NAZI RAIDS LESS HEAVY

Royal Air Force, However, Continues Its Offensive Against Enemy Territory

Four Planes Down

Nazi Activity On Channel Coast Keeps Britain On Alert Against Blitzkrieg

LONDON, August 6: (CP)—During Monday night enemy aircraft dropped a small number of bombs in southeast England, doing no damage and causing no casualties, a joint communique issued today by the Ministry of Information and Ministry of Home Security announced today. Another enemy plane was brought down by the Royal Air Force over the English Channel last night. This made the total of enemy planes brought down during the day four including three German fighters which were shot down near the southeast coast of England yesterday morning. Continuing to carry the fight to the enemy, Royal Air Force bombers and fighters were again active over Germany and German-occupied territory yesterday and throughout the night. Nazi planes were brought down on the German side of the English Channel. Increasing violence marked the British raids on German military objectives including oil depots, docks, railways, airports and munitions plants. Not only along the coast but well inland, on the Ruhr Valley and elsewhere, the British bombs were dropped. All night the British raids on enemy territory continued.

Increasing Nazi activity at French Channel ports is reported by British bombers returning from raids. This keeps Great Britain on the alert today as tides and weather conditions combine to offer Chancellor Hitler favorable conditions for his threatened blitzkrieg and attempted invasion of the British Isles. As an indication of the raids was the announcement that the entire system of German radio was going off the air until 1:15 a.m. Pacific Standard Time today for technical alterations. This was announced in an English language broadcast on the German radio, immediately after which the station making the announcement went silent.

Stories Of Courage On Ocean Told

AT A WEST COAST CANADIAN PORT, August 6: (CP)—Canadian survivors from the Royal Mail steamer Niagara, which was sunk by striking a mine near Auckland, told, on arrival here, stories of courage in danger and speedy rescue. Passengers had praise for the crew and members of the crew had praise for the passengers. There was no panic when the Niagara struck the mine and all were in lifeboats within an hour and were landed at Auckland by rescue ships within a few hours.

Britain Gets More Planes Than Germany

BACK TO GERMANY

United States Senator Would Have Ford and Lindbergh Take Their Iron Crosses and Live with Nazis

WASHINGTON, D.C., Aug. 6: (CP)—Senator Smathers of New Jersey said today that Henry Ford and Col. Charles Lindbergh should "pick up the little iron crosses given them by Hitler and go back to Germany." Smathers bitterly criticized Ford's agreement to make airplanes for United States but not for Great Britain, adding that "everyone knows in helping to defend Britain we are defending ourselves." Senator Key Pittman, chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee, came out strongly today in favor of General Pershing's proposal to make fifty destroyers available at once to the British navy. "Unless the British navy can survive," declared Pittman, "British overseas possessions will be in economic slavery to and at the mercy of Germany and Japan."

W. P. Armour sailed yesterday afternoon on the Prince Rupert for a business trip to Vancouver.

Fascist Party Was Very Active in Canada in Days Preceding War

One of the principal activities of the Italian Fascist Party of Canada, now banned and its leaders interned, was in connection with the training of young children. The upper pictures show (left) a group of girls and small boys having a rest after doing physical exercises in a garden in Ontario, while at right can be seen a band formed of boys not yet in their teens. These youngsters were forced to drill regularly and wear uniforms. The lower picture shows a group of grown up members of the party standing on the platform of the organization headquarters in Montreal with a large painting of Mussolini in the background. These black-shirted men and women played a dominant part in the Fifth Column activities in this country prior to the war.

EXAMINING MOTORISTS

Those Who Ignore Tests Now Being Conducted Here Will Be Deprived Of Licences

Prince Rupert motorists, who ignore notices, and some have already done it, to appear for examination as to their competency to drive, are liable to find themselves with their licences suspended. It is stated at provincial police headquarters. The period for the holding of the driving tests here opened on August 1 and will continue until August 24. Appointments have been set for the local motorists to take the tests but, despite notification, some have failed to appear.

Constable George Lindsay is here from Vancouver to conduct the tests which are being carried out with the use of a robot machine at the Court House. There are written examinations and 'eyesight' tests. In the event of actual physical fitness to drive being questioned, the persons concerned may have recourse to a physician to establish fitness. Constable Lindsay states that, while restrictions have been placed on some local motorists, so far none have been completely rejected.

News was received in Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon of the death in hospital at Vancouver on Saturday of William Ballantyne, well known chief engineer of Canadian National Coast Steamships. DEFEATING ITSELF

The German campaign of lies is defeating the end it is seeking to reach. The propagandists are proving themselves to be liars of the first water. When they began to tell of Nazi victories, many people believed them. As time went on and the size of the falsehoods increased, people began to doubt but when the sum total of the German sinkings became as great as the whole British navy it was quite evident that something was wrong. Recently the British government issued a statement showing that the Germans claimed to have sunk thirty capital ships since the outbreak of the war, a number twice the number in the British navy at the time of the invasion of Poland. In the first four months of the war alone Germany claimed to have destroyed five more capital ships and fifteen more cruisers than Britain possessed when war broke out.

The Germans claim that since the invasion of Norway they have sunk 20 capital ships, eight aircraft carriers, 77 cruisers, 78 destroyers and 44 submarines, as well as an astronomical number of smaller craft.

In all campaigns up to July 1, the Germans admit only 39,420 killed. Official casualty lists from Berlin mention 10,572 deaths in the Polish campaign, 1,317 in Norway only 27,074 on the Western Front while Germany swept through Holland, Belgium and France, and 457 civilian air raid casualties.

While there is undoubtedly some minimizing of losses in the Berlin announcements, independent observers credit Germany with having won great land areas with very little loss of life. Hanson W. Baldwin, military expert for the New York Times, doubts whether the total German casualties were double the number admitted in Berlin. Attrition of time played little part in this war as it did in the World War and the speedy German thrusts and the great German superiority in planes and mechanized forces, manned by relatively few men, kept down German losses.

Contrary to predictions, the casualties of modern war seem to be lighter than had been expected. The estimated 200,000 to 300,000 dead on land, sea and air in all campaigns and by all countries in the first ten months of the war are few indeed compared to the 8,500,000 dead in four years of the World War.

Total casualties of each nation, including killed, wounded, prisoners and missing, are estimated by Baldwin as follows: Germany 243,000; France 1,988,000; Britain 90,000; Italy 4,500; Poland 620,000; Netherlands 331,000; Belgium 545,000; Norway 59,000; Russia 221,000; Finland 70,000; Rumania 2,600. The French, Netherlands, Belgian and Norwegian losses consisted mainly of prisoners, most of which are in German prison camps or released by the Germans on parole.

Britain, looked upon rightly as the foremost contestant in Germany's war, has suffered hardly at all. Deaths up to July 1 were as follows: from 4,000 to 9,000 on the Western Front up to May 10; 1,800 in Norway; from 2,500 to 10,000 on the Western Front, including Dunkerque, between May 10 and July 1; from 200 to 500 against Italy in North and East Africa; 100 civilian air raid deaths.

Britain's turn is yet to come, we may suppose. But Britain has a long way to go before she suffers as heavily as did her former allies. She will have to lose 22 times as many men before she equals France's record, seven times as many before she is even with Poland, six times as many before her losses are as heavy as Belgium's and four times as many before she draws abreast of the Netherlands. These comparisons, too, fail to take into account the difference in population of the nations mentioned. Big Britain will have to lose millions before she can say she has felt the Nazi blitzkrieg to the same extent as the nations which have been overrun.

Another Class For Soap Box Derby Shortly

In response to popular demand there will be a new division open for competition in the Gyro Playgrounds Second Annual Soap Box Derby which takes place on August 15. Besides the event for home-made wagons there will this year be an event open to owners of any coaster wagon.

In general the same rules as were set up for the soap box coasters will apply to the other entries but minor adjustments will be made to suit the demands of the different types of wagons.

Although the event for coaster wagons will be run at the same time as the derby itself, the owners of wagons will not be competing against the home-made entries. There will be a special prize list for both classes. Further details may be had from the director of any of the playgrounds.

Gyro Playground Softball League

McClymont Park And Westview Play In Rain With Former Winning

In spite of yesterday afternoon's rain the Gyro Playgrounds Softball League game between the boys of McClymont Park and Westview was played at the ball park and, at the end of six innings, with the score board reading 11 to 5, in favor of McClymont, the game was called.

Both winning pitcher Pete Haide and Westview's Thorpe Landry had a little difficulty in controlling the slippery ball but the players on both teams, apparently, enjoyed the experience of striking out the weather man and playing the game anyway.

Games in this league will be continued as soon as the weather permits.

FOOD CONSERVATION

The Provincial Red Cross is taking a lead in a food conservation project and is extending a special invitation for co-operation to the Women's Institutes in the agricultural districts, the membership being largely farm women—partners of the men who produce the country's food supply. It is intended that food conserved under this scheme should be donations of surplus food products which might otherwise go to waste. This canned food will be distributed by the Red Cross, as the need arises to Canadians on overseas service, refugees in England, refugees and evacuees in Canada, and to the needy in any emergency. In order that no time be lost in getting canning projects under way a temporary Provincial Red Cross Food Preservation Committee has been set up. Its personnel includes: Mrs. E. Bailey Price, chairman, Vice-President of the B. C. Women's Institutes; Mr. F. W. Tuffrey, Provincial Red Cross Commissioner; Mrs. W. J. Allan, Member of Provincial Red Cross Executive and President of Chilliwack Red Cross Branch; Miss J. M. McLennan, Provincial Director of Home Economics; Mrs. A. S. Dennis, Secretary, North Fraser Women's Institute Board and Home Economics Convener Vancouver Local Council of Women; Mrs. D. E. Humphreys, Convener Agriculture for Pt. Grey Women's Institute, and who started food conservation scheme last fall.

PRISONERS OF WAR

Families or next of kin of Canadian serving with the Royal Air Force or other units of British Forces are asked to communicate particulars to Canadian Red Cross Headquarters, Toronto. The Canadian Red Cross is now receiving from the International Red Cross names of Canadians who, serving with the Imperial forces, are now prisoners of war in Germany. While relatives of prisoners may receive information as to their fate direct from the British War Office, if the men are not on the Red Cross lists it is not possible to advise relatives of the receipt by them of Red Cross parcels or convey Red Cross information concerning them.

KNITTING DIRECTIONS

During this period of slowing down Red Cross branch work, Mrs. H. A. Ramsden, provincial chairman of the Work Committee, advises all Red Cross knitters to study carefully Red Cross knitting directions. Give special attention to seamen's stockings. They must be ribbed the length of the leg to the instep. The maximum length of other service socks is 16 inches—the minimum, 13 inches. Longer or shorter means a serious waste of wool.

WAS SHORN OF HONORS

NEW ROCHELLE, New York, August 6:—Dr. Frederick A. Cook, who died here yesterday, came into world prominence in September, 1909, through his announcement that he had discovered the North Pole, only to be shorn later of all the honors that had been heaped upon him because of his claim to that achievement.

Five days after Dr. Cook's announcement, a similar one was made by the late Admiral Robert E. Peary, the claims of the rival explorers precipitating one of the most spectacular and wide-spread controversies involving the long search for the top of the earth.

The two men gave their messages to the world while enroute to civilization from the north frigid zone, Dr. Cook being on his way to Denmark and Admiral Peary at Indian Harbor, Labrador. When they reached points whence it was possible to give more details of their exploitations, Dr. Cook claimed to have discovered the pole on April 21, 1908, one year and five months before he had sent out his first message. Admiral Peary announced that his discovery of the pole was made on April 6, 1909, just five months to the day before he was in a position to tell of it.

Eventually, the data submitted by Dr. Cook was held to be insufficient to substantiate his claim that he had been at the pole and Admiral Peary insisted that when he was there in April, 1909, he could find no evidence of any one having preceded him to the spot. The claim of Dr. Cook was generally discredited after that, while the data submitted by Admiral Peary was accepted by the National Geographical Society and he was thereafter accepted as the discoverer of the North Pole.

Five Years In Prison

For some time after he lost his fight for recognition of his claim, Dr. Cook dropped from public notice. He became involved with the government in 1922 through the promotion of oil schemes at Fort Worth, Texas. After an investigation he was convicted and using the mails to defraud and was sentenced to the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, for 14 years and fined $12,000. He began his sentence in April, 1925, and was paroled early in 1930, when he had served one-third of his time.

Dr. Cook was born at Callicoon Depot, Sullivan County, N. Y., June 10, 1865. He was the son of Dr. Theodore A. and Magdalene Long Koch, the family name having been changed to Cook in 1860. The father had come from Germany in 1853 and began the practice of medicine in Sullivan County. There the son went to school and later attended public schools in Brooklyn. He studied medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons and in the medical school of New York University, being graduated from the latter in 1890.

He practiced for a time in New York, but later became better known for his activities in Arctic and Antarctic explorations than for his work in medicine.

On June 10, 1902, Dr. Cook married Miss Mary Fidele Hunt of Brooklyn. She obtained a divorce in Texas in 1923, a short time before the doctor's conviction in connection with his oil schemes.

CIVIL WAR FILM HERE

"Virginia City," With Errol Flynn And Miriam West, Depicts West In Roaring Days

Saga of the roaring west of the Civil War era, "Virginia City," with Errol Flynn and Miriam Hopkins in the leading roles, is the feature offering at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week.

The setting is a colorful, lawless mining town during the rowdy days. The theme recounts an authentic episode adeptly woven into a screen play.

Flynn portrays the part of an intelligence officer who is sent to the mining town to track down a gold shipment. His romance with the queen of the dance halls, Miss Hopkins, is short-lived when the girl has him kidnapped and she learns that she is a spy. The intelligence officer is taken prisoner on a gold caravan led by Randolph Scott. Then there is an attack by bandits, led by Humphrey Bogart who is outwitted by Flynn. The end of the war permits a happy ending.

Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Guinn Williams and John Litel are other well known members of the cast.

NASSAU IS ATTRACTION

ARRIVE THIS WEEK
HAMILTON, Bermuda, Aug. 6: (CP)—The Duke and Duchess of Windsor will arrive here towards the end of this week enroute to the Bahamas where the Duke becomes Governor General. During their brief stay here, the Duke and Duchess will be guests at Government House.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6: (CP)—Popularity of Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, with United States tourists is expected to soar high as a result of the appointment of the Duke of Windsor as Governor. Already Uncle Sam's winter social schedules are being revised.

The Nassau telephone list will include the Baltimore belle who rocked the British Empire but missed the throne—the Duchess of Windsor, and, of course, the Duke who was King Edward VIII until he abdicated December 11, 1936.

At Nassau is the governor's palace, a large rambling stucco affair with "deep south" galleries running around the second floor, much like the galleries on the Warrenton, Va., hotel where the Duchess lived for two years in the 20's. There's a magnificent view of the bay from the Nassau house. And there's an annual stipend of 2,000.

That brings up memories that no $12,000-a-year would have financed. Remember that June wedding at Monts, France, in 1937? The Duke, looking younger and happier than he had in years, dashed hatless to the village florist to spend $1,300 for flowers. Their first Christmas he came home with $300 worth of orchids and white violets. She likes white flowers best.

Remember the trousseau that was the answer to every maiden's prayer? Schiaparelli made 17 of the dresses. The Duchess herself designed 30 of her 48 trousseau frocks. They were so individual she set new styles. She started us off on those cocktail dresses with the severe applique on the jackets, for instance. But the dress that utilized imagination was the frothy, white-organdy dance frock. It had two bright scarlet lobsters printed on the skirt.

Wonder if she will wear the diamond diadem at Nassau? It was his wedding present. Or the pin in a three-feather design? Three feathers were his insignia as Prince of Wales. Her pin was set with several shades of blue precious stones. There were earrings to match.

When they finally started for their honeymoon in an Austrian castle they had 226 pieces of luggage, of which 133 were trunks. Wonder where it all was this June when they landed in Spain? They said they were down to a few cans of sardines and, of course, one limousine.

Wonder if it's going to be difficult to shop in Nassau? In London it often took half an hour for her to buy one pair of hose. Just to get the right shade.

Wonder what's become of that dining-room table she had in her home at Regent's Park? Glass top and invisibly lighted. The illumination faded from bright at the soup to candle power for the dessert. The table at first had a mirror top. She had it changed to clear glass. She explained, "I got tired of looking up my guests' noses."

The Duchess knows how to order, too. Here's one menu they had: Clear turtle soup, a lobster mousse, roast pheasant, soufflé potatoes, little chain bracelet with the six mixed green salad, frozen pineapples and dangling crosses? Half the crosses, pie, Bordeaux wine and a liquor were cut from amethysts, half from
