British Government Takes Over Control Labor and Wealth

Lightning Legislation Gives Authority to Conscript Persons, Services and Property of All People to Meet German Challenge

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—The British Parliament tonight invested the government with powers to conscript labor and wealth to strengthen the shield against German invasion. Within three hours the Houses of Commons and Lords had passed and the King had approved a bill giving the government sweeping emergency powers demanded "in view of the grave peril in which the nation stands."

Rt. Hon. Clement Atlee, Lord Privy Seal, introduced the bill conferring upon the government complete control of all persons and property and announced the formation of a committee to push munitions production. The legislation would require all persons to place themselves, their services and property at the disposal of His Majesty.

Atlee said the government was not seeking these powers in a panic but in full realization of the seriousness of the military situation and in determination to mobilize all resources to meet the German challenge.

Under the measure, the government is authorized to set up production councils controlling the manufacture of munitions, ships and aircraft and regulate mining and farming; to impose 100 per cent excess profits tax to prevent wartime profiteering; take over munitions factories; regulate other business and industry, wages and hours of labor and control the banks.

BALKANS RESTLESS

Russia Getting Ready To Move Should Germany And Italy Attempt Squeeze Play In Southeastern Europe

BUCHAREST, Roumania, May 22: (CP)—A general military staff order today called 300,000 Roumanian reservists to the colors within the next twenty-four hours. The order makes 2,000,000 men in active service in all branches. All army leaves are also cancelled. Some diplomats linked the move with Roumania's fears that the Soviet may soon march into Bessarabia.

Meanwhile the Daily Mirror in London reported that thirty Russian divisions were pouring toward the Hungarian-German frontier where thousands of other troops would spring into action should Germany allow Hungary to move into Slovakia while Italy was moving into Jugoslavia.

All JugoSlavs in Roumania have been ordered to rush home in response to what amounts to general mobilization in Jugoslavia.

SITUATION IN FRANCE

What Paris Spokesman Had To Say Last Night

PARIS, May 22: (CP)—Summarizing the situation last night following German advances of the day, a French war ministry official said that German forces of 3000 to 4000 men had pierced the Allied lines to take Amiens and Arras but the front was "completely confused" with French forces still holding Cambrai behind German advance positions.

The spokesman said that he did not think Abbeville itself had been taken but he could not confirm this opinion. Earlier it had been stated that German motorcycle troops had penetrated the outskirts of the Abbeville region. Abbeville is on the estuary of the Somme River, twelve miles from the English Channel and about twenty-five miles west of Arras and Amiens which Premier Paul Reynaud said were in German hands.

The French were continuing to repulse Nazi attacks at Cambrai and Rethel despite their withering mechanized fury.

SPEED ON DEFENCES

Minister Elaborates On Intensification Of War Effort—Two New Destroyers Being Built

OTTAWA, May 22: (CP)—Important announcements in connection with Canadian defence measures in the Empire crisis were made yesterday by Hon. Norman Rogers, minister of national defence, in speaking before the House of Commons yesterday following his trip to England.

A further contingent of troop reinforcements to the First Canadian Division has just arrived in England, Mr. Rogers said. Although he said that the Second Division was not being dispatched overseas immediately, he told of arrangements for recruiting reinforcements for it and for the Third Division.

A message of thanks from London for Canada's intimation of speeding up the war effort had been received, Mr. Rogers said.

The minister of national defence revealed that two Canadian battalions—Princess Patricia's Light Infantry and the Edmonton Regiment—had been on the way to Norway recently when it was decided to withdraw from there.

Mr. Rogers announced that orders had been placed in England for two new destroyers of the Tribal class for the Royal Canadian Navy. Scores of smaller vessels, including sub chasers and mine sweepers were under construction in Canadian shipyards.

AIR FORCE VERY BUSY

British Fliers Keep on Harassing German Communications and Troop Concentrations

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—The British Air Ministry announced last night that British bombers had been "continuously engaged" over Belgian-French fronts throughout the day. Forays had been made especially on German armored columns and troop concentrations. Five bombers had failed to return. Communication lines had also been heavily bombed. A raid on oil tanks in Rotterdam, Holland, had been in addition to other activities and at Aachen, across from Aix-la-Chapelle, many Messerschmidts had been destroyed on the ground.

RECAPTURE OF ARRAS GIVES ALLIES HEART IN COMBATTING NAZIS

May Signalize Commencement of Anticipated Great Counter-Offensive—General Weygand Completes Tour of Front

PARIS, May 22: (CP)—Recapture by the Allies, after hard fighting, of Arras, important key city on the way to Calais, gave new heart to the hardpressed British, French and Belgian fighting forces and was regarded as a definite set-back in the Nazi drive toward the coast, possibly signaling the commencement of a mass Allied counter-offensive. A surge of relief, tempered with caution and the realization that many hard tasks lie ahead swept Paris as the news reached the French capital of the recapture of Arras. The tendency toward hopelessness, which was felt since the week-end when there was realization...

WOULD VIOLATE NEUTRALITY
WASHINGTON—By a vote of 12 to 1 the Senate foreign relations committee today shelved a proposal that the United States sell the Allies army and navy planes. Chairman Key Pittman said the general opinion was that such legislation would violate international law and constitute intervention by the United States. FINANCING WAR COST

First Taxation And Then Borrowing, Says Ralston—Conservatives Would Vote Any Amount

OTTAWA, May 22: (CP)—Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of finance, told Parliament yesterday that Canada's war effort would be limited only by its capacity to provide it. Col. Ralston denied reports that the intention was to finance the war effort by financing. Taxation would be the first method of financing, the minister of finance said. Then borrowing would be resorted to.

Dr. H. A. Bruce, Toronto Conservative member, said his party would vote any amount for the war effort so long as factories got to work without delay in turning out war requirements. It had needed a rude awakening like that of the past few days to bring Canada to realization that there really was a war on.

General Weygand, After Visit to Front, Says He is Full of Confidence—Looks Like Enemy Will Be Stopped On North Bank of Somme

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—Swift Allied counter blows on land and in the air against the German mechanized forces in the Abbeville region have averted for the present completion of the threatened Nazi line to the English Channel, which would pen in the British army, a spokesman declared tonight.

At Paris a War Ministry spokesman told the press there had been hardly any change along the front in the last 48 hours and General Weygand is "really satisfied" with the situation.

A British spokesman said the Allied military position shows a slight improvement for the first time after five days. The Royal Air Force is still making large scale bombing attacks.

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—Great Britain's hopes of stemming the German march to the sea rose with reports today of new Royal Air Force successes and the slowing down of the German drive. Cheering developments were the French recapture of Arras which the enemy had taken yesterday and widespread attack on targets in the industrial Rhineland area by Royal Air Force bombers which also attacked German communication lines.

WATCH FOR TRAITORS

Evidently there is a general move throughout the British Empire to take action against traitors. They seem to have given up the old-fashioned word "traitor" and call them instead members of the "Fifth Column."

At a time like this we look upon any person who does anything to encourage the enemy as traitors. Whether there are many such in Prince Rupert we do not know. We are told there are a great many. We are pretty sure there are a few. Possibly they are not even Germans.

Doubtless the authorities here are alive to the situation but they can do nothing alone. They should have the co-operation of all citizens. This is a British country and will remain British.

DIFFICULT WAITING TIME

When bad news is coming through, waiting is difficult. Sitting back and doing nothing when action is needed is always trying. Yet here we can do nothing that will turn the Germans from their course except to support our men by our continued confidence that in the end they will win.

AFTER THE WAR

H. R. MacMillan a short time ago gave an address to the Canadian Chamber of Commerce which has been reprinted and widely distributed. A paragraph or two is worth passing on to Prince Rupert readers:

"It is too early to speak of the future, except to emphasize that it is too early to become defeatists. There is no defeatism in Great Britain. The people there expect bad news, but they know that now, as in past struggles bad news will invigorate them.

"There is here too general an assumption that when victory comes the British will be ruined. I do not believe it. When victory comes Great Britain will possess more of a people of character who have again risked all in fighting a predatory power in order that freedom may be re-established and dependable peace be re-established. The system of free Parliamentary government, sanctity of contract, purity of justice, will remain, and will have gained in stature and strength. The accumulations of transferable wealth may have been expended, the very wealthy people will probably have been levelled down, but this does not mean so much if, as is to be expected, the real wealth of the country remains, the productivity of the land, the mines, the fisheries, the skill, the industry, and the sense of honesty and justice inherent in the people."

AN IMPORTANT LEGACY

"At the conclusion of this war Great Britain will possess the largest, most varied and most modernly equipped industrial plant in her history, manned by men and women who have learned their trades under the gruelling demands of war. The machinery of finance and trade will be in the hands of leaders who have inherited the experience and skill gained by the nation which during a thousand years has pioneered and adventured in development and resuscitation of every country in the world. These leaders will have been strengthened through the problems and responsibilities of dealing with the world through the war. With this equipment, with the will to live by performing service and with the national teamwork of a homogeneous people, who have learned through thirty generations since the last great immigration, to feel and think and act together, one can be positive that when the war is over, the British will find opportunities in the large areas of Europe that are prostrate and devastated, as well as in other countries where progress has lagged, to work and to serve, to lend, trade and create, and that on such foundations with such opportunities the British will again as heretofore find employment for their talents and their people and will thus enrich the world while recreating their own wealth. It is quite conceivable that the British, fresh from this ordeal by fire which has penetrated every heart amongst them, might in the post-war situation emerge relatively stronger than those who have allowed their fibre and their weapons to corrode on the side lines."

BIG BREAK IN MARKET

Near Panic As Result Of Selling Avalanche On New York Exchange

NEW YORK, May 22.—One of the worst breaks in years occurred on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday as a reaction to Allied reverses in the European war. Conditions on the trading floor were in near panic as books fell behind selling orders. The day's turnover amounted to 3,940,000 shares and shares fell off from one to twelve points. Closing averages were as follows: industrials, 114.13, off 8.30; rails, 22.15, off 1.83; utilities, 18.34, off 1.15. Commodities and bonds were also in decline. Today the market showed tendency to recovery.

ARE WELL PROTECTED

Polish Veteran of German Onslaught Discusses R.A.F. Defence Measures

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—An eyewitness of successful Nazi air-raids on vital Polish production centres is convinced that the only adequate protection for arms factories and other vital national centres against an attempted "blitzkrieg" is that afforded by a strong intercepting organization on the ground and in the air, at a reasonable distance from the areas concerned.

S. Rogalski, one of the chief engineers of the National Aircraft Works in Warsaw, told the Royal Aeronautical Society in London that Britain possess the nearest approach to the ideal form of protection in the Royal Air Force single-seater fighters. German bombers put the National Aircraft Works out of action in four days, he said.

Rogalski said local protection by anti-aircraft and machine guns, however strong and diversified, can only increase risks from an enemy determined to bomb a factory. The balloon barrage is probably still less effective.

Frequent raids, even without material damage, greatly hamper output, he declared. At his factory, actual work practically stopped on the second day of the raid because of frequent raid warnings.

The Germans used about 2,000 aircraft in their Polish campaign, he said, and lost about 450-200 through anti-aircraft fire and 250 shot down by the Polish Air Force. The majority of Poland's planes were destroyed on the ground. Only a limited number could be attributed to action in the air and to anti-

REOPENING USK MINE

F. J. Shenton Here Today on Way to Interior to Take Charge on Nicholson Creek

On his way to Usk to reopen the mining property of the Nicholson Creek Mining Corporation of Seattle of which he will again be superintendent in charge, T. J. Shenton, former inspector of mines in Prince Rupert for many years and now making his home in Victoria, arrived in the city from the south on the Prince Rupert this morning and will proceed by the evening train to the interior.

Work on the property, Mr. Shenton stated, would be resumed next week with a crew of half a dozen men employed. The program for the season will be concentrated on the driving of a raise from the present tunnel at a point 1200 feet in to further open up the ore veins.

Nicholson Creek is a promising gold-silver-molybdenum property which has already had considerable development. There is a good road the distance of six miles from Usk. The location is four miles up Nicholson Creek which runs into the Skeena River from the north two miles east of Usk. The property is well equipped with buildings and machinery and is ready for an immediate resumption of operations.

Girl Guides In Demonstration

Prince Rupert Company of Girl Guides held their summer closing demonstration last night in the hall of St. Andrew's Anglican Cathedral, twenty-one girls taking part under Capt. Pam Brown and Lieutenants Betty Miller and Joan Baker. The patrol leaders were Audrey Grimble, Mavis Overend, Ruby Anderson and Margaret Carr.

The evening's program, viewed by a number of parents and friends as well as officers of the Association, included demonstrations of first aid and Morse signalling, an original play depicting prime principles of guiding, games, singing and prayer. Ice cream was served to the girls and the proceedings closed with the usual campfire scene with taps.

Weekly meetings of the Girl Guides are now suspended until September but there may be certain holiday activities.

RECAPTURE OF ARRAS GIVES ALLIES HEART

tion that Paris was in danger, has now been dissipated.

General Maxime Weygand, the new Allied commander-in-chief, has completed a tour of the entire area of action on the Western Front and it is felt may now be ready to put into effect his counter-offensive, the first phase of which may be recapture of Arras.

Some observers suggest that the invading German troops, which have gained much ground but have not been able to consolidate their gains, may be actually in danger themselves of being cut off.

The situation around Cambrai was declared today to be still "extremely mobile." The Germans are continuing their thrusts with air bombing and light mechanized forces.

Meanwhile, following the entry of the Germans yesterday into Abbeville, twelve miles from the coast at the mouth of the Somme River, Nazi pressure on the Allied forces in northwestern France and Flanders continued intense as Berlin made boastful claims that over one million Allied troops — 700,000 French, 300,000 British and 100,000 Belgian — were now encircled in a position they could not hold and under devastating attack by German aircraft which was inflicting heavy casualties upon them.

One Nazi claim was that these forces had been subjected to a gigantic aerial blitzkrieg as they attempted to embark for home on transports and warships from Channel ports through mine-infested waters, the Germans endeavoring to turn their retreat into disaster. There was no confirmation of the suggestion in Berlin that the British Expeditionary Force was embarking for England. Rather it was believed that they would make a great drive against the German move to reach the coast, co-ordinating with another move against the enemy from the south.

Hitler spokesmen from Berlin said that the armies had not yet come to full grips and that the "Battle of the Century" was yet to come. There was general agreement on the part of observers that on the result of the fighting in this area during the next few days, may be settled the history of Europe for the next one thousand years with important repercussions throughout the world.

There is no doubt that Hitler's move is to possess himself of the important Channel ports of Boulogne, Calais, Dunkirk and Dieppe on which to establish air bases for attack extending to all parts of the British Isles.

MINIATURE YACHT CLUB

Active Season is Planned—Three Trophies—Two New Boats

The Prince Rupert Model Yacht Club held its preliminary meeting of the season last evening when tentative plans were outlined for the summer's activities. Captain J. R. Elfert presided.

Three trophies will be competed for as in the past — the Prince George Cup, the David Todd trophy and the Tip Top Tailors' Cup.

It is also hoped to have races for juniors. Plans are under way to give prizes for the juniors who enter and sail their own boats.

During the winter two new boats have been completed and others overhauled. H. Gawthorn has finished a new fifty-five inch model and he hopes to sail it and also have his invader in the competitions. A new owner is Pat Wilson who has the latest of the Croxford models.

This is a fifty-inch sloop, Bermuda-rigged and is up to the high standard of the Croxford boats in every respect. The yacht is named the Shamrock and the owner hopes to have better luck than Sir Thomas Lipton had with his famous Shamrock entries in the America Cup competitions. Jack MacRae has overhauled his Sheila and looks forward to a successful season.

It is confidently expected that, with a larger staff of naval officers, and ratings in town, there will be an active interest taken by the members of His Majesty's Naval Forces in these model races.

The next meeting is called for June 4 and the first race will be sailed shortly after.

SPORT CHAT

Four of New Zealand's best-known sportsmen are among those who have volunteered for active service with the expeditionary force. They are V. P. Boot, British Empire Games 880-yards track champion; T. C. Lowry, former New Zealand cricket captain; D. A. R. Moloney, the New Zealand test cricketer who captained New Zealand in the matches against Sir Julien Cahn's team in 1939; "Lofty" Blonfield, New Zealand champion heavyweight wrestler.

Dizzy Dean made a strong comeback when he pitched a three-hit game in the American League to give the Chicago Cubs a 4-0 victory over Boston Bees one year ago yesterday. Nearly 22,000 fans stood for hours in the rain to give "Dizz" a thunderous welcome. He started the 1940 season as relief pitcher with the Cubs.

Bud Donovan, 20-year old Winnipegger, stood alone of 10 representatives as Canada's standard-bearer in the fourth round of the British amateur golf championship at St. Annes-on-the-Sea five years ago today. He put up a gallant fight before being eliminated in the fifth round.

Guard Against Desert Revolt

Bedouin Back Allied Troops Along Oil Lines in Near East

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—Great Britain's trump card against possible German-backed revolt in the Near East is an Englishman with a scar on his chin and a host of Bedouin fighters at his back. Desert revolt would be a direct result of the British's Mediterranean fleet—the pipeline carries Britain's chief oil supply from Iraq to Haifa.

man with the scar on his chin is listed as Major John Blubb, organizer of the Desert Patrol of the Arab Legion; but among the burning hills of Transjordan, tribesmen with fighting on their minds shout his name proudly as Abou Heinek—the man with the jaw, the uncrowned prince of Arabia.

While the major holds in check any German attempt to stir tribal uprisings in the interior, Australian, New Zealand, French, British, Indian, Turkish and Egyptian troops stand guard along Arabia's coasts.

The Arabs call him a great fighter—a reputation he won when he co-ordinated Iraq and Bedouin tribes in 1924 and led them against marauding bands of Saudi Arabia to the south.

Major Blubb is backed by Emir Abdullah Ben Hussein, ruler of Transjordan, and camel herdsmen are heard to say Emir Abdullah has sworn by the Koran that the blood of his men will flow with that of Englishmen to keep Germans out of the hills.

CONDEMNED WITH EDITH CAVELL, SHE AGAIN SERVES FRANCE

A picture just received on this continent showing Mile. Louise Thuliez, centre, with Mme De Laouere, left, and Mme. Pierre Borel. Mile. Thuliez was sentenced to death by the Germans with Nurse Edith Cavell, during the First World War, but was reprieved, given a prison sentence and then returned to France after the armistice. Now she is president of the "Foyers De L'Avant," a group of women canteen workers who are now assigned to Western Front posts. This picture was made before the group left Paris.

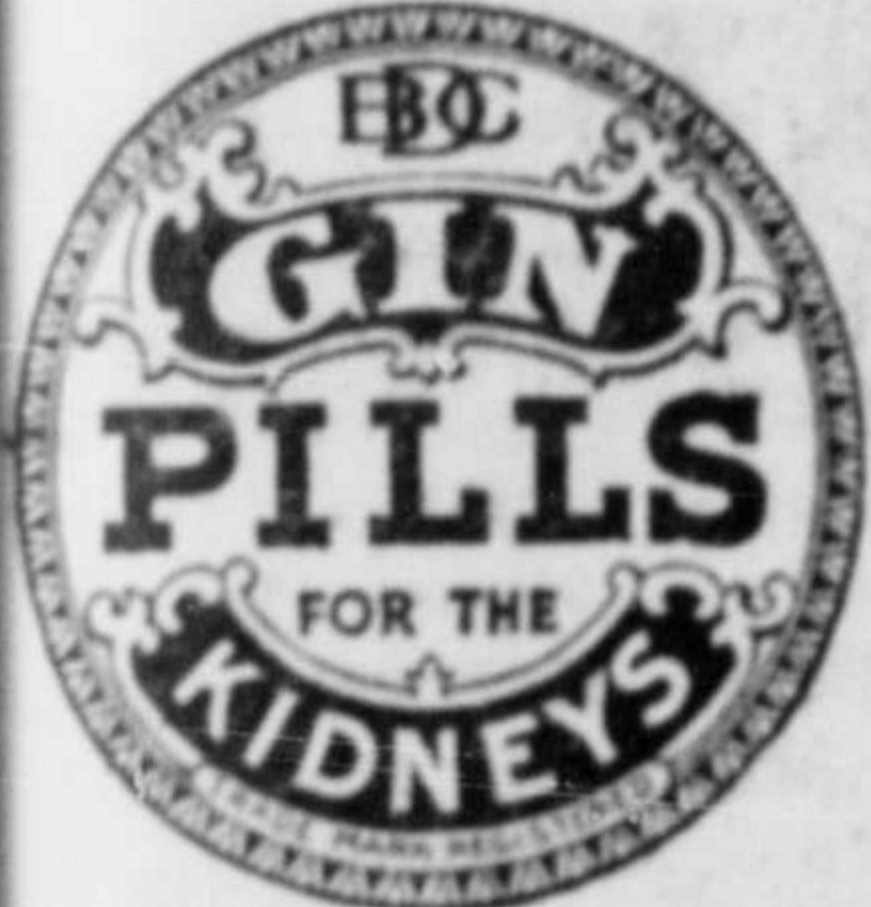

HIS FATE IN DOUBT

PARIS, May 22: (CP)—There is still some uncertainty as to the fate of General Henri Giraud, commander of the Ninth French Army, whom the Germans claimed yesterday to have captured with his staff. A French War Ministry official said yesterday that General Giraud had been out of communication for forty-eight hours and he could not confirm nor deny the German reports that he had been captured. Giraud is said to have walked into his headquarters and found it in the hands of German officers who took him prisoner. Later, according to one rumor, he contrived to escape while some of his officers remained prisoner.

QUEEN MARY KEEPS BUSY

Stays Out Of War Danger Zone At Request Of King

LONDON, May 22: (CP)—King George made his mother promise she would stay out of the danger zone as long as the war lasted. He had his way but Queen Mary—one of her closest friends said—is "really miserable away from London although determined to keep her word." She will be 73 next Sunday.

The Queen Mother's first public appearance for months was at a charity matinee organized by the head of one of her favorite charities early in April.

For six months she has been staying at Badminton, Gloucestershire, 100 miles west of London. Badminton House is the home of her niece, the Duchess of Beaufort. For six months Queen Mary has not attended the theatre or made the rounds of her favorite antique shops in Kensington.

Twice a week, however, the Queen Mother makes the 100 mile trip to town in her high maroon saloon car and goes to Marlborough House. It is closed and only caretakers are in residence. She meets her friends in curtainless rooms—where dust sheets cover the furniture—discusses with them the war work and public welfare organizations in which she is most interested.

Even in the country she refuses to be bored or idle. When she found she was going to be there for some time she took a house, had rooms that had been closed for decades opened, redecorated and renovated under her supervision to accommodate her household, then invited her niece to visit in her own house.

Up-to-Date Ideas
Queen Mary has always enjoyed rearranging rooms and choosing draperies. She is also exceptionally well informed on the subject of lighting and plumbing. Nothing could have been more antiquated than the bathrooms of Buckingham Palace and Windsor when she first became chatelaine. New bathrooms and lighting at Badminton House are models of modernity.

Not so long ago she was visiting a new day nursery that was supposed to be the most perfect example of its kind. She duly admired all the strikingly hygienic equipment but paused to point her umbrella to the overhead lights. "They shine directly into the babies' eyes as they lie in their cribs," she remarked.

For decoration in her homes her preference inclines to period furniture though she has a falling for Chinese lacquer. She also prefers damask hangings and rich brocades that belong with the ornate carving of past centuries to the bleak simplicity of more modern interiors.

How does the Queen Mother spend her time in the country? She is outdoors a great part of the day—for the Badminton estate has been somewhat neglected as heavy taxes took their toll. The woods and spinneys had become overgrown. Broken branches obstructed paths and took away from the charm of the three mile long entrance drive. Queen Mary has altered all this. She called in the local evacuated children (from Birmingham's slums) to aid in her effort, enlisted the co-operation of her ladies in waiting, footmen and chauffeurs and tidied up the place.

Sews For Future
Indoors she crochets and she knits—but of the two she is more handy with the crochet hook and makes scarves which go to the two regiments of which she is honorary colonel. She pays a few calls—very few and of the sight-seeing variety—and occasionally receives visitors.

She has become the great lady of the neighborhood—setting aside her role of great lady of all England—attends the local parish's plays and has the vicar to dine. In the evening she sews, not for the war but for the future. Her hobby has always been exquisite needle-work and she is the much interested patroness of the Royal School of Needlework. It is from there she obtained the tapestry designs and colored wool used for cushions, firescreens and chair seat she completed as pick-up work in the evening.

While Queen Mary's needle flies in and out of the work tacked to the old wooden frames, her lady-in-waiting reads aloud news, biographies, memoirs or even occasionally a novel. She started "Gone With the Wind" but did not finish it. The Queen Mother lunches with the King and Queen at Buckingham Palace on her days in town and keeps in close touch with them by telephone.

Nor are the two young princesses neglected. They receive regular letters from "Grannie" and have had several presents of books. Like her they are evacuees, except on birthdays and special occasions, but they have lessons to take up their time—though they miss their Monday jaunts with the Queen Mother around London's museums and galleries.

Beware Of Wolf In Allies' Suit

Army Heads Warn Even Uniform is Not Guarantee Against Spies

SOMEWHERE-IN-FRANCE, May 22: (CP)—Appearance of innocence or even allied uniforms lend no assurance that a man is among friends, soldiers have been warned in a 1,000 word pamphlet issued under the direction of the chief of the Imperial General Staff.

The pamphlet, entitled "Why Tell the Enemy?" stresses the importance to soldiers of not discussing military subjects and suggests that information gathered by the enemy in such a manner may be "the only real secret weapon Hitler can possess."

Soldiers, the publication says, should be just as suspicious of innocent looking women as of men and should be especially careful in their talk around railway stations and refreshment rooms.

She Can't Have Enough Children

Woman With 19 Already And 13 "Grands" Adopts More For Love Of Them

BRISTOL, Eng., May 22: (CP)—Twice married and mother of 19 children, Mrs. Rosian Checketts once again is widowed so she has started adopting children. "I simply love children," she said laughingly as she and 14 of her family group lined up on the stone steps of their little home for a press photograph. The children clambered to stand beside the dark, plump little woman who also has 13 grandchildren. She gazed proudly at the crowd and added:

"I cannot have enough of children. I'll adopt anyone."

To prove her offer was no idle boast she told how she recently adopted 14-year old Alfred Roberts who was found by one of Mrs. Checketts' children sleeping in a deserted house. Alfred's parents died a few months ago. So he was taken in by "Mum" Checketts.

"I'm only too pleased to have another boy added to my family," she explained. "In addition to looking after my own family I go out to do nursing and cleaning each day and some home in between to give my younger children their meals. I have plenty of time to do my own work and also act as an air warden."

WHEATLANDS LOOK GOOD

Early Moisture on Prairies Increases Hopes for Crop in War Year

WINNIPEG, May 22: (CP)—Spring rains in most sections of the West's grain belt have induced optimism regarding 1940 crop conditions. A dark picture was drawn by fall and winter statistics showing lack of moisture practically throughout the wheatlands, but precipitation in April and early May has brought renewed hope for good yields.

Seeding has been reared in Alberta where moisture conditions are well above the average. Manitoba and Saskatchewan farmers are in a better position with more than 50 per cent of spring wheat planting completed by the middle of May. Temperatures generally have been above normal in recent weeks.

Statistics compiled by the Dominion Meteorological Service, Toronto, covering the nine-months period from August 1 to April 30 indicate precipitation in Alberta was 19 per cent above normal, but deficiencies of 19 and 16 per cent were recorded in Saskatchewan and Manitoba respectively. Rains in the first two weeks of May have improved the position in the latter provinces.

In South Areas

One of the brightest sidelights of the precipitation record is the showing made over the south and south-central prairies, where producers have not forgotten the years of drought which preceded the improved 1939 yield. Rains over the previously arid areas have averaged better than in more northerly sections and conditions in some districts are better than at any time in the past decade.

Precipitation in southern Alberta for the nine-month period was about 30 per cent above normal, excesses in the central and northern sections shading down from that figure. Southwestern Saskatchewan was only eight per cent below normal at then end of April, compared with 11 per cent at the same time last year. Deficiencies were more than 20 per cent in the northern and southeastern areas.

Eastern Manitoba showed definite improvement. Last year precipitation in this section was 32 per cent below normal in early spring, compared with only 10 per cent at April 30. In the west the deficiency reached 23 per cent.

Monthly Statistics

Conditions in northern Alberta were normal or better at all times except August and January, monthly figures indicate. In the centre of the province poor precipitation in the winter was followed by heavy snow and rain in March and April. Southern Alberta's record showing was brought about largely through increases of more than 100 per cent in October, February and April.

Over Saskatchewan's drought area there was nearly twice the normal amount of moisture in February and April while in December and March it was well above nor-

RULING OF DUTCH IS HARD JOB

Many Conquerors Have Cracked Up In Netherlands

NEW YORK, May 22: (CP)—Dutch stubbornness edged doggedly along the world's trade lanes for centuries before the Mynheers built a little strip of marshy lowland, now invaded by the Nazis, one of the world's rich empires.

Hitler's invasion of peace-loving Holland found her ready to fight. She planned to battle to the end with her little army, 450,000 men, her tiny, efficient air force, and her guns—then let in the sea.

The Dutch have always wanted to be traders and sailors. Nothing more. They wanted to make things and sell them, but often they had to lock up their cash drawers, looms and dairies and shoulder guns to keep others out. And each time they emerged the same stolid realistic, hard-working people who offered the world goods for cash on the barrelhead.

They appeared in history when Julius Caesar's troops ran over their towns in 57 B.C. They stayed under Roman rule until 200 A.D. Then the Franks, from the West, pillaged their farms.

To protect themselves the Dutch evolved a feudal system with great, fortified castles. But the baronies never congealed into a nation until around 1500 when the dukes of Burgundy began to merge them.

Behind this political history ran the dogged traders' strains and the fight against the sea. In the big towns looms had begun to hum. On the coast three-masters filled the harbors with forests of masts, and more and more polders were salvaged from the sea by dikes and canals and windmills.

Break The Dykes
Burgundian marriages put Holland in the hands of Austrian and Spanish rulers. These rulers were Catholics. The Dutch were largely protestant. The Catholics made forays into the low country to hold the Hollanders loyal to Rome.

The Duke of Alva, with 10,000 troops, thought to stamp out Protestantism by shooting. He only fanned Dutch stubbornness into fighting heat. They opened their dykes, flooded their country, and broke the Duke of Alva.

The Dutch helped Marlborough beat back Louis XIV of France but Napoleon annexed them. Then the peace of Westphalia set up both Holland and Belgium as a single nation. But the Belgians are Catholics. In 1830 they fought for independence and won it with the aid of Catholic France.

The Dutch resumed the life they really like: working, selling, saving. They had been pioneers in opening the trade routes to the Far East. They had sailed courageously into the strange and heathen harbors of the Dutch East Indies to trade.

So Holland sells the world (from her Dutch East Indies) rubber, tin, spices, kapok, coffee, quinine and pepper the last two are virtually Dutch monopolies in world trade.)

From home she sends out boatloads of tulips, dairy products, airplanes and machinery. She sends boats, too. Not the fat-bellied three-masters of old, but sleek powerboats now.

Holland's 8,000,000 live on land not as big as Nova Scotia, and yet they have one of the highest living standards in Europe. No slums. No illiteracy.

Nazi Brassiers Cut To 10 Types

Tough Going For German Tailors With So Few To Choose From

BERLIN, May 22: (CP)—New brassieres are being marketed in Germany.

There may be, hereafter, ten types, whereas there used to be hundreds. Although German women are restricted as to selection, the choice, authorities say, remains adequate.

The purpose, says the market, is to release machine for other tasks and to save labor. Making 100 identical brassiers involves fewer motions than making 100 of varying designs.

In this respect the German brassiere follows the German suit, which was standardized months ago.
