Most of Nations Are Not Worrying About Aggression By Reich

Warsaw is Not Asked by Chancellor Adolf Hitler if She Thinks Herself Threatened—Nothing New in Tri-Partite Agreement

LONDON, April 22: (CP)—The Roumanian government, asked by Berlin whether it felt itself threatened by Germany, is reported reliably to have replied: "Roumania does not see how any one could feel secure in Europe at the present time." Roumania's first move after replying to the German questionnaire, was to pass the answer along to the British Foreign Office, it was said.

Warsaw spokesmen said that Poland had received no questionnaire. Most other nations replied that they do not feel themselves threatened by Nazi aggression. There were no further developments today in connection with the projected tri-partite agreement between Great Britain, France and Russia and some are expected until the return from Moscow of Ambassador Malsky.

Canada and Her Relation With Great Britain in Case of War

OTTAWA, April 22.—No question is of greater importance to the people of the Dominion than Canada's relations with Great Britain in the event of war and during the discussion on this most important subject the Prime Minister and the Hon. Mr. Lapointe presented the Liberal party's stand. It was a momentous day when Mr. King spoke. The galleries were crowded to standing room, showing the great interest taken in this subject. Ever since the Munich crisis the government has been subjected to considerable criticism. All insinuations and criticisms were fully answered after the Prime Minister made his speech and many facts which were not generally known last September were laid bare.

Regarding his action during the time of the Munich crisis Mr. King revealed that Great Britain had never consulted any of the Dominions, including Canada, about the matter. New Zealand, Australia and South Africa, contrary to popular belief, had given no assurance whatsoever to Great Britain of their willingness to help should war have been declared. As a matter of fact at the time many people were crying "fight! fight!" Great Britain was advising the Czech government to hand over the country peacefully. Great Britain acting only as a mediator. Had any assurance or statement been made by Canada or the other Dominions during the crisis that they were prepared to fight for Great Britain it would have not only embarrassed Great Britain but might have caused a declaration of war.

RUSSIA AND BRITAIN

A recent writer suggests that it is not likely there will be any war within the next year. In the meantime Russia has been pressing forward on the southeastern front with the idea of helping China. Already there have been border clashes and, as China makes her threatened move toward ousting Japan, it is possible that Russia will back her sufficiently in undeclared border warfare to make it necessary for the common enemy to keep large forces in that neighborhood and thus weaken the Chinese front.

While most British people seem to be in sympathy with this move it would not be possible for Great Britain and France to send either army or navy or air force to this region just now and that might make full co-operation with Russia impossible. Should Great Britain and France weaken their defences in Europe they would lay themselves open to possible attack at home.

UNITED STATES CO-OPERATION

Another recent writer suggests that Prime Minister Chamberlain will not bring on a European war if he can possibly help it unless he is assured of the early co-operation of United States. He was blamed by Americans for surrendering to Hitler at Munich but there was at that time no suggestion that the United States would back up Great Britain and France if they went to the defence of Czechoslovakia. Since that there has been a gradual change of sentiment with the possibility that in the near future concerted action might be possible. United States is beginning to realize that its frontier is in Europe rather than on the shores of the Atlantic and that the Democracies must stick together to resist Nazi aggression.

CHANGED TONE

It must be admitted that since Chamberlain commenced to organize the resistance to the advance of the dictators there has been a marked difference in the tone of the aggressors. Italy seems to have given up for the present the idea of taking some of the colonial Empire from France and Germany is much less aggressive toward Poland. If Russia and Great Britain can make an alliance in regard to the defence of the border states, an alliance which included a determination that for every bomb dropped in Britain, France or Russia by German or Italian planes, two would be dropped in Germany and Italy, there would be no war for some time to come. Up to the present all the threats have come from one side and the going has been easy for the dictators. Let the democracies become aroused and the aggression might come from their side, unless there is a general change of attitude. The world will resent action which divides it into two hostile camps. There has been in the past a desire to deal easily with the boastful aggressors. This cannot go on.

Properly Cooked Skunk Fine Dish

Trapper and Indians Long Regarded Little Animal As Toothsome Delicacy

REVELSTOKE, April 22: (CP)—The lowly skunk has long been considered a rare delicacy by trappers, prospectors and Indians, many of whom sent in recipes for its preparation in response to the request of a New York woman writer.

The New York letter was distributed to northern residents by T. A. Abrahamson, secretary of Revelstoke Board of Trade. One hardy pioneer in the Rockies said he had eaten skunk for 60 years without any particular attention to the way it was cooked and found it excellent fare.

One Vancouver Island woman suggested: "First let the meat hang for a while. Then let it soak in vinegar. Remove and cover again with fresh vinegar. Then add large sliced onion, bay leaves pepper and salt. Wash and remove from the brine. Put enough water to cover the meat then cook. This is a stew but the meat may be roasted after the same treatment."

Another correspondent says the Indian just boils or stews the meat without addition of spices. If boiling not is unavailable, Mr. Indian will have roast or baked skunk. The cleaned skunk is wrapped in cabbage leaves and plastered with clay mud and then baked. With other contributions, Mr. Abrahamson has collected a fair-sized list for his New York correspondent.

Canada's Oldest Police Officer

Lawrence J. Hunter of Edmonton 79, Still On Active Duty

EDMONTON, April 22: (CP)—Lawrence J. Hunter of Edmonton 79, believes he is Canada's oldest active policeman. Still in uniform Constable Hunter is stationed at an Edmonton relief depot each day.

Born in the City of Quebec, he donned his first uniform at the age of 14 years when he joined the Royal Rifles as a bugler. In 1894 he started swinging his first night stick with the Quebec police force. He served with the Montreal Police from 1892 to 1913 when he moved West.

"For all of my 65 years in uniform—26 of them with the Edmonton city police—I'm still good for a good many more," he told an interviewer.

"I'll die with my boots on and be buried in my uniform."

Hunter has had many narrow escapes, the closest when he was a rookie cop in Montreal, Phenean Ponders, notorious Eastern desperado, tossed a bottle of nitroglycerine at the constable's feet and he was blown 15 feet by the blast.

He played his part in the capture of three famous safebreakers in Montreal—"Baltimore" Witty "One Hand" Taylor and "Porky" Johnson. They received long prison sentences.

Blind Children Play For Queen

Her Majesty Shows Her Interest in London Work

LONDON, April 22: (CP)—Queen Elizabeth was visibly affected as she watched blind children playing at the National Institute for the Blind here.

With the King she visited the Institute to mark the 25th anniversary of its opening. Two blind children from Southport were led forward by a nurse to present a basket of spring flowers to the Queen.

The astonishing achievements in braille interested the King greatly as he examined a loyal address, embossed in braille, assuring him of the loyalty and affection of his blind subjects.

MAY CO-OPERATE

FREDERICTON, April 22: (CP)—Canada and the United States are planning to co-operate in war against the European spruce sawfly, said R. E. Balch, Dominion entomologist here, on his return from a conference at Washington. Infestation of United States forests was reported less extensive than in Canada.

AIR TRAVEL IS POPULAR

Traffic of TransCanada Developing By Leaps and Bounds

WINNIPEG, April 22:—"We are decidedly pleased with the reception TransCanada Airlines passenger service has received from the travelling public and are encouraged by the many kindly comments and the many constructive suggestions we have received. We are more than satisfied that, within a very short time, we will have an air service second to none and one that Canada will be mighty proud of," declared George Wakeman, general traffic manager of TransCanada Air Lines, who was a visitor in Winnipeg today.

Mr. Wakeman is on a general trip of inspection over the Western region and will make stops at Calgary, Edmonton, Vancouver, Lethbridge and Regina before returning East.

"We have set up our ticket offices in Western Canada and have our representatives installed in active service. One of the interesting and pleasing features of the travel so far is the amount of what might be termed long haul or main line business. In the first two weeks of the service we carried 496 passengers and since then there has been no slackening of passenger business. The planes are decidedly comfortable and splendidly equipped for the routes they are used on.

"It is also most satisfying the amount of air mail that is being carried. This business is increasing by leaps and bounds every week and the public is really getting to appreciate the amount of time saved when air travel is used. The regular services between Edmonton, Calgary and Lethbridge and Vancouver and Seattle are becoming heavily patronized and it is surprising the amount of local rail business that has developed.

business that has developed. "An overnight hop between Montreal and Vancouver is losing its novelty and business are beginning to appreciate and more just what the Canadian air service means. It greatly encouraged and in part will maintain the very highest possible peak efficiency," declared the traffic chief.

IMPORTANT RESOURCE

Prof. Williams of University, In Address Here, Makes Plea For Carnivores As Well As Herbivores

Prof. M. Y. Williams of the University of British Columbia, during the course of his lecture Thursday evening before the Women's Canadian Club, dealt to some extent with technical aspects of scientific use and conservation of the wild life resource, emphasizing the processes of nature itself in keeping a balance through the distribution and functions of the carnivores and herbivores. While there was a popular idea that many of the carnivores, birds as well as animals, were a parasite and as creatures which preyed upon others, were fair game for unrestricted destruction, Prof. Williams illustrated ill and even disastrous results which might ensue through lack of conservation of these carnivores. Wolves, cougars, the carnivorous birds all played their part in maintaining the balance of nature by preying upon the weak and unhealthy herbivores, keeping the more useful ones strong and fit and reducing as in the case of the predatory birds, the numbers of rodents, rats and mice—which did untold damage to crops, warehouse contents etc. In the past man had not been sufficiently appreciative of these predators and, in many cases, had made a mistake in their destruction. On some occasions it might have been more advantageous to protect than to destroy them. Even the hawks, crows, badgers and coyotes had their useful functions. It was an anomalous situation that a bounty might be placed upon hawks when there was a pest of gophers or grasshoppers on both of which hawks preyed. The herbivores were often really more of a menace than the carnivores.

tain should that country be attacked or in danger. But under our democracy it was the people who would decide, stating again that in any crisis Parliament would be called on to decide.

Mr. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, who spoke the following day, made it clear that the Crown was the bond which binds all the Dominions to the Motherland. Unity was most desirable, he declared, during the present threatening clouds of war. Neutrality was a myth for, if Canada was to declare her neutrality, she would have to step out of the Commonwealth and he doubted if the people of Canada were prepared to do this. He was against conscription but any man who would not protect his own country was a traitor.

Following the investigations of the Fisheries Research Station, the Company has just completed extensive changes and improvements in ice storage and ice delivery methods.
Ice for the boats will all be old ice, thoroughly cured or aged at new low temperatures. It will be delivered into the hold, even in the hottest weather, as cold as the storage room.
Fishermen are invited to inspect the new system. Better ice than ever before, at no increase in cost, means economy to the boat and improved quality in fish delivery.

Working Well in Preparedness Scheme for John Bull's Defence

By MOLLIE MCGEE

Canadian Press Correspondent LONDON, April 22: (CP)—Evacuation schemes are occupying hundreds of women's committees in England. Women in rural districts, called upon some time ago by the authorities to help in taking the census of available rooms and description of likely buildings, are busily turning in reports.

As it emphasizes the importance of plans for housing of school children in times of emergency in camps to be used for holiday resorts in times of peace, the Queen sat in the House of Commons as a visitor during the debate on Health Minister Elliott's Camps Bill.

Summer camps for boys have for years been one of the King's main social service interests. With the King the Queen has lately been visiting new housing settlements in London's East End and outer suburbs and is fully informed on arrangements being made for the accommodation of the working class population in times of peace as well as in emergency.

The main concern of women on evacuation committees has been to find owners of large houses willing to take children. Complaints were registered by wealthy householders afraid of damage to their property. Arguments waxed hot and heavy in columns devoted to correspondents in various papers and the theme was even used in vaudeville skits. The Health Minister's Camp Bill making provision for 50 evacuation and school camps would abolish the necessity of billeting thousands of children though country houses would still be used for some.

Would Billet Hospital

Lady Jowitt, wife of Sir William Jowitt, former Attorney-General, has offered to take the patients and staff of a Kensington baby hospital to her country house in event of a wartime evacuation of London and the hospital has accepted the offer and requested the Kensington

Council to continue paying its grant for upkeep should conditions force it to move to Kent. This is but one of dozens of such arrangements between organizations and women offering services and accommodation.

Work of the Auxillary Territorial Army or Women's Army was tested when the great recruiting campaign to raise Britain's Territorial Field Army to war establishment of 340,000 got under way in the last weeks of March.

Women Territorials—fully trained, officered and in uniform—took charge of all the filing and clerical work in the various centres and also did most of the automobile driving of supervising officials. Steadily, surely, the great new organization of women is falling into its place in Britain's army and taking over the non-combatant tasks assigned to it.

Women in their tailored uniforms no longer cause passersby to stare as they walk along the street and photographers no longer lurk outside the Duke of York's headquarters barracks on the chance of getting a shot at an awkward squad of buxom matrons who have "joined up" to cook for the troops.

Effect on Marriage

Whether military activities will lower the number of marriages this year has not been openly predicted by statisticians given to such figures but the Post Office authorities have allowed $75,000 less in their estimates for marriage gratuities, or bonuses given to employees departing to marry. They were non-committal when questioned.

"The estimate is purely speculative, based on the average of past years, and does not mean that fewer girls are expected to marry this year or that the girls being married will be younger and will have had fewer years of service. The figure given is necessarily a long shot," they said.

The largest group of girls coming under the jurisdiction of the Post Office are the telephone girls who number several thousands in London alone. They receive a bonus in proportion to their years of service if leaving to marry and it was particularly in reference to them that the authorities were questioned. It is from this class of home that the new territorials are being recruited and military plans would no doubt affect their matrimonial prospects.

Say what they will, figures in the estimates denote Post Office authorities do not expect much contentment on the steps of telephone exchanges this year!

Halibut Landings for Week Top Million Pound Mark—Eighteen Salmon Canneries to Operate—New Fisheries Patrol Vessel Due Here Soon

Halibut landings at the port of Prince Rupert for the week up to and including yesterday topped the million pound mark, making it one of the largest week's fish business in years at the port. The landings totalled 1,081,350 pounds of which 489,830 pounds was from no less than forty-four Canadian vessels and 591,500 pounds from thirty American bottoms. Considering the heavy volume of fish, prices held up quite as well as might have been expected, ranging from a minimum of 6c and 5c for Canadian fish up to a top bid of 6.8c and 5c. For American fish the minimum price was 7c and 5c and the high 7.6c and 5.5c. These prices, of course, were considerably lower than had marked the opening few days of the season. The fresh fish market having been pretty well supplied, the most of this week's fish went into cold storage. With boats better spread out again and many vessels having accounted for their initial trips of the season, it is expected the landings during the ensuing week or so will not be quite so heavy. The season's total landings at Prince Rupert up to and including yesterday were 1,654,350 pounds as compared with 1,298,000 pounds at a corresponding date last year. This year's Canadian landings stood at an aggregate of 704,950 pounds as against 590,300 pounds last year and the American total was 859,400 pounds in comparison with 707,000 pounds a year ago.

Capt. Barney Roald's new halibut Neptune II, built at one of the Japanese yards in Cow Bay during the past winter, landed its first catch of 9,000 pounds yesterday following its maiden trip to the fishing grounds. The vessel, a 40-foot-er equipped with a 25 h.p. Hein diesel engine, functioned very satisfactorily during the trip, the skipper reported.

Another new local boat is the trawler Sundown now outfitting on the local waterfront preparatory to leaving in a day or so for the North Island grounds. The Sundown was built at one of the Japanese yards on the order of the late A. Jacobsen who died before she was completed. Later Skipper Hanson took over the vessel.

Fishing close to shore at Freeman Pass in Kitkatla Inlet, John Hill of Kitkatla and his eldest son on Wednesday of this week caught what was at first believed to be a spring salmon but which turned out to be a big blackfish. It is said to have been the largest fish ever caught by hook and line in the vicinity. Hill and his son were fishing from a sixteen foot row boat and there were some twenty-five or so other hand trollers in the same vicinity at the time. The big fish was found to have several spoons in its mouth, explaining what had happened to the gear which shortly before had been lost by other fishermen.

In Victoria's sheltered inner harbor Canada's only whaling fleet is getting ready to cruise northward to the Queen Charlotte Islands for the 1939 season. Six small but sturdy vessels, launched in Norway in 1910 and brought via the Straits of Magellan to Victoria, will set forth soon from their winter base there for Rose and Naden harbors in the Queen Charlottes. Cruising from these stations they average a catch of 300 whales a year. Last season saw the inauguration of two-way radio conversations between the ships, enabling them to converge whenever whales are sighted. They hunt their quarry east and west of the Charlottes, the skipper of each vessel forsaking his bridge at the canneries there this afternoon.

Canneries To Operate

Eighteen salmon canneries—three less than last year—are expected to operate in Prince Rupert district this year. The canneries not operating this season will be Good Hope in the Rivers Inlet area and Old Massett and Shannon Bay in Massett Inlet on the Queen Charlotte Islands. Good Hope will be used as a camp for Knight Inlet cannery in Area No. 3.

The operating canneries in the district this season are expected to be as follows:

Naas River—Wales Island and Arrandale.

Skeena River—Inverness, North Pacific, Sunnyside, Cassiar, Carlisle and Claxton.

Central Area—Butedale, Klemtu and Namu.

Bella Coola—Talleo.

Rivers Inlet—Provincial, Beaver, Wadhames and Goose Bay.

Queen Charlotte Islands—Pacofi and Lagoon Bay.

The new fisheries protection vessel Kitmaat, recently completed at the W. R. Menchions shipbuilding plant at Vancouver, is now being outfitted at Vancouver and is expected to arrive in Prince Rupert in the course of the next two weeks to make this the base of her operations in patrol service. The Kitmaat is an 87-foot long vessel equipped with a 120 h.p. Vivian diesel engine. Capt. L. Sheppard, formerly chief officer of the Malaspina, will be her master. H. L. Landry of this city left a few days ago for Vancouver to join the Kitmaat as second engineer. The majority of the crew of the Kitmaat is being drawn from the old fisheries patrol steamer Givenchy which is being taken out of service.

Under a shuffle of Canadian Fishing Co. cannery managers, C. E. Salter, former manager of Haysport cannery on the Skeena River, which has been closed down by the company, takes charge this year at Carlisle, having been here on the Cardena this morning enroute from Vancouver to the Skeena River, A. D. Matheson, former manager for years at Carlisle, now goes to Talleo in the Bella Coola district and will be Gurd, accountant at Cassiar cannery, and Mrs. Gurd and J. P. McMillan, foreman at Sunnyside cannery, and Mrs. McMillan. The Cassiar crew was also on board the Cardena.

Taking up the Alaska service in place of the Princess Norah, which has been withdrawn for the summer, C. P. R. steamer Princess Louise, with Capt. S. K. Gray in command, is due in port at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning from Vancouver and will sail an hour or so later for Skagway and other points.

CONGO IS REVEALED

Thrilling African Picture Feature Tonight at Capitol Theatre

Lifting the cloak of mystery which has concealed the secrets of long inaccessible regions of the deep Belgian Congo, "Dark Rapture," showing tonight at the Capitol Theatre here, brings a thrilling account of life, loves, dangers and ecstatic rituals of jungle denizens. The picture is the record of a recent Armand Denis-Lelia Roosevelt expedition which was sponsored by the Belgian government to penetrate and photograph sections of the African jungle in which no white man had previously set foot. Featured scenes include bare-handed capture of enraged wild elephants, mysterious manhood rites performed on forest tribe boys, walking on burning lava, giant dancers in frenzied gyrations of ecstasy, pygmies soaring through the air to build a bridge, public flogging with stinging whips and the strange tactics of a man with 440 wives. All these contrive to make exciting sequences.

In the other end of tonight's double bill is "Twelve Crowded Hours," a thrilling newspaper screen drama with a cast headed by Richard Dix with Lucille Ball in the feminine lead. The story deals with the activities of an enterprising reporter who bitterly attacks the city's underworld through his columns. A web of underworld intrigue and narrow escapes heightens the suspense of the exciting story. The round-up of the leader of the gang and his henchmen leads to a thrilling action climax.
