German Demands and Allied Blockades Complete Nightmare for Southeast Europe

NEW YORK, Jan. 23. (AP)—The bitter and highly vulnerable Balkans are engaged in a desperate economic warfare which is playing an important and, perhaps, decisive role in the struggle between Germany and the allies.

The pounds sterling and francs lavishly spent, the pyramiding threats and pressure strains, the troublebreeding spies and propagandists, and the revival of traditional jealousies of the land-hungry Balkans daily add fuel to the conflagration they fear will leave the map of southeastern Europe unrecognizable.

Germany's mounting demands for more and still more food and munitions, conflicting Russian and Italian dreams of empire, and Anglo-French blockades and manoeuvres designed to isolate the Germans politically and economically are fashioning themselves into a Balkan nightmare.

Political unrest sprouting from their strangled trade and enforced economies, racial minority dangers, and enforced and ruinously costly mobilization of armies add to the Balkan headaches.

The Germans have broadcast that their major aim in southeastern Europe is to have the Balkan nations maintain peace and neutrality so that they may continue supplying Germany with food and munitions. Rumania's oil is essential to Germany's preparedness for the spring.

All Balkan countries have bowed to German demands, sending increased quotas of products and granting Germany more favorable exchange rates.

Before the war Germany dominated Balkan trade, at times accounting for more than half of the nations' commerce, taking Balkan tobacco, wheat, raisins, fats, oil and meat and paying for them in iron, steel, coal, sugar, chemicals and manufactured products.

Nazi Handcuffed

Blockaded by sea, severely handicapped in overland transportation, and lacking foreign exchange, Germany is no longer able to purchase and transport Balkan products in quantities needed.

Trade and commerce are an immediate economic necessity for every Balkan country and neutral observers expect the policies and ultimate position in the European struggle of each will hinge largely on which warring aggregation provides the greatest practical assistance.

Turkey's trade with Germany (50 to 60 per cent of its total) has been cut off by the blockade. The British and French have pledged Turkey liberal economic and financial assistance.

In return for Turkey's signature to a pact guaranteeing passage of allied vessels through the Dardanelles, Turkey has been granted armament, trade and currency stabilization credits of approximately $200,000,000.

The Balkans, working like beavers to satisfy the allies and Germany, are praying that the war will soon end.

ROME, Jan. 24.—In an interview yesterday with a London newspaper, Pope Pius reiterated the statement made a few days ago to President Franklin D. Unanimously Named President of Poland in Exile—Arrives in Paris From Switzerland

PARIS, Jan. 23. (CP)—Ignace Jan Paderewski, world-famed pianist, was elected president of Poland's national council—the Parliament of Poland in exile—today. The choice of the aged and infirm eighty-year-old musician, who was the first Premier of Poland after the First Great War, who arrived today from Switzerland where he has been living in seclusion, was unanimous. He said that he "prayed before God that my nation will be restored."

Finns Holding Firm Despite Terrific Russ Bombardment Of Line; Red Losses Heavy

HELSINGFORS, January 23. (CP)—The Finnish high command reports at least 1000 Russians killed in a number of futile attempts yesterday to crack Finnish resistance on the Kerelien Isthmus and the eastern front. Behind terrific artillery fire, said by military observers to be comparable with some of the heaviest bombardments of the Great War, the Russians failed in the effort to break through the Mannerheim Line. Successive waves of artillery and infantry attacks were repelled by the Finnish defenders. Shells were fired by the Russians, it is said, at a rate of three or four to the second. Moscow confirms heavy artillery fighting.

North of Lake Ladoga, there were also Russian attacks but they were repelled with estimates of Russian dead going as high as 600. Meantime the Russians are reported by the Finns to be continuing aerial bombings regardless of whether or not their objectives are of military value, even machine gunning civilians. Night air raids have been started. Silver bullets are being used.

Two Russian warships are reported lying crippled at Kronstadt naval base today as a result of the effective fire of Finnish shore guns at Hondo which the Soviet ships had endeavored to storm. It has also been confirmed that the big Russian battleship Kiroff, reported a month ago to have been badly hit, has sunk at an Estonian base.

A Finnish official statement says that there have been 9500 Finnish casualties—2500 killed and 7000 wounded—since the war began. The Soviet casualties are claimed to number 150,000. During the week of January 14-20 it is estimated that 450 Russian planes dropped 6667 bombs on Finnish cities, towns and farms. For each Finn civilian killed it is estimated the Russians lost two planes and six fliers. The Russians are evidently endeavouring in some air attacks to disrupt Finnish railroads which are important supply lines.

Russia yesterday resumed broadcasting of alarms that the Germans were coming and would kill every Finn.

AGREEMENT HOPED FOR

Satisfactory Arrangement For Lumber Freight Rates Across Canada Expected

OTTAWA, Jan. 23. (CP)—An agreement on the schedule of freight rates for hauling of lumber by rail from British Columbia to the Atlantic seaboard for export is expected shortly but negotiations are still in progress, it was learned today. Reduced railway rates have been sought in view of British Columbia lumber shipments to Great Britain being tied up by lack of vessels.

LONDON, Jan. 23. (CP)—British film circles look to wartime restrictions on American film earnings here to boost the British film industry to permanent prosperity. Nearly $20,000,000 of these earnings, bottled up here under an agreement with the government dictated by Britain's need for conserving foreign credits for the purchase of vital war materials, are expected to be put into production of British films next year.

ARMY'S SET-UP FROM DIVISION TO SQUAD ON FOOT; TERMS ELUCIDATED

Military Command And Organization Made Plain for Civilian Reader of Current News

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, January 23. (CP)—As the manhood of the Empire again mobilizes for war a bewildering succession of military terms greets the eye of the casual reader. Recruits entering the army learn their meaning by experience and instruction but civilians are sometimes confused. A glance through the organization of the Canadian Active Service Force provides concrete illustrations of the meaning of the commoner terms.

Canada has two divisions mobilized, one in England and one at home. The division is the largest Canadian military organization at present and contains about 12,500 men, divided among artillery, engineer, signals, infantry and service units of different functions. It is commanded by a major-general.

The recent sinking of the Swedish vessel Flken, 1304-ton, was also disclosed today.

The British Admiralty announced yesterday that the toll of war at sea to date had reached a total of 268 ships of eighteen nations with a total tonnage of 1,000,300. Great Britain has lost 131 vessels for a total of 493,634 tons and Germany twenty-four for a total of 140,595. RETURN OF SEAMEN IS DEMANDED

Japan Says It Takes Serious View Of British Seizure Of Germans From Nipponese Ship

TOYKO, Jan. 23.—Japanese authorities take a serious view of the incident of the halting of the liner Asama Maru close to the Japanese coast and removing 21 seamen who were travelling as passengers enroute home via Japan and Russia. It is described as an "unfriendly act" and today it was announced that the Japanese foreign minister would insist on return of the seamen who had been taken by the British warship.

It is not said whether the protest Japan has made was inspired by public opinion or Nazi advice.

In London it is suggested that there is a behind the scenes campaign to arouse Japanese public opinion and that the German embassy in Tokyo has something to do with it. It is pointed out that Japan does not contest the right of the British to seize the men from neutral vessels if they may be deemed valuable in military service to the enemy. That this is permissible under the international laws of warfare is contended by the British. The Japanese protest will be answered on this ground.

TO BUILD NO SHIPS

Tenders Prepared in Vancouver For Local Yard Were Much Too High

At a meeting of the council of the Prince Rupert Chamber of Commerce held in the City Hall last evening it was disclosed that, while seven small ships were to be built on the Pacific Coast, none were to be built at Prince Rupert so the Chamber is taking further action to secure information and see if it may not yet be possible to secure at least one contract. W. M. Watts presided and there was a good attendance of members.

Correspondence was read showing what steps had been taken so far in connection with these contracts. The Board had wired Premier T. D. Pattullo who was in Ottawa asking him to help and he had wired back immediately accepting the task and later had sent an air mail communication telling the Chamber how matters stood. Of the fifteen contracts to be awarded just now, seven were allotted to Pacific Coast yards but the difference between the Prince Rupert tender and the tenders for southern yards was so great that none came here. Mr. Pattullo said that, if the Prince Rupert tender could be scaled down, he would do his best to try to secure a contract but at the prices quoted he did not think it possible.

The Chamber, after receipt of the letter, got in touch with the superintendent of the dry dock and found that the Prince Rupert tender was prepared in Vancouver and the local staff knew nothing about it. A copy of a letter sent by G. W. Nickerson to Olof Hanson M.P. was read. It was a long communication and dealt with the question at length. Mr. Nickerson complained bitterly of the action of C.N.R. officials at Vancouver, repeating what he had said at a previous meeting. He said the company had been willing to lease the plant but, evidently, did not want to get contracts for the yard so had bid so high that contracts were impossible.

Several speakers agreed with the views of Mr. Nickerson as expressed in the letter and it was finally decided to first communicate with G. A. McMillan, formerly superintendent here, and find out exactly how the matter stood.

THE USUAL STORY

Dr. R. E. Coleman, in his letter published yesterday, gives us the usual story about what will happen if we do not prevent people undermining the morale of Canadians while the war is going on. He draws a picture of the destruction of the Communist party, the C.C.F. and all civil rights. He might possibly not know that the Communist party has already been very nearly destroyed and the C.C.F. very greatly weakened by the stand taken by some of its leaders in connection with the war.

Judging from the tone of Dr. Coleman's letter he does not believe that winning the war is important. Even at the cost of introducing some temporary restrictive measures, even that would be better than giving the Germans and Russians a free hand in this old world.

Most Canadians, we feel sure, are loyal to the cause we have set before us. They realize that today we are fighting in a righteous cause and are determined to win in spite of the efforts of a few parlor socialists and communists whose sympathies appear to be with the enemy and who seem to be opposed to all Canadian institutions.

Many Prince Rupert people are sending their sons overseas to fight for world freedom while a few, very few, stay at home and snipe at them and sneer from under the protection of the British flag. These are the same people who jibed at Neville Chamberlain for trying his best to keep the peace in Europe and also the people who would have sent Britons to fight in Spain.

We all know that war is a horrible thing and that, when there is war, many injustices and barbarities are committed. What could have been more barbarous than the rape of Poland by Germany or the recent invasion of Finland by Russia? It is to prevent these conditions recurring that young Canadians are going to Europe to fight.

There is a time for everything. This is the time to win the war. After the war we shall have to try to improve social conditions in this country, including a more equal division of wealth. Just now everything that stands in the way of the great objective must be set aside.

INCREASED CIRCULATION

Since the commencement of the war the circulation of the Daily News has increased to such an extent that the press run each day has been over two thousand copies. Not once has it dropped below that number since early in September but often it has been considerably more. Recently the auditor from Chicago, representing the Audit Bureau of Circulations, spent two days in the city auditing the circulation books of this paper and he was surprised at the large street sales. While this increased circulation does not mean an increase of the net income to the paper, owing to the low price at which it is sold, it does mean increased value of the advertising. The city circulation has shown the greatest increase. Even since Christmas there have been many new subscribers added to the list.

If you lose anything, advertise for it.

RED BOMBER DOWN BEHIND FINNISH LINES

The big red star seen on the fuselage of this grounded plane designates it as a unit in the Soviet Air Force. It is a bomber, one of the many sent on death-dealing missions to terrify the Finns, grounded behind the Finnish lines near Viborg, key city of Finland at one extremity of the unbroken Mannerheim line of defence.

SPORT CHAT

Bela de Tuscan, internationally known fencing master, has perfected an electrical device to illuminate fencing foils when a valid "touch" is made. With it he hopes to modernize the age-old sport to the extent that it can rival in spectator appeal such attractions as tennis and boxing. "To the spectators, if any," the former sabre-champion of the Hungarian army said, "fencers are just two idiots standing on a mat and poking at each other with iron sticks." To make things worse, the action is so fast three or four referees and judges must crowd around the fencers to watch for valid hits.

The electrical foils look like any other except that the hand guard, instead of metal, is a milky white translucent plastic substance. It has a rounded tip of copper, with a recessed centre and a tiny wire set flush into the metal on one hand of the tapering blade. The wire leads into the milky guard, and a coil relay furnish the light which illuminates the hand guard the instant a hit is made on the opponent. The light is switched off by means of a small button on the guard. To complete the outfit, the fencers wear bodices of metal cloth, covering that portion of the torso which constitutes a valid target in international fencing rules.

Five thousand Prince Rupert people read the Daily News. It pays to let them know what you have to sell.

ARMY'S SET-UP FROM DIVISION TO SQUAD

of an army corps which consists of two or more divisions.

The officer commanding a battalion, whether rifle or machine gun, is a lieutenant-colonel. Each battalion consists of four companies, each under the command of a major or captain. Each company consists of three platoons, each commanded by a lieutenant, and each platoon of three sections, each in charge of a corporal.

Divisional artillery is in progress of reorganization. The old set-up, still in effect in Canada, provides for three brigades, each consisting of four batteries, one using howitzers and three using field guns. A howitzer is a short-barrelled gun used for firing projectiles high in the air in order to pass over obstacles such as hills, woods or buildings. It has a high "trajectory" the term used by gunners to denote the elevation reached by a projectile in the air before striking its objective. The field gun has a longer barrel, a flatter trajectory, and a greater range than a howitzer.

Each battery consists of a number of sections of two guns or howitzers each. A battery is commanded by a major, while a lieutenant commands a section and a sergeant heads a sub-section or the crew of a single gun.

The new set-up now being placed in effect with the first overseas division in England provides for three field regiments in divisional artillery. Each regiment are organized in details.

consisted of two batteries and each battery of a number of "troops" while each troop includes a number of sections. Divisional engineers are organized in companies.

Regimental Organization

This summary of the formations included in a division makes no mention of two terms used both in and out of the army, regiment (in reference to infantry) and squad. A regiment is a recruiting organization and may include one or more battalions. In former years most of the regiments of the non-permanent militia included at least two battalions, one called the active and one the reserve battalion. A few years ago all but two were put on a one-battalion basis.

The regiments mobilized for the first and second divisions were called upon to provide battalions at war strength. Each infantry unit of the first division left behind in Canada a nucleus of all ranks which is called a depot.

"Squad" is a term used freely to designate any small body of troops, usually when they are in training. Thus a squad may be a group ranging from a half-dozen to 50 men, receiving instruction in drill, bayonet fighting, or rifle shooting.

Another term sometimes used is "detail." It designates a small group of men detached from their regular unit for some special duty.

The men called up from the non-permanent militia units to guard air stations, docks, canals, bridges for three field regiments in divisional artillery. Each regiment are organized in details.

TRAIN IS DERAILED

Three Railwaymen Sustain Slight Injuries When Work Train Leaves Track Near Here

Engineer Merton Crandell sustained a bruised right shoulder, Fireman J. M. Cheater an injured ankle and Harry Haftner, ditcher watchman, a sprained left ankle at 4:30 this morning when a Canadian National Railway work train derailed on a small bridge near the west switch at Kwintsa station in the lower Skeena valley. There had been a small fire in the bridge and this, it is believed, caused rail displacement and threw the train off. Engine, tender and water car crossed the bridge and went over on their side on the other side. A few cars stayed on the bridge although derailed. The train was eastbound from Prince Rupert to Pacific.

It is presumed that the engineer and fireman jumped. The injured are expected in the city this afternoon. It was stated at railway offices that they were not seriously hurt.

Steps are being taken to remove the derailed equipment and repair the bridge.

The train due from the East at 11 o'clock tonight is expected to be several hours late, probably not getting in until some time well on into tomorrow morning.

MAJORITY ARE SAFE

All Passengers and Most of Crew of Burned Italian Liner Are Safe

GENOA, Jan. 23: (CP)—Italian officials announced today, following landing of over 500 survivors here, that all 412 passengers and most of the crew of the 11,669-ton Italian motorship Orazio, which burned in the Mediterranean off the French coast, had been rescued. Seventy crew members are still missing. Some are known to have died of exposure, others being drowned while transferring in boats on the rough sea.

Half a dozen ships, including British and French war vessels, assisted in the rescue work which was hampered by heavy seas. The Italian liners Biancamano and Colombo arrived here with the survivors from Marseilles and Toulon where the rescue vessels landed them.

About half of the survivors are suffering from burns, exposure or injuries.

The cause of the explosion which preceded the fire is still undetermined. The French Foreign office yesterday denied a German charge that the explosion and fire was due to sabotage. French naval and commercial ships were among the first rescuers, it was pointed out.

The general agreement is that the sinking was caused by an explosion cause of which is undetermined.

IMPROVING YOUNG MEN

Experts Told Objective Of National Forestry Program

OTTAWA, Jan. 23: (CP)—Thousands of young Canadian men work each summer in Canadian forests under the national forestry program to reduce fire hazards and dress up the woodlands as a tourist attraction, D. Roy Cameron of the Dominion Forest Service, Ottawa, told the Canadian Society of Forestry Engineers in convention here today.

"There has been some misunderstanding in the public mind as to the true aims of the National Forestry program," said Mr. Cameron. "The primary objective is not to train forest workers but rather to increase the morale and physical fitness of the enrollees and to give them confidence in their ability to handle themselves in any work they may secure."

"The purpose of the forestry instruction given is twofold: first, to enable the enrollees to understand the reason for the work they are doing; and second, through the enrollees, to spread a knowledge of the value of our forests among the general public."

Many Camps
There were 27 Dominion government camps and a number of similar camps operated by the provinces which share the program with the central government. Government forestry experts lectured the boys and physical training instructors kept them fit, he said.

There is plenty of leisure time for studies and recreation and in working hours the boys cut roads and trails, lay telephone lines, build fire patrol towers and clean out underbrush and dead or malformed trees along the tourist routes.

Some work crews build tourist camps, lay out ski runs and build dams in streams to improve fishing. Enrollees frequently are attached to regular government forestry parties to gain actual experience in forestry work, including insect surveys, tree diseases, inspection trips and fire hazard surveys.

Women's Canadian Club Has Meeting

Mrs. G. Wharton of Victoria spoke interestingly before the Women's Canadian Club in the City Hall last night on the aims and functions of the Women's Service Club which she is engaged in organizing. Among the activities for special war service in which women were being trained were first aid, mechanics, signalling etc.

Following Mrs. Wharton's address, A. Turnbull, inspector of schools, showed several beautiful and interesting reels of colored moving pictures showing, among other things, the visit of the King and Queen to New Westminster, the San Francisco Exposition and scenes on Vancouver Island and in the Canadian Rockies.

Mrs. J. D. Fraser, the president, was in the chair and thanked Mrs. Wharton and Mr. Turnbull.

AMERICAN ATTITUDE

Editor, Daily News:
It is my privilege at the present time to be a resident of the city of Prince Rupert, as pastor of the local Lutheran Church. I am an American citizen, and therefore, in a way, a guest in Canada. I enjoy living here. We have already learned to know and to establish friendships of genuine worth with many of the citizens, of many racial origins. We have friends and relatives in provinces farther east. For a number of years we used to make trips to Port Arthur, Ont., every summer, and we came to love the country and the people. It is my endeavour, while living and serving here, to contribute all I can to the good of the community and also in order to reflect genuine good-will of an American citizen towards our nearest and most sincerely appreciated and highly respected neighbors—the people of Canada.

There is one thing, however, that to me has seemed unfortunate and hardly justified. That is the apparent disapproving attitude of the editor of The Daily News over against the United States. There have been numerous editorials, not only informative and analytical of events and conditions in the United States, but also containing statements that in my opinion have been unkind and unfortunate. Reference could be made to repeated statements regarding the motives for the American attitude to the people of Finland—Also, a few nights ago the statement was made editorially that "the dollar is the God of the American people." In Monday's issue some very drastic remarks were made about the late Senator Borah. The Senator was not a "yes" man. He served his country in the Senate long and faithfully, and with outstanding ability. He was a fearless champion for what he thought set for the welfare of his country. Undoubtedly, he made mistakes. Who does not? But, never did even his most bitter opponents, in principle or in debate, have any negative remark or charge to bring against his purpose, honesty and nobility of character.

Just these last days the people of the United States have stood with tear-dimmed eyes at the bier of the venerable Senator. It seemed rather surprising that the editor of this paper found it right just now to indicate such tremendous charges against the Senator, as contained in the recent editorial.

We, as individuals and as public or semi-public forums, have it in our power to create and mould public opinions and attitudes, both respecting local communities, and in a larger sense. The little things count, and accumulate. It is our privilege to think and speak well of one another. In that way, goodwill, mutual understanding, consideration, respect, harmony and peace shall continue to increase, as always, in the hearts and lives of the people of Canada and the people of the United States.

KING WINTER IS TOUGH ON U-BOATS

Not the most pleasant job under any circumstances, work aboard submarines in the near-Arctic regions at this time of year holds extra hardships for crews of the underwater craft. This is a German submarine, pictures at its base at Kiel, after returning from a cruise in the Baltic Sea, ice-encrusted from stem to stern. The ice forms when the submarine comes to the surface and makes navigation and effective torpedo or gunfire, should they be necessary, next to impossible.

GOOD YEAR IN CHURCH

First Presbyterian Congregation In Annual Session Last Night—Facing Building Renovation

Reports presented last night at the annual congregational meeting of First Presbyterian Church showed the year 1939 to have been a generally satisfactory one in the affairs of the church, financial and otherwise. The financial statement showed a surplus of revenue over expenditure with some further progress made in debt liquidation. The membership showed an increase over the preceding year and the most of the church's activities were carried on with vigor. The meeting decided to go into the possibility of instituting necessary repairs and improvements to the church building this year and asked the board of managers to obtain an estimate of cost and, if possible, devise ways and means of financing at least some of the work.

The board of managers for 1940 will be unchanged from last year consisting of J. A. Teng, Harry Calderwood, James Hadden, W. L. Sandison, R. R. Strachan, Duncan McKenzie, G. C. Mitchell, W. L. Coates, E. J. Smith and James Simpson.

Trustees were re-elected in the persons of Mr. Justice A. M. Manson and George R. Naden. W. W. C. O'Neill and H. M. Foote were re-elected as congregational secretary and congregational treasurer, respectively and W. D. Vance and D. C. Stuart were named auditors.

Reports For Year

The report of the moderator, Rev. H. G. Funston, stated that the Presbyterian Church had received as much support from its members and adherents as had any other church in the city and certain progress and advancement had been made but this should not make the church and congregation feel self-satisfied. He urged the congregation not to sacrifice the church work for other considerations but appealed to all to carry on in the endeavour to make their church a real light in the community.

The report of the session showed a membership of 125 which was an increase over last year, particularly among the young people. Thanks were extended to the pastor, Mrs. E. J. Smith and the choir and all those who had assisted in church work including those who had relieved in the pulpit during the absence of the pastor.

The report of the board of managers, presented by E. J. Smith, referred to the faithful functioning of committees and the assistance of the Ladies' Aid. The Women's Auxiliary, report for which was presented by Mrs. J. A. Teng, showed a successful year with a substantial sum given the board of managers. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. James Hadden, showed that $755.62 had been raised.

Other reports were presented as follows:

Budget Treasurer, Samuel Massey.

Women's Missionary Society, Mrs. Harry Calderwood, secretary, and Mrs. D. C. McRae, treasurer. Sunday School, C. G. Ham, superintendent, and E. J. Smith, treasurer. Sunday School enrolment was shown at 94.

Crade Roll, Mrs. Robert Cameron.

Bible Class and Young People's Society, Rev. H. G. Funston. Choir, Mrs. James Simpson. Financial report, H. M. Foote.

Formal votes of thanks were extended to organizations of the church and to the pastor, Rev. H. G. Funston.

Mr. Funston occupied the chair and conducted the devotional portion of the meeting.

More Chance Of Fine Day Every Year If World Calendar Adopted

When and if a new calendar is adopted, every year will have an equal chance of parading forth a fine Easter in Spring. But until then the day may be anytime between March 21 and April 25, as it will be in 1943.
