Allied and German Navy Fight Off Scandinavian Coast Soon Results After Daring Action

GERMAN TROOPSHIP TORPEDOED BY BRITISH SUBMARINE AND AT LEAST THREE HUNDRED SOLDIERS IN UNIFORM ARE KILLED AS EVENTS MOVE FAST IN NEW SPHERE OF WARFARE

Several Other Casualties Are Reported In This Area

FIGHTING BETWEEN GERMAN AND BRITISH WARSHIPS IN NORTH SEA—ONE AND POSSIBLY TWO ENGAGEMENTS ALREADY—FISHING BOATS LAND SURVIVORS

OSLO, April 8: (CP)— Fighting between British and German ships in the North Sea in which at least nine men were killed and several vessels sank was disclosed as Norwegian schooners reached port with victims and survivors. The nature of the engagement was uncertain.

Approximately 300 uniformed Germans were killed today when a British submarine fired two torpedoes into the German steamer Rio de Janeiro four miles off the Norwegian coast. Norwegian fishermen reported that there were more than three hundred Germans aboard the vessel which they say failed to halt when ordered to do so. The submarine fired twice and the Germans started jumping into the Skagerrak.

Norwegian officials said there were about five hundred men in German Army uniform aboard the Rio de Janeiro when it sank. Eighty horses were also lost.

Many of the Germans were drowned and their bodies were washed ashore at Lillesand, Norway. After the first torpedo struck Norwegian fishing boats began picking up the survivors. The second torpedo killed numerous Germans in the sea.

Norwegian authorities did not know why the man-laden ship was cruising in sight of the Norway coast.

Earlier French military sources in Paris had reported that German troop contingents had recently been engaged in embarking and landing manoeuvres along the North Sea and Baltic coast. These manoeuvres were interpreted at that time in Paris as being aimed at Scandinavia and the Netherlands, possibly as a bluff to back up diplomatic pressure.

There were indications of at least one other naval encounter off the south Norway coast. Numerous explosions at sea were heard. The German steamship Kreta reported that she had been attacked by a submarine and was in distress off the south coast of Norway.

Such were rapid developments which ensued today following the drive of Allied naval forces into Norwegian territorial waters to sever Germany's "life line" for Scandinavian ore.

The mine-laying was completed within one hour and Norway was notified as soon thereafter as "practical."

Authoritative sources, emphasizing that operations were "carried through without incident," said that the action had been taken solely against Germany to force coastal shipping to pass outside Norwegian territorial waters at three points.

Statements announcing the action were released simultaneously from Paris and London.

As justification for the mines which it was acknowledged would "not be lawful in ordinary circumstances," the Allies declared that "illegal" German practices of unrestricted mines, submarine and airplane attacks on neutral and British

IMPORTANT CONFERENCE

Lord Halifax Presides Over Meeting Of Diplomats Considering Means Of Tightening Blockade On Germany

LONDON, April 8:— Carrying ahead another step of the Allied economic and diplomatic offensive, a conference which is expected to prove of vital importance in the Allied drive to head off German, Italian and Russian co-operation in southeastern Europe and tighten the economic blockade on Germany opened in London today with British diplomatic representatives to eight countries, including ambassadors to Italy, Russia, Turkey and ministers to Greece, Hungary, Bulgaria, Roumania and Yugoslavia meeting under the chairmanship of Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax.

The aim is to devise measures of tightening the blockade on Germany with as little hurt as possible to the neutrals which will be thus assisted from being inclined into economic bondage to Germany.

Resolutions here are to the effect that all Balkan nations welcome the formation of a huge British commercial company to facilitate trade between the Balkans and the markets of Great Britain and France which have the cash with which to buy and the ability to deliver.

Territorial Waters Are Seeded With Mines To Halt Nazi Shipping

Deliberate Step Taken To Tighten up Blockade of Reich— Will Be No Terrorism, However, or Ruthless Sinkings and Murder on High Seas— Move is Essential

LONDON, April 8: (CP)— Setting the stage for British and German naval action off the west coast of Norway following the seeding out of Allied mine fields in three areas of Norwegian territorial waters with a view to tightening the economic blockade of the Reich, the war at sea today started to take on a new phase. With Germany enraged at this new and daring move on the part of the Allies following their decision to assume a more aggressive role in the war, a Nazi naval fleet was today steaming out of the Baltic towards the Norwegian west coast where units of the British fleet were concentrated. In Admiralty circles in London, it was said that such a nemerger by the German fleet to do battle, having been long awaited, would now be welcome.

The Allied action in setting out the mine fields aroused a furore among the neutral nations, particularly Norway and Sweden which had been repeatedly warned of late that the time had come when they must take a stand on one side or the other in the war. Sweden condemned the British action and at Oslo there is reported to have been a hot session at the Norwegian Foreign Office today with the British minister.

Germany, facing the prospect of a cutting off of supplies of vital minerals from Scandinavia, blustered that she was ready to strike in an "unexpected way."

The Netherlands expresses amazement at the Allied action which is deplored as a breach of international law. Meantime, Great Britain and France maintained a calm attitude at the various reactions none of which were, apparently, unexpected.

World Shipping Warned

The British official declaration that three areas of Norwegian waters had been rendered dangerous to shipping by the laying of mines was broadcast to the world last night. There would be a forty-eight hour naval patrol following the laying of the first mine, it was announced, for the protection of any vessels which might inadvertently stray towards the new mine areas. The mine areas would in no way interfere with normal access of Norwegian ships to their own ports and hamlets.

In a lengthy British statement announcing the setting out of the mine fields in Norwegian waters, it was explained that Germany, in its campaign of terrorism at sea, had now sunk well over 150 neutral ships with the killing of nearly 1000 neutral seamen. Many of these sinkings had been in utter defiance of the rules of international warfare and without the least justification. In some cases ships had been sunk by Germany when bound from one neutral port to another neutral port with no intention of calling at a British port. There had been flagrant violation of neutral rights in the indiscriminate campaign of destruction. British and Allied vessels had also suffered and there had been air attacks on fishing vessels and machine gunning of their crews. There had even been ruthless attacks on lightships. On the other hand the statement pointed out, the Allies had not destroyed a single neutral ship nor had they

LONDON, April 8:—Thirty miles off the coast of Fife, Scotland, the 2100-ton Norwegian freighter Nevada, bound from Swansea to Oslo with cargo of coal, was torpedoed without warning at 2:30 Saturday morning by a German submarine and sank in two minutes. Three officers and nine members of the crew were killed and fourteen were rescued by the Finnish steamer Atlas, after drifting around for nine hours in a lifeboat in the open sea. The survivors had been sighted by British patrol aircraft which signalled the Finnish steamer.

The German u-boat cruised around for half an hour after the torpedoing of the freighter but made no attempt to rescue the survivors.

The Namora had not been in convoy nor did she use her wireless.

UNITED STATES AND WAR

Evidently the people of the United States are speculating on the possibility of their being drawn into the war. The National Garden Bureau, with headquarters in Chicago, says: "Like everything else, gardening this year will be influenced by the war. Should war come to this country, home vegetable gardens would immediately become an important factor in national defense. Every such garden made this spring will be a contribution to national preparedness, besides helping the gardener to meet a probable increasing cost of living."

CANADA'S WOOL SUPPLY

At the commencement of the war Canada had on hand no large stock of wool. The country's supply came chiefly from Australia and New Zealand, a small part from India and the British Isles and twenty per cent of the total was home grown. Britain at once purchased the whole of the Australian and New Zealand crop for the duration of the war and sales could be made from all Empire countries only under license. The sudden demand for military purposes caused a world shortage and Canada could only secure a supply through concessions from Great Britain. As a result the Wartime Price and Trade Board prohibited wool exports, the price of wool was fixed to prevent hoarding and arrangements made with South Africa and other countries for a complete supply. This is now forthcoming. Four times the usual amount of wool is now in Canada en route here or earmarked for this country. The United Kingdom is releasing enough for all military requirements to last until September next. This should make it possible for Canada to properly outfit all her fighting forces and allow sufficient material for the usual civilian supply but the prices are high and that should keep down the civilian demand.

ECONOMIC PRESSURE

Britain is bringing economic pressure to bear on a number of neutral countries to prevent them supplying Germany with goods which are necessary to the successful carrying on of the war. Some of them had been passing goods through their countries to Germany and thus enabling her to evade the blockade. Naturally, these countries had to protest and show Germany they were being forced to stop supplying her.

Critical Exams Give Extension

LONDON, April 8: (CP)—A pupil who 'J' been studying for at least a year for an examination "critical to his career" can have his compulsory military service postponed, it has been decided. Final and some intermediate examinations are considered "critical" ones but the term does not apply to all necessary examinations which come before the final. A Hardships Committee has been set up and already it has granted a six months' postponement to a pupil studying for a Master of Arts degree. As he intends to be a teacher, the committee said the obtaining of the degree is of considerable importance to him. A postponement certificate is granted for six months only but the applicant may ask for a renewal at the end of that time.

FOOTBALL IS OPENED

High School League Gets Under Way With Alpha Winning Two Games

Last Saturday afternoon marked the opening of the High School spring football schedule with Alpha house nosing out Beta in both games.

The juniors, as usual, turned out in full force and both teams displayed some very good football. While the first half was fairly evenly matched, in the second half Alpha had the edge of play. In the latter minutes of the game Moore converted Ciccone's pass, thus giving Alpha the game 1-0.

Teams were as follows:
Alpha — Calderwood, Johnson, Hankinson, Moore, Holtby, Grimson, Halde, Breen, Ciccone, Landrey, King, Levertt.

Beta — Olsen, D. McLaughlin, Wilson, Wong, Stromdahl, Gurvich, Franks, Finley, Silversides, McKeown, R. McLaughlin, McLeod, N. Pavlikis and S. Alexander were linemen.

Senior Game

Neither of the senior teams had full turn-outs but the junior players came to the rescue and turned what might have been a default or postponement into a highly interesting match.

During the first half Alpha had the upper hand but, while it managed to keep the ball in Beta's territory most of the time, the latter's goal H. Holkestad, playing a steady game for Beta, came close to beating Scherk on a good shot to the corner of the goal. The second period saw Alpha driving hard again, this time with the downhill grade in its favor. Finally Alpha efforts were rewarded when Wilson, from Holtby and Bussey, drove home the winning goal. Beta tried hard time and again but the forwards seemed to lack the necessary punch. The final score was 1-0 for Alpha.

Teams were as follows:
Alpha—Scherk, Bussey, Thorne, Alexander, Anderson, Dawes, Ciccone, Kuwghara, Wilson, Grimson, Holtby.

Beta—Long, McRae, Good, Olsen, Pavlikis, Silversides, R. McLeod, D. McLaughlin, H. Holkestad, M. Holkestad, McAfee, B. Canstick and J. Woodside were linemen.

Mr. Clarke refereed. Few Spectators
One very noticeable feature of the afternoon was the absence of spectators, both students and adults.

Music Goes On But Plans Made For Guns Atop of Buildings

BUDAPEST, April 8: (CP)—Budapest is still gay. It's a muffled sort of gaiety, to be sure, what with war in Europe, but still there are the night clubs, the gypsy music, the numberless inns and restaurants and the famous coffee houses.

True, there are fewer foreigners but the Budapest citizen does quite well by himself in a city which as yet knows nothing of swiftness, black-outs and suspense. The populace of Hungary's capital city has a rather happy temperament in general. They have the advantage, of course, of an unusu-

However, it does not look like Budapest lets the gypsy music fiddle while Europe burns for it looks as though trouble, strike, anti-aircraft guns are on top of bridges and buildings. One old Hungarian folk seems to catch something of the spirit of present-day Budapest is called "Let the Horse Head Is Bigger."

murdered a single neutral seaman. On the contrary, they had been active in the rescue of such seamen following German attacks.

The announcement then went on to notify Norway that it had been decided to take such action as seemed necessary and proper in view of the circumstances which had arisen—circumstances under which Norway had gone to the extent even of providing armed escorts through her territorial waters in co-operating with Germany in the delivery of materials vital for the conduct of war. The statement admitted that Norway had probably been under German threats and pressure but the Allies could no longer afford to be at a disadvantage so had decided to take action—action, however, which would be according to the dictates of humanity although possibly not under ordinary circumstances in accordance with international law. The Allies were formally giving notice to Norway that steps were being taken to deny to Germany the use of territorial waters for the transport of materials and facilities which would be to the advantage of Germany and the disadvantage of the Allies in the war. The passage of contraband materials through Norwegian territorial waters it had been decided to prevent. Areas which had become dangerous to navigation through the laying of mines were then described in detail.

HANDICAP FOR FISH

Prospects for Shipping Pacific Fish Overseas None Too Promising

Col. J. W. Nicholls, general manager of the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co., back in Prince Rupert after a trip to Ottawa to attend a meeting of the Wartime Fisheries Advisory Board, learned while in the east that huge quantities of frozen cod and haddock and all other species of cheap fish have been shipped to England but, now that ocean space is becoming so difficult to secure, shipments from the Atlantic Coast are lessening. The Atlantic Coast has an advantage over the Pacific Coast by being on the spot and can take advantage of emergency space which may be offered from day to day. They have also the advantage of paying no rail freight rate which is equal to approximately 2 1/2c per pound from the Pacific Coast.

The Wartime Fisheries Advisory Board meeting was well attended, and as announced by the chairman of the board, its time was devoted principally to matters concerning securing ocean space for export shipments of frozen fish to England. Some progress was made but, as priority is given to meat products, the prospects of securing refrigerator space for shipping Pacific fish via Atlantic Coast is none too promising.

The Advisory Board has no regulatory powers, Col. Nicholls states. It had been suggested that the Board was formed for the purpose of regulating price and production. Such is not the case and the matter was not even discussed at the meeting.

The Board is composed of representatives from the Atlantic and the Pacific serving without remuneration. Several of the members who can afford it are paying their entire travelling expenses so that the cost of the Board to the government is practically nil. It is pleasing to report, Col. Nicholls says, that the members of the Board are imbued with a spirit of service to a general cause and attempting to further the interests of all branches of the industry from the producer to the consumer.

Norway Alarmed

Norway, alarmed by the laying of the Allied mines in Norwegian territorial waters at dawn, today charged Great Britain and France with "open breach of international law" and demanded that the mines "be removed at once." As soon as it became known that the Allies were laying mines in the three regions of Norway's coast to cut iron shipments to Germany, the Norwegian cabinet met and Parliament was called into special session.

Foreign Minister Helvdan Koht, in a public statement, charged that the Allies had violated Norwegian "sovereignty and neutrality" by laying mines and patrolling affected regions with warships.

PASSING OF GREAT JEW

Cyrus Adler Did Much To Improve Estate Of His People—Was Critic Of Nazism

International Figure

Figured In Peace Conference After Last War And Also In Palestine Affairs

PHILADELPHIA, April 8: (CP)—Dr. Cyrus Adler, noted Jewish educationalist, died here last night at the age of seventy-six years.

Dr. Adler, son of a small-town merchant, saw a need for Jewish scholars whose studies could be made socially valuable to the Jewish people and devoted his life to that end. He was the head of two institutions of learning, Dropsie College for Hebrew and cognate learning in Philadelphia and the Jewish Theological Seminary in New York.

In 1907 he helped found the American Jewish Committee and became its chairman after the death of Louis Marshall in 1929. He was co-chairman of the council of the Jewish Agency for Palestine (1929-31) served on the board of governors of the Hebrew University in Jerusalem and on the national executive board of the Boy Scouts of America. He was the founder, secretary (1892-98) and president (1898-1922) of the American Jewish Historical Society.

Internationally recognized as a spokesman for his co-religionists, Dr. Adler in 1933, as chairman of the American Jewish Committee, published "The Jews In Nazi Germany." The book presented so much documented data dealing with Nazi attacks upon Jews that it became known as a "white book" on the subject.

Adler described Nazism as "evidence of a national inferiority complex" but argued that "prejudices must not be fought merely with appeals to passion and resentment, however justified passion and resentment may be."

At Peace Conference

After the World War Adler went to the Paris peace conference with Marshall. They presented there the pleas of the Jews for recognition of their minority rights and privileges in the nations formed or reconstructed under the Versailles pact.

In 1930 Dr. Adler formulated for a League of Nations commission a plan to settle the trouble between Jews and Moslems in Jerusalem over the use of the Walling Wall, a Hebrew shrine reputed to be the last vestige of the Temple of Solomon. The approach to the wall was owned by Moslems and there was bloody rioting over the right of the Jews, enroute to the wall for prayer and lamentation, to traverse that section of the Holy City.

The League took a hand in the problem because of its supervisory position over the British mandate for Palestine. Adler's plan was made the base of a settlement in 1931 which upheld the property

NORWEGIAN SHIP HERE

The 8,000-ton Norwegian freighter Torvanger, having run short of fuel while crossing the Pacific Ocean from the Orient to the British Columbia coast, is reported due in Prince Rupert tonight or tomorrow morning to take on fuel.

AERIAL SEA FIGHT

LONDON—Twenty-four British bombers battled with a large German pursuit squadron one hundred miles north of the German naval base on the Island of Syll. A German statement claimed that two of the British Wellington bombers had been brought down in the sea and the remainder driven off. The Germans claimed they had not lost a single plane but British reports are that one Nazi was brought down and another so badly damaged that it was believed impossible for it to get home.

SIX GERMANS DOWN

Over the Western Front there were at least six German planes shot down—five by the French and one by the British—without the loss of a single Allied ship in the series of air fights. The German plane brought down by the Royal Air Force was a Messerschmidt in a battle high above Metz.

GERMAN AMBITIONS

LONDON—Great Britain last night produced evidence that Germany's rulers in 1937 had a ten-year plan to conquer Europe. The plan, captured in Prague, showed the Nazis intended to conquer Czechoslovakia and Austria that year, Poland and Hungary the next, Roumania, Jugoslavia and Bulgaria in 1940, Denmark, the Netherlands, Belgium and Switzerland and Northern France in 1941 and Norway, Sweden, Portugal and Great Britain in 1948.

Alder was born September 13, 1863, in Van Buren, Ark., the son of Samuel and Sarah Sulzberger Adler. His father died in 1866 and his mother moved to Philadelphia where he attended the public schools. At 16 he entered the University of Pennsylvania, was graduated with a bachelor of arts degree in 1883 and received a master of arts rating three years later.

His interests were scholarly and he turned to the study of Semitic lore at Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, winning a doctor of philosophy degree there in 1887 and remaining until 1893 to teach Semitic languages. He also became a lecturer on Biblical archeology at the then new Jewish Theological Seminary in New York.

Aviation Research

President Grover Cleveland made Adler a special commissioner for the 1893 World's Columbia Exposition at Chicago and he spent the greater part of 1890-92 on missions to Turkey, Egypt, Tunis, Algiers and Morocco. He helped organize United States government exhibits at the Cincinnati Exposition of 1888, the Chicago Exposition and the Atlantic fair of 1895.

Reserve Ensign Leaves Halifax

Nova Scotia Yachtsmen Lose Right To Blue Flag For Duration Of War

HALIFAX, April 8: (CP)—Wartime restrictions will make a difference to yachtsmen of the Royal Nova Scotia Yacht Squadron this season. Permission to fly the blue ensign of the Royal Naval Reserve has been revoked for duration of the war. The Nova Scotia club is one of the five in the Empire which is allowed to fly the flag from the gaff of the club flagpole.

Wartime restrictions on sailing in Halifax Harbor have led a number of yachtsmen to make their headquarters at Hubbards. Many of the larger yachts will sail over the broad reaches of St. Margaret's Bay this summer. Hubbards is 35 miles down the South Shore from Halifax.

The club at Halifax will remain open, however, and some of the smaller craft are expected to stay here. Some of the craft at the R. N. S. Y. S. have warrants permitting their owners to fly the blue ensign from the peak of the mainmast or the ensign staff. These warrants have been revoked until the war is over.

DRAMA IS MUSICAL

Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland At Capitol Theatre in "Babes in Arms"

Song and dance, pathos and drama, form the background for "Babes in Arms," co-starring Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland, which is the feature picture on the screen of the Capitol Theatre here for the first half of this week. Based on a Broadway musical success of a couple of seasons ago, the story deals with the era when vaudeville passed out of the entertainment picture.

Cast as the son of a famous "two-a-day" team, Mickey leads children of the despairing troupe to keep out of the country. Desperation and amazing the youngsters enable them to fight their way right to fickle Broadway from wads and mothers had been a puppy love romance. Mickey and Judy is momentarily by June's former screen baby star both the looks and money by Mickey's show.
