Injured In Train Wreck Near Skagway, Passengers Bearing Marks Pass Here Southbound

Some walking stiffly on account of bruised or bandaged legs, some breathing heavily with cracked ribs, others with black eyes, patches on their heads or faces or bandaged hands were among some two dozen passengers who were in Prince Rupert Thursday afternoon aboard the steamer Princess Norah bound for Vancouver after having gone through a train wreck on the White Pass and Yukon Route in the Skagway River canyon, about seven miles out of Skagway, on Tuesday night as they were coming in from the Yukon to catch the steamer for the south. It was a miraculous thing, according to what was to be learned from interviewing them, that it did not turn out to be a major tragedy rather than resulting only in more or less minor hurts which prevented not a single one of them from continuing their trip. Only a large boulder, they said, lying alongside the track at the point where a baggage car and (Continued on Page Four)

"King Carol's Dyke" Said To Be Very Effective Defence Against Invasion LONDON, Jan. 19.—Advice has been received in London of the secret completion of King Carol's "dyke" in Rumania. It consists of a series of ditches and canals along the frontier which can be flooded at a moment's notice if threat of invasion should arise. A large area of country would thus be covered, making a very effective defence against invasion, particularly by mechanized forces.

SPECULATE ON BATTLE

Danish Reports of Engagement At Heligoland or Sylt Yesterday Not Confirmed LONDON, Jan. 19: (CP)—There was speculation today over Copenhagen reports of late Thursday suggesting an aerial and naval engagement in the vicinity of the German air and naval bases of Heligoland and Sylt. No British aircraft or naval forces had been engaged over Sylt, the German base for mine-laying seaplanes, yesterday, it was authoritatively stated by British officials. It was also stated that the French air force had not been raiding there either. The Danish reports said that at least two raids on the German bases appeared to have been carried out. From the southwest coast of Denmark near Jutland it was said that the sound of violent anti-aircraft and naval guns could be plainly heard and there were streaks of fire in the evening sky as if from guns. One squadron of planes was said to have been seen with what were believed to be five German Messerschmidts in pursuit. The mystery of the gunfire, it was stated, might be explained by intensive practice shelling.

Weather Forecast

General Synopsis—Pressure continues high, off northeastern British Columbia and appears relatively low southwest of Vancouver Island. It has been showery on the coast and moderately warm in the interior. West Coast of Vancouver Island—Fresh easterly winds, cloudy and cool with showers.

WAS ALL MISTAKE

Soviet Russia Apologizes To Sweden For Bombing Kallako Islands STOCKHOLM, Jan. 19: (CP)—Russia last night sent its formal regrets to the Swedish government over a breach of neutrality by the bombing on Monday of Sweden's Kallako Islands. Two Soviet planes, it was explained in the note handed to the Swedish charge d'affaires in Moscow, lost their bearings in a snowstorm and flew across the frontier of Sweden in error. A Soviet apology for territorial violation by Russian warplanes was also extended to Norway as well as Sweden, that country as being assured as well that the Red fliers had erred. The apologies, pleading the accidental trespassing in answer to the formal Swedish and Norwegian protests, came while divided counsel left in doubt how Scandinavia will respond to proposals for greater aid to Finland by military co-operation of the northern nations.

Second Division Overseas In Spring

WINNIPEG, Jan. 19: (CP)—Major General E. J. Ashton, inspector general of the Canadian Army, said here that the Second Canadian Division would receive its advanced training in Canada and go to France in the spring.

FINAL BULLETINS

JOINT FAREWELL LUNCHEON Next Tuesday the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce will give a luncheon in the Commodore Cafe in honor of two of the members who are leaving the city—City Commissioner W. J. Alder and W. H. Tobey. This will be the first function of the Chamber to be presided over by the new president, W. M. Watts. It is expected there will be a large attendance.

BORAH NEAR DEATH

WASHINGTON—His condition continuing to gradually weaken, Senator William E. Borah, suffering from brain hemorrhage, still lies hovering between life and death today with the end expected momentarily. Not since the death of President Woodrow Wilson has there been such a pall of gloom over the capital. From all parts of the country messages of sympathy and hope are being sent. President Roosevelt was among those expressing his good wishes to Mrs. Borah. A doctor and two nurses are in constant attendance upon Mr. Borah who has been in a coma since Tuesday.

SHIPMENTS SUSPENDED

LONDON—Under an agreement between the British and United States governments, shipments of cotton from United States to Great Britain under the cotton-rubber barter arrangement have been suspended for the months of February, March and April.

SNOW CRUISER TROUBLE

WASHINGTON—The United States Navy Department has been advised that the $150,000 snow cruiser for the Byrd Antarctic expedition went through a ramp while being unloaded at Little America. The extent of damage was not at first indicated.

YUKON HYDRO-ELECTRIC

TRAIL—S. G. Blaylock, head of the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., announces the intentions of the company to install a hydro-electric plant in connection with mining operations in the Yukon.

MAY ABOLISH APPEALS

OTTAWA—Parliament may abolish appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, the Supreme Court of Canada ruled today. A bill to such effect was introduced at the last session of Parliament by C. H. Cahan and drew support of Minister of Justice Lapointe who said, however, that the Supreme Court should rule on the constitutionality before going further.

HIGHWAY THROUGH ALBERTA

CALGARY—The proposed Alaska Highway definitely will be built through Alberta. Public Works Minister Fallow told a Social Credit convention here last night. He said that Alberta has completed a 350-mile leg of the road from Grimshaw to Great Slave Lake and claimed that the British Columbia route was not passable in winter.

Regulations On Boats Are Now Suspended

Advice has been received from Hon. Clarence D. Howe, federal minister of transport, announcing the suspension indefinitely of new regulations which were set up under the Canada Shipping Act of 1935 in regard to the building of fish boats, these regulations having caused widespread protest at Prince Rupert. The war matters now stand is that the old regulations prior to the coming into effect of the 1935 act again stand.

INVASION OF LOWLANDS

LONDON—The Daily Sketch reports high Parliamentary sources as still considering that a lightning invasion by Germany of Belgium and the Netherlands within a few days is possible. Further violations of the neutrality of the Netherlands by German planes were reported during the night.

FINNISH COMPENSATION

HELSINGFORS—A proposal that all Finns whose homes have been destroyed by Russian bombing should receive $200 compensation was placed before Parliament today.

CANNOT HOLD FOREVER

LONDON—Finnish Minister to Great Britain Griffenburgh said today that, unless heavy reinforcements of arms and ammunitions were sent to Finland, the defence against the Russian invasion must eventually collapse, resulting in possibly the greatest massacre and persecution in history. The urgent problem of Finland was the lack of arms and ammunition against the seeming endless Russian supply. "If we can obtain an adequate supply, I am confident Russia will never conquer our country," Griffenburgh said. "Finland will fight to the last man before bowing to the Soviet republic." A reassuring statement from British government quarters was that steps were being taken to ensure that Finland obtained an adequate supply of arms and ammunition.

PROTEST WHEAT SHIPMENT

If it is true, as reported from Winnipeg, that Canada has sold two million bushels of wheat to Russia, it seems to us that this is a very unwise act. Assume that this wheat does not get to Germany, its reception in Vladivostok would allow the Russians to ship out a similar amount of food supplies at the other end of the country to Germany.

The British government has announced that it is sending aid to Finland in its fight against Russia. Why then should Canada ship food to Russia to enable it more effectively to fight against Finland and to kill those British people who have taken up arms for the Finns?

It is said that the American people are sending financial aid to Finland and at the same time shipping arms and ammunition to Russia. That may be all right for a thoroughly commercialized country whose god is the dollar, but, because United States does it, is no reason why Canada should follow her example. It may also be said that in the past Britain has done something of the sort in war time but that does not make it right or wise. National conscience is developing and the people, who in the last analysis have the say, would be strongly against any action of this kind.

It is possible that it is desirable to establish a credit in Russia in order that Canada or Great Britain may buy from her some necessary war material. In that case the selling of wheat might be justified but we cannot think of any other justification. We do not need the money that badly that we have to traffic at the Empire's expense.

We should like to have two million bushels of wheat shipped through Prince Rupert but we would rather be without the elevator than be a party to shipping food to help an enemy country when we are at war. We hope that protests will be sent to Ottawa sufficient to make the government realize that this thing cannot go on. If the government has some reason for this act, other than one that is based on finance, they should let the people know.

It may be claimed that we are not at war with Russia and that is true but, judging from the present trend, we are likely to be at any time and this is the time to make it clear to that country that we do not approve her action in regard to Finland by cancelling the contract to sell her our good Canadian wheat. There is a double reason why this deal should not go through.

SPORT CHAT

Weight, taken from the saddles of the super-horses who bound over the tough Grand National obstacles, has settled on the brows of paddock pundits studying the wartime cut-price Aintree steeplechase. The most unpredictable contest of the National Hunt Season, which seemed destined to join the Derby on the British "cancelled for the duration" list has, after all, been rescued and slated for April 5. New factors confront the experts poring over form and chart to guide their investments. For they claim the race has been opened high, wide and handsome by cutting seven pounds off the topweight, making it 168, and relaxing the qualifying rule. Now a horse need be placed only in races of three miles or more, worth $356 to the winner, instead of $890 as in the past.

The wartime National will be worth only $22,250 including $17,577 stake money and an $990 trophy for the winner. The stake is about $13,350 less than that won by Workman at the last National. The new topweight, still pretty heavy compared to the light load the flat racers have to carry, was received with mixed feelings in the sports pages. A Daily Express "main" expert welcomed the new weight with "... any pound over 12 stone (168 pounds) means so very much more than any weight below that." On the other hand the Daily Sketch racing man wrote: "Why assume the war can't provide horses capable of winning with 12 st 7 lb? This mitigation, in my opinion, detracts from the prestige of the race."

There were two types, persistent and non-persistent, the persistent which consisted only of the vapor which was soon spent and the latter of more lasting effect being a liquid which emitted vapor. Poisonous dusts such as silica and lead had not yet been used in warfare. The physiological actions of the gases were variously paralyzant, irritant, lacrimatic and blistering. Each was discussed from the standpoint of mortality and injury-producing. The most insidious gas was the mustard because there was only a faint odor to give warning and it soon became imperceptible. British casualties in the last war from mustard gas had been but 2.3 percent. Negroes had been found to be less susceptible to it than white men.

In order to be effective gas must be used in enormous amounts. The most effective use of gas in warfare on record was by the Germans on March 10 and 11, 1918, when they fired 15,000 mustard gas shells into the Cambrai sector. In aerial attacks no such quantities of gas could be delivered. No gas had been used in Spain because it had been found that the number of people that could be killed by high explosive bombs was much greater than the number that could be killed by gas bombs.

D. G. Ireland, past president, presided over Wednesday's luncheon in the absence of President W. M. Watts. The speaker was duly thanked for his discourse. Guests were Alan G. Landels of Prince Rupert and Arthur C. Salt of Vancouver.

Next Week's Event
C. C. Mills, chairman of the committee in charge, reported on arrangements for a dinner and theatre party on Wednesday evening of next week when the installation of officers for 1940 will be conducted by District Governor Roy Sharp of Seattle and farewell said to Past District Governor W. H. Tobey and Mrs. Tobey.

WANDERERS TAKE LEAD

Defeated Beavers By Score of 2 to 1 Yesterday Afternoon

By winning from the Beavers in the King Edward School football league yesterday the Wanderers went to the head in the league standing. The game was in doubt right up to the end but the Wanderers held their one goal lead to win by two goals to one.

Play was even and, after Jerstad had saved at close quarters, Davies put his team a goal up with a long high shot that beat Mairs. Hemmons and Pierce were dangerous but C. Pilfold cleared. Jerstad cleared on the line at full length when Holkestad and Wesch were nearly through. Holkestad got the equalizer.

The second half was strenuously fought out. Jerstad was now forward. Joe Davies was of great value to his team while Dixon and Teng were safe backs. McGreish tried hard and Ormiston and Bond went close but Leland saved twice. Davies got his second and what proved to be the winning goal with a high shot that went in off the upright. Beavers attacked strongly but were not able to score.

Teams:
Wanderers—Jerstad; Teng, Dixon; Matsumoto, Joe Davies (captain), Leavitt; D. Scherk, S. Hemmons, Pierce, A. Owens, Leland.

Beavers—Mairs; C. Pilfold, H. Menzies; Husoy, Murray, Ormiston; Wesch, Bond, Holkestad, McGreish, Johansen, B. Prince.

RECENT RELIEF CUT

Editor, Daily News:
 In view of the recent relief cut I would like to draw your attention to an article appearing in the Vancouver Sun on January 9, page 1. The article, written by W. M. Grace, Archbishop of Vancouver, says in part: "There is something to say about the economic question in our life. This is why we hope this province so generous in social legislation may find it possible to renege the grandeur and the lights of the family and give a needed assistance in homes not endowed by earthly goods but blessed by many little children. "This would allow for a more normal and happier life for many and would be a move in the best interests of our country because homes well peopled give the country its first resources, its citizens." I do not believe anyone professing to be a Christian will attempt to refute the above. Nevertheless this generous province, through its appointed administrator of municipal affairs in Prince Rupert, has answered that appeal by a cut of in some cases more than 40 percent in relief to the larger families. Some of the older boys in these families will doubtless be called upon later to shoulder arms for "Our way of Living."

Perhaps Russia is just starting another five year plan.

Canada went into the last war with three large railways and came out with two. Now it is suggested that, as she went into this war with two railways, she is likely to come out with only one.

A visitor in her seventies called on two friends in the nineties to see how they were facing up to the war and at the end of her visit, departed with the reflection: "Well, we shall just have to tighten our belts and clench our teeth." "Yes," admitted the resolute 93 with a twinkle, "but we have neither."

Two ladies arrived at the football match just as the kick-off whistle blew. After 10 minutes of play one eleven made a touch-down and the same team kicked off again, whereupon one lady tapped the other on the shoulder and said: "Let's go. This is where we came in."

CAMPAIGN IN CHINA

Lieut. C. Whitehead Gives Interesting Talk on Affairs in Interior of Chinese Republic

Telling of the marvellous work done for China by Madame Chiang Kai Shek, wife of the president, in improving the condition of the people of that country Lieut. C. Whitehead of the Canadian Army Service Corps gave an address to the Rotary Club at its regular weekly luncheon. Some interesting things about the Orient were told. He suggested at the opening that this lady was the moving spirit in China. She found herself faced with the tremendous task of influencing an illiterate people and teaching them modern scientific rules of conduct.

Madame Chiang Kai Shek, one of the richest women in the country, financed the whole scheme herself and put it through. She picked out a number of the best medical students from the Universities and sent them out in various directions as missionaries of health. It was their job to convert the people to modern methods based on the most modern medical science, commencing with sanitation.

At that time cholera was prevalent throughout the country. They took the villages one by one and in some cases made tests in order to convince the people that inoculation was effective. When it was proved that in inoculated villages the death rate was lower than in others and that cleanliness and modern methods of sanitation paid, many of the villages adopted the modern methods. So complete was the success that in Shanghai, with over three million inhabitants, there was not a case of cholera in five years.

Education had to be more gradual. While in the seaports the people of China are very keen on education it is not the same in the remote districts. People there look abroad and say: "How is it that in educated countries you still have terrible wars?"

Discussing why China is so backward in the matter of industries, Lieut. Whitehead told of the many people in authority who wanted a share of the profits if there were any. This is known in the Orient as "squeeze," somewhat similar to what people in Canada call "graft." The result had been that, while in Japan industries flourished, they languished in China. Even gold mines could not be worked because of the various charges made, even in getting the product to the coast. Graft and corruption were everywhere.

Discussing the question of the "open door" in Japanese-controlled countries, Lieut. Whitehead said the Japanese professed to welcome foreign trade while in fact taxation made it impossible for foreigners to do business. In Manchuria, for instance, the tax on electrical goods amounted in all to about 80 per cent while Japanese merchants paid only 10 per cent.

INJURED IN TRAIN WRECK NEAR SKAGWAY

a passenger coach were derailed and turned over on their sides held the cars from toppling into the canyon which is about three hundred feet deep at this point. The derailment occurred near Denver station, the first out of Skagway, where the grade, characteristic of that line, is virtually a shelf chiselled out of the canyon wall, sheer up on one side and sheer down on the other.

"It all happened so quickly that we did not realize what was going on," said Fred Roman, who has been following gardening and hothouse operating at Dawson for thirty years and is on his way to his native home in Halifax for a visit. "The car in which we were riding fell over and we were thrown onto the windows with the seats alongside us." Mr. Roman sustained cracked ribs and was not feeling very comfortable. He was probably the worst injured of all.

"I was dozing in my seat at the time," said James H. Mervyn, elderly store and hotel keeper from Mayo, who was nursing a "shiner" and leg scratches. "The first thing I knew I was part way through a window on the rocks." This was an example of a narrow escape from being crushed in the wreckage.

During the derailment, the rear part of the train became uncoupled from the engine and two box cars. The passengers climbed out through windows or doors on the top or in some cases on the under side. They were all picked up and taken into Skagway in the box cars. At Skagway their wounds were dressed and bound up before they sailed early Wednesday morning on the Princess Norah, departure of which was delayed for several hours. Later a work train went out of Skagway to clear away the wreckage and pick up the toppled equipment.

Hamilton Daglish, postmaster at Whitehorse, and Mrs. Daglish were among others who were in the wreck.

From The Waterfront

A considerable quantity of heavy timber and lumber as well as machinery and equipment to be used by the E. J. Ryan Contracting Co. in the air base construction work at Seal Cove was unloaded on Tuesday at the government wharf from the Waterhouse freighter Southholm.

There were eighty-three passengers aboard the steamer Princess Norah which was in port yesterday afternoon southbound from Skagway to Vancouver. Seven persons disembarked from the vessel here while four went aboard at this port for the south.

C.P.R. steamer Princess Adelaide, Capt. Henry Anderson, arrived in port at 2:30 this afternoon from the south and will sail at 10 p.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.
