navy remains to be played.

Scherk defended well in the opening moments and later Smith saved Cameron's hard drive. The Laundry was lucky when, with Smith beaten, Sunberg kicked off the goal line and prevented a score. Velvet was doing most of the pressing but found Scherk Brown and Ted Smith very sure and resourceful. Christian's corner was fisted clear by Smith and Ferguson lifted the ball over the open goal. Cross was the best of the Laundry forwards and Vink did well to save his header from Gomez's well-taken corner kick.

The second half found Velvet pressing almost continuously. In a break-away Cross made a fine run but his parting shot was blocked. Scherk stopped a hard drive and Smith saved well from Ferguson. Cameron hit the upright. Laundry got away and Smith Beat Vink but the ball was cleared after a scramble. Dickens made a fine run and centred to Cameron whose first-time drive was splendidly saved by Smith. Ferguson hit the upright and Christian shot over. At last Dickens got through and scored. Velvet pressed until the end but there was no further scoring.

Teams:
Velvet—Vink; Parsons, F. Gomez; Gillis, Veitch, D. Gomez
Cameron, Ferguson, Dickens, Baker, Christian.
Pioneer Laundry—Ted Smith Brown, Scherk; Sunberg, Bussanich, Wearmouth; W. Gomez, A. Smith, Cross, Simundsen, Vance.
Referee—Pete Doherty.
Linesmen—Rol Judge and S. Gurvich.

Velvet defence was not severely tested and each member played well. The forwards did not show a great deal of combination, the best being H. Dickens, Christian and Cameron. Shooting was fair. Pioneer Laundry owed its good showing to the defence. Ted Smith kept a grand goal while Scherk and Brown performed wonders. The tackling, heading and kicking were all sure and strong. Bussanich and Sunberg also were very

DISCIPLINE IMPORTANT

Chief Petty Officer Tells How the Personality of the Lower Deck Is Developed

"Before a man can command others he must be able to command himself." That is one of the cardinal principles of discipline, according to Chief Petty Officer Instructor A. G. Bird of the Royal Canadian Navy in an address to the members of the Rotary Club and visitors at their weekly dinner yesterday afternoon. This had much to do with the developing of personality of the lower deck in the navy. Visitors present included T. Norton Young, assistant manager of the Prince Rupert sampling plant; A. H. Carmichael, inspector for the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Rev. Oliver Thorne of Kinloch.

Mr. Bird spoke of the mental strain on men who were cooped up on a ship and of the necessity of training to keep them sane. Much money and effort was expended on this training. If a man gave promise of developing he was given every chance. Money was no object. He considered that it took from fifteen to twenty thousand dollars to train a chief petty officer. The title of gunners' mate was one that could not be taken away from a man in the navy, not even by a court-martial.

While there was strict discipline in the navy, every man knew that, in case of alarm, he had the right and was expected to give a sudden signal and take temporary charge until the situation cleared. Men on the lower deck knew these things and that helped to give them that sense of personal responsibility that was necessary.

Whether petty officers were on duty or off they were subject to strictest discipline. If they were in the middle of lunch and the president rapped, they immediately laid down their knives and forks and sat at attention ready for the next move.

It is impressed upon every man in the navy that the service is as strong only as the weakest link and that each man is an unofficial ambassador of his country and that by him his country is being judged. He must learn to conduct himself so that he may be able to attend any function and to lose self-consciousness. He had to listen to lectures on current political and world events and also medical lectures. When on duty he was expected to remember that the ship was everything and danger to himself nothing. He said the men of the navy were the only men who could entirely obliterate thought of themselves in connection with their duties. They were trained to do this.

Speaks of Thetis

Speaking of the criticism of officials in England for not cutting a hole in the bow of the Thetis when she sank near Liverpool, Mr. Bird said the men would not expect that the ship should be sacrificed to save them. If a hole were cut in the vessel it would not be with their consent. The ship might be needed before the hole could be repaired. A warship was a great box of machinery and the machine must be preserved at any cost. If the machine went out of business, so did the men. This was his interpretation of the attitude of the men who died on the vessel.

In closing Mr. Bird spoke of the value of naval training in civil life and urged on employers that, whenever possible, they should seek to employ naval men.

Business at the meeting included the appointment by the president of R. G. Hopkins as member of the civic centre committee, the notifying of the members of a special invitation to them to attend a Navy League "At Home" on Tuesday evening and the formal initiation of Dr. J. T. Mandy, resident mining engineer, as a member of the club.

It's a WHITE SEASON

● Frilly blouses, petticoats, gloves, ruffles, collars — most everything is white! WHITE IS RIGHT this season. But white things must be washed frequently and repeated washings turn them yellowish, unless Blue is added. A swish or two of Blue in the final rinsing water on wash day assures the sparkling snowy whiteness that fashion demands — and it costs only a cent or two a month!

Bishop Rix At Hazelton

HAZELTON, June 9.—The Bishop of Caledonia visited Hazelton in glorious weather. At a confirmation service in St. Peter's Church on Thursday evening, seven candidates were presented to the Bishop by Rev. Frank Burling. His Lordship preached an impressive and helpful sermon to a good congregation. Holy Communion followed the confirmation service.

The church was beautiful with a profusion of flowers, white and colored tulips, also masses of purple and white lilac.

Afterwards the Bishop gave a lantern lecture, illustrating church work in the diocese of Caledonia. Hazelton was represented by pictures of the old Mission Hall, church house, and part of the cemetery, showing native graves.

On Friday Rev. J. E. Birchall visited Hazelton and later drove Bishop Rix to Smithers.

TERRACE AGREES

Editor, Daily News:

I'm delighted to read in your issue of June 7 a letter from Quick from one who conscientiously objects to the Dominion government guaranteeing the proposed loan now being arranged for the benefit of your city.

If the Dominion guarantees the Prince Rupert loan, why not extend the advantage of such a guarantee to all the municipalities in the country?

Your correspondent also objects to the dominion paying a salary to Graham Towers. So do I and for the same reason which is that Mr. Towers regards the public debts not as liabilities but as assets and it seems idiotic to pay a man who would encourage the country to go as far into debt as it can. These debts probably look like assets to the bank but I'm sure you will agree that from our point of view they have put us very much "in the red."

KING AND QUEEN MEET MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

later, at the reception, introduced the various members.

At the door of the Chamber Vice-President John Nance Garner, presiding officer of the Senate, and the Speaker William B. Bankhead greeted Their Majesties and escorted them to the receiving station.

The greeting as each member came along was a simple one. First Senator in line was William E. Borah of Idaho, veteran isolationist.

There were 1400 guests earlier in the morning at a reception in the garden at the British Embassy grounds, the number including 300 ex-service men, many of them Canadians, most of them disabled, who were presented to Their Majesties.

Talk of Peace

Last night at the state dinner at the White House the King and President exchanged toasts of which peace and goodwill were the keynote.

The King said: "I pray that our great nations may ever in the future walk together along the path of friendship in a world of peace. I trust and believe that in the years to come the history of the United States will continue to be marked by that ordered progress and by that prosperity which have been theirs in the past."

His Majesty spoke in reply to the toast by the President who said that United States and Great Britain made the principal contribution to civilization by showing that international grievances could be settled peacefully. "If this illustration of use of methods of peace, divorced from aggression, could only be universally followed, relations between all countries could rest upon a sure foundation and men and women everywhere could once more look upon a happy prosperous and peaceful world," the chief executive said.

Later in the evening President and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained with a musicale at which there were 200 guests. There were classical selections interspersed with square dance and mountain music selections.

New York Tonight

Tonight the King and Queen will leave at midnight by train for Red Bank, New Jersey, to board a destroyer which will carry them to New York and the World's Fair. The ship will dock at North River at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning and a motor unit will join the motor cavalcade as the party leaves Pier No. 1 for the fair.

The King and Queen will arrive at the fair accompanied by Governor Lehman of New York state and Mayor LaGuardia. There will be a procession to Perylon Hall, where Grover Whalen will greet the party and invite Their Majesties to sign the World's Fair guest book.

HAZELTON

Having been transferred as Indian Agent from Hazelton to Merritt, Capt. G. C. Mortimer left Hazelton on Monday of this week for his new post in the Nicola Valley.

Rock plants have been doing splendidly in Hazelton gardens this spring.

Rev. and Mrs. Goodreid of Kitkatla, who sailed last night on the Prince George for Vancouver, will proceed to Brook, Saskatchewan, for a visit after which they will go on to Montreal to embark July 21 on the Aurania for a trip to Harrogate, England. On their return to Canada, they expect to be located in Saskatchewan.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

A lancet fish, a rare species of fish to be found in waters so far north, has been landed by the halibut boat Nernen and turned over to the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station. The lancet fish is a large ferocious looking creature with long sharp teeth in a widely opening mouth. It tapers from head to tail and the chief characteristic is a high dorsal fin almost the whole length of the fish. The specimen turned in here is of average size, about three feet long. Opened up, it was found to have eaten a whole herring and two young ratfish. The lancet fish is normally a deep sea dweller. Only two are known to have been previously landed here.

C. P. R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. William Hughes, is due in port at 4:15 this afternoon from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, is due in port at midnight tonight from the south and will sail soon thereafter on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

"MIKADO" ON SCREEN NOW

Keeping within the spirit of the best Gilbert & Sullivan traditions but widening the scope of description and action, the picture version of "The Mikado" shown on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here the last half of this week, opening last night. The presentation of this picture has long been awaited and arrangements have been made to handle capacity audiences. Besides "The Mikado," a newsreel of outstanding interest, devoted entirely to showing the recent arrival of the King and Queen in Canada, is to be seen.

"The Mikado" is indeed a vital and gorgeous production filmed as it is entirely in technicolor. Vast vistas and huge spectacle of color and movement form the enchanting Oriental background for the presentation of what many consider the world's favorite comic opera.

A distinguished cast of artists portrays the colorful parts. Martyn Green and Sydney Granville, both of D'Oyly Carte, appear as Ko-Ko and Pooh-Bah. Kenny Baker of radio fame is Nanki-Poo. Jean Collin, musical comedy star, is Yum Yum; Elizabeth Paynter, Pitti Sing, and Kathleen Naylor, Peep-Bo, John Barclay, who played the role on Broadway, is the Mikado. Constantine Willis, grand opera diva, is Katisha and Gregory Stroud, Fish-Tush. The chorus of D'Oyly Carte completes the ensemble and the London Symphony Orchestra plays the musical score.

"The WATER Controls the QUALITY!"

IT IS no exaggeration to say that water is one of the most important ingredients in the distilling of liquors. Other things being equal, the quality of the water decides just how good the liquor can be when properly distilled and aged.

Access to abundant supplies of the right kind of water—pure, crystal-clear, non-alkaline—is exactly the reason why the plant of United Distillers Limited is located in Vancouver, and also why the "UDL" brands of Rye Whisky and London Dry Gin can hold their own in competition with the best, in Eastern Canada and in a dozen other countries throughout the world.

When you consider the reasonable prices at which these good UDL liquors are available, you cannot but agree that UDL Value is something that every economy-minded person should consider.
