COMPULSORY REGISTRATION

Something that is sure to come pretty soon is compulsory registration of all persons—citizens or not citizens—who happen to be living in the country. This would enable the government to find out what possible material they might call upon for any special duties, military, naval or in any other capacity.

Just now there is a voluntary registration in progress which has already proved valuable. Discoveries have been made of men employed in very humble capacities who might have been doing very valuable work elsewhere. A government compulsory registration might be even better. It will have to come sooner or later, so why wait? The government of the country should have the history of every citizen at a time like this.

SPLENDID RESISTANCE

The planned retreat of the French army in France keeping up a steady retreat from an overwhelming enemy without breaking and holding them all the time and taking a heavy toll at every big engagement, is a historic strategic move. It is a form of battle that requires courage and endurance and evidently the French people have that. They are fighting for their own country in their own land and there is no weakening. Fighting against machines and bombs and with heavily armed forces outnumbering them all the time, they have been the wonder of the world. We shall always remember that stubborn resistance as one of the outstanding features of the war.

BOMBING OF GERMANY

So far in the air battles the British have had much the best of it. German military objectives in numerous cities have been bombed. Even Berlin has not escaped. Troop transports, munitions factories, oil bases and troops have all been subjected to effective attacks by the Royal Air Force and by French planes. All this time Britain has suffered very little, the enemy contenting himself with a few scattered bombs most of which have fallen wide of their mark. The British Isles have so far escaped almost wholly.

HELP FROM UNITED STATES

Already help from the United States is beginning to arrive. American planes have been active, flying from British and French bases and doing effective work. American airmen are enlisting in the Canadian and British forces and some of these are flying their planes across the Atlantic. Day after day we find the power of resistance to Nazi forces increasing. We can beat them man for man but they had the advantage of numbers, both of planes, men and ammunition. Gradually this is being rectified. Up to this time the Germans have been able to carry out their plans but they are nearing the end. Their extended lines are weakening and we should soon see a change in the situation. It is a righteous war and we cannot be beaten. We may lose a battle but we cannot lose the war if we all do our part.

WOMEN AT WORK NOW

Wives Of Ministers Among Those Taking Over Husbands Duties

By DILYS THOMAS

Canadian Press Staff Writer LONDON, June 14: (CP)—Business as usual is no mere slogan for a great many wives in this country. Increasing numbers are carrying on their husbands' jobs when the men are called up for service.

Many wives are found taking charge of small retail businesses but some operate service stations, hairdressing salons, bakehouses or even act as commercial travellers.

Two women have become Baptist ministers. One is Mrs. Ian R. Henderson, wife of the minister of Blonfield Memorial Baptist Church Benwell, Newcastle-on-Tyne. Her husband is a chaplain in the Royal Air Force.

Members of Blonfield Church decided unanimously to ask Mrs. Henderson to carry on in her husband's absence. She preaches on Sunday and holds wedding or funeral services as required.

Mrs. Wiles, wife of the minister of Burlington Baptist Church, Ipswich, already has conducted her first marriage service. It was a double wedding, the brides being the daughters of the choirmaster.

When Albert Stringer, boat repairer of Another Hants, joined up, he left behind a wife and five children. But that did not worry Mrs. Stringer. As well as doing the housework and looking after the children she finds time to repair between 40 and 60 pairs of boots and shoes a week.

The only training she had was watching her husband who, when he came home on leave, complimented his wife on the "professional finish" to her work.

In Suite of This Italian Liner Was Scuttled on Being Intercepted By British Ship

SYDNEY, Australia, June 13: (CP)—The Italian liner Romolo, which was set afire by her crew in mid-Pacific when intercepted by an Australian merchant cruiser, carried passengers and valuable cargo. At an Indian port the steamer Calabria was seized by the Indian government.

ITALIANS ARE BACK OF ALLIES

operate in anything that would tend to make a happier Canada, Empire and world. Local Italian people it was true found themselves in an embarrassing situation. He believed this was not merely because they thought of themselves but because they disagreed with Mussolini's declaration of war and events leading up to it. If the people at this meeting were not at heart opposed to the ideals of Mussolini they should not be at the meeting. The cardinal principle of Mussolini philosophy was that the individual should be sacrificed for the state. Such was diametrically opposed to the British democratic philosophy. Britons also prided themselves on playing the game fairly but this could not be allowed to "let the other fellow make a fool of us." The speaker could hardly believe that Mussolini could have gone so far unless the majority of the people of Italy approved of his principles. Apparently, Mussolini represented the spirit of the Italy of today although his philosophy was difficult indeed to reconcile with the traditions and historic ideals of the nation.

The Italians in Canada had come here, the speaker believed, to enjoy freedom of action and religion, economic security and peace. Many Italians had proven this and had made their contribution to this country. There was no good reason why those of Italian origin could not continue to live peacefully and harmoniously with Canadians. But the time had come when they must decide whether they were for or against Canada. There could be no middle course. Nor were mere words enough. Those words must be backed up by sympathies, ideals and possible action. If the impossible happened and Hitler and Mussolini won the war, would the Italians now here "fight with them or with us?" Canadians, and many of them knew the horrors of war, considered that to live under Hitler would be worse than to endure the horrors of war.

M. Wilson referred to statements that local Italians had been known to have made in the past expressing favor for Mussolini and his policies. Canadians remembered those statements and, naturally, wondered if the same views were still held secretly if not openly. If local Italians renounced such views and had common ideals with Canada and the British Empire, all could work together for a better world. If not, we should put them where they ought to be put."

Inspector Barber

Inspector C. G. Barber expressed some disappointment at the number present. The large majority of those present, he believed, could be relied upon but there was an element not present which should have been. He requested that each and every one of those present at the meeting give their own history sheet and also co-operate in advising the authorities of all Italians who were not present. The Inspector asked that all unnaturalized Italians call at his office without delay. It was required that all un-

Bright Yellow For R.A.F. S.O.S.

Contrast With Green Of Sea Makes It Valuable For Rescues

LONDON, June 14: (CP)—Because bright yellow is the most striking of all colors the Royal Air Force is using it more widely than ever, especially to facilitate search for R. A. F. crews forced down at sea. It has been used for a long time to distinguish R. A. F. trainer aircraft.

Inflatable dinghies carried by all service aircraft operating over water have been painted bright yellow and skull caps of a similar striking shade are supplied flying crews. The R. A. F. is experimenting with a chemical substance which will create a large yellow patch on the sea around a dinghy to guide searching aircraft.

After hearing Mr. Wilson and Inspector Barber, the resolution of allegiance and fealty was moved by Fred Lanza, seconded by Angelo Astori, and carried unanimously by the standing assembly.

After the collection for the Red Cross had been taken up, the meeting closed with the hearty singing of "God Save the King."

Hunt Wolves By Airplane

Alaskan Pilot Suggests It As Giving Hunter A Break

ANCHORAGE, Alaska, June 14: (CP)—Wolf hunting by airplane to protect Alaska's big game is advocated by Pilot Don Glass.

He declared that because hunters have to obtain the left front foot of a wolf to collect their $20 bounty, they are not likely to hunt in inaccessible areas because of the expense.

Don said he has seen wolves in ever-growing numbers during cross-country flights and that moose never travel singly any more because of the wolves, but are seen in bands of at least eight or more.

He suggested game commission officials might go along with the hunter-pilot to testify as to the number of wolves killed.

Will Encourage Low Grade Ores

Australia May Relieve Small Production Properties from Some Taxation

CANBERRA, June 14: (CP)—Australia's gold tax act may shortly be amended to exempt gold produced in low-grade mining enterprises from taxation. The move is designed to encourage gold production to improve the overseas exchange position. Treasurer Spendier said there was no intention of remitting the tax in the case of ordinary profitable gold mining enterprises.

SMITHERS

During the past week the Bulkley Valley has received a number of very nice showers of rain which have greatly benefitted the hay and grain crops. No heavy rains have arrived but, with the cool weather and the frequent light showers, the crops are now in a much better position although it is hoped that there will still be a good downpour to give some extra moisture.

Harold Berg of Wells is visiting at the home of his father, Peter Berg, at Smithers during his three weeks' vacation. Mr. Berg has been employed in the mill of the Cariboo Gold Quartz at Wells and is also official photographer for the company. He is active in orchestral work, having taken up the clarinet and saxophone while a boy in Smithers and in the Smithers Band. Mr. Berg is loud in his praise of the excellent management of the Cariboo Gold Quartz and the fine treatment given the employees of that company.

JASPER PK. IS OPENED

Popular Mountain Resort Expects Bigger Tourist Season

JASPER PARK LODGE, June 14—With every indication to the greatest tourist season in its history, Jasper Park Lodge, located in the heart of the Canadian Rockies, opens its doors on the 1940 season on Saturday. Manager Robert Sommerville completed all preliminaries today to take care of more than one hundred guests who arrive by the noon trains on Saturday.

Many changes are noted in connection with the lodge this year. A complete new road has been built during the winter which gives an entirely different entrance to the famous resort. This new road enters the lodge grounds from the east over a new bridge across the Athabasca River. Two stone pillars have been constructed at the entrance to the grounds.

Another new feature this year is the 12-mile new pony trail which makes a circle of the entire lodge property. This trail has a three-horse width and every stone has been taken up. This provides sure soft footing for the horses and offers the riders every type of riding from a walk to a swift canter. From the highest part of the new trail a splendid view of the lakes, rivers and golf course can be obtained. Major Fred Brewster has purchased a large number of new riding horses for use this summer in addition to his usual large stable.

Six new touring cars have arrived to add to the regular fleet. This was necessary because of the new drive from the lodge to the Columbia Icefield, possibly the most spectacular drive on the continent from a scenic point of view. A regular service will be maintained from Jasper to the icefield throughout the summer.

The famous golf course came through the season in first class shape and in the words of the greens keeper "there isn't a discolored blade of grass on the whole course." With the benefit of recent rains the fairways and greens are really in the finest shape they have been in for years. Speaking of golf Manager Sommerville announced today that he had one hundred and twenty-four reservations on hand already for the Totem Pole Golf Tournament next September.

Mr. Sommerville further stated that never before had there been such heavy reservation list at the lodge. "We will be working at practically full capacity for July and August with a very heavy carry over through September until the lodge closes. The Canadian Rockies are proving an excellent attraction."

Record For Longevity

Cousin of Local Man and Father of Terrace M.L.A. Compare Old Age Notes

Clarks Harbor notes in the Yarmouth (Nova Scotia) Telegram contain the following:

"J. L. Nickerson (Uncle Lennie as he is commonly called), spent his 93rd birthday quietly in his home on Thursday. Mr. Nickerson joined the Masonic Order here when he was 18 years old and has been a Mason for 75 years. It is doubtful if there is another in the Maritimes who can equal that record. Mr. Nickerson has not attended Lodge for some years, due to poor health, but he takes a keen interest in what is going on in the lodge."

Mr. Nickerson is a cousin of Sheriff S. A. Nickerson of Prince Rupert. Cart. D. V. Kenney of Victoria, father of E. T. Kenney M.L.A., is also a cousin of Mr. Nickerson and has a similar record, having passed his ninety-second birthday on June 6 and having been 72 years a member of the Masonic Lodge. These two probably establish some sort of a record in this respect.

ALL WELL WITH ARK

Paul Satko At Goose Bay Awaiting Good Weather Before Proceeding—Rough Crossing Of Chatham Sound

After crossing Chatham Sound in a storm, the Ark of Juneau, with Paul Satko, Alaska-bound Virginian and his family on board, is now at Goose Bay, a fishing camp on Dundas Island, awaiting more favorable weather conditions before continuing their voyage to Alaska. The story of the latest phase of the Ark's voyage was brought to Prince Rupert with the arrival during the night of the Clausen fish packer Rap I, Captain Franklin Stewart, which assisted the Ark across Chatham Sound.

Leaving Prince Rupert early Tuesday morning, the Ark became stuck on the Metlakatla sand bar at Tagwell Island at 6:20 that morning. The Rap I stood by and about 6 p.m. the Ark refloated and, accompanied by the Rap, headed toward Green Island. It turned out to be an unusually rough passage and, on reaching the lee of Green Island, Mrs. Satko and some of the children, having become extremely seasick, were taken aboard the Rap I on which they made the rest of the trip to Goose Bay. Anton Strand of the Rap I crew went aboard the Ark to assist Satko in navigating her into Goose Bay.

Since Tuesday the Ark has been at Goose Bay and was still there tied up at the Clausen fish camp, when the Rap I left for Prince Rupert yesterday afternoon. All on board were safe and comfortable again. Satko having resolved to remain there and await assurance of favorable weather before continuing on to Ketchikan.

New York Stock Market Goes Up

Bigest Single Day's Advance Since September Recorded

NEW YORK, June 14.—The New York stock market yesterday had its biggest single day's advance since the war began last September. Prices were up from one to nine points on the day's turnover of 1,360,000 shares. Yesterday there was an expected recession with losses of from one to three points when 880,000 shares changed hands. Geological Survey Will Be Conducted

Laing Arrives From Ottawa
Carry On Work In Omineca District

SITHERS, June 14:—Laing the Geological Survey of the Department of Mines at Ottawa arrived in Smithers and is making arrangements to proceed to the Hazelton and Omineca districts where he will conduct explorations in connection with gold properties and properties containing well known "war metals."

Laing is well known in this district as he has carried on geological work in this part of the country for several years. He soon left Hazelton where he will meet his pack train and ship it to Vanderhoof, proceeding from that point to Fort St. James and interior where he will work during the season.

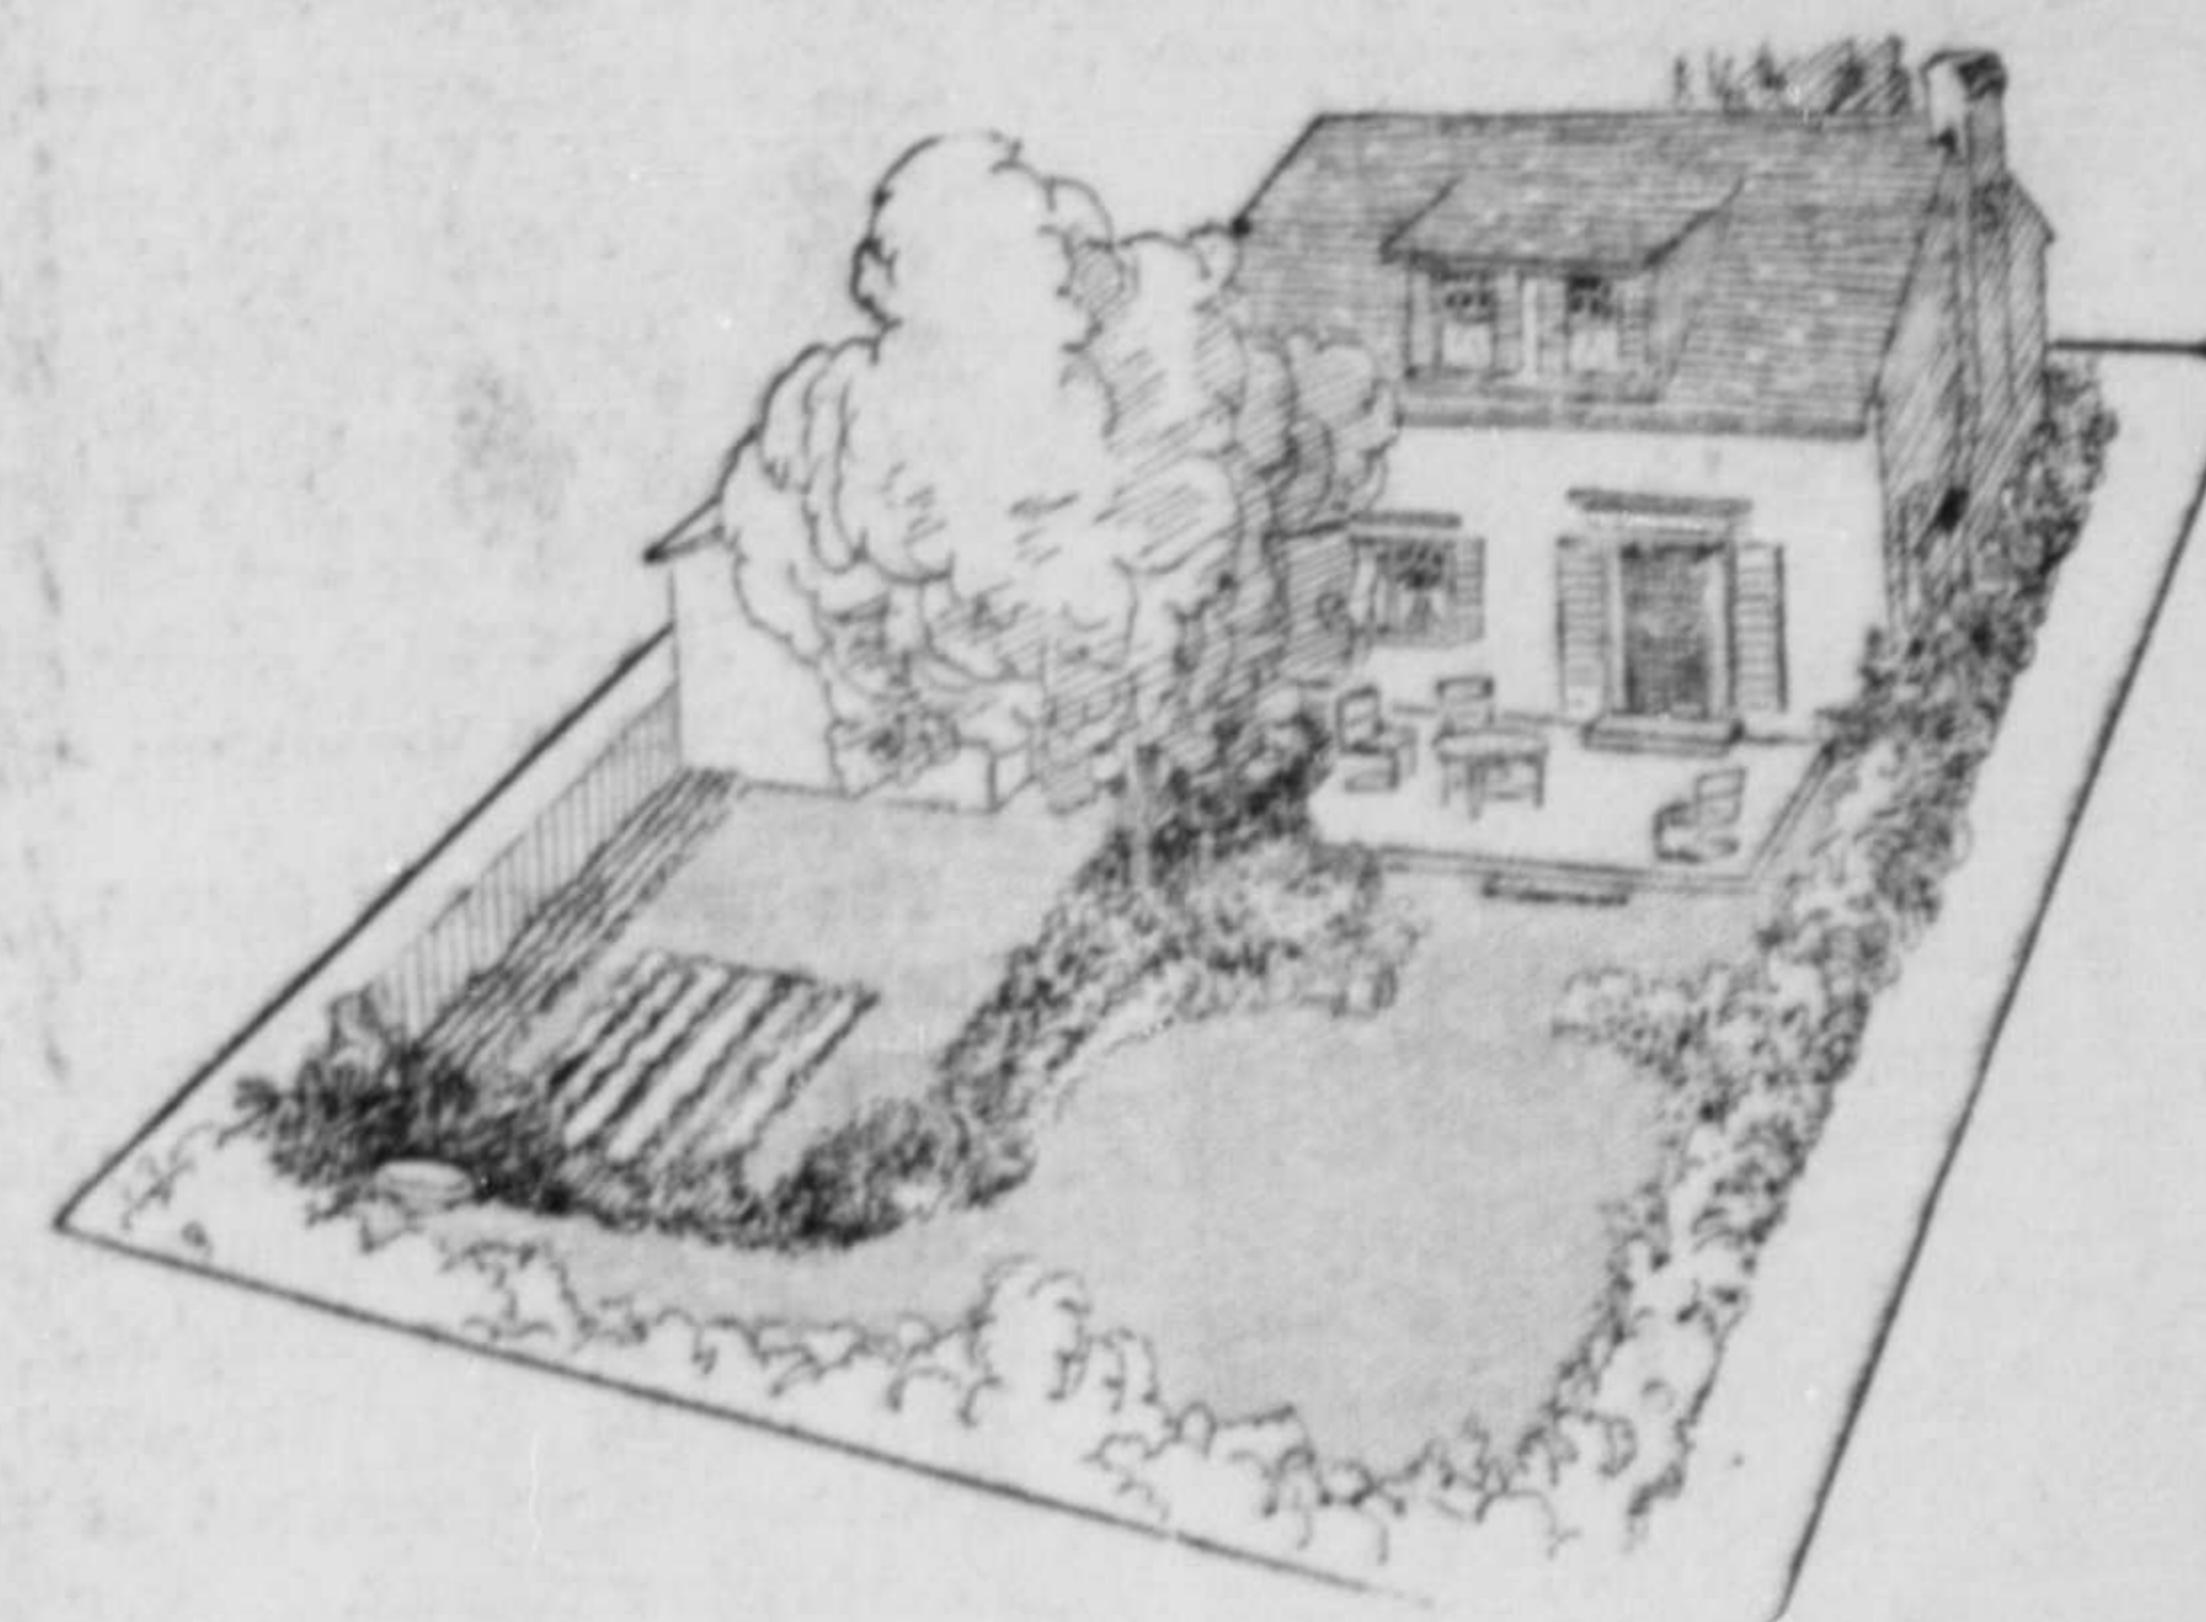

E. D. Kindle, who has worked in the Hazelton and Smithers areas for the past few years, will be working in the Northern district of Quebec and there will be no geological parties in the Hazelton or Smithers area this summer owing to the curtailment of geological work, due to the ending of such activities during the war.

GARDEN NOTEBOOK

SUITABLE FOR TWO CITY LOTS

How do you like this layout? It looks rather artistic, don't you think?

I am asked why I do not sometimes write about vegetables. The reason is obvious. I am not sufficiently interested in vegetables. My garden is not large enough for both flowers and vegetables and I prefer flowers. The only exception I make this year is in favor of broad beans. These do well here and are one of the finest vegetables that comes to the table.

Pansies and violas grow to perfection in Prince Rupert if the slugs can be kept out and if the blooms are picked off the plants as soon as they begin to fade. Pansies are usually larger than violas but they do not bloom quite as freely. There seems to be no definite dividing line between pansies and violas. The viola is a tufted pansy and is supposed to be a cross between a pansy and a violet. At any rate, for those who go in for masses of bloom, the viola is the plant to choose. Those who raise flowers for individual blooms should get the best possible strain of pansies. Buy seeds from a firm that specializes in pansies. This is a very good time to sow as the young plants will be strong enough to stand the winter well.

Last night I finished reading "Green Grows the City," by Beverly Nichols and I was rather struck with the last line of the book: "We both know, you and I, that if all men were gardeners, the world would be at peace."

RECALLS OLD WAR

Woman Recalls Driving Logging Team Over Gumbo Roads 23 Years Ago

CALGARY, June 14: (CP)—Before the war ends, even eight-year-olds may be called into service in Canada's war effort, thinks Freda Fullerton Purnal, who runs her own foothill ranch at Bragg Creek west of Calgary. Freda should know. During last war she was taking a man's place in government service when she was eight years old. She still thinks her unusual experiences rather a joke but she's quite willing to talk about them.

On the Alberta provincial employment lists for the summer of 1917 was "Freddy Fullerton, teamster, 107 hours."

"Freddy" who was Freda, was employed by a government bridge crew hauling bridge timbers 30 miles to Bragg Creek. Men were scarce in Alberta in 1917 and, when Freda Fullerton, Bragg Creek rancher, got the log hauling contract, he couldn't find a teamster so he took his small daughter along to drive a powerful team of gray thoroughbreds. At the end of the job, the foreman was ashamed to include a girl among his teamsters. "Freddy Fullerton" was entered in the government payroll.

"I still have very vivid recollections of it all," says Freda, who is still under five feet in height. She is now Mrs. Jerry Purnal. "The roads, especially 10 miles of gumbo, had the city teamsters terrified but I had driven over worse ones so often that I was insulted when the foreman suggested that I couldn't pull my horses through, even if the moon wheels did sink up to the axles in every hole. We left home at Bragg Creek about seven every morning and drove hard until noon when we met a team from Calgary."

Just Real Girl

Freda, for all her riding and driving ability and, incidentally, she was winning steer riding competitions at stampedos at that age, was otherwise a normal little girl.

"When the men transferred the load of five or six timbers to a wagon, I used to skip off and roam the nearby fields. I loved to lie in my tummy in the grass counting grasshoppers and ants and listening to meadow larks."

The next winter men were still scarce so the fragile-looking little girl with blue eyes climbed on a sleigh behind her team to haul two cords of wood 25 miles a day while the temperature sank to 30 below zero.

"I was only scared once," she remembers. "It was late spring and the snow had melted completely off the main road. So Dad decided to cut down a steep side hill trail to get as much snow as possible. He cut down all right but my sleigh hedged and tipped over. I leaped just as two cords of wood tore past me, ripping my coat tail. But I hung on to the reins which made me very proud. It's an unforgettable sin for a teamster to lose control of his horses."

Freda, now, is still driving over those same muddy roads, winter and summer. Besides running the ranch, as her husband is in Calgary, she brings the mail twice a week from Calgary in a truck, to the Bragg Creek neighborhood.

Grain Requires Tons Of Water

1,437 Pounds of Water Required For One Pound Of Wheat

SWIFT CURRENT, Sask., June 14: (CP)—Western farmers who hope for rain to aid their grain crops now can measure the value of the moisture when it comes.

Agricultural experts at the Dominion experimental station here have discovered after 15 years research work that in the prairie regions it requires 1,437 pounds of water for each pound of grain produced. The experiments were conducted on summer-fallow.

One inch of moisture spread over an acre of land represents 226,113 pounds of water, which on the basis of the above ration should produce 2.6 bushels of grain.

The tests also reveal that about 78 percent of the moisture is transpired by plants while the other 22 percent is lost by evaporation.

Island Government Has Been at War With Germany Since 1914

LONDON, June 14.—Canadian Press)—In the Isle of Man the state of war between the Empire and Germany never actually ended with the 1919 peace conference. A Manx pilot in the Royal Air Force fighter command told his messmates and supported his statement by producing a copy of an island paper.

"Having our own constitution and our own parliament, we are really a separate Dominion," he explained. "Whenever war broke out involving Britain, we declared war ourselves. We did it in 1914. But after the last war they forgot us at the conference and we didn't sign the peace."

"So when this war started there was no need for the Isle of Man to declare war on Germany. We were already in it."

day, became suddenly ill and died.

"Now, my lad," said the head of the house, "you must get rid of that dog you brought home a fortnight ago. He's a nuisance and barks too much."

"Oh, Dad!" began the youngster dolefully.

"Yes, get rid of him, and I'll give you half a crown."

The next day little Billy asked for the half-crown.

"He's gone, Dad," he explained. "Good!" said his father handing over the money. "How did you manage to get rid of him?"

"I swapped him for three puppies."

It was during the early days of the war and the sergeant-major had just been giving a particularly gory lesson on the use of the bayonet. The practice sack had been slashed and re-sashed and, by the close of the lesson, it was hanging in suggestive strips. "Yes, sir," a tremulous voice quavered. "How do you transfer to the R.A.M.C.?"

SACRIFICE FOR KIRK

Reports to General Assembly Sound Call to Replenish Coffers For Normal Activities

ST. CATHERINES, Ont., June 14: (CP)—Pulpit and pew alike should regard themselves as ambassadors for Christ to an age in which the triumph of paganism is a very real danger, said the report of the budget and stewardship committee of the Presbyterian Church in Canada at the 86th General Assembly here.

The committee urged "extra sacrifice to be made for the duration of the war and, so long as its effects last, to meet the appeals incident thereto so as to avoid diminishing those contributions upon which the Church has learned to depend for the prosecution of the enterprises necessary to the promotion of God's glory and humanity's good."

Budget estimates of the Board of Administration recommended there be no reduction in the budget estimates for the ensuing year and that the amount of $500,000 be set as an objective for 1941 to cover the Church's work at home and abroad.

Reporting the results of an "allocations questionnaire," mailed to presbyteries and congregations, the budget and stewardship committee said: "This survey would seem to indicate that the Church, under present conditions of interests and enthusiasm, will contribute to the budget approximately $290,000 per year. The Church would seem to desire a general lowering of the allocation."

Stewardship Ideals

The committee submitted, if the basis of the annual contribution is really between $290,000 and $300,000, expenses must be cut 10 to 20 per cent. The only Board which could cut and continue its functions was the Board of Missions and it could continue only by cutting the grants and reducing the minimum stipend.

"The other alternative is to continue the process of education" of our people with the enthusiastic assistance of our ministry that the people's idea of stewardship may be raised and their contributions to the general work of their Church correspondingly increased."

The report praised the work of the Moderator, Rev. Dr. Stuart C. Parker, whose speaking tours of the Dominion and his leaflets had very effectively shown the depth of his appreciation of the world's need of the Church's message in these fatal times.

It was emphasized the committee expected some effect on the normal finances of the Church by the large number of appeals for war relief funds. Foreseeing this, the committee "strongly urged that our people should not allow their response to these extra appeals, legitimate though they be, to tell against woodwork makers."
