Planes Shot Down

Considerable activity in the way of aerial combat continues with both sides reporting having shot down planes of the other. A communique announced that the Finns had shot down eleven Russian bombers yesterday. Previously it had been reported that eleven of eighteen Red planes had been shot down in a raid on Lapeenranta, Southern Finland. On the other, Moscow claimed several Finnish planes had been brought down.

Military observers believe the crisis for Finland will come in May fter the snows have melted and the reather becomes springlike. By that, ame more effective outside assistance may have arrived. Shipments' of arms and ammunition to Finand by France and England are ocreasing.

SEEMS TOO BAD

It seems too had that when Canada is at war it should find attempts made to undermine her at home. It is bad enough to have to fight without having people who call themselves Canadians trying to knife everything that is done and urging non-co-operation in favor of a foreign

There are not many people in Canada who try to knife their own country. Because we are a democracy does not mean that a small minority should be allowed to help the enemy. A great deal of latitude has been given them but there is likely to be a tightening up. France is shutting down on the enemy within her gates and there is no good reason why Canada should not do the same.

HORE-BELISHA AGAIN

People are still talking about Hore-Belisha and his rather spectacular dismissal from the British cabinet and the possibility of his return as minister of economics. Dorothy Thompson, the brilliant journalist, suggests that the retiring minister, while very brilliant and full of ideas, is not an easy person to get along with. He has a very strong opinion of his own ability and is outspoken. She sums up as follows:

"It would seem that the dismissal of Mr. Hore-Belisha! can only indicate the expectation that the war, very soon, is to pass into a much more active phase in which greater unity of command will be essential.

"Mr. Hore-Belisha has, perhaps, fulfilled his function. He has greatly modernized the army. He has gotten rid He has greatly modernized the army. He has gotten rid of a great deal of dead wood. He has assured the British troops of better living codnitions than any army has ever enjoyed in all history.

"Even the generals, with whom he is supposed to be at loggerheads, are his own choice. His boldest move, after he was appointed War Secretary was in December, 1937, when he secured the retirement of Sir I. J. Deverell, chief of staff, together with many other members of the general staff, and replaced them in defiance of seniority by men a decade younger. He himself appointed Gen. Viscount Gort to his exalted position."

THE ROWELL COMMISSION

It is safe to say that with the present situation in Canada no action will be taken on the report of the Rowell than Commission at this coming session of Parliament.
