Official Statement—

STIMSON OUT FOR CONVOYS

Safe Delivery Of War Materials To Great Britain Must Be Insured Declares War Secretary

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7: (CP)—Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox said today that the United States Navy is "readier now than ever" to undertake the job of assuring delivery of war supplies to Great Britain if and when assigned to such duty. The Navy department chief made the statement in commenting on a speech last night by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson in which Stimson advocated the use of the United States Navy to assure victory for Great Britain in the Battle of the Atlantic.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 7:—Speaking with the approval of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson declared himself in favor of immediate use of the United States Navy to make the sea secure for delivery of American war materials to Great Britain.

It would be unwise to run the risk of allowing Great Britain to be defeated by the Axis, Stimson declared. The United States could not afford to let the British Navy lose its control of the seas, a control which for one hundred years had been the principal defence of the United States.

Further, it was inconsistent to produce goods and not use the means of effecting their safe delivery.

United States security was dependent on a British victory, Stimson declared.

NELSON, Eng., May 7: (CP)—John McGovern, fiery M.P. for Glasgow-Shettles, told the Independent Labor Party annual conference here he had refused to do fire-watching at the House of Commons.

BECOMES PREMIER

Joseph Stalin Assumes Office From V. M. Molotov

MOSCOW, May 7.—Dictator Joseph Stalin, in a surprise announcement yesterday assumed the Premiership of Russia from V. M. Molotov. Although he has been, as secretary general of the Communist party the actual power in the government, this is the first time in seventeen years that Stalin has held a government office.

Molotov continues in the government as vice-president and commissar of foreign affairs.

There is speculation that the change, cause of a sensation throughout the world may imply a further cooling off in relations between Russia and Germany. However, Moscow gives no indications of a change of policy.

Blind Air Warden Rescues Victims

Arthur Small of Liverpool Doing His Bit in Spite of Handicap

LIVERPOOL, May 7: (CP)—People call Arthur Small "the man with the merry eyes." Yet he is Liverpool's only blind air raid warden. He has helped rescue people from bombed houses and guided injured to the nearest doctor.

Off duty one night he and his wife heard the crump of high explosives. "Let's go out and see if we can help," he said. They put two old women, bombed out of their home, under the stairs and went out.

Soon after a heavy bomb wrecked the house. Dodging bomb splinters, Small and his wife hurried back and rescued the old women.

CHECK UP ON HOUSES

Housing Problems to be Implemented by Information From Their Returns

OTTAWA, May 7: (CP)—Census enumerators this year will make a special check on every 10th house they visit, asking detailed questions as to its condition and value. By this means information wanted for Canadian housing programs will be assembled.

Instructions to enumerators issued here by the trade and commerce department give advice as to how the condition of a building can be decided.

A dwelling is considered to be in need of major repair if there are sagging or rotting foundations causing walls to crack or lean; if shingles on a single roof are warped and missing or there is another type of leaking roof; if the chimney is cracked or there are bricks missing, or if the outside steps or stairways are unsafe.

The enumerator is advised that this question of major repairs should be answered chiefly from observation rather than by questioning. In giving the estimated value of a building, the enumerator is asked to remember that "this value will be the amount that this dwelling would sell for on June 2, 1941, if the owner were willing to sell to a willing buyer in competition with similar dwellings."

GT. BRITAIN CAN'T LOSE

But Length of War Will Depend Upon Measure Of United States Aid, Says Premier Menzies Of Australia

NOW IN OTTAWA
OTTAWA, May 7: (CP)—Prime Minister R. G. Menzies of Australia, fresh from a visit to Great Britain, arrived in Ottawa from New York today by special train.

NEW YORK, May 7:—Great Britain cannot lose the war, declared Premier R. G. Menzies of Australia on arriving here yesterday from England enroute to Ottawa but the speed with which she wins depends upon the action taken by the United States. It was up to this country whether or not it would be a long drawn out war.

Naturally, Menzies said, he felt that United States should convey its goods to Great Britain although that was a matter for United States itself to decide.

If Great Britain should go down, United States, like Australia, would stand alone against the dictators.

POSITION IMPROVED

Great Britain Wrests Back Control Of Oil Line From Iraq. It is Announced In London

LONDON, May 7:—The British position in Iraq is greatly improved, it was stated today. Control of the Mosul-Haifa oil line has been wrested back from the Iraqis. It is expected here that Germany will send aid to the Iraqis but, so far, it has not been forthcoming.

British Imperial forces yesterday ejected the enemy from positions overlooking the British-occupied airdrome at Habbaniyah in Iraq, Middle East headquarters in Cairo announced today. Besides breaking the Iraqis' incursion front at Habbaniyah, the British forces wrested control of the vital Mosul-Haifa oil pipeline from the Iraq troops, the official communique said. British forces at Habbaniyah were backed up by howitzers flown in by the Royal Air Force.

LIVERPOOL HIT AGAIN; CLYDE TOO

Central and Western Scotland As Well as Northern Ireland Subjected to Nazi Attack

LONDON, May 7.—Liverpool and the Merseyside area were bombed for the sixth straight night last night by swarming Nazi raiders but the attack was not quite as heavy, however, as on preceding night and not so many bombs were dropped. Central and Western Scotland were also attacked as well as North Ireland in widespread raids. London had two alarms but no planes were sighted.

It was officially announced today that the attack on Glasgow and the Clyde had been heavy, that considerable damage had been done and casualties were feared numerous. Eight German planes were brought down during the night.

EVACUEES' GUARDIAN

Will Consider Bill Providing Officials to Act in Canada and the United States

LONDON, May 7: (CP)—A bill providing for appointment of an official guardian for British children sent to the United States under the auspices of the United States Committee and for children sent to Canada by the Children's Overseas Reception Board is to be introduced in Parliament.

It is expected the guardian in the United States will be Lord Halifax, the British Ambassador. In Canada, either Malcolm Macdonald, the new British High Commissioner, or one of the Canadian cabinet ministers will act as official guardian.

According to the semi-official Press Association, the United States has been urging the British government to bring in such a measure because of the many difficulties being encountered in looking after evacuated children when there is nobody in the States who has authority to give legal consent for certain actions which the United States committee—of which Mrs. Roosevelt is president—may wish to take for the good of the children.

Case of Operations
For example an urgent operation for appendicitis may be necessary but under State Law in the U.S.A. a doctor cannot operate without consent of the child's parent. Nevertheless, it may be imperative to operate within a few hours and in wartime the consent of parents across the Atlantic sometimes cannot be obtained so quickly.

When the new Bill becomes law the U.S. Committee will be able to give its consent in such matters in the knowledge that it has the approval of an officially appointed guardian for British children in the United States.

Eric Biddle of the U. S. Committee is in England discussing terms of the bill and explaining difficulties Americans are experiencing in looking after the children.

There are 1,500 British evacuee children in Canada and 800 in the United States under the official scheme. In addition, both countries have several thousand children who have been privately evacuated.

WASHINGTON, D.C., May 7:—President Franklin D. Roosevelt had a light temperature yesterday. His usual Tuesday press conference was cancelled.

CHURCHILL ENDORSED

Overwhelming Vote Of Confidence Accorded British Premier And His Policies

LONDON, May 7:—An overwhelming vote of confidence—447 to 3—was accorded Prime Minister Winston Churchill and his policies after a two day debate on the war in Parliament. The Prime Minister said that a great deal more aid from United States was needed but he was confident it would be forthcoming.

The Prime Minister was received in audience yesterday by the King.

The House of Lords yesterday gave a unanimous vote of confidence in the Churchill government.

The Commons gave Churchill his vote of confidence after he had disclosed that nearly five hundred thousand Imperial soldiers now stand guard against the Axis in the Middle East and that Great Britain expects even new American merchant ships to see her through 1942 in the Battle of the Atlantic.

The Prime Minister proclaimed a halt to the British retreat in the Mediterranean bases with the declaration that "we intend to defend to the death and without thought of retirement Crete and Tobruk."

The Balkan campaign was the principal subject of discussion in the two-day debate.

The climax was a verbal duel between Churchill and Former Premier David Lloyd-George. Lloyd George was bitterly critical of the manner in which information was being given out in connection with the war. There should be a more realistic picture.

Britain had sustained painful and serious wounds, declared Lloyd George. They were not fatal but would be grave if neglected. He referred to the loss of Allies.

GREEK NAVY HEAVY HIT

CANEA, Crete, May 7: (CP)—The Greek government, recapitulating the fate of its navy in the last days of the German drive through Greece, said today that all auxiliary vessels—more than thirty—had been savagely bombed and machine-gunned, sinking with their crews. Greek submarines have joined the British fleet at Alexandria. Three of ten destroyers were sunk as were five hospital ships.

Poor Husbands List Excuses

SOMEWHERE IN YORKSHIRE, May 7: (CP)—Excuses husbands could give their wives were provided when the Ancient Order of Henpecked Husbands issued notice of its annual secret gathering "somewhere in Yorkshire."

The proposed excuses included: Tell her you are going to see a man about your income-tax increases; say you have to do an extra turn of fire-watching; or, if she doesn't like walking, suggest a day's hunt on your own for cigarettes and razor blades.

The gathering was the 5921st meeting. The A.O.H.H. claims unbroken continuity since Adam. "Rejoice and be glad on the one free day of domestic liberty," said the invitations.

One of the oldest members complained new troubles had come to henpecked husbands due to "rationing, A.R.P., the nest-egg budget and tightening of apron-strings."

Can Gibraltar Resist? . . .

One much discussed problem just now is as to the ability of the fort of Gibraltar to withstand enemy attack. Much strengthening of the place has been going on during past years. Tunnelling has been in progress and everything possible done to make it impregnable. Under the older conditions of warfare it was thought that the place could not be taken. Under present day conditions it is impossible to tell what may happen. Our old judgments have been reversed so many times that we are learning to doubt everything except the bravery of our men and their ability to meet the Germans under any reasonable conditions. They showed they could do it in Greece and in North Africa and they expect to give a good account of themselves wherever they may happen to meet, and especially at Gibraltar.

Something For Nothing . . .

Most people like to get something for nothing if they can. In Iraq the British went in and drilled for oil and found a valuable oil field. They built many miles of pipe line across the desert and an oil port at Haifa. From this they made profits. They also were a valuable source of supply for the British navy and merchant marine and of benefit to the ships of all nations. Had it not been for British energy well applied and British money used to advantage the Arabs would never have known the oil was there and Iraq would still be the home of Arabs and a few stray camels.

The British made profits and so did the Arabs. But the Arabs cast envious eyes at the British. Then came the German fifth columnists who argued with the Arabs saying: "Is not this your country? Should not the oil be yours? Why let the British rob you of something that is yours by right?" With questions like these they sowed the seeds of doubt and, when the British were driven out of Greece and were not doing so very well in North Africa, the present ruler decided to try to seize the country and drive the British out. They hoped they could start a Holy War causing all Mohammedans to rise against the British. In this they were encouraged by the Germans, the Italians and the Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, leader of much of the trouble in Palestine of late years.

The British are now in Iraq and the Germans will probably make an effort to oust them. That seems to be what the war in Iraq is about. It is a fight for the oil fields.

On Throne Again . . .

The ruler of Ethiopia, who was ousted by Mussolini some years ago when the country was conquered by Italy, is once more on the throne with residence at Addis Ababa. During the time he had been in Britain doubtless he learned much. He now has a number of Italian subjects and he will have to rule very wisely if he is to retain his throne. However, he will have the backing and advice of the British and should make a success of the job. While he was away the Italians did some useful work in opening up the country. Their influence will be felt for many years.

Did you hear about the British tank in East Africa which was sent on ahead to deal with some of the smaller Italian forts?

Well, when the tank appeared at the first fort, the white flag went up before a single shot was fired. The same thing happened at the second fort and again at the third.

At the fourth, however, an Italian officer came out and said: "Look here, senior, before we surrender I think we ought to put up some sort of resistance."

"Is that so?" snarled the sergeant in charge.

"Yes," said the Wop. "So I was wondering whether, before we hoisted the white flag—you would mind very much if I threw a few stones at your tank!"

Wife: "It's strange, but Helen and I can hardly understand each other over the telephone."
Husband: "Did you ever try talking one at a time?"

"Excuse me," said the barber: "did you have tomato ketchup for lunch? If you hadn't I've cut your neck!"

Auntie: "How are you getting along with your arithmetic?"
Audrey: "Well, I've learned to add up the zeros but the figures still bother me."

Editor: "Say, this story can't be printed. It says here that the heroine was nude."

Author: "That's all right. I cover her with remorse in the next paragraph."

CANADIAN HAS JOB

Feeding of Victims of Nazi Air Raids
Organized by Garfield Weston M.P.

By HAROLD FAIR
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 7: (CP)—In more than three-score London air raid shelters the population—running into thousands when Nazi bombers scourge the city—breathe their thanks to a Canadian, Garfield Weston, for hot drinks and snacks always available.

"That's my company's contribution," explained Weston, who came from Toronto seven years ago and built up Britain's biggest biscuit-making concern. But it's only part of his war work.

Between directing his widespread business and representing Macleodfield as Conservative member of Parliament, he has found time also to take an active interest in the welfare of Canadian troops. Shortly after the first contingent arrived in Britain in 1939 radios from Weston arrived in camp with the promise of more when needed.

There have been numerous other gifts—he gave Lord Beaverbrook a cheque to buy 16 Spitfires—but rather than these things he prefers talking about his feeding project, a service that brought from the food minister, Lord Woolton, a letter expressing "deep gratitude."

How It Worked

Weston offered to establish such a system last autumn when Lord Woolton asked caterers to have hot food ready for the people when they left the shelters in the cold, damp mornings after the sirens moaned the welcome "raiders passed."

Creating an effective service involved much planning before success was finally achieved. At first Weston thought mobile canteens, travelling from shelter to shelter, offered the right solution. He rejected this plan, however, "because nobody is coming out of a shelter to eat during a "blitz" and anyway you can't feed people in the dark."

Eventually he evolved a counter-service, directed by a "steward" paid by his company and responsible for disposing of the food and handling the money. Fees are nominal and any profits go to the borough where the shelter is located.

To supply the shelters, which the government assigned him for feeding, he renovated one of his company's old bakeries and sent the food out every afternoon in a fleet of trucks.

When London raids slackened in intensity and people took the shelter, he was faced with a food surplus but quickly worked out a plan to service factory canteens where demand was constant.

SHE SAW ZEP FALL

Item in Daily News Recalls Girlhood Incident to Norwegian Lady Now Living Here

A Prince Rupert lady was very interested in an item which appeared last Saturday in the "Canadian at War Twenty-Five Years Ago" feature of the Daily News. The item told of a German Zeppelin having been wrecked on the Norwegian coast. This lady, then a little girl, actually witnessed the wreck.

It was an impressive sight to see the huge ship in the air approaching and finally falling on the water near the beach in Hafsfjord near Stavanger. The airship had been disabled over the British Isles and drifted in over the North Sea out of control. Driven before the wind for five hundred miles after bombing northwest England, it finally ally came down on this fjord. Norwegian soldiers went out in boats and, with use of ropes, pulled it in to the beach. Sixteen members of the crew were interned.

Collecting bits of souvenirs from the ship was a popular diversion and many were saved by the people of Stavanger where the incident caused great excitement, the beaches being crowded with spectators. "Everyone who could crawl or walk went out to see the sight," said the local lady. The distance was about half a mile from the city of Stavanger.

REDDY KILOWATT

"From now on you'll see quite a lot of me because I've been hired to help tell you folks about Electric Living. As you can see, I'm not the most handsome fellow in the world, but I'm nearly always smiling and I'll try to make you smile too. They call me "Reddy Kilowatt" because I'm always ready to do your bidding wherever there's an electric plug. I'll cook for you, clean for you, keep your food fresh, do your washing and ironing, light your home, heat your water and make your toast. On the farm I can milk, cool the milk, pump water, saw wood and light the barns and houses. I never take a day off, I never sleep and my wages are only a few cents a day.

"Just by way of introducing myself to you and showing you how I go about my business, my new boss has made some pictures of me doing a few chores around the house."

"Nobody can call me a sissy, but I do love ironing. Really, these automatic irons they have nowadays are positively tops because the heat is always just right for the fabric to be ironed."

"Take a tip from me—electric refrigeration saves you money. I should know, I run thousands of the things and I see all the leftovers that are saved to be made into delicious meals."

"Anybody hungry? Like some scrambled eggs and coffee? O.K. folks, we'll have them ready in a jiffy on this new electric range. It's the speediest thing that ever came down the pike and clean and safe, too."

The local Society is going on with the salvage campaign. It derives a small margin of revenue in connection with the gathering and selling of scrap materials which are useful in connection with the war. Old rags and old ropes are now being gathered up in addition to scrap metals, medicine bottles and certain old magazines. The Boy Scouts are looking after the collecting.

Personal Items From Hollywood People Flown to Alberta Chapter of I.O.D.E.

HOLLYWOOD, May 7: (CP)—One sarong in green henna print, three daintily embroidered handkerchiefs and a leather-bound travel log travelled by air to Vegreville, Alberta, where they will be auctioned off by the Imperial Order, Daughters of the Empire at their annual spring fair May 15, for Canadian war charities.

The sundry items are the personal property of Ella Neal, Dorothy Lamour and Virginia Dale, respectively and were cheerfully surrendered to Bob Fraser, Paramount studio property man on the set of "Aloma of the South Seas" when he chanced to remark that they might bring goodly sums at the Alberta fair.

Each item is accompanied by a personally autographed photo from the donor, expressing good wishes to the Vegreville chapter of the I.O.D.E., which has done fine relief work since outbreak of hostilities. Since Marlene Dietrich recently sold one kiss for $1,000 for the American Red Cross, it is not unlikely that Miss Neal's sarong, Miss Lamour's handkerchiefs and Miss Dale's book will add welcome sums to the Canadian war charities fund.

Port Simpson Teacher Among New United Church Deaconesses

TORONTO, May 7:—Three former school teachers are among a group of four young women recommended for designation as deaconesses by the committee on the Deaconess Order and Women Workers of the United Church of Canada, it was stated here today. They are: Miss Marian M. Brillinger, Toronto, for several years on the public school teaching staff; Miss Violet Deeprose, Morrin, Alta., formerly a rural school teacher, and Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Nixon B.A., Wayne, Alta., who had one year's experience as a public school teacher in Alberta. Designation services will take place at forthcoming conferences of the United Church.

The fourth in the group is Miss Wilna Gratia Thomas B.A., Ogema, Sask., an honor graduate of the University of Saskatchewan and former Girls' Work Secretary in the Y. W. C. A., Saskatoon, Sask.

Miss Brillinger graduated from the United Church Training School in 1940 and has since been on the staff of the Department of Sunday School Publications. She is recommended to the Toronto Conference.

Miss Deeprose, in addition to her teaching service, was for some time matron of the Indian Residential School at Morley, Alta. As an associate worker of the W.M.S., she is now assistant matron at the Crosby Home for Girls, Port Simpson, B.C.

Miss Nixon, recommended to the Alberta Conference, graduated from the University of Manitoba and the United Church Training School. For the past year she has supplied a vacant charge at the mining area of Wayne, Alta.

Duchess of Kent Given Private Showing of Clothes for U.S. and Canada

LONDON, May 7: (CP)—Britain's bid for a place in the overseas clothing market will be given fresh impetus by shipment of 2,000 dresses, ranging in price from $4.50 to $90, to Canada and the United States in the biggest export effort in women's clothes yet made by this country.

The Women's Fashions Export Group hope the clothes will be on show in New York by May 15. Except for the Duchess of Kent, no one will see them until they reach America.

They were designed in great secrecy by 80 manufacturers and have been kept under lock and key. After private showing for the Duchess they will be sent to Scotland and locked in a safe place until sailing day.

The models, dresses, suits, dinner gowns and one wedding dress, all are of wool.

Ron Richards, Holder of Three Titles, Decides to Retire

SYDNEY, N.S.W., May 7: (CP)—Ron Richards, triple boxing champion of Australia and recognized as British Empire middleweight champion, has announced his retirement from the ring. His Australian titles were middleweight, light heavy-weight and heavy-weight.

Efforts were made to match Richards with the British boxers Jock McAvoy and Len Harvey for Empire titles and when these failed Australia decided to stage her own contest for the Empire middleweight crown. In this Richards beat Fred Henneberry, a former middleweight.

SPORT CHAT

Paul Dean, younger brother of the Dizzy-Daffy pitching team of the St. Louis Cardinals, had a piece of cartilage removed from his pitching arm four years ago this week. The operation restored some of Daffy's hurling prowess and he pitched a few games later in the 1937 season. He is now with New York Giants.

So that clubs can carry on next season, despite wartime shortage of men, Durban and District Football Association of South Africa is considering forming composite teams made up of players from various clubs.

Ted Lyons, veteran Chicago White Sox pitcher, always tries to get "ahead" of new batsmen quickly at the start of another baseball season. "Then you find out quickly what they like—and don't," he says.

LEADERS DEFEATED

St. Louis Cardinals And Cleveland Indians Lose Games On Tuesday

BOSTON, May 7: (CP)—St. Louis Cardinals were defeated yesterday by Boston Bees and had their margin of leadership in the National League cut to half a game over the Brooklyn Dodgers who, with Bill Herman pitching, were winning over Pittsburgh Pirates. The Chicago Cubs dropped into the basement below the Phillies by losing to New York Giants, Carl Hubbell pitching for the Giants.

In the American League the leading Cleveland Indians lost to the Washington Senators while the Detroit Tigers defeated the New York Yankees whom they replaced in the runner-up spot.

The Cardinals' winning streak was ended at ten games; and the Indians' at eleven.

STICKS TO OLD WAYS OF TRACK

Wartime Sport of Kings Retains Circus-Like Atmosphere—Discards New Gadgets

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 7: (CP)—Innovations at Canadian and United States race tracks have no place in Britain's "Sport of Kings." Devices considered out-of-date in Canada are still in style here.

There are no electric starting gates, lightning fast tracks, nor drawn-out post parades. English racing still has its bookmakers, web barriers, turf tracks, big "fields" and "touts."

Imagine a bookie or a tout trying to seal a "tip" on the club house lawn, say at Woodbine Park in Toronto. But it's a common sight here where they add color, atmosphere and a spirit of carnival.

Bookies have to work harder to drum up business than in the "good old" days—the era preceding introduction of pari-mutuels which mark the only modern development.

Nottingham, one of England's favorite wartime race courses, is situated near Nottingham's business centre. The track is divided into three sections: The "Tattersall," the clubhouse for well-to-do, the "Minor Ring," for the general public and the "Coal-hole" for the small gambler.

Old Style Betting
Anybody can hob-nob with members in the club-house for $7.50, the price of admission. Few, however, can afford such a luxury these war days. The majority cram the Minor Ring where lawns fronting the stands resemble a corner lot circus in any Canadian town.

They are all "honest," according to gaily-colored inscriptions on brief cases and betting stands. There are Joe Clarke, "Our

Beaver Club Provide the Wanted Acts and Accents

LONDON, May 6: (CP)— Five Canadian girls resident here have taken part in the final scenes of the motion picture "49th Parallel" nearing completion at Denham studios.

When the producers decided to add additional Canadian sequences they appealed to the Beaver Club authorities to supply them with a selection of genuine Canadian accents.

The girls who helped to give the authentic atmosphere demanded were: Mrs. Angus Cameron, Victoria; Miss Beryl Wharton, Victoria; Mrs. H. S. Challis (nee Lucy Fletcher), Vancouver; Miss Anna McMurtry, Montreal, and Mrs. F. Benson, Belleville, Ont. All are volunteer helpers at the Beaver Club. It was their first experience of film work.

Beryl Wharton told a Beaver Club audience that she and her friends were sprayed for hours with rain ("Winnipeg in June"); struggled with traders, trappers and Indians in crowd scenes and helped to eat some dozens of doughnuts and apple pies in a "snack-bar" shot.

"After that damp and dizzy whirl none of us is quite sure just where and if we will appear," she added. "Canadian soldiers and 12 pilots, fresh from Canada, also took part in the fun. The airmen had been in England only a few hours when they 'crashed the movies'."

Home Pig Clubs For More Bacon

Britons Getting More Hog Conscious in Wartime Providing

LONDON, May 7: (CP)— With more than 800 pig clubs formed in less than a year, Britons are rapidly becoming more pig-conscious than ever before.

Alex Hobson, secretary of the Small Pig Keeper's Council, estimated these clubs would provide about 30,000 pigs annually or 1,500 tons of bacon.

Backyards, allotments, factory grounds, sports grounds, A.F.S. stations and village schools all have their pigs. In London there are clubs at the zoo and in Hyde Park.

"Pig club members feed their animals on household and garden waste," said Hobson, "but they are allowed a certain amount of meal through arrangements with the Ministry of Food."

Club members may keep four pigs each. They may two themselves but the other two must be sold to the Ministry of Food.

SYSTEM OF BALING-OUT

It's A Complex Process And Every Man Must Know His Time And Place

LONDON, May 7: (CP)— "The crew baled out." It's a simple sentence but for every airman it holds a wealth of meaning.

"Baling out" is a process complicated as it is dramatic. When the captain of a Royal Air Force aircraft decides there is nothing else to be done he warns his crew with the words, "Prepare to abandon aircraft." He then signals to the tail-gunner by making a magnesium loaded bulb flash in the rear turret.

This is acknowledged both vocally and by a small signal lamp. The crew waits for the final order, "abandon aircraft... ready... ready... go."

The tail-gunner leaves, first, followed by the wireless operator, the observer, the second pilot and, lastly, the captain. They go either through the escape hatch or the side door.

When the rear-gunner goes "over the side" he first reaches behind him for his parachute, clamping it on to two hooks on his chest. Then he lifts the escape hatch, at the same time taking off his helmet and getting himself free of the flex of the inter-communication system.

Go Feet First

If he takes a header or has his legs curled up he will probably go somersaulting down and get tangled up in the cords of the parachute. So he is careful to go feet first, with his legs straight. He has no sensation of falling and after counting three he pulls the ripcord.

Immediately a miniature parachute falls out, and if the gunner does not hold his head well back he may get a blow on the jaw when the small parachute is caught by the wind and drags out the main chute.

A jerk on his shoulders tells him that the parachute is open. There is still hardly any sensation of movement; he feels suspended in the air, but the noise of the engines has gone and there is complete peace and silence.

By reaching up and manipulating the cord he can "spill" the air from the parachute and guide his descent. When he reaches the ground he feels about as much shock as would be felt after jumping from a 10-foot wall. There is always the chance of getting a bad sprain, or he may hurt a rib if the parachute drags him along the ground.

To come down successfully in the sea needs skill and presence of mind. The feet hit the water first and the body goes straight down. The jumper must act swiftly to get his harness off and dive underneath the canopy of the parachute. Then there will be either a swim to land or a long cold wait until he is picked up.

me look like Jack Dempsey." She looked at circular-skirted day frocks, but said, "I never wear full skirts except in evening things."

The Duke admired a red-and-white candy-striped jersey evening costume, bordered in sequins. His lady agreed, "It's divine, but my wardrobe isn't large enough to justify buying anything so conspicuous."

The salesgirl brought out hats. "I'll try them on if it'll make you happy," said the Duchess, "but you know I never wear anything but beanie."

The four costumes she finally settled on would serve as the basis for almost any woman's summer wardrobe.

Favorite Fabric

First, a cool summer suit. Shantung, because it is one of her favorite fabrics. White, because white is cool. The single-breasted jacket ends just at the hipbone. The Duchess realizes that her small stature—she wears size 10—makes long jackets unbecoming to her.

The formal day dress is of a strawberry-printed white crepe, with a high neckline, three quarter-length sleeves. Puffy bishop-sleeve cuffs and tiny collar are of embroidered organdie.

One evening dress, of sheer white embroidered with red silk dots, has short sleeves and a high neck finished with a bow. The other, of white organdie printed with blue flowers is more elaborately trimmed with scrolls of blue lace and a sash of narrow blue velvet ribbon.

All four costumes are typically Duchess of Windsor—simple of line, with feminine detail. She'll have matching beanies made up for the two day costumes and wear them, as always, pinned back of her pompadour with two beautiful diamond clips.

Duchess Remarkd She Didn't Want to Look Like Jack Dempsey—Buys Four Costumes at Palm Beach

By AMY PORTER
Associated Press Fashion Editor

NEW YORK, May 7: (CP)— The Duchess of Windsor has four new costumes, the first important additions to her wardrobe since she and the Duke—who is governor of the Bahamas—left Paris almost a year ago. She said when she bought them, "These should carry me through the summer."

And they should, because they are selected to meet all the clothes requirements in the simple life the Duchess now leads in Nassau. A white shantung suit, a formal crepe day dress, two sheer cotton evening frocks—a simple summer wardrobe.

The Duke helped her shop for them in Palm Beach during their recent visit there. They strolled into the shop, arriving unannounced and unattended. Within a few minutes a crowd gathered. The manager had to lock the front door.

The Duke and Duchess smiled at all the fuss and sat down to look at clothes, while women on the street outside pounded the plate glass windows with their rings, begging for admission.

"Not For Me"

The Duchess was eager to see everything, because, she said, "This is the first collection I've seen since I left Paris." She looked at the new sloped shoulder, but protested, "They're not for me. I don't like them. I like some padding in the shoulder, but not enough to make me look like Jack Dempsey." She looked at circular-skirted day frocks, but said, "I never wear full skirts except in evening things."

FINE SPRING FOR CROPS

Oats Is Already Above Ground At Time When, Customarily, Seed Not Even In Ground

SMITHERS, May 7.—The past few days have brought joy to the hearts of the farmers of the Bulkley Valley. A number of good showers of rain together with some bright warm sunshine coming right on top of seeding operations has had a wonderful effect and in many cases the oats are already above the ground where customarily the seed is not in the ground at this time of year.

With such a good start in the season it augurs well for good crops this year. The hay is also away to a good start and, with a few more rains, a little later on a good crop of hay will be assured.
