Rogers and David Niven, at Capitol Theatre -

Heralder as one of the season's most sprightly and original comedy romances, "Bachelor Mother," with Ginger Rogers and David Niven in the stellar leads, is the Capitol Theatre screen feature for the first half of this week.

The frantic but futile efforts of a department store girl, played by Miss Rogers, to deny the parenthood of a foundling, accidentally wished on her, forms the basis of the story. Ginger is unable to convince the authorities, as well as her own employers, that the baby is not hers. Her handsome boss, in fact, threatens to dismiss her unless she assumes the responsibility of rearing the child properly. Ludicrous complications develop when her employer's father, owner of the department store, becomes convinced that the child is his grandson and tries to pursuade his son to marry the girl. This hectic situation produces gay entertainment as the various characters try to untangle the snarl of the whole affair.

The cast in support of Miss Rogers and Niven includes such popular favorites as Charles Coburn, Frank
