English Women Militant ...

"No Germn is going to get out of England alive. The been given up. women'll go for him." Such is the theme of an article published this month in "Chatelaine." It tells of the experi-ences of a woman on a tour of investigation who finds INTER-UNIT that "England Has Gone Tough." Rosita Forbes finds that the women of England are militant and that if Hitler or his forces land in that country they will have to fight the women as well as the men. She finds that the people Military Volleyball And Basketball are not concerned about defending England. What they want is to get to Germany, to carry the war to the enemy.

According to the writer, one man said: "The German civilians wouldn't feel so satisfied reading about women basketball leagues of the local garand children bombed in our farms and villages if they rison area got off to a good start knew the plans we've got for them. Our politicians can at the Armory last night when wear kid gloves if they like but, when our men get at the feated No. 3 Company team in two Nazis, there won't be anything party-like or pretty."

One lady kept a hatchet in the parlor designed for and T. O. basketball team took the use on parachutists. She said: "I don't care what I do so measure of Company Headquarters long as I can kill a German. They shot my son at Dun-<sup>28</sup> to 12. kirk, shot him when he was wounded and unarmed. lying half in the water. They aren't men. A farmer concluded a statement by remarking: "No Germans who land here are going to live to get any far-stone and wood.

A girl ambulance driver, returned from France, told of German wounded buried by their own comrades before they were dead, of bodies kicked and heaped into trenches and earth flung on top of them whether they were alive or not. "At last England, our own England, too civilized perhaps after the last twenty years of as much talk as work and more play than is good for any people, realizes what she is up against." The British realize now that you can't win a war by talking and they are determined cm that, if the Germans land in the country, none will be left Bro to tell the tale."

Thought as Force -- -

One several occasions we have mentioned the power Phi of mind in both war and peace. An American versifier has expressed it as follows:

"If you think you're beaten, you are; If you think you dare not, you don't; If you'd like to win, but you think you can't, It's almost a cinch that you won't; If you think you'll lose, you're lost; For in this world you'll find-That success depends on strength of will, It's all in the state of mind."
