GIANT FLYING BOATS OF R.C.A.F. KEEP CONSTANT VIGIL OFF CANADIAN COASTS

Day after day, in fair weather and foul, giant Stranraer flying b as of the R.C.A.F., such as the one, upper right, patrols the vast stretches of ocean on Canada's eastern coast. Flying hundreds of m les out to sea, they are the eyes of not only the coastal defences. but also of the vital convoys they help to shepherd through Canadi an waters. Just like any other ocean-going craft, the Stranraer has its wireless cabin and "Sparks" is shown at his key, upper left, a ne keeps in touch with the home base while the giant flying boat searches the ocean for hostile craft. The navigator's job is a hig hly important one as the R.C.A.F. boats fly over the trackless ocean where dense logs roll in and out with treacherous swiftness. Chart ..., the course of his flying boat is this navigating officer, lower left. In the course of long patrols, a spot of tea is always welcome and a n airman is shown, lower right, making a pot of tea on the compact stove of a Stranraen while flying high above the Atlantic.

BLITZ NOW EVIDENTLY UNDER WAY

Extensive Air Attacks On British Isles Today But Everywhere Enemy Is Successfully Repelled

LONDON, Aug. 10:- Germany today launched most widespread raids of this week of anticipated blitzkrieg against the British Isles but everywhere, by sea, land and air, the attacks were repelled During the night, again this morning and into this afternoon German air raiders blazed over England, Scotland and Wales. There were large attacks on southeast, southwest. northeast and northwest England.

The Germans resumed the raids on southeast England this afternoon after a series of widespread attacks during the night which continued until dawn.

Early reports showed two men killed and several persons injured with "some" damage in a northeast English town early today.

"Whistling" bombs dropped in a "terror" raid on the northwest coast killed four, injured two and caused property damage.

Bombers struck at barrage balloons flown from ships off the southeast coast but reports said the attacks were unsuccessful.

Nazi Ships Sunk Meanwhile, the Royal Air Force was penetrating deep into enemy territory, both German, and German-occupied. British planes dropped mines into at least two German harbors, sinking twelve German vessels including, it is claimed, one warship.

On the basis of fuller reports, the Air Ministry confirms reports that sixty German planes were Tr destroyed and many others damaged in Thursday's great air battle along the English Channel. Three of sixteen missing British fighter pilots have been reported safe, two of these are wounded.

Nazi attacks continued during yesterday, two German bombers being shot down.

THE WAY TO JUDGE

It is possible that there are German sympathizers in . Prince Rupert district who listen to the German radio! broadcasts or to the pro-German American broadcasts. Also there may be Italian sympathizers who listen to the Italian broadcasts. These, it will be noticed, never agree with the British broadcasts.

If there are any who believe these alien broadcasts, they should remember that the records show that in al-. WANTED-A 2 or 3-room cabin by most every case the German and Italian broadcasts have later proved to be wrong whereas, in almost every case the modest and candid British broadcasts have been right To argue the truth is probably half way between the two would still be incorrect. Hitler laid down the principle that [lies would be believed if only they were repeated often enough. He also believed in the big lie rather than the small one. His friend Mussolini seems to be following in the footsteps of the German leader and is giving out misleading information, presumably for the purpose of trying to cheer up his own people. With a controlled press this is possible but in a democracy it is not possible.

HITLER'S PROMISE

Hitler has promised his people that on August 15, which is Thursday of next week, he will enter London in state. If he does that he will have to speed up his invasion. It was thought that he might make the attempt this week while the tides and other conditions have been favorable. However, the incessant war on his supply centres and other military objectives in Germany have had a somewhat discouraging effect. The British planes are scouting the whole coast line from the northern tip of Norway FOR SALE-32 foot cabin cruiser. to the south of France with a view to detecting any sign of possible invading fleets. When anything suspicious is found it is bombed. This is something of a deterrent to the blitzkrieg that has been promised. It may not prevent an attack but it makes the invasion difficult. Having command of the air and sea is a great advantage for In the Matter of Samuel George Lindthe British.

BRITAIN READY FOR NAZI BLOW

While Adolf Hitler boasts and rants. England is quietly and cal nly taking measures to insure that German forces will never be able to stage a successful blitzkrieg against the tight little island. Tank barriers are being erected, and these huge concrete pillars, left, will prove a strong barrier against any invading mechanized force. All signposts have been removed from English highways and detachments of troops keep a close tab on all travelling motorists, upper right. Barbed wire lines the highways at strategic points, ready to be thrown into position at a moment's notice, lower right.
