

SHEFF. SINGLED OUT

LONDON-Nazi air raids on the British Isles during last night centred on parts of the east Midlands and northeast England industrial areas which had heretofore been largely free from bombing attack. The world's greatest steel production centre of Sheffield was singled out. Heavy damage was done and casualties were inflicted. London was again under alarm during the night and there was intermittent fire. The alarm ended before dawn. The raids on London were sporadic and few bombs were dropped. Other parts of the British Isles were also attacked. During Thursday four Nazi planes, intercepted by British fighters, were brought down, three off the Kent coast and one in southwest England.

TOO MANY PRISONERS

CAIRO-With Italian prisoners falling into the hands of the British by the thousands as the Fascist forces continue to collapse in western Egypt, the matter of feeding and transporting them is now becoming a troublesome problem. The number of Italian prisoners is moderately estimated at 20,000. Driven away from the coast by Naval bombardment and harassed from planes in the air, the Italians, retreating pell mell, are being pursued right into Libya. Rome itself admits the loss of Sidi Barrani. The fall of Saloum into British hands appears immin-

COUNTER-ATTACKS FAIL

ATHENS-Two desperate counter-attacks by crack Italian mountain troops in Albania failed yesterday, the Fascist forces losing their original bases. Meantime, the Greeks continue to move steadily up the Adriatic Coast. The Italian port of Valona on the Albania coast has been rendered completely useless as a result of aerial bombardment. The Italians have abandoned their airdromes at Durazzo and Tirana which were two of their principal bases.

REPAIRING DAMAGE

BERLIN-So extensive is the damage that the Royal Air Force has done to the port of Hamburg that it has become necesary for Danish labor to be conscripted in order to institute repairs.

GERMAN SUPPLY SHIP SUNK

LONDON-The Admiralty announced today that the submarine Sunfish had sunk a German supply ship of about four thousand tons close to the Norwegian coast.

SECRET HOUSE SESSION

LONDON-The British House of Commons has been in secret session to consider the question of shipping losses at the hands of enemy U-boats.

WARNS AGAINST PEACE TALK

LONDON-Military authorities warn against talk of Italy suing for peace or about the imminence of revolution in Italy. It is regarded in informed quarters here that II Duce still has his country well in hand and, in spite of the defeats of his forces in Albania and Egypt, he still has great military forces which constitute a menace. No appeal for peace from Italy would be entertained unless it came from King Victor Emmanuel and Mussolini was "out."

PURGE IN ITALY

ROME-A sweeping purge of dissident middle classes is being advocated by the authoritative Italian press. Virginio Gayda talks of a merciless clean-up of traitors, defeatists and slackers and warns gossipers and skeptics. A working class organ says that "the middle class has again shown its vile face as an enemy to the Fatherland." Italians are warned against listening to British and American radio broadcasts recording Italian military reverses.

HAS HEARD FROM HOME IN NARVIK

Local Lutheran Pastor Hears From Relatives After Long Silence

Rev. J. H. Myrwang, whose 37 year-old mother, brothers and sisters have their homes at Narvik and immediate vicinity, received letter from the old home yesterday. He had heard nothing from his relatives since the invasion last spring and naturally had been deeply concerned about them since that time.

The letter that now arrived was written by one of the brothers who for many years has been in the service of the state railroad system with station at Narvik, but having his home at Ankenes, which is on the south shore of the harbor. where six hundred houses were destroyed during the conflict.

The letter states that the aged mother, who lived in her own family home and most of the family group exacuated from place to place three times during the active warfare. First they went from Narvik and Ankenes to Haakvikdalen, a valley running inland between two mountain ranges close to Narvik, to the south. In a short time, however, the small inland lakes in the valley were used as operating bases for the war planes and were the scene of fearful bombardments. So all local people were evacuated into another fjord. Sjomen, still farther south, where another brother of the local pastor is in charge of the public school system and also cantor at the local church. There they remained until the struggle was over.

Now the old mother, who is in good health and full mental vigor is back to the old home place, where the houses are being rebult. So are also most of the other immediate relatives.

The Narvik harbor ends in a one (Norwegian) mile long narrow fjord, called Beisfjorden, running inland between Narvik and Ankeness. At the end of the fjord, the mountains separate, forming a beautiful valley where a great deal of farming is done. The community is also dotted with summer homes belonging to residents in Narvik.

Whole Family Killed

One of the oldest and most substantial farm homes at the end of that fjord belonged to the oldest living aunt of Pastor Myrwang. She was now 96 years of age, still in good health and mentally alert, still being able to read, without glasses. One day she and her grandson and his family were gathered in the house while an air battle was going on. A bomb fell right on the house. The old lady and the members of the family gathered there were killed.

The letter to Rev. Myrwang is censored and marked "Gepruft," Chatfield.

Italian Unable to Check Greeks Who Are Approaching Chimara and Tepelini

ATHENS, December 13 (Canadian Press)-Fresh Italian troops thrown into the battle in Albania, are reported to be unable to halt the Greek advance against the heights surrounding the coastal town of Chimara, north of captured Porto Edda.

The Exchange Telegraph News Agency says that Italian forces, reported to be suffering losses, have started withdrawing from Tepelini, another important base point in Albania.

Telford As Mayor

In Telford has been defeated at the end of his first term of office as mayor of Vancouver. He is a picturesque figure, an interesting superficial critic but not so good as an auministrator. At any rate, that seems to be the general opinion. Even as a critic in the Legislature he was nor a success because he never took time to study any one] question thoroughly, preferring to touch lightly on a nummer of disconnected questions without reasoning out any of them. His place is rather before an audience of mediocre people trather than before the hard boiled politicians of the Legislature. Much was expected of Telford but little obtained.

Late Lord Lothian

The late Lord Lothian was an outstanding figure in diplomatic circles. For many years he was a strong neare advocate and, as a journilist, his published articles always carried the lifea of brotherhood, tolerance and goodwill. He was particularly keen on cultivating the goodwill of the United States. His loss will be keenly felt throughout the British Empire and United States.

Following German Example - - -

The British meem to be following the German example in concentrating their bombing activities on a few places in one night rather than scattering their activities among a large number of places. The result of the bombings is being severely felt in Germany because of the destruction of factories where war material is being made, the destruction of air bases, oil factories and storage plants and also because of the interference with transportation. There has in addition, been the destruction of shipping and airdromes and oil storage at the German-occupied centres along the whole coast of occupied Europe. It is a big job for the Royal Air Force but they seem to be doing it well.

The advisibality of having a suitable person to take over the duties of chief warden on a voluntary basis here was stressed. With this end in view, J. J. Little, who acted as chairman, was delegated to appoint a committee to further pursue the organization, a start on which has already been made here.

This Means Being Revived Next Week To Raise Funds For Winter Relief and Christmas Cheer

Commencing next Monday evening and continuing each evening during the week as long as interest is sustained, the annual radio auction in aid of the Salvation Army's winter relief and Christmas Cheer fund, after a lapse of a year, is being resumed over Station CFPR, it is announced. The auction will be directed by the Junior Section of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce and a temporary studio has been given in the Metropole Hall. Radio auctions; in the past have proven popular and the hopes are that financial results this year will be equally gratifying.
