THE ROTARY CLUB

Every Thursday afternoon the members of the Rotary Club gather and eat luncheon together. They are representatives of the business and professional interests of the city, one from each business or profession, some forty in all. Usually after luncheon they listen to some speaker, either a local man or visitor from the outside. Many people wonder why they do this and what there is that binds the members together and makes them so interested that from seventy to ninety per cent of the members of the club turn up every week. Here in a few words is what they stand for:

To implement the ideal of service (thoughtfulness of and helpfulness to others) in their club relations, in their business relations, in their community relations, and in their international relations.

To promote acquaintance and closer friendships with other men.
To participate in wholesome good fellowship.
To know more of other men's work, problems, and successes.

To find stimulation in the desire to be of service to their fellowmen and society in general.
To gain a new outlook on their own businesses or profession and to view their vocation more as a service to the community than only as an instrument of private gain.

And, in a larger sense, to seek opportunity to cooperate in the advancement of international understanding, good will, and peace.

This week Rotary is celebrating its thirty-fourth birthday. The club was founded in Chicago by Paul P. Harris, a lawyer, who is still an active and influential member. Today there are over five thousand clubs with a total membership of close to a quarter of a million. Prince Rupert members, when they travel, drop in at Rotary Club luncheons at any of the cities or towns that they visit, and take their places as if they were members. They always receive a hearty welcome. Members may be of any race, religion or political belief. Clubs do not take part in politics, endorse partisan measures or candidates for public office although every Rotarian is urged to take a keen interest in political and civil life.

Once a year delegates are sent to an international convention and this convention is being held in 1940 at Havana, Cuba early in June. This convention decides the general policy of the organization.

The local Rotary Club was formed sixteen years ago with only fourteen members, the writer of this article being the only one of the fourteen left. That simply illustrates the transient character of the community. However, the new members have brought to the club new life, new courage, fresh initiative and the result is that it is today on a stable basis. Its membership is limited because with a few minor exceptions, only one representative is allowed to join from any one trade or profession.

When it was found that the Rotary idea was successful a number of other clubs, somewhat similar in principle, sprang up and they also have been successful in doing excellent work as service clubs although they are not as numerous as are the Rotary Clubs.

KETCHIKAN TEAM HERE

All Set For Resumption of International Basketball Series Here Tonight

Confident that they will give a good account of themselves in the resumption of the international senior basketball series here tonight and tomorrow, a team of all-star hoopsters from Ketchikan arrived in town at 10 o'clock aboard the seineboat Eleanor, Capt. Frank Williams. Starting out at midnight last night following a game in which they defeated Wrangell Institute, regarded as one of the best teams in southeastern Alaska, by a score of 47 to 34, the visitors had a good trip and report themselves in good shape.

With Mickey MacIsaac as manager, the members of the Ketchikan team are Cliff Phillips and Ragnar Myking, forwards; Phil Elliott, centre, and Arnie Harris and Art Hinkleman, guards, with Ken Elekner, Mark Bussanich and Leif Leding as substitutes.

Others in the party are Art Pen-gra, referee; Pete O'Keefe, scorer; Abe Agiwara, radio announcer; Ole Larsen, H. Hansen, Frank Kline and Harold Blanton.

Three of the Ketchikan star players—Johnny Davis, Gay Hel-land and George Northrup—were unable to make the trip on this occasion.

In the first two games of the series at Ketchikan last month, Ketchikan won one 36 to 34 and Prince Rupert the other 40 to 25, making the total count to date 76 to 59 in Prince Rupert's favor.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rin' to Go. The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas floats up your stomach. You get constipated. Harmful poisons go into the body, and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk. A nerveless movement doesn't always get at the cause. You need something that works on the liver as well. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up". Harmless and gentle, they make the bile flow freely. They do the work of calomel but have no calomel or mercury in them. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name! Stubbornly refuse anything else. 25c.
