"Out Of Pre- Victory Is Certain To Come," Declares King

Announces New Award for Honor Open to Civilians, Coming Second to Victoria Cross—Sympathy for Bereaved Parents

LONDON, Sept. 23.—"After the present trials will assuredly come victory," King George said today in a broadcast to the Empire. He said "There is much to encourage us."

His Majesty spoke in an underground shelter at Buckingham Palace during an air raid.

The King announced the creation of a "new mark of honor for men and women in all walks of civilian life." He was giving his own name to the award and it would be known as the George Cross. It would rank next to the Victoria Cross, the greatest award for valor to the fighting forces.

The King also disclosed that he had instituted the George medal for wider distribution and expressed a special word of gratitude for the air raid precautions services.

His Majesty paid tribute to the British people for their courage and cheerful faith in their country, the cause and final victory.

The walls of London might be battered but the spirit of London and its people would stand undismayed.

There would always be an England, "the symbol of liberty and freedom and our own dear home."

The King expressed sympathy for the parents of children lost in the sinking by German torpedo attack of the British ship in the Atlantic last Tuesday. There was no further proof than in that foul deed of "the wickedness against which we fight."

These were grim days and there might be grimmer days yet.

However, His Majesty urged all to keep up their confidence in final victory, to put their "trust in God and the unconquerable spirit of the British people."

NEAR EAST WAR TEMPO QUICKENING

Air Attacks Presage Pitched Battle—New Egyptian Government Is Formed

CAIRO, Sept. 23: (CP)—The Mediterranean war for Africa and the Near East quickened in tempo today as the Royal Navy and the Royal Air Force raided Italian positions and the Egyptian government invoked martial law as a defence measure. A naval communiqué said that the warship fleet had attacked Italian positions about Sidi Barrani "with good results" early Sunday.

Renewed air raids on both sides indicate that the first pitched battle between British and Italian forces may be at hand near Marsa Matru.

The British are reported to be moving up from Alexandria and the Italians from Sidi Barrani.

A new government, headed by the same Premier as before, has been formed for Egypt. It is pledged to full co-operation with Great Britain without immediate declaration of war until such time as the Italian invasion threatens the independence of Egypt which, owing to the slight importance of the territory so far occupied, it does not do.

SITUATION IN ORIENT

Japanese Make Attack on Indo-China But Reported Agreement Brings Cessation

HANOI, French Indo-China, Sept. 23: (CP)—Official French quarters said today that Japanese troops attacked Dong Dang on the Chinese border, 120 miles north of this capital, last night, but ceased fighting in the face of strong French resistance. A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Shanghai said that fighting had ceased after a Japanese-French agreement had been signed over the Indo-China question.

On Sunday an authoritative dispatch from Hanoi to Hong Kong said that French-Japanese negotiations had broken off again on Japan's demand for military privileges and all the Japanese mission planned to leave.

Over the week-end negotiations between Japan and French Indo-China were reported at the point of breakdown over the demands of Japan which were said to be for the establishment of military and naval bases as well as the right to send troops through Indo-China for an attack from that direction upon China. Later, however, it was reported that the Japanese had moderated their demands and that the tension had eased.

Dastardly Torpedo Attack Occurred Last Tuesday Night in Stormy Atlantic 600 Miles at Sea in Dead of Night

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Announcement was made Sunday night of the sinking by a German submarine torpedo attack in an Atlantic Ocean storm last Tuesday night of a refugee ship bound from Britain to Canada. Eighty-seven children and 206 adults lost their lives. Six hundred miles offshore in heavy seas, the attack was made without warning in the pitch dark of night. The vessel sank twenty minutes after the attack. It goes down as one of the worst maritime disasters of the war. Seven of the adult victims were men and women escorts of the children.

Survivors totalled 113 persons and included thirteen children, 18 women and 82 men. There were 406 persons on board including passengers and crew.

Many of the children were killed instantly by explosion when the torpedo struck and tore out part of the ship's side. Others died in lifeboats.

The survivors of the Montreal-bound ship were picked up hours later from rafts and life-boats by nearby warships and were landed on west coast of England and Scotland ports.

The disaster was the greatest since the torpedo sinking early in July of the Arandora Star with German prisoners of war on board. Chilled by icy wind and hail and

LONDON IS CENTRE OF AIR RAIDS

Enemy Concentrates on British Capital in Diffuse Activity—Defensive Services Function Admirably

TWENTY NAZIS DOWN

LONDON, Sept. 23.—At least twenty German bombers were shot down in a series of vicious dog-fights as the Royal Air Force today broke up an invading force of enemy aircraft apparently heading for London. London had its 115th air raid alarm of the war early this afternoon with anti-aircraft batteries going into action. The enemy had little success on this occasion in penetrating the London defences.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—The assault being one of the heaviest of the war, London had its sixteenth consecutive night of Nazi air raiding, starting before dusk Sunday evening after a comparatively quiet day. The all-clear came midway between midnight and dawn, numerous bombs were dropped in various parts of the city during a number of hours and there was further damage and fairly heavy casualties. There were widespread German air thrusts at other parts of the country but they were not greatly intensive or damaging. The mass attack technique is being changed to sending over raiders singly or in small numbers.

An official communique yesterday afternoon said that, although some isolated enemy aircraft had come over the east and southeast coast, dropping some bombs in the country, there was relatively little activity. In the southeast part of London gas and water mains have been hit. Four enemy planes had been brought down during the day, two near London, one in the mountains of Wales and another to the west.

Last Night

During last night there were a number of fatal casualties in London as enemy aircraft, coming in relays or single or small numbers of planes, engaged in scattered bombings over rather widespread areas. Houses and industrial premises were hit. There were also some attacks on southeast England. Two bombs recently struck the British museum, it was announced today, but the extent of damage done was not disclosed. Three different areas of the capital bore the brunt of last night's attack. One hospital was hit. There were three alarms on Sunday. Some optimism is expressed that the worst of the day attacks on London may be over owing to the heavy losses of the Germans in their daylight raids. Some anxiety is, however, still felt in regard to the night raids.

The Red Cross - - -

The Canadian Red Cross Society opens its annual two weeks' drive for funds today—a campaign along national as well as local lines. Here in Prince Rupert solicitors will be calling upon every citizen within the next few days. Possibly the work of the Red Cross is too well known to require any undue elaboration in this place. We feel it a duty, however, to lend our voice in support of the appeal.

Everyone knows how the Red Cross rises to the occasion in case of national disaster. In wartime the extensive and efficient auxiliary service it carries on is familiar to the most of people.

In this war the Red Cross function is doing an even more important work than ever. A function of outstanding importance in its activities at present is the ministering to and relief of civilian air raid victims in England. In addition to that it is collaborating with the bringing of relief to many, many unfortunate folk who have fallen under the heel of the ruthless dictators.

It is very sincerely that we urge you to do everything you possibly can—not only by stretching a point to make your Red Cross contribution in this drive just as substantial as your circumstances will permit but to steadily support the Red Cross in every way you can.

The Red Cross is one of the most important, if not the most important, of the auxiliary services of the war. Its work transcends the sphere of a mere patriotic endeavour and is a humanitarian benefaction for mankind generally.

By all means, help the Red Cross.

McCLYMONT IS WINNER

Defeated Fraser Street Twice in Junior Baseball League Playoffs

The Junior League baseball teams, McClymont Park and Fraser Street, started their playoffs with a double-header Sunday, McClymont winning both games by scores of 8 to 3 and 7 to 4. The games were very well contested as both teams had their best talent out.

In the second game Fraser Street had the game well in hand but McClymont came from behind to take the honors. Gillis of Fraser Street hit a home run.

Arney, Vuckovich, Bill and Hingston performed well for Fraser Street. For McClymont, Zbura, Santerbane, Simundsen, McDonald were stars.

Batteries for the first game were: Fraser Street—Vuckovich and Postuk; for McClymont—McDonald and Zbura.

Second game batteries were: Fraser Street—Arney, Vuckovich and Postuk; McClymont—Santerbane, McDonald, Simundsen and Zbura.

Musical Service In United Church

J. S. Wilson Was Speaker Last Evening And P. H. Linzey In Morning

The evening service in the First United Church Sunday was musical. Special items included a duet, "The King of Love my Shepherd Is" in which Mrs. R. G. Large and Mrs. H. T. Lock were heard to advantage, their voices blending splendidly in a fine interpretation. J. E. Davey gave a sympathetic rendition of "There Were Ninety and Nine." The choir presented the anthem "O How Amiable are Thy Dwellings." Hymns were chosen with a view to getting a good response from the congregation and the members entered fervently into the singing.

J. S. Wilson spoke on "Our Legacy of Hymns." Like Christianity itself the hymns must be equal to the demands of the times if they were to survive. They did this for the great hymn writers had been able to see past the temporary differences of creeds and vision the great eternal truths. From the ancient singing in the temples down to Reformation times hymns were a vital part of worship. The timelessness of many was indicated by Luther's great hymn "Ein Fest Burg" which might easily be applied to present times. It was based on the Forty-Sixth Psalm. The church had come down through the ages singing and the speaker claimed it would continue to do so.

In the morning P. H. Linzey was guests speaker and gave an inspiring talk on "The Power of the Spirit." The junior choir sang a pleasing number as well as giving a fine lead for the hymns.

HONORED BY PARTY

Some fifty friends gathered Sunday night at a delightful farewell dinner party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. William Millar who are leaving the city this Friday night to take up residence in Victoria. The affair took place in the Boston Cafe banquet hall and the feature of the proceedings was the presentation by Thomas McClymont, on behalf of those assembled, to Mr. and Mrs. Millar of a handsome fountain pen and a beautiful china cake dish. Suitable sentiments were expressed by Mr. McClymont and Mr. Millar responded.

Community singing, with S. C. Thomson and Mrs. C. E. Cullin presiding at the piano, and playing of games wound up the evening.

RED CROSS WEEK HERE

Prince Rupert Women Are Given Chance To Help British Air Raid Sufferers

The local Red Cross work-room has just received a large consignment of goods to be used in most part to make garments for air-raid victims in Great Britain. Thus an opportunity is presented to the women of Prince Rupert to do something practical to help the victims of Nazism.

A shipment of finished articles that went forward to the provincial Red Cross warehouse on Friday of last week had 82 articles for these air-raid victims. There were garments for women, children and infants. To date 511 such articles have been sent out from the local Red Cross branch and its affiliated units.

Included in this shipment were the first surgical supplies made locally. These comprised pads of various sizes, compresses, wipes and sponges—4460 items in all. In addition to the relief garments and surgical supplies, the shipment contained 158 knitted articles for hospital supplies.

The grand total of the work done by the Prince Rupert Red Cross branch and its affiliated units to date is 7909 items.

In view of the opening of the Red Cross campaign today, those who are interested in seeing for themselves how part of the money raised in those campaigns is expended may do so by calling at the workrooms and observing the work being done there.
