NAZIS FLEE BEFORE BRITISH AIR ATTACK

You can almost hear the roar of motors and the thud of guns as you look at this photograph, one of the most unusual to come from the war so far. Very seldom, indeed, have we seen a photograph made under modern war conditions which actually shows the men at whom the photographer and his mates are shooting. This one does. The photograph was snapped from a British Fairey "Battle" bomber during a strafing attack on a German ammunition train in Flanders, in the Dunkirk area.

BIG BULK OF FLEET IS TAKEN

White Ensign Flies Over 250 Vessels of Former French Navy

LONDON, July 5: (CP)—The white ensign of the Royal Navy of Great Britain now flies over the great bulk of the former French navy. The Daily Herald says that 250 French warships have now fallen into British hands.

Since yesterday still more units of the French fleet arrived at Scottish ports to drop anchor. It was disclosed last night that either the battleship Dunkerque or Strasbourg, although badly damaged, had escaped from the Battle of Oran and had made her way to Toulon, French Mediterranean coast port.

It was also announced that not a single British ship had been lost in the Battle of Oran. One British naval man lost his life in the engagement and injuries were very few.

British sources described situation of French fleet at Alexandria "in abeyance." It is not known when the French will make the decision whether or not to join the British but "we know that no French ship shall ever leave Alexandria to surrender to enemy." The French commander at Alexandria was said to have been given the same choice as the Admiral at Oran before the British sank French naval units.

CIVILIANS ARE SLAIN

LONDON, July 5: (CP)—It was disclosed today that eleven civilians were killed yesterday when a German plane raided the British Naval base of Portland.

Attacked by anti-aircraft fire and pursuit planes one of the German bombers was shot down into the sea.

The raids started in the early hours of the day and searchlights went into action. Several bombs fell into the sea and there were no casualties or damage. The defences functioned adequately and well.

Weather Forecast

General Synopsis—The pressure continues high off the British Columbia coast and is relatively low over southwest Alaska. The weather has been fair and warm throughout the province. West Coast of Vancouver Island—Moderate to fresh northwest winds, fair with not much change in temperature.

Vancouver Man's New Explosive

VANCOUVER, July 5: (CP)—J. C. Lawrie, Vancouver chemist, has turned over to the government a new explosive of the naphtholene type like nitroglycerine which may prove useful for war purposes.

FINAL BULLETINS

URUGUAYAN APPEAL

MONTEVIDEO—A stirring appeal is made by the President of Uruguay, in which there is believed to have been a considerable Nazi influence, for strong and active Pan-Americanism in order to "stop Hitler." The message is addressed to twenty-one American nations. President Franklin D. Roosevelt of the United States is seeking a fund of $500,000,000 to assist in heading off possible totalitarian economic influences.

IS STILL SILENT

NEW YORK—Arriving to spend a long week-end at his Hyde Park home, President Franklin D. Roosevelt refrained from making any statement as to whether he would run again. He will not break his silence on this question until after the forthcoming Democratic national convention at Chicago has agreed upon a defence plank which will fit in with his viewpoint. The President prescribed a program based on moral values as to how world peace might be obtained. Meantime, he admitted that the present form of democratic government in the United States was not as efficient as totalitarianism which, however, did away with legislative and judicial functions, something which he himself would never consent to.

ORDERED TO LEAVE

BUCHAREST—The majority of British oil men have been ordered to leave Roumania as the government presumably moved towards nationalization of the country's oil wells and expropriation of British and other foreign powers' properties.

NAVAL BATTLE POSSIBLE

MARTINIQUE—Possibility of a naval battle between the British and French off Martinique, a French island, is seen. A British destroyer squadron is now blockading the island where there are known to be some French destroyers still flying the French flag. There is also a shipment of United States-made airplanes and a shipment of gold at Martinique destined for France.

GERMAN CLAIMS

BERLIN—Germany claims that its submarines and aircraft have been active against British shipping, having done considerable damage in the way of sinking enemy ships.

IMPORTANT COUP

The taking over by the British of the French navy was a very important coup in that it gave no chance for the ships to fall into the hands of the Germans or Italians. While many of the French commanders were quite in agreement, there were others who had been recently appointed by the new government who were pro-German and who have turned the vessels over to the enemy.

Whether the ships will be of full naval value to the British is not made clear. The chief value of the coup was in preventing the enemy from using them. They could be used for transport or other purposes and evidently, the opinion seems prevalent that, with so many French officers and artificers now in the British navy, it should not be difficult to provide ammunition and keep at least some of the ships if not all in service.

UNNATURAL ALLIANCE

It is evident from the action of the men aboard the British liner Arandora Star that the German and Italian people do not love each other and that the present alliance between the two is an unnatural one. It must have been a terrible scene aboard the vessel as she was sinking and the men aboard, fighting each other in hope of securing a place in the lifeboats. Had the submarine given the proper notice of intention to sink the ship, they would have been told there were Germans aboard.

REFUGEE CHILDREN

It seems that already several Prince Rupert people have offered to take into their homes one or two refugee children, either for the duration of the war or for permanent adoption. Possibly there are others who would like to do the same. So far there is no local committee or other organization looking after this and, even without any such, many applications have been sent in. When the registration of women was taken that was one of the questions asked. Would the person registering be willing to take children from the war area? It does not follow from this every person asking for children would get them. Some investigations will be made to find out if the conditions would be suitable. Doctors are in many cases looking after doctor's children, chemists are taking chemists children and so on. That makes it more likely that the children taken will be looked after in a suitable manner.

In last night's City League football game the leading Velvet team defeated the Dry Dock by a score of two goals to one. The game was by far the best of the season with both teams at full strength.

There was no score in the first half although Dry Dock's forwards managed to get through Velvet's defence several times, being caught offside first when they were on the verge of scoring. In the second half just a little after fifteen minutes of play Jack Lindsay scored on a breakaway to put Dry Dock in the lead. Soon after Velvet scored an equalizer when Sonny Dickens converted a corner kick taken by Helge Holkestad. Velvet's second goal was scored by Darrow Gomez after the ball rebounded from the cross bar of Dry Dock's goal.

Stars of the game were Holkestad for Velvet and Smith in goal for Dry Dock. Several times during the game Smith made spectacular saves and, in the closing minutes of the game, he was forced to retire from the field owing to an injured ankle. Officials for the game were Martin of the Fusiliers as referee and Cameron and Morgan as linesmen.

"Gone With The Wind," Coming Here Next Week, Heralded As One Of Great Pictures Ever

There was a day when one spoke of the motion picture's infancy. Then, with talkies, one said: "Ah, now the movies are growing up." Today, with the world-wide release of the great epic drama, "Gone With The Wind," the film entertainment field enters a new era. The "growing up" process is over. The film, breathtaking in scope, bears the stamp of full maturity. Starring Clark Gable as Rhett Butler and Vivien Leigh as Scarlett O'Hara, it does full justice to the famed Margaret Mitchell book, sticking faithfully to plot and dialogue and fulfilling the expectations of its millions of readers everywhere.

Running for three hours and forty minutes, the picture opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, with a policy of two performances daily starting at 2 and 8 p.m. and reserved seats for all performances, thus enabling the waiting filmgoers to be in their seats at the commencement of the picture.

With one magnificently portrayed scene following the other in the brilliantly handled Technicolor, audiences have found it difficult to decide on their favorite episode. However, three of those scenes which have invoked the most comment are the spectacular burning of Atlanta; the later pictorial effect which depicts the gallant Southern army spread out on the ground for medical treatment, creating an effect of defeat and despair that stretches into infinity; and lastly, the amazing emotional portraiture of Hattie McDaniel as Mammy, and Olivia De Havilland as Melanie, as they walk up the miles of red-carpeted stairway and in sobbing accents discuss the tragic death of Rhett's and Scarlett's child.

Hundreds of other brilliant players abound in the case, including Leslie Howard, Laura Hope Crews, Thomas Mitchell, Ona Munson and Ann Rutherford.

HEAVY ADVANCE SALE!

Advice from the Capitol Theatre says they wouldn't be surprised if the advance sale in this city, prior to the opening, might reach as high as 1500.

FROM FAR AFIELD

Visitors from as far west as the Queen Charlotte Islands, east to Burns Lake, south to Ocean Falls and north to Stewart are coming to Prince Rupert for "Gone With the Wind." It will be one of the biggest attractions for visitors here in some time. The seat applications received at the Capitol Theatre make this clear.

SMART AUDIENCES

In other cities the opening of "Gone With the Wind" has been a gala occasion. In some cities it has been the signal for socialites to get out their tuxedo suits, opera capes and other finery.

Vivien Leigh

Playing Scarlett O'Hara, principal feminine character in "Gone With the Wind."

ADVANCE SALES

The handling of mail orders for "Gone With the Wind" reserved seat tickets has become a major operation behind the scenes at the Capitol Theatre. The orders are filled in the sequence of their receipt.

Notes About Big Picture

"NOT ONE INCH"

Among the inquiries being received by Capitol Theatre regarding "Gone With the Wind" are some as to whether the picture will be cut when it is shown in this city. For some reason a rumor has spread to that effect. "There will not be one inch cut from the original 'Gone With the Wind' film," explains Manager D. G. Borland. "We will present this great picture exactly as it was presented at the premiere showings in Atlanta and New York City."

SOUVENIR PROGRAMS

Cambrai Chapter, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire, will exploit the showings of "Gone With the Wind" here next week by offering souvenir programs for sale at each performance. The proceeds of the sale of the programs will go to the Chapter's war work.

CHOOSING TITLE

Almost a part of the daily life of film-goers everywhere, is that four-word dynamic title "Gone With the Wind."

But, though the readers of the book number upward into the millions, there are a few that realize that this title was not the inevitable choice it now seems.

After working on the novel for seven years and revising it for three, its author, Margaret Mitchell, had to set about making a choice of title from the fifty she had at various times put aside. Finally, she made her choice from the Ernest Dowson poem:

"I have forgot much, Cynara!
Gone with the wind,
Flung roses, roses riotously
with the throng,
Dancing, to put thy pale, lost lilies out of mind.

The interpretation, as related to the book and film "Gone With the Wind" is supposed to imply the loyalty of the true Southerner to his land, in spite of the fact that his interests and fancies might undergo many changes in the meantime.

Miss Tracy Currie Fire Hose Used Becomes Bride Of Today To Supply Richard Pillsbury Westview Water

Announcements of the wedding of Richard Pillsbury and Dorothy Dagmar Tracy Currie which took place on Friday, June 28 have been received in the city. "Dick" Pillsbury is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Pillsbury, pioneers of the city, and Miss Currie is the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Currie of Regina. Miss Currie taught domestic science in the local schools here for two different periods.

Residents of Westview are today receiving a decreased water supply due to a break near the Morse Creek bridge in the main to that part of the city. In order that the water supply might not be cut off entirely a fire hose has been stretched across the bridge between hydrants. Repairs to the main will have been effected and normal service restored by tomorrow, it is expected.

A RIFLE WITH A HISTORY

Visiting an arms factory, King George is interested in a battered rifle that played a part in the now-famous Battle of Flinders. The rifle, brought back by its owner of the British Expeditionary Force, was sent to the factory for reconditioning.

WOMEN TOIL LONG DAYS

Girl Workers Have Large Part in Assembly and Finish of Planes

LONDON, July 5: (CP)—Def-fingered, tireless young women work nearly 12 hours a day over the skeleton of a British bombing plane.

A visit to an aircraft factory where a giant machine soon will bear the name "Jamaica" on its fuselage provides a start-to-finish picture of the task of turning out one of these monsters for the Royal Air Force.

The "Jamaica," a veritable flying battleship, was built with $89,000 sent from Jamaica by the Kingston Daily Gleaner. Another one, built with money sent by the Straits Times, will be called the "Singapore" and there soon may be a whole colonial squadron.

The girls, who range in age from from 16 to 25, still have permanent waves but their finger nails would horrify a manicurist. For they work unceasingly putting together ribs, riveting and assembling small parts. They toil seven days a week except for a two-day break every three weeks. This time schedule applies to every worker in the plant.

In that shed the bombers first begin to take shape. Making a bomber is like fitting together a gigantic jig-saw puzzle with thousands of hands to help. Draughtsmen, production experts and superintendents worked 14 to 15 hours daily to get this factory producing quickly. Now it's working to capacity.

Plans and materials ready, the work began while elsewhere engines and bombs were under production to make the aircraft ready for action without a moment's delay. Sheets of aluminum, strips of stainless steel, blocks of rubber and sections of metal were fashioned into a mighty machine.

No Standing Around The workpeople themselves seem to toil like robots. There was no talking, no standing around. One man did not stop working nor remove the cigarette from his mouth when asked what he thought of an 84-hour working week. He pointed to a notice in front of him. It said: "Back up our fighting forces."

Another one said: "When I think what the men from Dunkerque said about where were our planes, I get an itch in my hands and that's the truth. What else can we do but work all we know?"

From the machine and press shops to the sub-assembly sheds—and the shape of the bomber begins to appear. A bomber is sectionalized. If any one section is rejected another can replace it without undoing the work of the whole.

The fuselages are brought down to the assembly sheds. The job nears its end. Wheels bigger than a giant man are rolled out. The painters crawl over the aerial dreadnaught.

Creators of the "Jamaica" and others of her type are as proud as the Clydesider who builds the great ships of the sea. They blush when praise is given their machine and mumble: "I think it will do."

That modest phrase can be taken as assurance no faulty planes will be handed over to the men of the R.A.F.

Twenty-Five Years Ago

July 5, 1915

Another contingent of recruits from Prince Rupert will leave this week for Vancouver enroute to Vernon to go into training, Major J. H. McMullin announces. They will be 175 strong.

Ketchikan defeated Prince Rupert 10 to 3 in an Independence Day baseball game at Ketchikan. Wallace Anderson was the star of the game for Prince Rupert.

Roy McDonell is having encouraged his in the development of his Silver Cup mining property on Mine Mile Mountain near Hazelton.

The storm this week did considerable damage to flowers and trees in some of the gardens, especially where perennials were not well staked. I had a bunch of Sweet Williams that were badly twisted up and half of the blooms torn off. Also the tall delphiniums were pretty badly mangled. These had been staked early in the season and should have been restaked but this had not been done.

I should very much like an expression of opinion this year as to whether we should have a flower show this year as usual. Some seem to think we should devote all our attention to war work. It has also been suggested that we should not give prizes this year but should devote all the admission fees to the Red Cross. I am sure the executive would appreciate suggestions from flower growers, especially from those who possibly might be exhibitors.

Oakland, California, has a Businessmen's Garden Club which meets at luncheon once a week to talk gardening. There is a membership of 325 but the usual weekly attendance runs to somewhere around two hundred. It started with a few enthusiasts who wanted to talk gardening lunching together. Others joined and gradually the membership increased until today it is the largest organization of its kind. It has no constitution and no bylaws. There are no dues to pay except that each person pays for his own dinner and a few cents are retained from the cost of the luncheon. Such a club is possible anywhere.

In spite of the cloudy weather, the roses are coming in bloom. The only trouble has been from the

ALLIED NEAR EASTERN ARMY PREPARED FOR ACTION

Held in readiness for instant action for the past several months, the Allied Near Eastern army's period of waiting has now come to an end as it swings into action against Italian forces. large number of spit bugs. However, roses are not as bad as some flowers for this. The worst seem to be the tall campanulas. The worms fairly eat up these plants. The only thing that seems effective is to crush the little green worm between the finger and thumb. If gloves are worn the plant is likely to be squeezed too hard and injured.

In a few days I shall have water lilies in bloom. There are a number of buds coming along and the first should be out within a week if it is sunny weather.

Slugs have been a bad pest in many gardens this year. Many people have used slug killer with success but there are always some that get away or that do not like the exterminator. The slugs mess up the garden pretty badly. Most gardeners go over their gardens just before dark and pick off any slugs that may appear. Others take a flashlight and make the visit after dark.—H.F.P.

NEW HEAD OF ROTARY

Dr. Neal Carter Takes Over From Peter Lakie And Names Members of His Committees

At the last weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club yesterday Peter Lakie outlined some of the things accomplished while he held the position of president. While the club had lost W. T. Kergin, W. J. Alder and William Drake and five of the members were on active service, there had been eleven new members join the club two of whom, Dr. R. C. Bamford and Allan Landels attended that day for the first time. Therefore, the club had made a gain in membership. During the year, Mr. Lakie said, the club had aided the Navy League, Boy Scouts, Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire milk fund, sick soldiers' fund, the Salvation Army Christmas fund and the Boys' Fund for new instruments. He congratulated several members on the excellent work done in various capacities, particularly W. L. Coates for taking the secretaryship when T. A. McWaters had joined the army and A. C. Small for taking hold of the Bulletin. He then turned over the gavel to Dr. Neal Carter, the new president. Dr. Carter thanked the members for the honor done him. Unfortunately he had to leave the city on Wednesday in connection with his work so he would not be

Bring Out Book Agent Rejected

Canadian's Story of Colonel J. S. Boyle of Yukon Fame

NEW YORK, July 5: (CP)—After lingering for months in the darkness of a New York customs office, a book about a Canadian colonel by a Canadian private has been brought to light by a publishing company's investment of $2.50—the duty on the manuscript.

Kim Beattie, Toronto newspaper man, sent the manuscript of "Brother, Here's a Man," to his New York literary agent six months ago. The agent left the manuscript in the post office in the belief it wasn't worth paying $2.50 duty on but the Macmillan Publishing Company heard about the book and collected the package.

Now they have published the book, a biography of Col. J. E. Boyle, the Canadian soldier hailed as the savior of Roumania in the First Great War and have already sold motion picture rights to a Hollywood company.

Beattie was born in Guelph 40 years ago, son of Peter and Mary Jane Beattie. Five of his father's brothers were Presbyterian clergymen. Kim decided to be a soldier, however, and joined the army after his first year in high school, enlisting in the 48th Highlanders of Canada as "Kenneth Walters," because he was under age. On the plea of his mother, he was sworn in again under his real name when the regiment reached England.

Wounded once, Beattie was at the front till the end of the war. He returned to Toronto and became aviation editor of The Evening Telegram and a writer on military matters. He was the only "outsider" ever admitted to the annual dinners of Toronto holders of the Victoria Cross.

"And You," a book of poems, was published in 1930 and Beattie followed a few years later with a history of the 48th Highlanders. Last September, Beattie re-enlisted

Picnic At Sangan On Dominion Day

Interesting Community Outing Near Masset This Week

MASSETT, July 5:—There was a very interesting community picnic at Sangan Beach on Dominion Day. The morning was wet and unpleasant but it cleared later in the day and the picnic was much enjoyed. A full schedule of children's races was pulled off and golf was played. Most of the people of the village were present.

TERRACE

C. L. M. Giggey, well known sawmillier, had the misfortune to receive a serious injury in the sawmill Thursday morning, one arm being badly crushed. The injured man was rushed to Prince Rupert Hospital by speeder for treatment.

Dan Pop has built a store and workshop on his property facing the railway station and has moved his boot and shoe business to the new premises.

Captain J. T. Harvey, enroute from Prince Rupert to Smithers on a recruiting tour, stepped off the train Wednesday night to give notice that he will stay in Terrace on his return from interior points.

QUAKE SHOOK THE ISLANDS

Houses Swayed, Dishes Rattled and in Some Cases Smashed Wednesday Morning

A very distinct earthquake shook the Queen Charlotte Islands on the morning of Wednesday this week but no damage was done. Houses shook, dishes rattled and in some cases toppled off the shelves and broke. Every telephone was much in use finding out what places had felt the shock.

The quake occurred at 8:02 Wednesday morning and was clearly felt at Queen Charlotte City, Tleil, Port Clements, Skidegate and Massett.

Celebration At Skidegate Monday Last

SKIDEGATE, July 5.—On Monday of this week the people of the Queen Charlotte Islands all gathered at Skidegate for the annual Dominion Day celebration. There were the usual sports and other events, all passing off successfully. While there was a little rain in the morning it cleared in the afternoon and the event proved wholly enjoyable.

The total proceeds of the celebration will be given to the Queen Charlotte Hospital.

The dance was held in the Skidegate Mission Hall and the total proceeds of the celebration amounted to $400. Music was supplied by the local Harmony Boys and something like 250 people attended. The Hospital Board appreciated very greatly the generous support and especially that of the officers, non-commissioned officers and men of the Royal Canadian Air Force from Allford Bay.

Terrace Board Of Trade Hears Report On Railway Superintendent's Visit

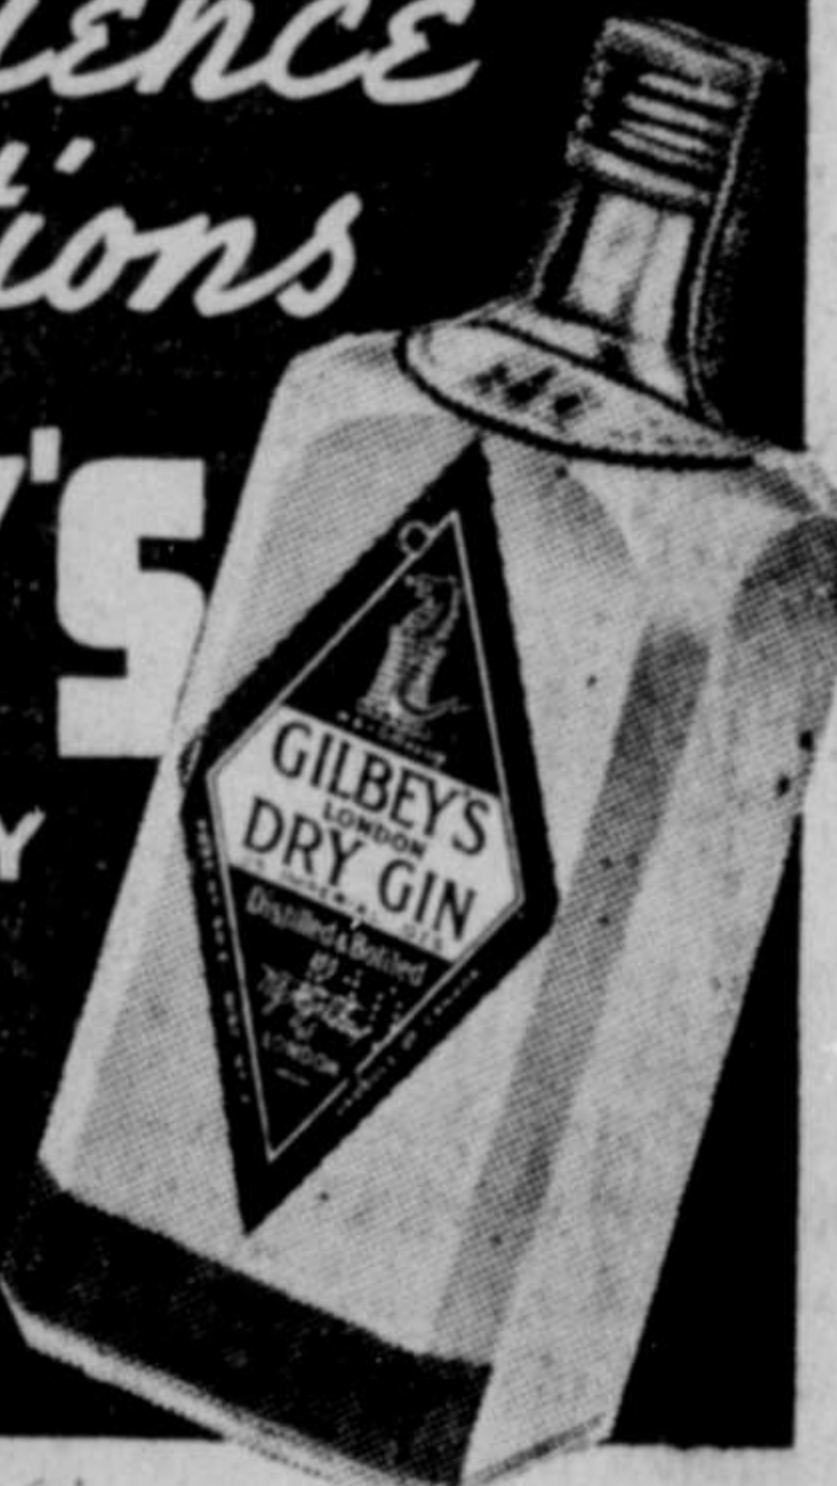

TERRACE, July 5:—The Terrace Board of Trade held its monthly meeting in the Terrace Hotel on Wednesday evening. E. T. Kenney, M. L. A., in addressing the meeting, presented a report on a recent tour of the district by James Clark, Canadian National Railways superintendent.

Two projects were dealt with at some length—one being the proposed laying out of a park upon the waste land adjoining the railway depot, the other being the hot springs at Lakelse Lake. It was brought out that Terrace district possesses a valuable potentiality in the hot springs which may be developed when conditions warrant the effort.

Harry King was in the chair.

WILD LIFE ON ISLANDS

Deer and Pheasant Are Abundant on Beautiful Queen Charlottes

Visitors to the Queen Charlotte Islands this year remark upon the large number of deer running wild everywhere. There are also large numbers of pheasant and grouse chicks, the season evidently being a good one for the birds. Scarcity in the past few years is ascribed to hawks, which were numerous and preyed on the chicks in past seasons.

The islands are very beautiful just now. In Port Clements particularly the foxgloves are running wild and brighten up the landscape in a most striking manner.
