BRITONS FEARLESS

LONDON, Sept. 18.—English Channel gales are checking Adolf Hitler's invasion plans and Der Fuehrer is getting nowhere with his assault upon London, says H. R. Knickerbocker, noted American war correspondent, today.

"Stubbornly, invincibly, even stupidly, if you like, Britons are unafraid of Hitler's bombs or his invasion. There is no such thing as a feeling of fear after the twenty-eighth day of the cruelest of punishment," says Knickerbocker who compares this spirit with that of the French who were "afraid before even they were hit."

Nobody halts his work in London because of the air raids. Radios play merry tunes as bombs crash and anti-aircraft fire thunders. Rich and poor are taking it equally well.

HAS HITLER MISSED IT?

Blow On English Channel Looks Like Beginning Of Fall Storms—Invasion Time Past?

LONDON, Sept. 18: (CP)—A southwest wind of near gale velocity churned the Straits of Dover last night into a wave-tossed barrier to a possible Nazi invasion of England and skies were thick with fog. British seamen said that the Channel blow looked like the beginning of the fall storms and declared that Adolf Hitler had already lost his best chance to attempt a landing. Heavy damage was done to the Nazi invasion forces by the Royal Air Force attack as well as the storm.

LONDON, Sept. 18:—The London News - Chronicle demands that Lieut. Robert Davies of Canada, who led a party of Royal Engineers in removing an enormous bomb from the vicinity of St. Paul's Cathedral, be awarded the Victoria Cross. #### THIS WON'T WIN WAR

Prime Minister Winston Churchill tells Parliament that since September 1 ten thousand civilians have been killed and wounded in Hitler's wanton and indiscriminate air war on England. Military casualties have numbered but 250. In addition to all this, many homes and civilian possessions, stores, churches, hospitals and priceless mementoes have been destroyed or damaged. At the same time, military objectives have suffered but inconsequentially.

If Hitler thinks he is going to win the war that way, 'e 'as (as the Cockney put it over the radio the other night) another think coming. "Little does Hitler know of the spirit of the British citizen and the fibre of the Londoner," growls the Prime Minister who has come to be regarded as the personification and embodiment of everything that is British in these stirring, these strenuous, yes, these sad days of war.

Hitler, confessedly an arch liar, now admits by his acts that he and his Nazis can win this war in one way and one way only—that is by what Britons call foul means—the deliberate attacking and terrorizing of women and children, the helpless and the decrepit. These very admissions of Hitler's that he cannot win by what we regard as fair means should be heartening to Britons everywhere, more especially we at this distance who are not subjected, and probably will not be if we play our part now, to the ordeals that our folk in the Old Land are being called upon to endure nightly and daily now.

Sooner or later, even if he shatters the British Isles before the day comes, Hitler will have to come out in the open and fight this war along either military or economic lines. Then the Fuehrer will meet the Briton on his real ground and there can be no doubt of the issue, all this horror, all this frightfulness which we must face in the meantime notwithstanding.

A few months ago—even after the war started—there might have been some to still doubt if Hitler and his Nazis were really so wicked, so cruel, so wanton as they had been painted. In the light of these past two weeks can any one still have any doubts on that score? England with all her faults, who could prefer Hitler? Who would stop now before the fight with the gangster has fairly started?

There may be worse in store for England. There may be more terrible news before there is more cheerful. That is only going to make us fight the harder, increase the spirit of our resistance.

Yes, the war outlook is bright. We know that Hitler will not fight fairly because he knows he cannot win that way. Daily we are becoming more confident and conscious of our might and our will to win. This campaign of frightfulness, so typical of the Nazi, is but further a demonstration of what we have come to expect from him and increases our resolve to resist. We are not likely again to be lulled back into the anaesthesia of lethargy.

Hitler has really wakened us up to the stern issue and we are determined to fight.

THE EGYPTIAN SITUATION

Press dispatches tell us that the Italians have now marched sixty miles into Egypt, meeting no resistance and occupying deserted posts of no military importance in the burning desert. "No battle has yet been fought," says our dispatch. All of which means that somewhere General Rodolfo Graziani's forces are going to be brought to a sudden and disastrous halt. Somehow or other we sense an Ethiopian in this woodpile of British strategy. One of these fine days, and it may not be very long either, there is going to be some real action in this arena and Mussolini's men and machines will be put to a real test—something which, although they have been at war over three months now, they have not yet experienced. For the moment at least, there would appear to be nothing to worry about in the Italian advance into Egypt. Most likely they are only walking into a position which ere long will prove embarrassing for them.

There has been no real test of strength so far in this arena. When that test does come, we confidently believe our side shall fare very well.

IRISH WIN SOFTBALL

Defeated Three Sisters Again Last Night to Cop Senior City Championship

Softball finally ended last evening when the Three Sisters team bowled out to the Irish Fusillers in the second game of the City Senior playoffs after losing the first game in the two-out-of-three series last week.

Last evening's game was one of those affairs where Mother Nature stepped in and halted the goings-on when things were just becoming interesting.

The score stood at three-all. The last half of the sixth inning was being duly played when, with two men out and one strike on the batter, the game was called by Umpire Harry Astoria. According to the rules of the game the score goes back to the last even inning which was the fourth and the Irish were ahead at that particular time so they automatically took the honors.

Last night's game was very interesting and entertaining with spectacular pitching by both Brown and Amadio. Herb Morgan was on the receiving end for the Sisters and he saved many of Amadio's high ones that usually are good for a stolen base.

Harry Astoria called the balls and strikes and Sergeant Rothwell called them on the bases. Both these men are to be congratulated on their calls especially since things were rather new to them and the darkness made matters just that much tougher.

Tomorrow night the ladies and the men get together at the banquet table at the Boston Cafe to close the season and officially present the cup for the league championships. The banquet will be followed by a dance.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink.

Were Married At Burns Lake

BURNS LAKE, Sept. 12.—A pretty wedding was solemnized at the United Church Manse last Friday afternoon when Miss Hilda Hanke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hanke of Uncha Valley, became the bride of Hughbert McPhail, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McPhail of Burns Lake. Rev. Adam Crisp officiated. The manse was suitably decorated for the occasion, the ceremony taking place under an arch centred by a wedding bell.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a wedding gown of white satin, carrying a bouquet of pink and white sweet peas and gypsophylla. Her sister, Miss Gloria Hanke, attended as bridesmaid, gowned in yellow silk taffeta and carrying a bouquet of sweet peas. Mr. Nelson Rogers acted as groomsmen.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. Adam Crisp.

Following the wedding, supper was served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McPhail at which a large number of guests were present. Toasts were proposed to the happy couple for their future success.

Mr. and Mrs. McPhail are to reside at Tchesinkut.

Margaret, at home. A brother is H. G. Foreman, assistant treasurer, Canadian National Railways, Montreal, and another brother is W. E. Foreman, vice-president, Railway and Power Engineering Corporation, Toronto. A sister is Mrs. R. M. Card, of Winnipeg.

Born at Toronto December 31, 1878, Rowland John Foreman received his early education in public schools there. He was of that school of railway men who began an active career at an early age and progressed throughout his service. He entered service with the Grand Trunk Railway at Toronto in August, 1892, as clerk in the superintendent's office and, in the years that followed, served in various branches of the freight traffic department in several sections of the Dominion. Steadily rising in the ranks he took over the duties of general freight traffic manager for the Canadian National system, including Grand Trunk lines in the United States, in March, 1939.
