Premier Resigns

BRITAIN RALLIES UNDER CHURCHILL

LONDON, May 10.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain announced tonight that he had found it impossible to form a national government under his own leadership and that, therefore, he considered it his duty to resign so there would be a united front against the enemy and victory assured. He then stated that the King had accepted his resignation and that Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill had consented to form a new government in which Mr. Chamberlain had agreed to continue as a member at Mr. Churchill's insistence.

"The hour has come when we must be put to test," said the Premier. "We must assist the innocent people of Holland and France. We must fight on until this savage beast who has sprung out of his lair is disarmed and overthrown," declared the Prime Minister in biting and unshaken words.

Mr. Chamberlain's tone was never more virile, never more determined. The Labor party has announced it will join the new British cabinet.

Mr. Chamberlain told the people that all the country's strength must be put behind Churchill and the new government.

FRENCH TROOPS AT MONS; KNOCKOUT BLOW AGAINST GERMANY MAY BE PLANNED

French and Belgians Having Marked Success In Impeding Nazi Invasion—Seventy Planes Downed By Dutch

French troops today crossed the Belgian frontier and are reported to have reached Mons en route to help the Belgian army.

The German attack began without warning between 3 and 4 a.m., three hours before the German ambassador to Brussels presented an ultimatum in terms similar to the demand which began the last war. The Belgian government flatly rejected the German demand for free passage of German troops and appealed to Paris and London for aid. Brussels, Antwerp and Jamelle were bombed.

Forty-four German planes were shot down in France today, it was announced.

German leaflets dropped on The Hague by plane told residents that strong German forces have surrounded the city and "resistance is insanity." This dispatch was filed more than two hours after the Berlin radio claimed The Hague had been occupied.

The whole attack on the lowlands is regarded as part of a quick knock-out smash against the British Isles. Britons at home have been warned to be ready for any emergency such as preparation to take to bomb shelters and having gas masks in readiness for instant use.

The Belgian Foreign Ministry at Brussels announces German land forces have been stopped within a few yards of the frontier after entering Belgium in the blitzkrieg against the low countries. At Berlin the high command claimed that re-

GIGANTIC FIGHT ON

Great Battle Of All Time Believed To Be Impending In Belgium

LONDON, May 10: (CP)—Allied forces are reported authoritatively to be moving rapidly across the Belgian border to meet the German army and a Paris military spokesman said: "The most gigantic battle of all time may be at hand."

"The Germans must have one or two military purposes although it is difficult to determine exact objectives."

"Operation to gain control of the long strip of coastline facing England may be the objective."

"The vast strategical movement of invasion is comparable but larger than that carried out by German troops across Belgium in 1914."

Germans are following the usual tactics of sending shock forces in advance preceded by intense aerial bombardment.

Hitler is reported to be personally commanding the Nazi offensive.

GAS ACT FAVORED

Petroleum Sales Measure, Putting Government in Business, Endorsed by Legislature

VICTORIA, May 10: (CP)—The Petroleum Sales Act, giving the government authority to enter the oil industry, passed its second reading 32 to 10 in the Legislature last night.

Premier T. D. Pattullo said the government did not intend to go into the oil business immediately, the Act merely giving authority for such if oil were struck in the Peace River district where drilling operations are proceeding.

"I wish this legislation would be the end of such measures, he said 'but I am afraid other big business may flout the law as oil companies did.' Mr. Pattullo was referring to suspension of gasoline deliveries rather than accept a three cent price cut ordered by the government last month.

Four Liberals—Dr. J. J. Gillis, H. G. Perry, E. C. Henniger and Louis Lebourdais—joined the Conservative Opposition in voting against the measure while the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation members, Dr. Lyle Telford and Tom Uphill voted with the government.

Blitzkrieg Has Failed

AMSTERDAM, May 10: (CP)—The commander-in-chief of Netherlands armed forces today declared Germany's attack on Holland a failure.

Holland And Belgium Invaded; Allies Come To Help Immediately

Strong Resistance Put Up By Defenders With Measure Of Success —Luxembourg Capitulates

After eight months of what may now appear to have been comparative inaction, the European war appears to have commenced in earnest today. Early this morning Germany commenced a lightning invasion of Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg. Holland and Belgium offered immediate and effective resistance to attack by land and air, declared themselves in a state of war against Germany and, announcing that they were now allies of Great Britain and France, formally appealed to those countries for assistance. Immediately the British and French armies moved into action to give the requested assistance. Up to an early hour this morning there was no word that the Allied and German land forces had been actually in combat as yet in the lowlands.

Germany moved without warning by air and land on Holland and Belgium. Where possible, the Nazis marched in by roads across the frontier. Prepared to do so, the Dutch flooded their lands at certain points. Here the Germans resorted to use of rubber boats. There was general use of the parachute method in dropping troops at strategic points with definite duties to perform but it was indicated that the defenders were having considerable success in sniping off the parachute troops as they jumped, taking many others prisoner.

Using hundreds of bombing planes in concerted and evidently well planned action, the Germans launched attacks on numerous centres in Holland, Belgium and also France. In Holland, Amsterdam, The Hague and Rotterdam were soon visited, the objectives at the outset appearing to be airports. In Belgium there were air attacks on Brussels and Antwerp. At least one important air base in France was bombed. Considerable damage was done to some of the airports attacked but early reports indicated that there were extremely few casualties.

Five German Heinkels flew over the Thames estuary and southeast England during the night but were driven off by British pursuit planes. In the combat of one British plane against an enemy north of the Thames, the British plane was reported to have been brought down. There were no air raid alarms in London and no bombs were dropped.

Paris had its longest air raid alarm so far in the war but no enemy planes actually appeared.

It was indicated that Holland and Belgium were having early success in halting the advance of the enemy on their land, the former by flooding their lands and the latter by blowing up bridges and roads.

The British and French authorities took early opportunity to warn Germany that any bombing attacks on civilian populations would re-

Bulletins

FIRST NOTICE

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The first intimation that the United States received of the impending invasion of Holland and Belgium by Germany was a telephone message by John Cuddeback, United States ambassador to Secretary of State Cordell Hull early today that land forces were concentrated on the borders of Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg and were expected to attack on each front at any time. Shortly after the attack followed.

EAST INDIES QUIET

BATAVIA—The Governor of the Netherlands East Indies reports the situation quiet here following the invasion of Holland by Germany. All necessary precautions have been taken. All Germans sixteen years of age and over have been interned. All enemy property has been seized.

JAPANESE POSITION

TOKIO—Tokio does not believe the European war will spread to Asia. The Japanese foreign minister declared today that Japan had no intention to move against the Dutch East Indies which United States and other nations have thought she might take opportunity to annex and thus obtain a much needed oil supply. Foreign reports say the Japanese navy is steaming towards the Dutch East Indies and that the United States fleet is moving to the Philippines to be ready for any emergency.

UNITED STATES WATCHES

WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt was in emergency conference at the White House this morning to consider the situation following the German invasion of three more neutral countries. Attending the conference were Secretary of State Cordell Hull, Assistant Secretary of State Sumner Welles, Secretary of Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Attorney General Jackson, Admiral Stark and General Marshall. Holland has officially inquired from United States as to what steps she may take in view of the invasion of the Netherlands. The President has ordered "frozen" securities of Holland and Belgium in United States to prevent them falling into German hands.

Two Famous Craft — Corsair and Mayflower—Are Sold by United States Interests

NEW YORK, May 10: (CP)—Two famous American yachts are leaving here for purchasers in Great Britain and Canada, the supposition being that they are destined for naval war service. One is the 340-foot Corsair valued at $2,000,000 and formerly owned by J. Pierpont Morgan. The other is the 320-foot Mayflower which was the United States presidential yacht from 1902 to 1929.

down a German plane which was flying over Swedish territory.

RED ARMY POWERS

MOSCOW—The Red Army has been given added authority to take "necessary steps" in the ever changing international situation. The Army has been instructed that it does not necessarily have to be bound by any previous agreements made under different conditions.

LAND IN ICELAND

LONDON—British forces, it is officially announced, have landed in Iceland to assist that country in preserving its neutrality. This action is taken in some quarters as strengthening the belief that there exists a secret agreement between Great Britain and the United States whereby the former would police the Atlantic Ocean in the event of a general war and the latter the Pacific. This might have an important bearing upon the Dutch East Indies situation in which the United States is vitally interested, particularly in the way of preventing Japan from getting control of them.

CALL FOR VOLUNTEERS

LONDON — The Air Ministry called for volunteers today.

DIFFERENT ANGLE

DOORN—Former Kaiser Wilhelm is having a taste of war from an angle different to that of the last war. Living not far from the inundated area following the Nazi invasion, he now knows what it is like to have bombing planes fly overhead and to be faced with the prospect of flight like an ordinary civilian refugee.

MEANWHILE OFF NORWAY

BERLIN—The Nazis claim to have sunk a 9000-ton British transport at Narvik and a submarine in the Skagerrack.

CHAMBERLAIN'S POSITION

Possibly by the time this gets into print Rt. Hon. Neville Chamberlain will have resigned from the position of British Prime Minister. An analysis of the vote seems to indicate that, if all the dissident Conservatives had voted, they would have defeated the government. There were 151 Conservatives who did not vote but some of these were on active service and could not be present. The others abstained because, while they could not agree with the government, they did not wish to definitely turn out the party and possibly precipitate an election.

A younger man at the helm seems to be the desire of British people everywhere, including Canadians. While most of us admire Mr. Chamberlain we feel that he has not always been a success. Some even think he is a rank failure. One of the difficulties is choosing a successor who might be acceptable to all. Pretty soon there may be a call for Eden to head the government unless the situation changes.

GETTING MORE SHIPS

While the British have been losing a few ships, they are also acquiring more to take the places of those injured or destroyed. An occasional American ship is sold to French or British interests and the registry changed to British or French. This enables the ships to be used for carrying war supplies. To this is added the number of ships being completed and put into service and also an occasional ship captured from the Germans. On the whole the number of British ships in service today is said to be as large as when the war started.

ELLIOTT PRESIDENT

New Executive Of Prince Rupert Trades And Labor Council

The Prince Rupert Trades and Labor Council, at its regular monthly meeting last night, elected a new executive consisting of Thomas Elliott, President; Douglas Stalker, Vice-President, and Charles Cummant, secretary.

A number of trade unionists, other than delegates, attended the meeting and were welcomed by the president.

In taking over the presidency, Mr. Elliott gave an address, appreciating the valuable services rendered for many years by the retiring president, J. J. Gillis.

HOLLAND AND BELGIUM INVADED

sult in speedy and adequate action in retaliation upon Germany.

Luxembourg was reported to have early capitulated to the Germans. Holland and Belgium, on the other hand, immediately announced their resistance against unwarranted attack.

General Maurice Gamelin, Allied commander-in-chief, in an order of the day to French troops, said: "The attack we have foreseen since October has been launched. The Germans have started a fight to the death. We ask you to go forward with courage, energy and confidence."

Fast motor torpedo boats played an important part in the capture of The Hague, acting in conjunction with the dropping of hundreds of troops from planes by parachutes, the Germans claimed.

Without Warning

Three hours after German troops had entered Holland and the attack on her country had otherwise been launched, Queen Wilhelmina received a note from Berlin announcing that German troops were coming in enormous numbers and resistance would only result in danger of complete annihilation. The note informed Holland that Germany had undeniable proof that Great Britain and France were contemplating an early invasion of Holland against Germany.

Queen Wilhelmina immediately replied, denying any hostile agreement by Holland with Great Britain and France against Germany. After all these months of Holland's efforts to preserve neutrality, the enemy had, without warning, broken its solemn promises and attacked The Queen strongly protested the "unwarranted attack" which would be resisted by Holland with all the power at her command. Later an official statement by the Dutch government said that Holland would never enter into negotiations with the enemy. The public was warned against heeding any rumors or radio messages urging the Dutch people not to resist the Germans. The Queen urged Dutch citizens to "do your best everywhere."

Dr. Joseph Goebbels, German propaganda minister, in a typical Nazi message last night, declared that the western powers had wanted to run the war with as little cost as possible. After careful study of the situation, the conclusion had been reached that it was the allied intention to divert the Germans from the real war. Great Britain, Goebbels charged, had been making arrangements to conduct a campaign through Holland and the Netherlands against Germany. Under these circumstances, Germany had now decided that the time had come to order the German army to take over the "protection" of Holland and Belgium.

Allies to Rescue

Holland and Belgium immediately announced that they were at war and appealed to Great Britain and France for help. The Netherlands legation in London announced "We are now allies of Great Britain and France." The requested assistance was immediately assured by Great Britain and France and steps taken to provide it.

Dutch correspondents in Berlin, listening to their country's radio, learned today that German parachute troops had landed in the Netherlands and were fighting in numerous places. This was the first intimation that the newspapermen in Berlin had that the war was on.

The Germans started crossing the Dutch frontier at 3 a.m. Greenwich time. The big attack in the west, long awaited, was under way. Dutch anti-aircraft guns and pursuit planes were in waiting. Flooding of the lowlands immediately commenced. Soon Brussels and Antwerp were being attacked by air. The Germans dropped by parachutes in some cases were Dutch uniforms. Scores, if not hundreds, of planes were soaring over Holland and Belgium. As the attack intensified and grew more widespread, Dutch citizens started fleeing from The Hague, Amsterdam and other Dutch cities.

The air attacks on Brussels and Antwerp in Belgium followed that on Holland.
