Premier Chamberlain Says Russian Action Not Changing Policy

Resources of Empire For Making War Are Greatest in History—Too Early For Verdict on Soviet

LONDON, September 20: (CP)—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain told the House of Commons that Russia's invasion of Poland will not deter Great Britain and France from the task of ridding the world of Hitlerism. He said that Hitler's speech in Danzig yesterday did not change the situation. Great Britain's resources were being "steadily and surely marshalled" but he cautioned the nation not to expect too much at once. The resources of the Empire in the aggregate are stronger and more powerful than at the outset of any past war, the Prime Minister said. Mr. Chamberlain said it was too early to "pronounce any final verdict on the motives or consequences of the Russian action."

Russians Take Important Polish City—Warsaw, Although Broken, Still Undeclared

MOSCOW, September 20: (CP)—General staff of the Red Army reports the capture of Vilno in Poland after two hours of fierce fighting. This is the most important point to be taken by the Russians since their invasion.

After another day of almost continuous shelling and bombardment, Warsaw was still holding out and the Polish radio station there came on the air again last night with another defiant to the German invaders. The ancient city had been virtually destroyed, it was admitted, but the Poles would fight until the last drop of blood. They would never surrender.

Polish resistance to the Germans was also reported continuing west of the corridor port of Gdynia.

Thousands of planes are being transferred by the Germans from the Polish front.

Yesterday French troops turned back another German counter-attack east of the Saar River. Two more German villages were captured by the French.

WILL KEEP UP BATTLE ON HITLER

Britain Chooses War To Hitler's Deceit and Russian Treachery

LONDON, September 20: (CP)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler's Danzig speech of yesterday met with a chilly reception in London. A government spokesman observed that it was full of such "crass mis-statements as usually fall from his lips and to which the world is becoming accustomed." It was replete with "insincerity and lowliness." The chain of broken Hitler promises was now so long he could no longer be believed. Der Fuehrer's previous pledges that his final demands on Europe had been satisfied are recalled. It is also observed that he now agrees to give Russia the Ukraine which he had once said he desired for Germany. From the words of his own mouth he stood convicted of duplicity. It is now certain that any peace offers Hitler may make on the basis of a partition of Poland are destined to meet with a loud and emphatic "No" in Great Britain. Russian action notwithstanding, Great Britain and France will prosecute the war until Poland is finally liberated and the threat of Hitlerism is ended.

Weight of Numbers in Congress Behind Plan for Neutrality Act Revision

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 20.—Although there will be strong opposition, power of numbers in Congress appears to be with the President's plan for a revision of the neutrality act whereby arms may be sold to belligerents on a cash and carry basis. Even a number of anti-Neutrality Dealers are expected to favor the change. The special session to deal with the question of neutrality act revision will open on Friday.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB

Charles M. Schwab, the man who fought his way from one of the lowliest positions to one of the highest the world had to offer, eventually became one of the world's richest men without caring much about money or its requirement. In later life he told of refusing one hundred million dollars offered him as a bribe by Germany not to sell ordnance to Great Britain at the time of the war.

When Schwab was offered fifty million dollars for a half interest in Bethlehem Steel he referred the offer to his wife who is reported to have replied: "We wouldn't sell for five times that amount. What would I do with the money and what would you do without your work?" The offer was declined.

Schwab is also reported to have turned down an offer of a million dollars a year to take over the management of the United States Steel Corporation. Instead he took the management of the company on the condition that he was to take all the profits over seventy million dollars a year. He earned over two million a year for himself. His views on the possession of wealth are very interesting. He says:

"A man with too much money can't really give. He can sign his name to a check and a certain amount of money automatically passes from his possession. But what he has given means nothing to him. He does not need it. He has sacrificed nothing. He couldn't use it if he had kept it."

"There is no enjoyment in great wealth. One of the greatest happinesses in life is having something to look forward to—something just out of reach—something that you are not quite able to afford."

"When a man reaches the point where he can get any of the world's purchasable things simply by writing out a check he has cut loose from happiness."

"I have had a lot of joy in this life which money has not brought me," he said.

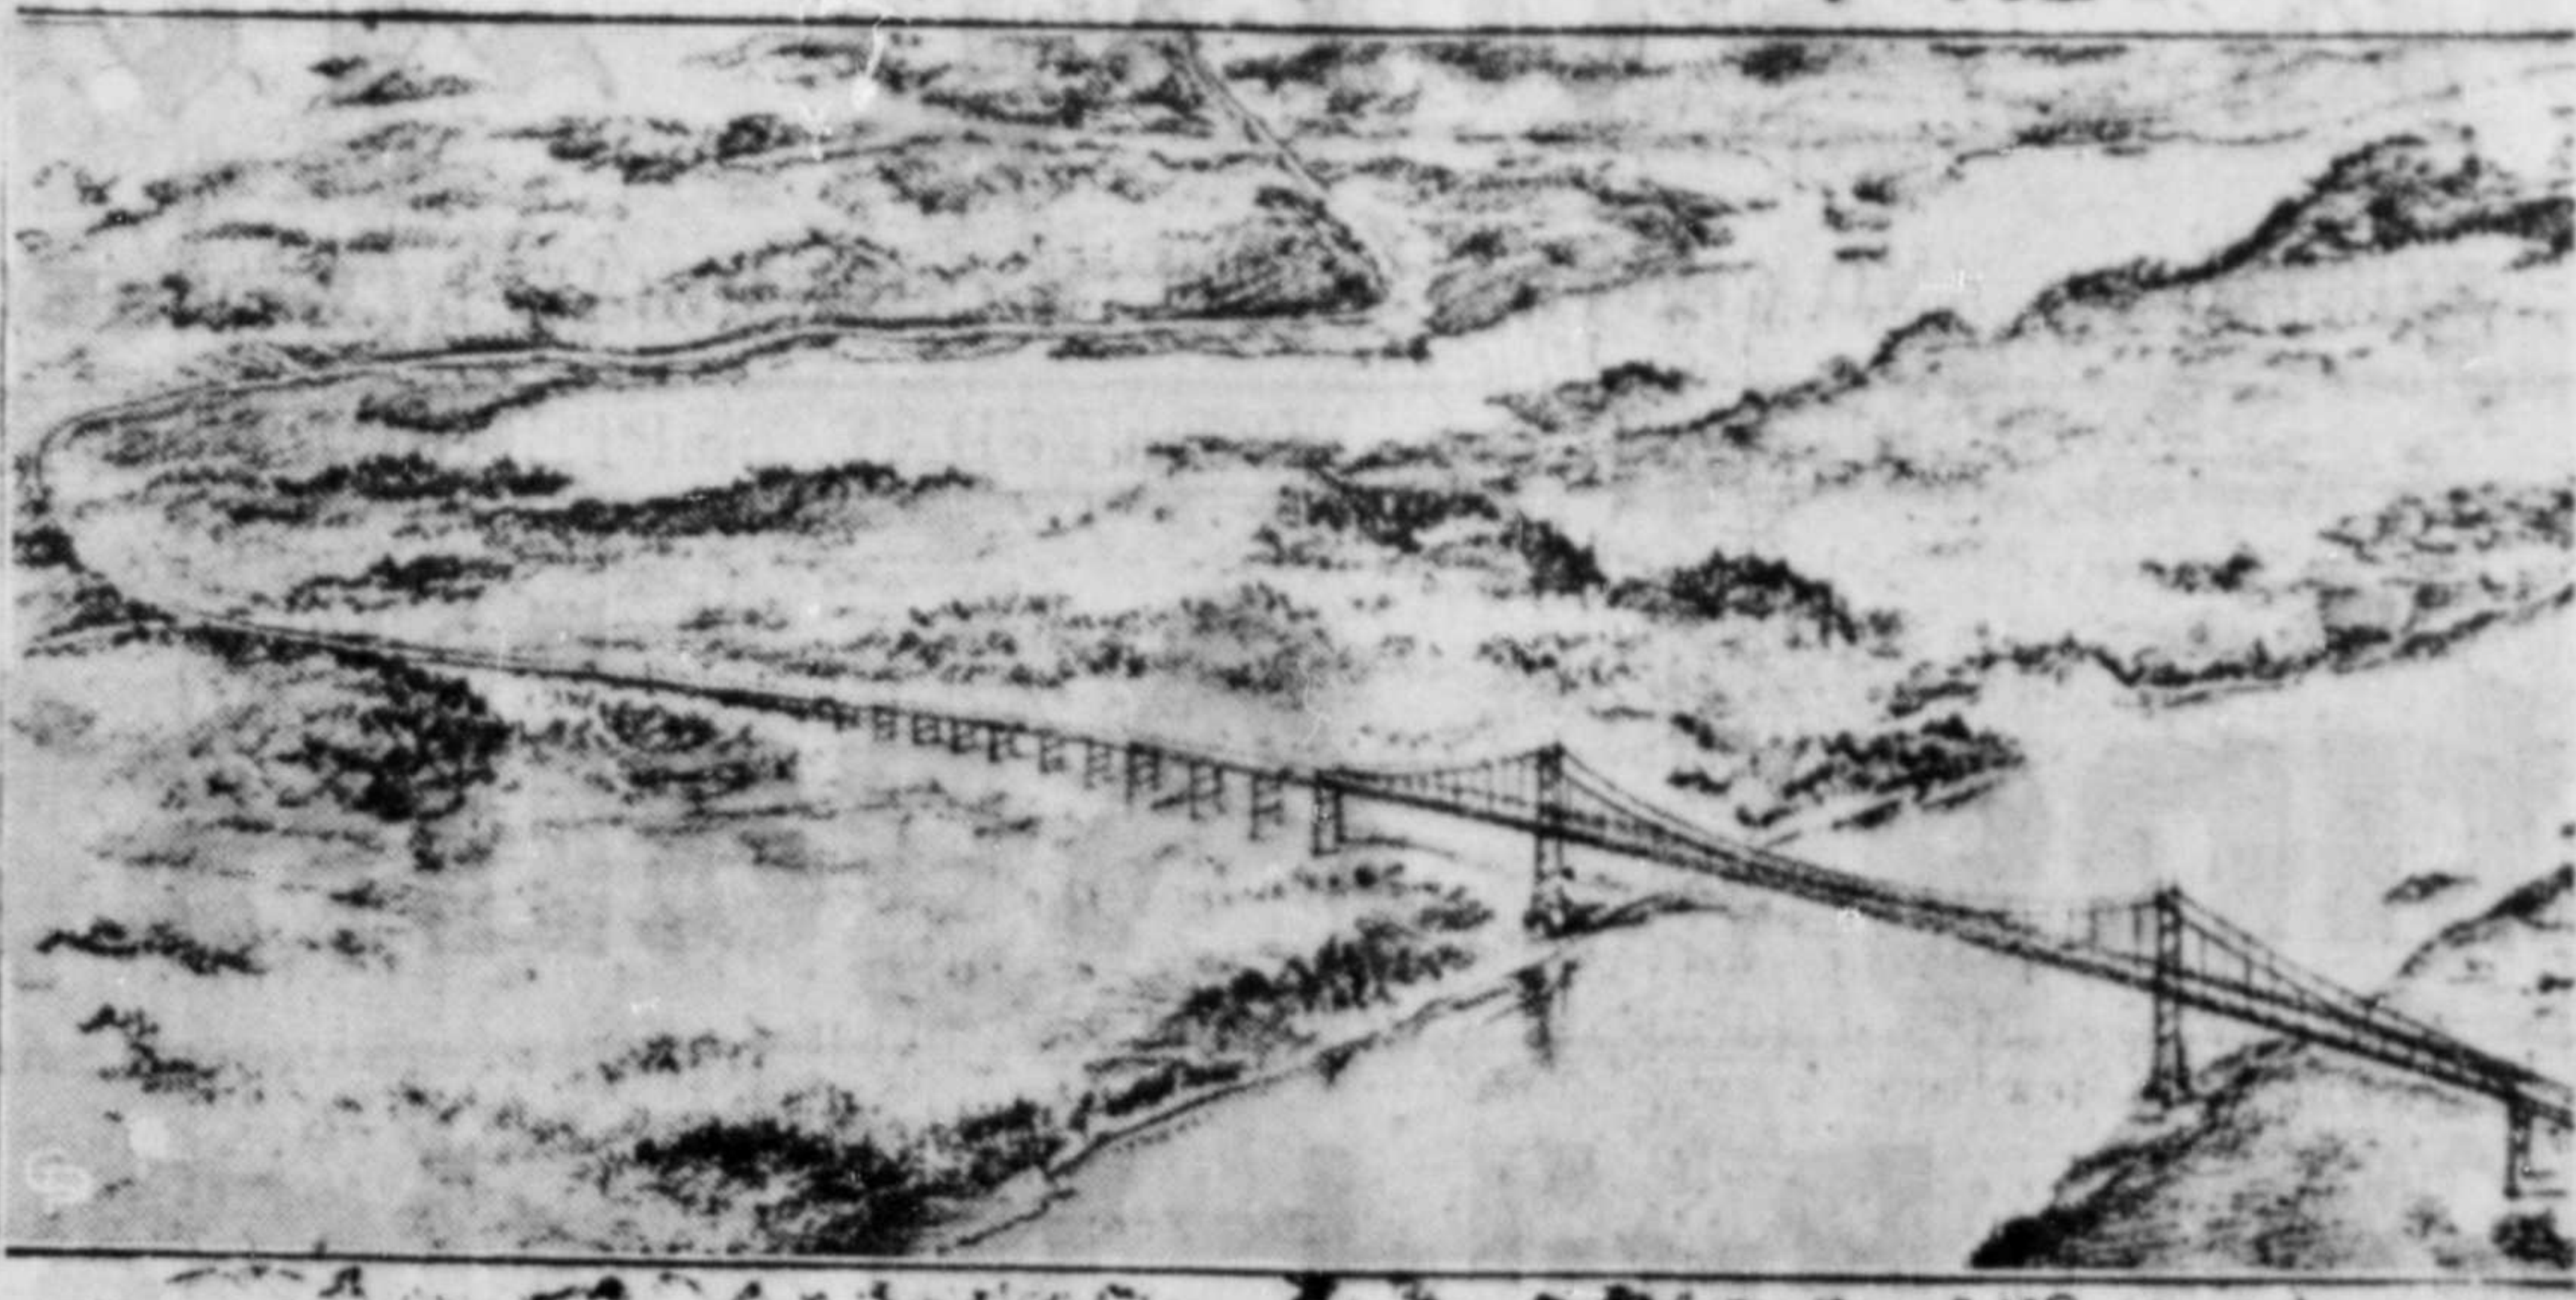

The efforts of Mr. Schwab to further the interests and better the conditions of the men who worked for him evoked much favorable comment in the industrial world. On that subject he once said: "The first thing that I have always borne in mind has been that they were human beings with the same desires and motives as my own. When their ideas did not coincide with mine, I realized that they were as certain that they were right as I was sure that I was."

While possession of wealth has nothing to do with greatness, there is no doubt that Schwab was a great man. He was an optimist and he enjoyed life in spite of his responsibilities.

BIG BUSINESS

The biggest business of the country is its government. One of the biggest big business executives in the world was Charles M. Schwab whose great success was due to the manner in which he dealt with his employees. Evidently, they trusted him and the result was a spirit of co-operation that was highly beneficial to the companies for which they worked. That was why his services were valuable. He made each man feel that he was an important part of the organization. He realized the value to the company of good workmen and he let them know that their work was appreciated. If ever socialism becomes an accomplished fact it will be men of the calibre of Schwab who will be at the head of it. Big business is good training for men in handling big affairs and in proving that co-operation is better than competition.

HISTORY OF CHURCHILL IN SERVICE

British Admiralty Head's Achievements Recalled As He Takes Helm For New Conflict

LONDON, September 20: (CP)—Perhaps the most versatile statesman in British history, Winston Leonard Spencer Churchill finds himself at the opening of the present conflict in the same job he held at the start of the First Great War in 1914—First Lord of the Admiralty.

Twenty-five years later a bit stout and round-shouldered, the 65-year old journalist, author, soldier and politician returns to his historic office as civilian head of the Empire's senior fighting service. He is one of two survivors of the Chamberlain administration. The other is Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who was Attorney-General in 1914 and Home Secretary in 1915-16.

Viscount Runciman, who as Lord President of the Council stepped out on September 2, making way for younger men, was President of the Board of Trade in the Asquith administrations of the 1914-18 period.

It is written of Winston Churchill that he has "held more offices, served in more wars and practiced more arts than any other man of his time in the British Empire." The name of Winston Churchill is highlighted in many of the crises of British history during the last half-century.

When Talk of Peace

Just now London is recalling his contribution to Britain's strengthening in September, 1914. The First Great War was then in its eighth week. There was some talk that Germany, its army over-running Belgium and France, but its navy driven in to home ports, would seek peace on fair terms to the allies. The aggressive Churchill would have none of that. "It is no time to talk peace," he thundered at recruiting meetings up and down England. "We are just beginning."

Churchill's own effort as First Lord of the Admiralty was a big factor in making impotent from the outset of the First Great War the German Kaiser's fleets. Appointed in 1911 with instructions to build up Britain's sea-power, he had a fine modern armada by 1914. Anticipating war, too, he kept this great fleet, reviewed by King George V at Spithead July 20, 1914, on a war footing and intact. When war was declared on August 4 the British ships were at their appointed stations in the North Sea cutting off Germany's sea-power and blockading her merchant marine.

Churchill's next big projects, however, were failures. The Antwerp and Dardanelles schemes brought his downfall. Some commentators say both were strategically sound and had they been executed vigorously their originator would have emerged the great genius of the war.

But the Germans took Antwerp and the British failed to force the Dardanelles. Churchill resigned from the cabinet November 15, 1915, and crossed to France. For six months the former First Lord of the Admiralty was lieutenant-colonel commanding the Royal Scots Fusiliers on the Western Front.

Never wanting in personal courage, Colonel Churchill, one day when shells were falling about him, was advised by a superior officer to move to another dugout. Churchill pointed out there was no other location where he could maintain proper contact with his men.

"I tell you this is a very dangerous place," said the superior officer, annoyed at the colonel's persistence.

"Yes sir," said Churchill. "But after all this is a very dangerous war."

In 1917 Winston Churchill was recalled to the British cabinet. David Lloyd George made him Minister of Munitions and later Secretary for War in 1918-21 he was Secretary for Air.

Became Chancellor

Defeated in the general election of 1922 Churchill was returned again to parliament in 1924 and became Chancellor of the Exchequer in the second administration of Stanley Baldwin. He held that post for five years until the Conservative government was ousted by the Labor forces of Ramsay MacDonald. Churchill was a consistent foe of Socialism.

It is recalled Churchill in Commons spoke strongly in favor of Edward VIII (now Duke of Windsor) before the abdication. He was one of the last to see Edward as he sailed from England, December 11, 1936. Appealing to parliament for patience in the matter, Churchill said: "If an abdication were hastily exhorted, the outrage so committed would cast its shadow across many chapters of the his-

Emergency Duty And Fewer Days Off—Many Special Guards

NEW YORK, September 20: (CP)—The war is affecting life in New York but not to the eye of the tourist on Fifth Avenue. It's all behind the scenes.

New York's 18,000 police stroll about untroubled but they're on emergency duty—only one day off in 27. Among the crowds a secret squadron of 100 G-Men are on the alert for new espionage, sabotage, gers.

In a hundred places, there are special guards. City and state police guard the vital reservoirs of the city's water supply against sabotage.

Officers are stationed at all the important power plants. Special 24-hour patrols guard the dozen bridges and tunnels that are such important arteries between Manhattan and Long Island and New Jersey. Brooklyn Navy Yard, where work is being rushed on several cruisers and destroyers, is inaccessible except to workers there.

It's the cumulative effect of advertising that counts.

Young Actress May Wed 64-Year-Old Sultan

The engagement of 24-year-old Lyria Cecilia Hill, former London actress, to the 64-year-old Sultan of Johore is expected to be announced very shortly. The Sultan, ruler of a 7,000 square mile state in Malaya, recently parted from his Scottish wife, the former Mrs. Helen Wilson, whom he married in 1930. The British government is expected to register its disapproval of any marriage between the Sultan and the young actress.

SPORT CHAT

Famous as an apostle of clean living and moral integrity for the athlete, the rugged carrier of Amos Alonzo Stagg, grand old man of American football, stands as the best argument for his ideals as he enters his 50th year of coaching this season. Fifty years a football coach and at 77 he is still in the thick of the gridiron wars. Out at the little College of the Pacific in California, Stagg is preparing his 50th team for the fall wars, applying all the strategy, psychology and general football knowledge he's picked up in half a century.

When his record-breaking coaching service at the University of Chicago was ended by compulsory retirement in 1933, Stagg characteristically refused to quit the game and is rounding out his career in the comparative obscurity of a small campus in Stockton, California, where he is regarded as a first citizen. A generation which thinks of A. A. Stagg as an elderly mentor on the sidelines is likely to forget that he was once an athlete in his own right. He received the same flattering professional offers as the star performers of today but, intent on a career in some form of wider service, he turned them all down.

Stagg was born in West Orange, N. J., one of a shoemaker's eight children. The husky boy worked his way through grade and high school, through a preparatory academy through Yale, through two years of post-graduate work there and through a Y. M. C. A. college offering a course in physical directorship. Stagg nailed his colors to the mast as a football coach who put the welfare of his boys above every inducement of money or renown. But he has been loaded down with honors and the plaques, cups, scrolls, resolutions, honorary degrees and newspaper clippings that fill his modest cottage all accent that he is the Grand Old Man of Football that are not reflected in the won-and-lost column.

"I take my football very seriously, but I try to preserve a sense of proportion," Stagg says. "In talking to young coaches it has been my practice to emphasize not taking the game too much to heart but to get their big satisfaction out of the good they are doing for the youth with whom

REDS' LEAD IS REDUCED

Margin Over St. Louis Cardinals Now Only Two-and-a-half Games as Result of Yesterday's Play

CINCINNATI, September 20: (CP)—Cincinnati Reds had their margin of leadership in the National League cut to two-and-a-half games yesterday when they were routed thirteen to one by the lowly Phillies while the second place St. Louis Cardinals were taking a six to one decision from the Brooklyn Dodgers. The Chicago Cubs moved back into third place ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

In the American League the New York Yankees took their 101st victory of the season with the Chicago White Sox as their victims. The Yankees margin of leadership is now seventeen games over the Boston Red Sox who won 6 to 2 over the long-suffering St. Louis Browns.

Five to One That He Will Defeat Bob Pastor Tonight

DETROIT, Sept. 20.—Joe Louis rules a five to one favorite to defeat Bob Pastor in their scheduled twenty round bout here tonight. It is even money that Louis will beat Pastor before the eleventh round.

they work. This view is not one that Stagg contrived later in life but was expressed way back in 1890 when, after attaining fame as a great baseball pitcher at Yale, he was offered big money time and again by professional teams.

At that time he was in training at the Y. M. C. A. and was offered the modest sum of $2,500 a year to take over athletics at the University of Chicago which then was just budding. "After much thought and prayer," he replied, "I feel decided that my life can best be used for my Master's service in the position which you have outlined." Thus was the beginning of Stagg's celebrated 41-year stretch at Chicago, terminated in 1933 when he had passed his 70th milestone. Brought up among heavy-drinking laborers in West Orange, Stagg formed an early and life-long aversion to drinking. He never smoked and gave up coffee at 13 because he wanted to be a wrestler.

SOLDIERS DON'T PAINT "LAST POST"

Neither Does Bugler "Blow" Nor Is Lieutenant Addressed As Such

By Capt. W. W. Murray M.C. Canadian Press Staff Writer OTTAWA, September 20: (CP)—For some time to come Canadians are going to find themselves talking a strange language. Military phraseology is going to be bandied to and fro, and the ordinary civilian will have to mind his step, for soldiers are rigid purists when it comes to military terms and they don't like to hear them mis-handled.

The civilian must be careful not to say he heard a bugler "blowing" "Reveille" just about the time the milkman came. What he heard was some lusty-lunged strapping "sounding Reveille." And "Reveille" is the first bugle call of the day. It is the soldier's hour of awakening. From then on his time is punctuated by the bugle through a long list of calls which in time he absorbs until it becomes second nature.

The soldier fits in little jingles to the bugle notes. "Come and do your picket boy, Come and do your guard You think it's pretty easy, but You'll find it pretty hard."

The adjective "pretty" is not the one normally employed, but here it is a rhythmical substitute for a saltier one that accompanies the bugle call which precedes the mounting of the regimental or camp guard. And by the way, guards are not "placed" anywhere; they're "mounted."

Guards recall guardrooms which recall the men in durandevile. These are "defaulters," that is to say, they defaulted in duty, such as not cleaning their rifles or getting back to barracks late. "Defaulters" is also a bugle call which summons those "criminals" to parade before the Provost Sergeant—who is the regimental chief of police. And the words to "Defaulters" are—

"There's many a guy in the guard room. Lots o' good men in the hutch!"

Some Other Calls At nightfall the buglers sound "Retreat." That does not mean the troops are going to withdraw anywhere. It is merely the name for the call which signifies that all normal routine work in the day to day life of the soldier is finished. At this hour the "duty company" is paraded. Its job is to "find details" for necessary work relating to the security of the camp and its personnel.

Each company of a battalion has to take this in ordered succession among other things. The company "finds" the "Field Officer of the Day," the "Battalion Orderly Corporal" and a host of other details. The word "finds" in military parlance means "furnishes."

The "Field Officer of the Day" is a major, who supervises work of all the other details. When he calls on the guard he is known as "Visiting Rounds." The "Battalion Orderly Officer" concerns himself chiefly with the cleanliness of the

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL BOARD IMPORTANT NOTICE

As announced by the Minister of Finance, a Foreign Exchange Control Board has been established by Order in Council under authority of the War Measures Act.

The following are the main provisions of the Order:

1. Any resident of Canada having in his possession, ownership or control, any foreign exchange, bills of exchange, or any other forms of foreign exchange, having a total value of more than $1,000, must declare such foreign exchange to the Board forthwith. Forms for this purpose can be obtained from authorized dealers, that is, from Canadian branches of chartered banks. Any foreign exchange acquired subsequently is to be sold to an authorized dealer.
2. In addition, any resident of Canada having in his possession, ownership or control any bonds, debentures and similar securities not payable exclusively in Canadian dollars, and shares in a Company whose head office is outside Canada, having a total value of more than $1,000, must declare them to the Board forthwith. Forms for this purpose may also be obtained from any authorized dealer.
3. No person shall buy or sell or deal in foreign exchange except through the medium of authorized dealers at rates to be announced by the Board, or through the Post Office which has been appointed a special agent of the Board to sell foreign exchange for small amounts.
4. No resident may transfer any Canadian dollars to a non-resident, in excess of $100, in any month, without first obtaining a permit to do so through an authorized dealer.
5. No exports or imports of any kind, including shipments of currency, securities and foreign exchange by mail or parcel post, may be made without a licence. Licences for the export of goods and for the import of goods, currency, and securities will be issued by Customs officers. The Board is under no obligation, however, to sell foreign exchange for payment for property imported. Licences for the export of currency, securities and any other property except goods, may be issued only by authorized dealers. Articles to be sent out of Canada through the mails should be taken direct to a post office; otherwise they will be subject to seizure in the absence of evidence that a licence has been obtained or that the shipment is exempt from licence, as the case may be.
6. Special provision has been made to avoid inconvenience to visitors from the United States or abroad. They may bring into or take out of Canada, without licence, their automobiles, personal effects, and in addition, other goods to a value not exceeding $100, in any month. They may also take out of Canada any amount of money not greater than the amount brought in, provided that, if the amount to be taken out is more than $100, they should have obtained a certificate of the amount brought in from the Collector of Customs at the point of entry.
7. Provision has also been made for ordinary transactions of the Canadian public, e.g.
 - (a) Travellers may take out of or bring back to Canada their automobiles, personal effects, and in addition money not in excess of $100, in any month without licence.
 - (b) Any person may import, in any manner, goods to a value not exceeding $100, in any month without licence.
 - (c) Any person may, without licence, export by mail or parcel post gifts up to a value of $25, in any month.
 - (d) Any person may purchase, through an authorized dealer or the post office, foreign exchange not exceeding $100, in any month without a permit.

4. Licences for Export of Property other than Goods: Any person desiring to export currency, securities or other evidences of ownership or indebtedness must apply for a licence on Form K in advance of export, except in the case of the export of foreign exchange or Canadian currency for travel purposes when Form H must be used. 6. The various forms may be obtained from the Board in Ottawa, or as follows:
 - Form E—from Collectors of Customs and Excise.
 - Forms F and G—from authorized dealers.

Anyone breaking the law as established by the Foreign Exchange Control Order will be subject to heavy penalties by way of fine or imprisonment.

Anyone likely to be affected by this Order should read the provisions of the Order itself and the Regulations of the Board. Further information may be obtained from chartered banks or customs officers, or enquiries may be directed to the General Secretary of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, Ottawa, or to the Bank of Canada, Ottawa.

quarters and with the food. He has to inspect the barracks and put in an appearance at meal-times. The troops at their tables are called to attention and he asks if there are any "complaints." This is where the soldier's chance comes to comment on the "rations" served up to him. If his complaint is well founded, the defect is corrected, if it is frivolous, he is taken over the jumps as a smart-aleck. By the way, the "Battalion Orderly Officer" is disrespectfully termed the "Orderly Dog."

There are three routine bugle calls at night—"First Post" at 9:30 p.m., "Last Post" at 10:00 p.m., and "Lights Out" at 10:15 p.m. With Canada mobilizing hosts of recruits, the number of youngsters who in their innocence are given a pot of paint and a brush and told by the old soldiers to "go out and paint the Last Post" is likely to be large.

The "Battalion Orderly Sergeant" has to report absentees and shadow the "Orderly Dog." The "Battalion Orderly Corporal" is responsible for "Sick Parade" when troops who for various reasons are temporarily under the weather are examined for treatment by the Medical Officer.

The most popular bugle call in the "No Parade Today" which is occasionally sounded when the weather is too bad, and "Pay," when ordinarily a full muster of the troops lines up for the enriching experience of drawing the emolument of office from the Regimental Paymaster.

They Know Their Own Each unit has its own distinctive call that precedes the ordinary call. This is one of the first things a recruit has to learn. It saves the Toronto Blankshires from dashing gaily out on parade when only the Montreal or the Winnipeg Fusiliers are wanted. To perform an unnecessary parade is about as annoying as cleaning another man's rifle.

A Lieutenant in the army is plain "Mr." The Commanding Officer is "The Old Man," no matter how youthful he may be. The Intelligence Officer is "O. C. Brains." The daily "Intelligence Summary" is "Comic Cuts." The Signalling Officer is "Ackety-ack."

The administrative centre of the Battalion is the "Orderly Room." But "Orderly Room" also has a sinister significance. A man "warned" for Orderly Room is a man notified that, having committed some transgression, he is to be hauled before his Commanding Officer to require his sins.

If in "Orderly Room" he is ordered to remove his cap in the presence of the C. O., then his fate is sealed. He's committed a crime. Maybe he's lost his pull-through, the little gadget for cleaning the barrel of his rifle, or he's appeared on parade with his boot-laces improperly crossed. If he isn't ordered to remove his cap then he's still a free agent—within the limitations of the Army Act.

Regional Director Outlines War-Time News Policy Over Air

VANCOUVER, Sept. 26.—Radio is doing its part to preserve judgment and reason in Canada during this time of war, said Ira Dilworth, regional director for British Columbia of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, in an address before the Vancouver Lions Club.

Outlining steps which have been taken by the C.B.C. since the outbreak of hostilities, Mr. Dilworth said that the network, with the assistance of the Canadian Press, has presented its news bulletins with extreme care. Emotionalism has been avoided as far as possible, he said.

"We have excluded the melodramatic from our newscasts and have instructed our announcers to avoid dramatic inflection of the voice," the regional director declared. "We have also avoided, and have often been criticized for it, the excessive use of commentators on the news," he added.

Mr. Dilworth announced that the Corporation is trying as quickly as possible to return to its normal program schedule for the coming fall and winter season, which he predicted would be gay and as usual "and, at the same time, richer in things that really matter."

In closing his address, the speaker made an earnest appeal to radio listeners to protect the public morale. "We must not forget that, under the surface of chaos and upheaval of the world, there are fundamental and abiding elements in life."

"Please stop searching the dial in an attempt to fill every moment with some bulletin of disaster, some commentator's inflation of a few facts that the authentic news has omitted," he said. "Look again at the sun, the moon and the stars, and remember that the human qualities and relationships of which proceed the greatest achievements of life have not been and need not be destroyed."

- (10) Any person who holds or manages for or on behalf of an enemy any property shall, within thirty days or within thirty days of the date of his coming into his possession or under his control, by notice in writing communicate the fact to the Custodian.

- (15) No person shall bring or take or continue in any Court in Canada any action or other proceeding relating to the payment of an enemy debt unless such person shall have obtained the written consent of the Custodian.
- (16) Any person who knowingly or recklessly makes a statement knowing it to be false shall be guilty of an offence under the Regulations.

"Dividends, interest or share of profits" is defined in wide terms and includes any such payments whether payable within Canada or not to an enemy.

The above summary must not be considered as constituting the whole of the law respecting trading with the enemy. Further information may be obtained upon application of the Custodian of Enemy Property, Ottawa.

Harvest Festival Service Is Held

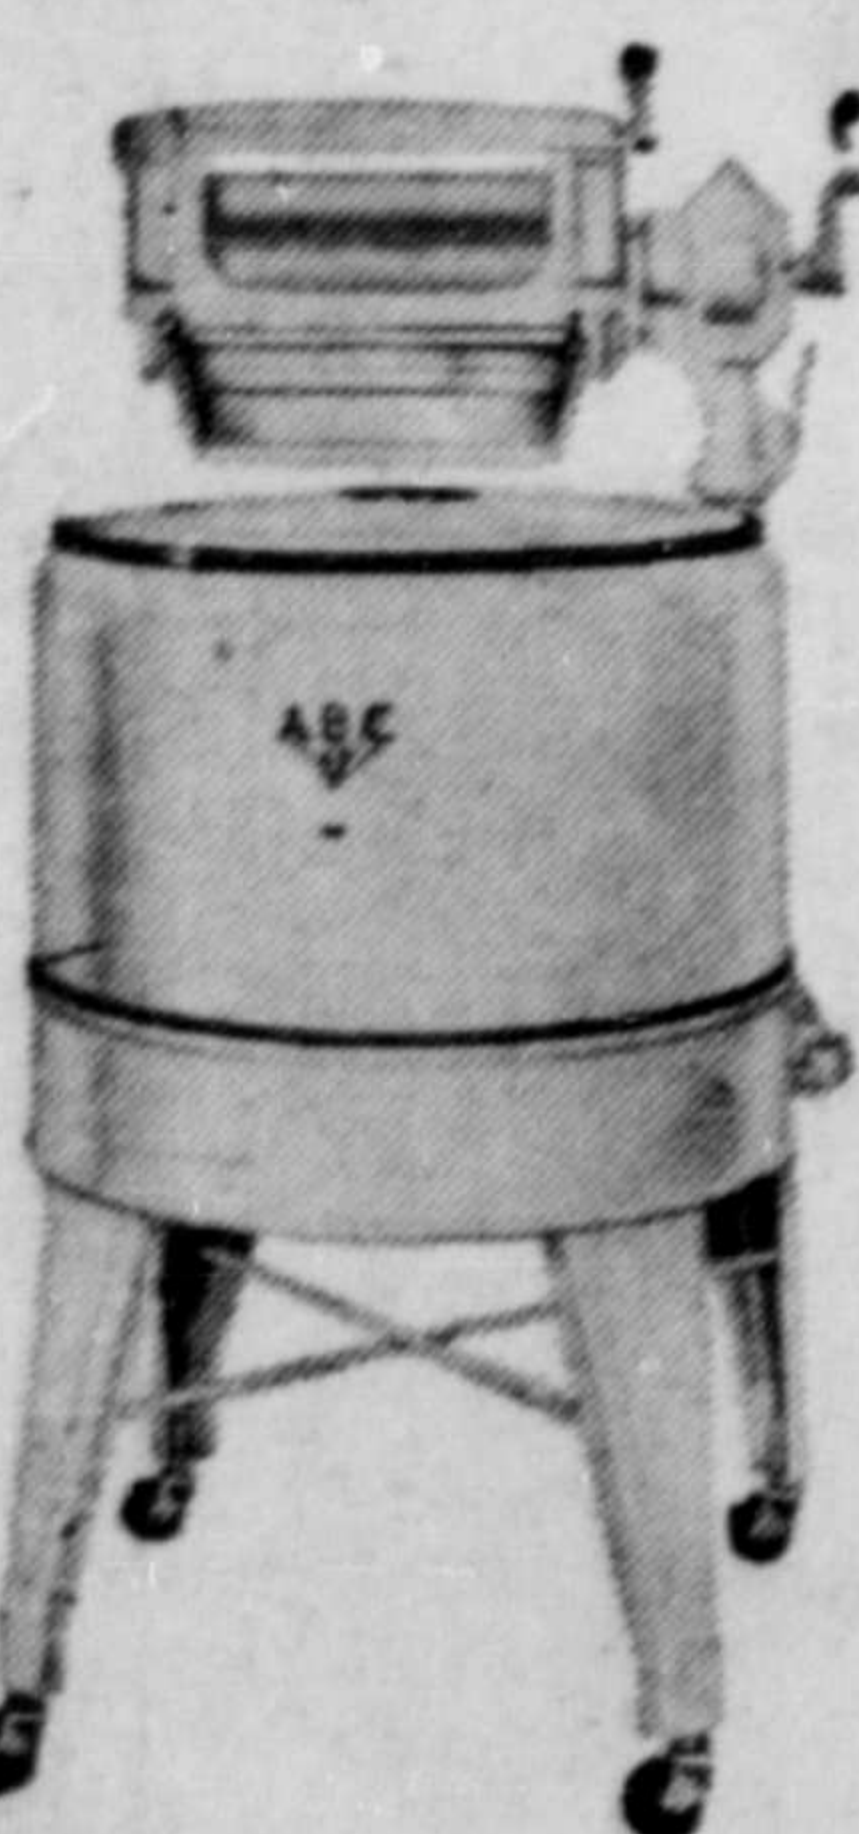

Good Congregation At United Church In Burns Lake Sunday

BURNS LAKE, September 26.—The United Church in Burns Lake held its harvest festival service on Sunday evening. The church was decorated with a profusion of autumn foliage, flowers and produce from the fields and gardens, tastefully arranged by members of the Young Ladies' Choir. There was a good congregation in attendance to enjoy the service.

The choir rendered two selections, "Dear Land of Home" (from "Finlandia" by Sibelius) and "Wonderous Love" (Watson).

A prayer entitled "The Prayer Perfect" was well given by Miss Dorothy Pain of the hospital staff. The congregation prayed for the speedy establishment of a just peace. In the sermon the great need for thankfulness in every heart for God's goodness, was stressed by Rev. Adam Crisp.

QUESTION OF PRINCIPLE

Editor, Daily News:

We want to say a word about freedom of speech in wartime. And in this instance our action is inspired by your editorial of September 15 in which you give advice to conscientious objectors in part as follows:

"To any such persons we suggest it would be very wise to keep his own counsel and most certainly not try to make converts just now. Any opinions expressed along those lines might be construed as bringing aid or comfort to the enemy and, therefore, illegal."

We do not attempt to argue the case for pacifism which, we assume, is the belief of the conscientious objector to all wars, whether as Canadians we believe that the vast majority of our people would rightly spring to the defence of this country were it the subject of direct attack from Europe or Asia. But in any event, we would strenuously uphold the right of freedom of speech of conscientious objectors and others who sincerely hold opinions at variance with the main line of government policy.

In support of this view, we could scarcely do better than quote that eminent Englishman, Professor Harold Laski, in his "Liberty in the Modern State." Speaking of the position of the citizen whose country is involved in war, he says in part:

"What are his rights and duties then? I would begin by making the point that the fact of belligerency does not suspend his citizenship; he owes as much perhaps more than ever, the contribution his instructed judgment can make, to the public good. The rules of emergency cannot, I think, make any difference to that duty. . . . If I think the war a just one, it is my duty to support it."

If I think it unjust there is no alternative open to me except opposition to it. . . . No citizen can assume that his duty in wartime is so to abdicate the exercise of his judgment that the executive has a blank cheque to act as it pleases."

Laski says further: "It is evident from our experience that to limit the expression of opinion in wartime to opinion which does not hinder its prosecution is, in fact, to give the executive an entirely free hand, whatever its policy, and to assume that, while the armies are in the field, no absolute moral moratorium is operative. That is, surely, a quite impossible position. No one who has watched at all carefully the process of governance in time of war can doubt that criticism was, never more necessary."

We subscribe to the above opinions.

May we respectfully suggest that if, in future, your writings touch on questions concerning freedom of opinion, that you say definitely whether or not certain points of view are illegal, rather than suggest that they may be illegal?

In any case, while believing it the duty of Canadians to defend their country and perhaps this continent from direct invasion and acting for reasons which we consider too lengthy to enumerate here, we affirm our opposition to Canadian participation in the present European conflict and we believe it is our right to try to make converts should we so desire.

GEORGE DOLSEN,
J. DEANE.
