Their Majesties At White House

TOOK HIS OWN LIFE

James Laing, Aged 74, Successfully Contrives to Shoot Himself

The body of James Laing, old age pensioner and pioneer of this district, was found late yesterday afternoon in the woodshed of his cabin on Wantage Road by a neighbor, Sam McMurchie, who had called to see him. There was a bullet in his head and the elderly man had evidently successfully contrived to take his own life. He had been dead for some hours when found. It was about 5 o'clock that the body was found. It was lying face up beside a pile of wood. A 22-calibre rifle had been placed on the top of the woodpile, muzzle outwards. Attached to the trigger was a string which had been fastened to a small stick of wood. Deceased had evidently stood up to the end of the barrel and discharged the weapon by using the stick to pull the string and release the trigger. The bullet entered the forehead above the right eye. There were powder burns on the forehead, indicating close range. The tragedy was investigated by Sergeant Jacklin and Constable McIndoe. An inquiry is being conducted this afternoon by the coroner.

Laing was about 72 years of age and was a native of Brechin, Scotland. He came to Stewart about 1890 from the Kootenays and worked in the mines during the early boom days of the Portland Canal mining camp. With advancing years he became a pensioner. He was steady and sober and had an attractive and neat cabin. No motive can be learned for his rash act. He had once been known to say that he would shoot himself if he ever became ill. He was not known to have been sick. Deceased was single and, as far as can be learned, had no relatives in this country. He had a nephew in Scotland.

Members of Board of Trade Have Fine Day and Return Hospitality Aboard Ship

Speeches Heard

Illustrated Reply to Telford's Famous "Siwash Village" Shown at Prince Rupert Club

Members of the Vancouver Board of Trade had a fine time yesterday renewing old acquaintances and making new ones. Something over twenty of them were taken to Seal Cove in one of Paul Armour's boats. The party was met by Colonel J. W. Nicholls, the general manager, and shown around the plant, incidentally seeing some of the newer methods of processing. The visitors were also keenly interested in seeing the site of the proposed airport at Seal Cove. Large numbers of the party were taken around the city by car and driven to points of interest. At five o'clock at the Prince Rupert Club the local Chamber of Commerce was at home to the visitors. What was their surprise on visiting that place to see an almost life size colored portrait of Mayor Lyle Telford with an Indian on either side and the inscription beneath "Welcome to the Siwash Village." The part of the Indians was taken by Al Small and Max Asemussen with regulation deerskin coats and masks, one with a tomahawk and the other with a medicine man's rattle. Before the party broke up photographs were taken of those present. All arranged around the picture. Cocktail parties on the boat followed, the central figure being G. Lyall Fraser, president of the Vancouver Board, who entertained lavishly in one of the largest cabins. Dinner was served at seven with the officers and members of the Prince Rupert Council of the Chamber of Commerce and many other local businessmen as guests. The guests were well distributed around the dining saloon and a sumptuous dinner was served. Everything was delightfully informal and, at the close, President James Harvey was presented with a pair of gloves by the visitors. In welcoming the visitors aboard the ship, Mr. Fraser explained that the trip was purely a good will trip and he thanked the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce for its hospitality. Prince Rupert was the biggest port north of Vancouver and the two places were being drawn gradually closer together by ties of goodwill and business relations and also by rapid transportation. He reminded them of the recent trip of the minister of defence who breakfasted in Victoria, flew to Prince Rupert and Alford Bay and home in time for dinner in the evening. The visitor said that Prince Rupert was prospering as a result of research that was to be seen particularly in the fisheries where the halibut livers, which formerly were brown away, were now made into valuable medicines. He also mentioned the striking picture of one of their citizens they had seen at the club where they had been welcomed by Siwash braves. Prince Rupert had been told that the Vancouver people were just Indians at heart. However, on behalf of those people he thanked Prince Rupert for their hospitality. President J. T. Harvey, in reply, said he hoped it had been brought home to all how much they appreciated these visits. On behalf of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce he welcomed them all as friends. They were coming to think that Vancouver was deeply interested in other places than Vancouver.

Still Insistent On Mars Flight

Twenty-Two Year Old Flier is Arrested on Larceny Charge

BOSTON, June 8: (CP)—Still insistent he was headed for Mars, Cheston Eshleman, 22-year-old student flier, now returned to dry land after being fished out of the Atlantic Ocean 175 miles from shore Tuesday, has been arrested for larceny. Eshleman's rented plane sank after he came down on the ocean.

CHURCHMEN PROTESTING

May Challenge Vancouver City Council Order Allowing Cabarets To Be Open Sundays

VANCOUVER, June 8: (CP)—The Vancouver city council has decided that cabarets of the city can remain open until 2 o'clock Sunday mornings instead of closing at midnight Saturday. Churchmen, saying that the new council order violates the Lord's Day Act, may take the matter over the heads of the city council to the Attorney General for a fiat to prosecute the cabarets for staying open after midnight.

IS KILLED IN CRASH

R.C.A.F. Plane Comes Down in Fraser Valley With Pilot Losing His Life

MISSION, June 8: (CP)—A new Royal Canadian Air Force Hurricane fighter crashed fourteen miles southeast of here today, killing Pilot T. G. Fraser of Calgary. The plane was one of four being delivered to the Calgary squadron after assembly in Vancouver following delivery from England. Two other planes landed at Lethbridge safely, a third having returned to Vancouver because of unfavorable weather. In Prince Rupert they did not lack material advantages. There was the natural advantage of a fine harbor just as there was at Vancouver. This was the terminus of a transcontinental railway just as was Vancouver. Prince Rupert was surrounded by rich agricultural lands, mines and forests and had adequate terminal facilities just like Vancouver. However, when eight hundred deep sea freighters were seen entering Vancouver Harbor in a year and not one in Prince Rupert harbor; when elevators in the south were full and that here idle, it was easy to feel a little jealous and possibly resentful. However, these visits tended to dispel such an attitude. On behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, he greeted the visitors and thanked them for their dinner hospitality. It was only two years since they had been in Prince Rupert before. He wondered whether it was the climate that attracted them or the homely personality of the people. The dinner gathering then dispersed, some carrying on the entertainment aboard the ship while others adjourned to the homes of local residents until midnight when the ship sailed for Stewart. At Stewart the visitors had to be up early to get away to Premier or Big Missouri in cars which were provided for the purpose, others remaining in Stewart for the day.

Alaska Village Is Still Menaced

Two Families Remain At Perryville Despite Threat of Erupting Volcano

PERRYVILLE, Alaska, June 8:—Although this village is still menaced by the danger of being overwhelmed by the eruption of the nearby volcano on Mount Veniaminoff, A. D. Johnson, the school teacher, and his wife and one native family remain in their homes. The coastguard cutter Haida is standing by in readiness to take them on board if necessary. A change in the direction of the wind would, it is believed result in the destruction of the village.

KING NOW IN STATES

Important International Phase of Royal Tour Begins With Crossing of Niagara

Costly To See

No Bargain Prices For Procession in Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington

WASHINGTON, D.C., June 8: (CP)—King George and Queen Elizabeth answered the beckoning of the United States last night as Their Majesties finished an amazing experience in Western Ontario. The royal train crossed the Niagara River into the United States after a visit to Niagara Falls provided a breather for Their Majesties at the end of two of the most grueling days of their tour during which they were cheered by four million persons. This afternoon they arrived in Washington and are now guests of President and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at the White House. Howdy, Folks! The King and Queen rode in triumph from the railway station to the White House. There was a characteristic American free and easy, enthusiastic welcome, marking the first arrival of a British King and Queen in the United States capital. Crowds which had assembled before dawn roared a welcome, rivaling the cheers that greeted Their Majesties in their own Canada. The American enthusiasm for the visiting sovereigns was, indeed, as great as if the United States had still been British. The President shook hands with the King warmly, saying: "How are you? I'm glad to see you." The King's tanned face broke into a broad smile. He replied: "It's indeed a pleasure for Her Majesty and myself to be here." A minute later the Queen and Mrs. Roosevelt exchanged similar greetings. There was a glittering military display as the royal procession moved away from the station followed by these informal greetings. The sun beat down, causing the Queen to open her parasol. After a small luncheon, Their Majesties took an hour's sight-seeing drive around the city, great crowds continuing to shout their cheers. Late in the afternoon there was a garden party at the British Embassy. Tonight there will be a state dinner at the White House. No Penny Peeps Anybody wanting to see King George and Queen Elizabeth from the luxurious divan of a Pennsylvania Avenue cocktail lounge or the dusty window of a dollar flophouse paid $3 to $10 for the privilege and there were plenty of takers. One hotel demanded a three-day booking for $30 because it is on the corner where the parade swung off the avenue toward the White House so the customers got a double-jointed view. Kings come high and seldom in the United States capital, and in places the price of a berth at a window was higher than at an inaugural. Room prices were mostly two or three times the normal rate, but 2,000 percent up in others. Two weeks before the arrival of the King and Queen the high hat hotels had sold every window opening below the sixth floor. From the sixth to the 13th floor it is like looking at anybody in the street down a well. Thirteen floors is tops by law in Washington. Once one leaves the big hotel district Pennsylvania Avenue is found to be full of history, hock shops and beer dens. One side of

MINING MAN IS KNIGHTED

Harry Oakes of Ontario Included in King's Birthday Honors—Duke of Kent Gets Service Ranks

LONDON, June 8: (CP)—Harry Oakes, multimillionaire mining man, who staked the Lakeshore gold mine in Northern Ontario, was created a baronet in the King's Birthday honor list yesterday. Oakes, who since 1934 has been a resident of the Bahamas on account of bronchial ailment, was honored for his public and philanthropic services. He is a member of the legislature of the Bahamas and his benefactions there are frequent and generous. He was one of five new baronets and five barons who were created. The list also included two privy councillors and thirty-four Knights Bachelor. The Duke of Kent was gazetted as a rear admiral, major general and vice air admiral. Sir Ronald Lindsay, ambassador to Washington, who made arrangements for the royal visit to the United States, was made a Knight Grand Cross of the Order of the Bath.

Resignation Of Admiralty Chief Is Being Sought

LONDON, June 8: (CP)—Lord Beaverbrook's newspaper, the Daily Express, yesterday called for the resignation of Earl Stanhope, First Lord of the Admiralty, in connection with the disaster of the submarine Thetis. The street is grand and gorgeous with the marble and granite buildings of the famed Federal Triangle but the other is a hodge-podge of rusty, white-washed ruins. Too Short Notice Across the street at a second story billiard and table tennis haven one of three windows was priced. "If it's your family," said the proprietor kindly, "I'll make it $3 a head if you'll take a whole window. You can easy get seven—some of 'em kids—around that window." That levels us. We haven't seven and can't get them by June 8. His prices for the King are higher than for inaugurals. "If you don't see one President you can see another," he says, "but a King—if you don't see this one you may never see another." At an aged hotel on Pennsylvania Avenue the price was $10 a window in a two-window room that usually rents for $1 a night. A vacant building next door was rented to a concessionaire who sold seats on a wooden bench at $3 and up. Nearest to broken hearted was a liquor store dealer on Sixth and Pennsylvania. Forlornly he pointed to the banks of trees which screened his windows like a British fog. "Fifty dollars I could make in two hours if the King comes in February, March, April, May, when it's no leaves, but no. The King don't come 'til June and I can't see nothing but leaves, leaves, Jeppers." Elaborate precautions have been taken with the use both of militia and police to guard the British monarchs during their visit to the United States. Thirteen thousand police officers, the greatest mobilization of police for any occasion in the history of the country, will be gathered together in New York during the visit there of Their Majesties.

WE DO NOT AGREE

Many of our readers do not agree with our views on many subjects. We do not expect them to do so. We agree to differ.

Only the very prejudiced people are willing to read or hear only one side of any question. They are so few in number that they do not count much in the circulation of a newspaper. We do not try to convert the people who differ from us but we know a great many of them like to read our views even if they do not agree with us. They sometimes tell us what they think and we like to hear from them.

RAILWAY QUESTION

Throughout the country today there seems to be more discussion of the railway question than has been heard for some years. That is the result of the outspoken attitude of Senator Meighen, leader of the Conservative party in the Senate. He has thrown in his lot wholly with the unification idea. He explains that what he wants is not physical unification but unified management. If the management was inclined to favor the C.N.R., it would get the best of the game and, if the C.P.R. had the bulk of the management, the C.N.R. would quite possibly be neglected. Those who say this might look back and see how Prince Rupert has been treated.

If the Canadian National were to be sold, lock, stock and barrel, it would be nothing like as bad as unification. The most likely outcome of the transportation problem, if it is to be changed from the present system, is for the government to take over all means of transportation and thus settle the truck controversy.

We are told that, so long as trucks are to use the highways, practically free of charge with unrestricted hours of work, the railways cannot hope to compete with them. No government seems likely to try to stop this competition so the alternative is to buy them out and allow no more to operate, thus creating a state monopoly. We have mentioned this as a possible solution of the problem and as a better solution than unification.

CREDIT STILL GOOD

Evidently the credit of British Columbia is still good. The Premier went east recently and, after interviewing the Ottawa government, went on to the financial centres. Then, within a very short time, it was announced that the minister of finance had arranged a loan in New York, one million of which will be expended on roads. Prince Rupert could use that million very well but, unfortunately, there are a hundred other places that need roads just as much as do we.

Owing to rain, the Stuart Benefit Shield Football game scheduled for Tuesday evening between Pioneer Laundry and Navy was postponed. Tonight Velvet and Pioneer Laundry will meet. If Laundry wins or ties, however, Navy will take the shield for the season without necessitating the playing of the postponed game.

BASEBALL PRACTICE

First Work-Out Last Night in Anticipation of Series With Ketchikan

First baseball practice of the season was held last night and, even though the weather was dull and cool, the turn-out of prospective material for the forthcoming Ketchikan-Prince Rupert home and home series was gratifying. Some of the experienced regulars, such as Benny Windle, Scoop Bury and Alex Mitchell, were unable to be present but they will not be long, it is expected, in starting to tune up. A number of the younger players were out and some of these look very promising. Among those seen toting the old pill around and warming up to batting practice were Jack Lindsay, Frog Letourneau, Sonny Beynon, Herbie Morgan, Jack Campbell, Minor Simundsen, Sonny Stiles, Dido Gurvich and Johnny Comadina.

The local team will feel the absence of Walter Johnson who had to quit basketball during the winter owing to a disability.

The tentative first string line-up for the Ketchikan series is as follows:

Dido Gurvich, catcher; Jack Lindsay, pitcher and outfielder; Frog Letourneau, pitcher; Sonny Stiles, first base or outfielder; Johnny Comadina, first base or outfield; Alex Mitchell, second base; Benny Windle, short stop; Sonny Beynon, third base; Scoop Bury and Minor Simundsen, outfield. Herbie Morgan and Jack Campbell will be kept in shape as key relief men and the hope is to locate some more talent for the series without delay.

BOWLING POSTPONED

Owing to wet greens, league play in the Canadian National Recreation Association's Lawn Bowling League was postponed from last night.

Attend Graduation Of Son; Visited Fair At 'Frisco

The chief object of the visit of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Minns south recently was to attend the graduation of their son, George William Minns, who this year took his degree in applied science, the particular branch being forestry engineering. On May 11 he became an accredited forestry engineer and, immediately following the ceremony at the University, he left for Victoria to take a position in the forestry department of the British Columbia government with headquarters at Port Neville on Vancouver Island.

While away Mr. and Mrs. Minns attended the fair at San Francisco which is not yet quite complete as building is still going on there. The attendance at the fair is registered each day by a huge cash register about fifty feet high, and on the day they visited the place the attendance was 73,000.

They took particular note of the British Columbia exhibit illustrating the timber, fishing, mining and lumber industries.

One striking exhibit was 25 acres of wonderful flowers in full bloom and 1500 yew trees which had been borrowed for the occasion from an estate and which had to be returned after the event was over.

They made the trip in a new car they purchased while in the south and which they brought home with them.

Royal Visit Pictures Are Interesting

On Tuesday afternoon at the auditorium of Booth Memorial High School the pupils of the school in two groups, saw very interesting moving pictures of the visits of the King and Queen last week to Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster. The pictures were shown by Father Anthony Meulenberg of Stewart who took them himself. Principal Arthur Sutton was in the chair and suitably expressed appreciation to Father Anthony. Miss Inez Berg on behalf of the junior students, proposed a vote of thanks.

The showing of the pictures was particularly timely, following immediately after four students of the school—Emily Christopher, Nora Thomas, Spencer Davies and Edward Lambe—had reported to the classes on the trip they made to Vancouver for the King's visit as guests of the Vancouver school board.

Whifflets From The Waterfront

A decided improvement in the halibut storage situation this year compared with last is reported in United States Bureau of Fisheries statistics. In storage on May 15 were 2,900,000 pounds as compared with 3,800,000 pounds at the same time last year. The price average this season has, it is computed, been 8-10% higher than a year ago.

Eight halibut vessels marketed catches totalling 213,000 pounds at Seattle yesterday as follows: Pacific, 40,000 pounds, San Juan 7½¢ and 7¢; Radio, 40,000 pounds Sebastian, 7½¢ and 7¢; Ivanhoe 32,500, Washington, 7½¢ and 7¢; Trinity, 40,000, Whiz, 7½¢ and 7¢; Lebanon, 15,500, Whiz, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Angekus, 14,000, San Juan, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Evolution 13,000, McCallum, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Thelma 51, 18,000, Booth, 7½¢ and 6½¢. High School Display Held

Home Economics and Manual Training Departments Put On Show

The auditorium of Booth Memorial High School was a centre of interest for parents and friends Saturday with the holding of the annual display of work of the home economics department for girls and the manual training classes of the boys. There was a good attendance, the guests being received by Miss Irene Mitchell, Miss Irene Hodgson and Miss May Jones.

The girls' sewing display took the form of a fashion parade for which the stage had been especially prepared with a tastefully decorated floral arch, a stairway leading to the auditorium. A wide variety of costumes was shown and proficiency of the girls, under their instructors, Miss Irene Hodgson and Miss Frances Watt, was amply indicated. Miss Mary Sievert was announcer.

The manual training display was also arranged in the auditorium under direction of the instructor, J. H. Nordan.

Following the displays tea was served. Miss E. A. Mercer, Miss S. A. Mills, Mrs. Arthur Sutton, Mrs. Sebastian, 7½¢ and 7¢; Ivanhoe 32,500, Washington, 7½¢ and 7¢; Trinity, 40,000, Whiz, 7½¢ and 7¢; Lebanon, 15,500, Whiz, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Angekus, 14,000, San Juan, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Evolution 13,000, McCallum, 7½¢ and 6½¢; Thelma 51, 18,000, Booth, 7½¢ and 6½¢. Large And Interested Audience At Catholic School Hall Sees Display By Father Anthony Meulenberg

Annunciation School Hall was filled Tuesday night by an audience which greatly enjoyed a display by Father Anthony Meulenberg of moving pictures which he took himself last week of the visit of the King and Queen to Vancouver and Victoria. The various activities in connection with the royal visit were graphically depicted and there were some fine close-ups of Their Majesties.

A couple of educational reels—one showing volcanoes in action and another on timbering in Canadian forests—as well as a comedy, rounded out the program which lasted about an hour and a half.

Father Anthony gave the narrations and was assisted in connection with the entertainment by Father W. F. Lantagne.
