Faced With Prospect of Tying Up Cars As Result Of Government's Price Cut Order

With oil companies refusing to sell to the retail trade the new fuel ordered by the fuel control board, local motorists are running down their stocks at the high prices. Prince Rupert motorists were faced today with the possibility of having to tie up their cars and take to the hoof. This was the situation as it appeared this morning following the going into effect of the lower gas prices. Of course, there may be new developments at any time.

LOSSES BY GERMANY

Sixty-Six Transports and Supply Vessels and 200 planes Lost in Norwegian Campaign

LONDON, April 26: (CP)—According to official estimates just received in British naval quarters, Germany has had 26 transport and supply ships sunk since commencement of the campaign in Norway. Others have been hit and damaged. This is in addition to the losses of warships as a result of which the German Navy has put out of business. The Reich has, in addition, lost 66 transports and 200 planes in the Norwegian campaign through combat and as a result of Allied raids on Nazi air bases. Thirty British planes were shot down at the same time.

Vancouver Statement

A statement issued in Vancouver by the Petroleum Industries Federation, representing nine major British Columbia oil companies, said that gasoline deliveries to service stations had been suspended. The action was taken following Attorney General Gordon Wismer's announcement yesterday of a price cut effective today since the validity of the Fuel Board had been held by the Supreme Court of Canada. The statement did not say what further action the oil companies planned but it said the prices ordered were below the cost and services had been stopped pending consultation with the government to avoid prosecution. The statement said essential services would be protected. According to Canadian Press reports shortages are reported in several towns.

FRENCH POILUS MAKE IT TOUGH FOR NAZI TANKS

French engineers are shown at work on one of the gigantic ditches they have constructed along the Western Front as a barricade against German tanks. The ditches are dug with steep walls that give a tank a drop of about 15 feet and make them easy prey for the anti-tank guns.

Royal Air Force Bolsters Up Its Strength In Norway War; French Foreign Legion Lands

Struggle For Control of Area Between Oslo and Trondheim Continues With Latter Port as Main Objective

LONDON, April 26.—Greatly increased activity of the Royal Air Force and landing of crack units of the French Foreign Legion at Namsos to fight alongside the British and Norwegian forces are the latest developments in the Scandinavian war. Control of the key port of Trondheim on the west coast of Norway still appears to be the principal objective of both sides. Heaviest fighting continues in the valleys between Hamar and Trondheim and Roros is reported today to have been recaptured by the Allies after having been in the hands of the Germans for a few hours yesterday.

HAVE LOST WAR TRICK IN NORWAY

Great Britain Freely Makes Admission But Is Confident Of Ultimate Outcome Of Battle For Trondheim

LONDON, April 26 (CP)—Military sources today conceded the loss of the "first trick" in Norway but expressed confidence in the outcome of a decisive battle for Trondheim for which both sides are concentrating men and guns. At the same time the War Office said that Allied troops, heavily engaged south of the key Norwegian railway point of Dombas, had been forced to make "limited withdrawals." The Air Ministry announced that British planes and anti-aircraft guns downed eight enemy planes and damaged nine others in Norway yesterday. It was stated that five British aircraft were missing and others damaged in bombing attacks.

The Allies also claim a victory at Storen south of Trondheim. With the co-operation of pursuit planes, British warships were today reported to have forced their way into Trondheim Fjord past German batteries.

There was also further bombardment of Narvik to the north and Oslo to the south. A British statement said that "German bombers are going to find that they are not entirely immune to resistance from British fighter planes." The British planes are reported roaring away in large numbers from aircraft carriers in addition to which a base has been established on a frozen lake. A major improvement all around in the Allied position was reported today following yesterday's re-attacks although further Allied retreats were later indicated. German attacks on new Allied positions in the Steinkjar area have been successfully repulsed.

Today's Later Reports
Late today the Norwegian front had become quieter with both sides digging in for a major battle involving communication between Trondheim and Oslo. British military authorities are reported to have admitted that the Germans may possibly succeed in joining up forces at Trondheim with those driving up from Lillehammer. This admission came in connection with the official announcement by the British War Office that there had been a third retreat by the British forces today near Dombas after a sharp engagement with strong enemy forces. This retreat follows similar strategic withdrawals from Roros. Allied troops, coming down the Glomma Valley from a concentration point at Storen, received effective support from brought light artillery into action and were aided by reinforcements of aircraft.

Reports reaching Swedish newspapers in Stockholm late today indicated that Allied-Norwegian forces on the front below Trondheim had inflicted considerable losses on German advance units, forcing them back five miles south of Roros. Allied troops, coming down the Glomma Valley from a concentration point at Storen, received effective support from brought light artillery into action and were aided by reinforcements of aircraft.

Advices from Roros, reached yesterday by the Nazis, said they had been held up and had withdrawn to a point ten to fifteen miles distant where they were digging in.

The strength of the Royal Air Force in this area is being strongly bolstered up and more effectively organized. In the event of the German forces connecting up between Trondheim on the west coast and Oslo to the south the Allies will reorganize the campaign with a view to holding northern Norway while the battle for control of Trondheim continues. Meanwhile the strategy on both sides appears to be in the way of fast outflanking movements with episodes of heavy fighting resulting in alternate claims of victorious engagements.

Landings In Southeast

It was reported last night that the British had been successful in landing mechanized forces to the extreme southeast of Norway near the Swedish frontier to drive against the Germans in the attempt to foil their effort to slice across Norway. German authorities claimed to be mopping up in the Bergen area, making further advances from Oslo towards Trondheim. Eleven British planes are claimed by the Nazis to have been destroyed yesterday. As a result of German bombing attacks, it was further claimed that two submarines had been sunk in the Skagerrack with a mine layer and transport driven ashore. A destroyer had been set afire and another damaged, the Germans claimed.

MILLIONS INVOLVED

Regime Of Force For 150,000,000 In World Today

WASHINGTON, April 26: (CP)—Conquests abroad are calling to the attention of United States officials an impasse created by the United States' doctrine of non-recognition of territory acquired through force.

The doctrine enunciated by former Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson is placing the United States in the position of refusing to recognize an ever-expanding portion of the world's area. At present, the populations of countries—or former countries—embraced within the doctrine total around 150,000,000 persons.

The list follows: Manchoukuo, 34,200,923; Ethiopia, 7,600,000; Albania, 1,003,124; Poland, 32,347,300; CzechoSlovakia, 14,000,000; China-under-Japan, 60,000,000. Stimson, Secretary of State under former President Herbert Hoover, stated his policy in January, 1932, when Japan seized Manchuria, and set it up as a so-called independent state named Manchoukuo, saying: "It (the United States) does not intend to recognize any situation, treaty or agreement which may be brought about by means contrary to the covenants and obligations of the Pact of Paris (the Kellogg Anti-War Pact)."

Monthly Plan Of Collecting Taxes Is Being Proposed

In an address before the Prince Rupert Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon yesterday, with Colonel J. W. Nicholls presiding, R.S. Gilchrist, city commissioner, stated that he was working on a plan whereby taxes could be paid monthly instead of yearly as at present. He felt that such a scheme would make the payment of city taxes seem less formidable than at present. The scheme had not yet been adopted by any municipality in British Columbia but it was possible it might be arranged.

The formal election of the new officers of the club under Dr. Neal Carter as president took place but the new officers will not take over for a couple of months. Guests at the luncheon included W. T. Moodie, general superintendent of the C.N.R., Norman Nelson, M. H. McLean and W. Lissom-Smith officials of the B. C. Packers.

MUST BE LOSSES

So far the British have suffered scarcely any losses, except that of a few ships. Gains have far exceeded the losses. It must be expected that there will be these losses from time to time. However, the British have a way of profiting by their losses, so we must not take them too seriously. We have never made light of the strength of the enemy in this fight.

GERMAN PROPAGANDA

One of the propaganda schemes of the German high command is to set the terms by which they will make peace with the Allies and to set it so high as to be impossible of acceptance.

It must be remembered that neither the British or the French are asking for terms. They are prepared to fight on until victory is secured.

Timely Recipes

MACARONI WITH MUSHROOMS

1/2 package macaroni
1 onion
2 ounces butter
4 tablespoons oil
2 slices of bacon
6 ounces of dried mushrooms or 1 lb. of fresh mushrooms
few sprigs parsley
salt and pepper

Chop the onion, parsley and butter, oil, salt and pepper and let fry until the onion becomes golden brown. Add the mushrooms (if they are dried mushrooms, they must be parboiled). If instead they are fresh then they must be washed in lukewarm water, well drained and cut into small pieces. Cook for about 20 minutes. Use this sauce over the macaroni already separately cooked. This recipe will serve four.

BARE KNEES NEW STYLE

Short Skirt and Woolly Jackets
In 1940 Out-of-Doors Costumes

By ADELAIDE KERR
NEW YORK, April 26: (CP) — Bare knee fashions are the newest thing under the style sun.

They're the fashion mart's latest formula for comfort in climbing fences, bowling, golfing and the like. They combine a short skirt cut off three inches above the knee cap and long socks cut off two inches below it—and they leave your knee as bare as your face. "Made up" too with just as artistic a touch.

They're going to give men a new reason for interest in women's fashions. As a matter of fact, they've been swiped from a page in the book of men's styles. Men in Scottish kilts and Tyrolean shorts have been leaving their knees exposed for a good many years.

So tilt your kneecaps, ladies, and step into spring's new kilts. They're meant for any woman with a good trim figure, not just the youngsters.

The skirts are of two kinds—a pleated version in men's wear grey flannel of a circular cut of two-toned beige checked tweed. They come in a lot of gay colors—sun yellow, tanager red, hunt green and a soberer navy blue. They're all worn over ribbed wool tights of the same color as the skirt, so if you tip head-first over that fence you have nothing to worry about except the spot where you land.

Socks To Match

The socks of cable-knit wool are dyed in colors to match them knit with elasticized tops to do away with the problem of garters. Headlines are small brimmed sports hats worn far back on the head; footnotes are oxfords with cork and crepe rubber soles.

That assembles the costume—except for beautiful knees. Knees have to be glorified if they're going to be so much in view, so to take care of them there's a new special makeup for them stowed away in a bright little flannel nurse dyed to match socks and shirt.

Specifications include — don't laugh—a beauty spot, star or crescent shaped, set to one side of one knee cap.

Now go and fall over the fence.

"I feel moo-ved to talk about KLIM", says ELSIE, the Borden Cow. "Klim is whole milk with all the cream left in—turned into a fine soft powder by taking out all the natural moisture. Simply add KLIM to cold water—whisk with a beater—and you have a foaming bowlful of delicious natural-tasting milk. The ideal milk supply for every occasion. Stock up with KLIM at your grocer's or drug store."

OLD SHIP WASHED UP
Timbers on Manitoulin May Be Those of LaSalle

OTTAWA, April 26: (CP)—More than 250 years ago, the Griffon, an exploration boat sent out by Sieur de La Salle founded in Lake Huron (1679). Today historians still are trying to identify the hulk of an old vessel washed up on Mississagi Point, Manitoulin Island, as the remains of the French adventurer's ship.

La Salle was not on board the Griffon when she was lost. His explorations were ended a few years later when he was attempting to form a French colony in Louisiana. Roy F. Fleming, Ottawa historian, said Dr. Florence Hawley of the University of New Mexico, an expert on wood, is in charge of tests being carried on to identify the wreck. Dr. Hawley is comparing pieces of wood taken from the wreck with wood from the Niagara district where the Griffon was built.

An iron bolt taken from the wreck by Mr. Fleming was definitely identified in Paris as having been manufactured in France prior to the 18th century. The historian said a movement is on foot to build a protective stone wall around the hulk. This would guard against the Great Lakes storms which batter the wreck.
