BATTLE IS ENLARGING

Big Guns and Naval Units Also in Action—More Devastating R. A. F. Raids.

LONDON, Oct. 12: With air raiding continuing and big cross Channel guns in action and naval units moving into battle, the Battle of Britain has increased in ferocity and scope. A big gun duel across the Channel last night was very spectacular. The Germans fired at random and little material damage was done to the Dover shore. In spite of fog and unfavorable weather, the Royal Air Force crossed into Germany and over the Channel invasion bases during the night and again did heavy damage to oil plants, factories, docks and airdromes at many points. All planes returned safe. Kiel, Bremen, Hamburg and Wilhelmshafen were visited and the coast from Rotterdam to Cherbourg. An "enormous white explosion," followed by fires, resulted from release of bombs at Wilhelmshaven, pilots said. Cherbourg was reported a raging mass of flames. Direct hits were made on destroyers at Brest. Off the Isle of Wight German submarines were reported to have engaged British destroyers but there was no statement as to results.

For the first twelve months of the war, United States exports to Latin America increased by fifty percent while imports from that source were 31 percent higher.

OXFORD GROUP IS ACTIVE

Prominent Visitors To Prince Rupert Tell Something Of Work They Are Doing In England

There is nothing weak or disloyal about the Oxford Group either in Canada or elsewhere, according to Captain Loudon Hamilton, in whose rooms at Christ Church, Oxford, the Oxford Group was founded, and Eric Bentley of Toronto, leader of the group in Canada, who were in the city this week. According to Captain Hamilton the first persons in Sweden to offer their services to fight for Finland against Russia were members of the Oxford Group of that country. What is true in Sweden has been true elsewhere. The group is gaining strength today in Canada and in all countries where the fight is going on against an aggressor. An example of the type of work that is being done in Britain by members of the group is a recent appeal which was printed and distributed in the north of England as follows:

How To Play Your Part

Forget yourself in helping your neighbors. In days of tension this casts out your own fears and worries. Help them to carry out all instructions about air raids, evacuation, rationing and waste. Keep the moral standards of the nation high. Don't weaken the home front by trying to wangle something for yourself on the quiet. Make a break with all the personal indulgence, selfishness and private wars which undermine national moral and unity. Everybody has his part to play in the moral re-arming of the nation. Be a rumor-stopper. Those who love their country sacrifice the luxury of being able to pass on the "news." Any patriot shoots a rumor dead on sight. Face the facts but don't exaggerate them. Prepare to meet them instead. Faith, confidence and cheerfulness are as contagious as fear, depression and grumbling. The secret of steadiness and inner strength is to listen to God and do what He says. God speaks directly to the heart of every man and woman who is prepared to listen and obey. Write down the thoughts He gives you. His voice can be heard wherever you are—in the home, in the factory, in the air-raid shelter, in the first-aid post. Forearm yourself by listening to God first thing every morning. This provides a clear plan for each day and the power to work with other people in complete unity. In a time of listening God takes away fear and fortifies against uncertainty, hardship or bereavement; He gives foresight and cool judgment. He offers of limitless reserves of energy and initiative. A British general who has fought through two wars said this: "Telephone wires may be cut, wireless stations be destroyed, but no bombardment can stop messages from God coming through if we are willing to receive them. CHOOSING PRESIDENT

State Electoral College Votes Can Be Split When Popular Vote Close

NEW YORK, Oct. 12: (CP)—In the presidential elections Tuesday, November 5, the people of the United States choose electors. The electors cast the votes for presidential candidates.

The 531 votes of the electoral college are divided among the states according to population. The actual measure of a state's electors is the total of senators and representatives to which it is entitled.

Usually the entire electoral vote of a state is cast for one candidate but occasionally the votes of a state are divided. This can happen when the popular vote is very close, the popular vote is very close.

The usual explanation is that voters in considerable number believe they are voting for the whole party ticket when they mark an X after the name of one of that party's electors. Electoral votes are counted individually and, if the top man on the electoral list of the minority party gets a few more votes than, say, the bottom man on the majority list, there is an electoral vote for the presidential candidate who was not the popular choice of the state.

Greatest plurality given a candidate in the last 10 elections was in 1936. Next greatest was in 1932. The 523-to-8 electoral advantage of Franklin D. Roosevelt over Alf M. Landon in 1936 was considerably more lop-sided than was the popular vote. Mr. Roosevelt received 27,476,673 votes to 16,679,583 for Mr. Landon. The popular advantage was approximately seven to four whereas the electoral vote was in the ratio of approximately 65 to 1.

MARKET HAS XMAS GOODS

Yuletide Baking Supplies Already Here—Potatoes Plentiful—Apples being Cleaned Up.

Christmas baking supplies are already being featured in local retail stores. New dried fruits such as raisins and currants, peel, etc. are in. The supply is good except for dates of which the market is bare and which are not expected before December at the earliest. Tea is subject to another advance of from 4 to 8c. per pound. Supplies are getting scarce owing to the war situation in the East. Potatoes are plentiful this fall and prices are low. There is a fine crop in this district and generally.

A carload of onions has arrived from the Okanagan. The onion crop is unusually large and prices are firm. Owing to the crop failure in Nova Scotia due to a storm, apple stocks are getting cleaned up. There is a strong demand for British Columbia apples and McIntosh Reds have already advanced 5c. per box.

LONDON SILVER LONDON, Oct. 12:—London silver price was unchanged yesterday at 23 7-16 pence.

ATTITUDE SOFTENING

Signs That Japanese Are Backing Down In Face Of American Firmness

TOKYO, Oct. 12: (CP)—The United States advice to Americans to leave the Orient appears to have induced a softened attitude among the Japanese towards the United States, an informed source said. The new tack in Japanese public utterances may be taken as a result of failure to slacken the United States pressure, it is said.

Meanwhile, excitement at Shanghai, accentuated by the assassination early Friday morning of the Chinese puppet mayor of Japanese-occupied Shanghai, still runs high. There is no intention, American authorities have already said, of withdrawing 1600 marines from the international settlement there.

GOVERNOR IS NAMED

OTTAWA, Oct. 12: (CP)—R. F. McWilliams K. C. of Winnipeg, has been appointed Lieutenant Governor of Manitoba effective November 1.

Delayed almost twelve hours by heavy fog down the coast, C.P.R. steamer Princess Louise, Capt. S. K. Gray, is not due until 7:15 this evening from Vancouver. The vessel will sail soon thereafter in continuation of her voyage to Alaska.

Air Minister Charges Leader Of Conservatives With Giving Out British Military Secret

OTTAWA, Oct. 12: (CP)—Hon. C. G. Power, minister of national defence for air, in a statement today charged Hon. R. B. Hanson, Conservative leader, with betraying a "secret not of the Canadian government but of Britain." Major Power was commenting on Hanson's speech at Charlottetown last night in which the Conservative leader said that ten thousand British airmen were coming to Canada for training outside the British Commonwealth air training plan. Mr. Hanson said he might be interested for making the statement and charged Prime Minister William Lyon Mackenzie King had agreed to the very same proposal he rejected in 1938. Mr. Hanson asserted that three hundred of the British trainees were already at Kingston, Ontario. Major Pwer's statement said: "As I understand it, Mr. Hanson is at present engaged in the great work of recruiting for the Tory party. I am not aware of the measure of his success but I should say that, by betraying a secret not of the Canadian government but of Britain, he may have made one recruit. His name is Hitler."

EDITORIAL

Dude Woman . . .

Peter B. Kyne, author of the Cappy Ricks stories, had not written a book for six years until this year when he came out with an American tale "The Dude Woman." It is not a very long story. In fact, it can be read in a fairly long evening by a fast reader and it is noticeable that most people who get started want to sit up until it is finished. It is a story of the cattle country of the American southwest. Curiously enough for a modern story it is free from dirt or even a suggestion of it. For any one who wishes to pass a pleasant two or three hours without any preaching, without any dirt and in a happy outdoor surrounding, we recommend "Dude Woman."

Spurious Literature . . .

Mayor LaGuardia of New York, chairman of the joint defence commission, is not only doing his best to defend this continent against the German and Italian forces. He is trying to defend the young people of his state against the bad effects of salacious literature. He recently arranged an interview with forty magazine publishers of forty-two magazines considered objectionable and in their presence he ordered the police to see that none of the filth was distributed in New York state. The mayor said he took action only after consulting with a juvenile court judge and after careful study of the whole situation and its effect upon young people.

Home Production . . .

As a result of the war the price of anthracite coal in Eastern Canada has been advanced from a dollar and a half to two dollars a ton. The rate of exchange is directly responsible for this.

There is said to be a large area of anthracite coal in the Groundhog section of British Columbia. All that is needed is a comparatively short spur line connecting with Kitwanga or Hazelton or through to Stewart. If the Alaska Highway should go through the Groundhog Valley it would be easy to develop the mine. The coal could be shipped east by water and the rate of exchange would not affect its price.

Cost of Living . . .

A survey made by the War-Time Prices and Trade Board for the first year of the war finds that the cost of living in that time has advanced 4 per cent. Part of this advance is in clothing and part in food. Rents have also figured in the survey, that being the reason for the order of the board covering the district from which complaints had been received. Prince Rupert was not included in the original order, possibly because house rents were very low before the recent advance. Should there be complaints of extortionate rents, action would undoubtedly follow.

Reason To Be Thankful . . .

Prince Rupert has every reason to be thankful. The city has not been bombed or subjected to direct warfare and there is no present likelihood of such an event happening. The city is prosperous as it has not been for a number of years. Surely if any place has reason to be thankful, it is Prince Rupert.

But there are some who have sons or daughters or close friends either fighting at the front or in the danger area. To these we suggest they should be thankful that they have been privileged to bear sons or daughters who have the ability and courage to take their places in the forefront of this fight for freedom. Mothers and fathers of such are to be envied.

We are not suggesting that Monday shall be kept as a solemn occasion. If the weather is suitable, games will be played, young people will dance, many will visit the picture theatre. What we ask is that all remember and be thankful for their wonderful privileges in this time of trial.

SPORT CHAT

There aren't enough organized games in Canada and youthful British war guests don't get sufficient exercise. So a Toronto newspaper reporter discovered in conversation with the war guests themselves at a Toronto school where 63 of the new-comers, both sexes and all school ages, are in attendance. "That's a fact," declared Jean Norman. "Nobody seems to think of walking anywhere in Canada. You always ride. But you don't even ride a bicycle. I brought my bicycle with me and the little boys stare at it in wonder."

Jean didn't mean to be critical, for she hastened to add that otherwise Canada is a pretty good place. But the lack of exercise also bothered some of her pals. They rather thoroughly analyzed Canadian school and on the whole found them good. "Except that you have absolutely no games," said Jean Norman. "Of course, you don't have cricket," said Jean Cumming. "Cricket, goodness, who wants cricket? Such a slow game. I hate it," protested Jean Norman.

The reporter was shocked and said as much. Everybody in Canada knows everybody in England play cricket. "Because we have to," added another. "It was compulsory at the school I went to, and not too well liked. I never cared for the game." "That's because you never saw a good game—it's wonderful," retorted an English boy. "I never saw anything to it but men walking slowly between two wickets," the girl said.

"We used to play lacrosse at our school," Jean Cumming sighed. "The first day we were here we asked for a couple of lacrosse sticks and two of us batted a ball about at recess and six boys came and looked at us and said, 'Ho, ho, girls trying to play lacrosse. Lacrosse in England is a girl's game, but here boys play it, only not the same.' The girls have seen a baseball game and liked it and are looking forward to ice hockey this winter. They are already planning next season's tennis."

Local Man Now In Command of His Own Boat

Lieutenant James Bryant, who went overseas last spring, has completed his training and is now in charge of his own motor torpedo boat, one of the Wasp type, operating in the area between Britain and the European continent. His particular boat is the flotilla leader, he being the senior man in the group.

Lieut. Bryant says the men in charge of these boats are a fine lot of many nationalities but good mixers. It is understood that, in addition to torpedo work, these boats are engaged in rescue work, convoy work or any duties requiring speed. He says they are kept busy all the time except in very storm weather.

Stanley Saville left on last evening's train for a trip to Smithers. Mrs. Saville is already in the interior.

HALIBUT IN JELLY

New Preparation of Cheeks of Choice Fish Food

By P. A. SUNDERLAND

In our time halibut is regarded as one of the choicest food fishes but it was not always so considered. Thus about one hundred years ago when this fish was abundant off the eastern coast of the United States it had no market value, and cod fishermen there claimed that good fishing was often spoiled when the halibut drove the cod away from the banks. Strange as it seems today, in the earlier history of the halibut fishery only the head and fins of the fish were utilized, the rest being thrown away as undesirable for food. In 1896, halibut fins, a by-product of the smoked halibut industry, sold at about $8 per barrel of 200 pounds. Thus there were certain portions of the body of the fish which were considered more or less of a delicacy. The heads and napes of cod, striped bass and other species were considered especially delicious.

The so-called "cheeks" or portions of flesh on each side of the head of halibut and salmon have a characteristic flavor and richness. This is well known to fishermen, fish curers and canners, and has been borne out for salmon through analyses. In white and red spring salmon the percentage of fat in the flesh taken from a slice near the head is about twice that of a slice taken near the tail of the fish.

The heads of halibut have been generally used for oil manufacture since 1870 and there are at present two reduction plants in British Columbia which utilize the heads for this purpose, according to information received. In some of our fishing ports varying quantities of cheeks are sold in the fresh state for local consumption, or frozen; while small quantities of heads are used as bait by crab fishermen. It has been claimed that much larger quantities could be more profitably utilized if the cheeks could be canned successfully and, as a result of several enquiries received during the past few years concerning the possibilities of such a venture, the writer began some experiments early this year. An acceptable product has been developed by means of the procedure about to be described.

Cheeks are obtained from selected halibut heads. After the cheeks have been cut from the heads the skin is removed and the cheeks are then brined after which they are spread in a single layer on galvanized wire trays which are stacked into a retort and cooked.

After a brief cooling at room temperature the cheeks are packed into ½-pound flat, enamelled cans and into each can is poured one ounce of a jelly solution, sufficiently hot to run through the fish flesh. The cans are then single seamed and exhausted. After double seaming the cans are processed for 80 minutes at 240 degrees F. and are removed from the retort after cooling under pressure. The jelly solution is prepared by dissolving 3 per cent of agar agar and 8 per cent of animal gelatine in water by heating. The agar agar is used because its jelly may become liquid at 70 degrees F. The former gives a more transparent jelly, whereas the latter imparts more flavor. Agar agar is the commercial name applied to the dried, gelatinous extract of certain species of red algae (seaweed), and has found wide application in the preparation of many foodstuffs such as dessert jellies, candies, soups, fish, meats, fruits, ice cream, etc.

When canned in this manner, halibut cheeks do not lose their color and characteristic delicate flavor, a loss which has often been the experience of those who have attempted to can halibut flesh in the past. The experiments have also shown that the cheeks may be frozen prior to canning them without any appreciably detractive effect on the final product. The freezing has in some instances caused a slight darkening of the flesh but offers an advantage in that the texture becomes even more tender. Since contact with air during cold storage causes the cheeks to discolor, care should be taken in protecting the product by employing moisture-proof cellophane or other suitable wrapping material. The invitingly white color, so characteristic of halibut flesh, is best preserved when fresh cheeks are used in the canning process.

KINCOLITH MARRIAGE

Miss Emily Smythe Becomes Bride Of William Stewart At Interesting Ceremony

A marriage of widespread interest to the native people of the Naas River took place at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at Kincolith when Miss Emily Smythe, daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Simon Smythe, became the bride of William Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Stewart. The marriage took place in the Anglican Church which was crowded by the people of the village as well as visitors from Greenvale, Aiyansh and other points. Rev. Norman Green, the resident missionary, officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and the attendants of the couple were Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Barton. Beautiful wedding costumes were worn and there was music appropriate to the occasion.

Following the ceremony, there was a wedding feast in the village hall, the entire population and all the out-of-town people being invited. After dinner, there were speeches by Indian Agent James Gillett, Simon Smythe, Frederick Stewart, W. F. Stewart (the groom's grandfather), Charles Morvin and James Adam of Aiyansh. Chief Councillor Sam Lincoln of Kincolith, Charles Leeson of Greenvale and others.

The couple received numerous handsome gifts, including those from organizations with which they are identified.

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Cusack who arrived in the city on the Prince Rupert Thursday night from Kelchikan, left on last evening's train for a trip to Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Fishing Activity Quiet for Present; Fall Charters; Shrimp Fishing Going On

With halibut and salmon fishing seasons over, these are dog days along the Prince Rupert waterfront, at least as far as those whose sole interest is in the fishing are concerned. For those who would follow other pursuits, however, there should be plenty to do in the activities of the war. The several Prince Rupert halibut boats which are identified with the Fishermen's Naval Reserve will continue uninterrupted in that work. The next fishing activity will be the herring. In addition to the demands of the reduction plants and for bait purposes, Prince Rupert district herring will be required this winter by Nelson Bros. Fisheries Limited Prince Rupert cannery which will be putting up canned herring with tomato sauce. It is also reported that the B. C. Packers plans to process herring at its Claxton cannery this winter. Meanwhile, it will probably be a few weeks before there is any movement in regard to herring although there are reports that there have been already some indications of herring around Tucks Inlet at the head of Prince Rupert Harbor.

Union steamer Cardena, Capt. John Boden, arrived in port at 11:25 last night from the south and sailed at 5:30 a.m. on her return to Vancouver and waypoints.

The Naas River area is being reopened tomorrow night to gill-netting and trolling. Reports have been received of some chums running around the Naas but it is not expected there will be any particular fishing activity there. At the present time all types of salmon fishing in this district are closed down except around the north end of the Queen Charlotte Islands.

Fall charters of Prince Rupert fishing vessels include the Prince Rupert Fishermen's Co-operative packers Hickey, Capt. Arthur Oswald, and Canawaka, Capt. Fred Walters, by Nelson Bros. Fisheries Ltd. Prince Rupert cannery for packing chums from Queen Charlotte Islands. The Ogden, Capt. Marshall, has been chartered by the Canadian Fish and Cold Storage Co. for packing salmon to the Prince Rupert plant. The Cold Storage also has chartered Capt. George Cook's Teeny Milly for packing. The Ogden and Teeny Milly augment the Canadian Fish & Cold Storage Co.'s own boats Chief Tapeet, Chief Seegay and W. R. Lord which are all busy packing.

Shrimp fishing is now proceeding around the head of Prince Rupert Harbor, the boats engaged in this work being Shruball Bros., North Foreland, William Rudell's and William Bagshaw's Sea Boy and William Larkin's W.L.S. The shrimps are being taken and processed by Bacon Fisheries.

Like other establishments of the Fisheries Research Board of Canada, the Prince Rupert Fisheries Experimental Station has somewhat revised its activities so as to concentrate more on problems of direct importance to the efficient pursuit of industries on a war basis. The scientific staff these days is even busier than usual. Certain activities which may be said to have been more or less of a side issue class are temporarily suspended.

Harry Beale, who has not been seen at Prince Rupert for a couple of years, is at present relieving Kenneth Morrison as purser of the Princess Adelaide which was in port last evening. Mr. Beale, formerly well known as an assistant purser on the Skagway run, is now regularly purser of the Princess Mary on the Powell River route.

Thomas Anderson, manager of the Tucks Inlet reduction plant, re-

Last evening the Canadian Legion club room was crowded by members of all branches of the naval and military units as well as Legion members to enjoy the Legion's smoking concert which will be long remembered.

D. G. Borland, the Legion's new president, acted as chairman and heartily welcomed the guests. Being obliged to attend a meeting arranging for the forthcoming Red Cross concert sponsored by the Legion he relinquished his duties to S. A. Cheeseman.

Community singing ably led by Sergeant-Major Day and Lieutenants Ryan and Whittle, was enthusiastic. The manner in which the soldiers sang old war favorites recalled to veterans sitting at their side war memories of a quarter of a century ago.

A splendid program, thoroughly enjoyed to its last note and with selections encored again and again, included cornet solos by Fusilier Peebles, banjo solos by Fusilier Johnston-Watson, piano-accordion solos by Mike Colussi, monologues by Lieutenant Rankin and vocal solos by Sergeant-Major Day and Fusilier Taffy Davis. At the piano was Bob Townsend and assisting was Norman Davidson, Bill Stewart and his orchestra, which included Bobby Reid and Harold Davidson, rendered fine selections.

In reply to Lieutenant Whittle, on behalf of the soldiers thanking the Legion for the concert, the chairman took the opportunity to remind them that one of the main objects of the organization was to add in all ways possible to their comfort and happiness.

Ample refreshments were served by a committee consisting of Neil Cameron (chairman), George Ab-

STORY OF ESPIONAGE

War-time espionage is the timely subject of "British Intelligence," a swiftly-paced melodrama, which is one of the features of a double bill picture program at the Capitol Theatre this afternoon and evening. Boris Karloff and Margaret Lindsay have the leading roles. The period of the picture is the First Great War and the spies whose activities it concerns are in the service of England and Germany. Karloff is a super-spy in the service of Germany who has managed to convince the British Intelligence that he is working for England. Miss Lindsay is also a counter-espionage operative. One of the features of the picture depicts an air raid over London during which Karloff sets off a time bomb designed to wipe out the entire British cabinet. Heroic action on the part of the intelligence department foils the plot.

The other picture on the program is "Ma! He's Making Eyes at Me," a blend of romance and comedy with colorful dance revues. Action revolves around the efforts of Tom Brown, a young press agent, to make American girls more fashion conscious. Constance Moore plays opposite Brown in the role of a pretty Broadway model. Supporting roles are taken by Anne Nagel, Richard Carle, Jerome Cowan, Elisabeth Risdon and Fritz Feld.
