

KING "SEES" CAMOUFLAGED SOLDIER

King George VI. seems to be talking to a ghost or a Bedouin chieftain, but actually the shrouded figure he is addressing is a soldier in the front line of Britain's defences. The Tommy is camouflaged to protect him from the prying eyes of Goering's air scouts.

HELGOLAND RAIDED

LONDON—The Royal Air Force made a successful low level raid on Helgoland, German North Sea island base, before darkness yesterday. It is announced. The place was bombed and machine-gunned from an altitude of two hundred feet. Great confusion was caused and, evidently, considerable damage done. The Royal Air Force also attacked St. Nazaire and an air base at Ostend. Off Holland several enemy ships were sunk or damaged.

Great collaboration between Germany and France is believed to have been agreed upon probably including the use of the French fleet and French ports.

Part Of War Prophecy Has Been Realized

EDMONTON, May 14.—Harold Snyder, an amateur prophet of world events, is able to say "I told you so." Last November, in an Edmonton paper, Snyder predicted that, within six months, a great man would go from Germany to England. Now Snyder is awaiting for the rest of a prediction made at the same time to come true. This was that the war would be over by August 1 and that three dictators would die by violence within a week after.

Motoring In England—

OLD CARS FOR SALE

Estimated Half-Million Autos "Laid Up" in Britain These Days

By PAT USHER

Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON, May 14: (CP)—A second-hand motorcar in good condition costs more in Britain today than the same car when new. But the used car in run-down condition is a liability. Spare parts are difficult or impossible to obtain. When a car begins to go to pieces the owner usually puts it in storage and resorts to other means of transport. Several factors have forced up the price of used cars. Many people believe there will be such a shortage of automobiles in postwar Britain that old timers will command high prices. One London dealer estimated at least 500,000 cars have been laid up by owners who expect eventually to get double their purchase price.

Manufacture of new automobiles has virtually stopped for the duration. Those that are made are reserved for the export market. The private motorist must get authorization from the ministry of supply before he can buy a new car—and he must have a good reason.

No figures are now available as to the number of vehicles operating on Britain's roads because the government considers "it would not be in the public interest to disclose them." But car registrations are estimated in competent quarters to have dropped less than a quarter. Bicycles always have been popular in Britain, where distances between towns are much shorter than in Canada. Since the war more bicycles than ever have appeared on the roads. Many motorists have turned to this less expensive form of transport as an economy measure.

The gasoline ration allows the private driver to travel approximately 200 miles a month. But those doing work of national importance or to whom a car is essential can get an extra allowance. For instance a commercial traveler who needs a car to cover his route can travel between 550 and 600 miles monthly.

Special Regulations
War time conditions have compelled special motoring regulations. If you drive in the blackout you must have your headlights masked. Tips of mudguards or bumpers must be painted white. Parked cars must be immobilized by removal of the distributor head or some essential part of the engine. Even in daylight they must always be left locked. Speed limit in the blackout in built-up areas is 20 miles an hour. In open country there is no speed limit.

The tourist must frequently halt at road blocks manned by soldiers. These usually obstruct half the road. Some drivers who ignored a sentry's challenge have been shot and killed. When stopped the driver must show his identity card and driving license. Then he is allowed to proceed.

The private motorist can camouflage his car if he wishes to protect it from possible machine-gun attacks by daylight raiders. A few have done so. But the color scheme and design must differ from that used by military vehicles.

AXIS IS HELD UP

Still Finding It Impossible To Crack British Either At Salum Or Tobruk

CAIRO, May 14:—After five weeks of siege, the British garrison is still holding out at Tobruk with no signs of weakening. Try as they may, the Axis forces are also finding it impossible to get past Salum, just inside the Egyptian frontier, and have been driven back to original positions.

British headquarters announced today that Axis troops on the Egyptian frontier have withdrawn to original positions south and west of Salum where they are being continuously harassed by the British forces. The British command said that Axis troops were thrown back about forty miles.

Sweden's Trade Balance Down In February

STOCKHOLM, May 14:—Sweden's foreign trade showed a continued reduction during February, according to the latest report by the Swedish Board of Trade. Exports had a value of 47,000,000 kr. (£2,760,000) against 85,000,000 kr. in January and 115,000,000 kr. in February last year, and imports declined, compared with January by 48,000,000 to 78,000,000 kr. (£4,590,000). In February 1940 imports to Sweden had a value of 167,000,000 kr.

The reduction is distributed over all groups of goods. In addition to the North Sea Blockade the difficult ice situation round Sweden's coasts has been the foremost reason for the decline in trade during the winter months.

HESS IS CONFINED

Prize Nazi Refugee Kept in Secret Place—No Official Hint of Plenty of Unofficial Comment

"CRANKY ABOUT FOOD"
LONDON, May 14: (CP)—An Associated Press correspondent at Rudolf Hess' retreat somewhere in Britain said that a visit to the hospital where Hess was confined brought only one comment from tight-lipped physicians and nurses—that Hess is "cranky about what he eats." Earlier one medical attendant was quoted as saying: "Hess is not unnaturally high strung after his ordeal. He is one of the sanest and most logical men I have ever met." The entire staff of a London nursing home and two eminent brain specialists have been sent to attend Hess.

LONDON, May 14.—There is no further official statement as to the strange case of Rudolf Hess, leader of the Nazi party, who took flight from Germany and landed near Glasgow, Scotland, Saturday night. Hess is now in a secret place of confinement. While Hess will, undoubtedly be questioned and a meeting with Prime Minister Winston Churchill is said to be projected, no endeavour will be made to force him to make a statement. Newspapers are not being permitted to see Hess. Indeed, they do not know where he is. However it is said that he is talking and writing words that will make the Nazi high command sweat. He is in good spirits, talking freely to his guards, recovering well from broken ankle and arm bruises and enjoying good British fare including chicken, roast beef and coffee.

Speculation as to the reasons for Hess' flight from Germany is still rife but the consensus of opinion appears to be that he was actuated by personal motives. He brought no peace terms, it has been definitely stated. The British Broadcasting Corporation commented tersely: "The first rat to leave the ship."

All Premier Winston Churchill would observe was that "the maggot is in the apple."

What Berlin Says
The anti-Nazi German refugee newspaper published in England yesterday criticized any inclination of the British to be soft-hearted with Hess or to feel that "he might not be such a bad fellow after all," the paper said. "He is as bad as the worst of them and the blood of thousands is equally on his hands."

In Berlin the German newspapers finally acknowledged today that Hess had landed in Britain. At first they had merely said he was missing. Statements were repeated that he was a "sick, deranged and muddled idealist" who had suffered from mental disease since the last war.

Adolf Hitler himself has taken over Hess' duties as leader of the Nazi party. He was given an expression of confidence yesterday at a Nazi rally. Hess' flight will have no effect upon the prosecution of the war which has been forced upon Germany, it is stated.

Encouraging Reports . . .

Encouraging reports continue to come in regarding the improved striking power of the Royal Air Force. Especially is this true in dealing with night bombers in connection with the defence of Britain.

Blows at German commerce, invasion ports, industrial centres and shipbuilding activities all have been bringing excellent results. Not only are the possibilities of an invasion of Great Britain being lessened by these blows but the huge Nazi producing machine for general war purposes is being seriously scrambled.

The situation in Africa is gradually showing up more favorably. The Germans are finding the desert heat oppressive and every day they remain the less effective they become as fighters. The British forces are living under less of a handicap because they are nearer the coast and have better access to supplies.

Battle Of The Atlantic . . .

In the Battle of the Atlantic there is a decided improvement. United States help is improving the British position and records show that fewer losses have occurred although they are still very serious. As more American ships become available fewer British losses will occur.

Welcome Interlude . . .

The dramatic arrival of Rudolf Hess and his landing in Scotland created a welcome interlude in the news. The element of mystery about the flight gave every person an opportunity to interpret the news and was especially valuable to the commentators. Beyond that it may or may not prove valuable. British authorities declare it means a break in the solidarity of the Nazi front. At any rate it is a very interesting development and one that will be talked about for weeks to come. From a newspaper viewpoint it is a welcome change from the stories of bombings which fill the newspapers and the air every day.

It seems that the flight must have been planned and there is a possibility that it was made to avoid the concentration camp or some worse fate.

Gave Away The Game . . .

Many people would not have suspected that the arrival of Rudolf Hess in Scotland was really a desertion from the Nazi ranks until Berlin began its propaganda saying that Hess was a lunatic and that anything he said should not be believed. The bullet holes in the plane looked a little suspicious and one theory is that the Nazis wanted to get rid of Hess so they allowed him to go up in the plane with the intention of shooting it down. The shooting failed so Hess got away to Scotland.

If you lose anything, advertise for it.

Man in the Moon

The popular question of the day is "Why did Hess?"

Why did Hess
Old Scotland Bless
By landing there?

Why did he land?
He must have had sand
And judgment rare.

Why fly to Britain
And offer his mitten
Why not go elsewhere?

Why leave the Fatherland?
Why should he rather land
Mid heather so rare?

Why mention the name
Of Rudolph who came?
What the Hess do we care?

ANCESTRY IN MOTHER

Census-takers in North Country
Have Special Rules On Eskimos
And Indians

OTTAWA, May 14: (CP)—The Smiths and Jones of the Canadian Arctic races will be recorded in the books of census enumerators this year.

Instructions to northern enumerators, available here, made clear that in the case of Eskimos and Indians the family origin is traced through the mother. The names of tribes will be given as Agamint, Sinimuit, Kidnelik, Unnuit, Slaves, Rabbit Skins, Crees, Saulteaux and so forth.

Enumerators' instructions reminded them that in other races the origin is usually traced through the father, but the tribal method of tracing ancestry through the mother must be observed.

Apart from the northland, the census starts June 2 and completion is expected within a few weeks. But in the north the enumerator is given until October 31, and if he cannot forward his books to be received in Ottawa by that time he is required to transmit the totals of population by wireless.

This will facilitate early statement on the total number of Canadians.
A special provision in instructions to northern enumerators was that they must enumerate every person found in the areas assigned to them irrespective of place of residence.

This is necessary owing to the nomadic habits of the inhabitants of these regions, so that if persons are not enumerated where they are met they may be omitted altogether from the census, instructions said.

"If, however, any white person states that he or she has already been enumerated in another locality a statement to this effect with the name of the locality where enumerated should be made on the line of the schedule upon which the person's name appears; in every such case the enumerator will obtain complete data as indicated by the headings of the schedule regarding such person or persons."

The census book to be carried in the north, in contrast to the lengthy forms for use in other regions, is a compact volume with a stout cardboard cover. The enumerator is supplied with a waterproof cover for the book and has instructions that it must always be carried therein.

Sons Can Cook As Mother Does

NEW YORK, May 14: (CP)— Kay Kyser, the band leader, says any man whose mother is a good cook can be a good cook too.

He is speaking from experience.
He not only swears by his mother's cooking—he uses her recipes. He turns out dishes that make you want more.

If he forgets the recipe he wires an urgent plea to Rocky Mount, N. C., and his 79-year old mother writes down every detail of how to make the dish he is hankering for and sends it right away.

He has an idea for a special present from mothers to their boys and girls: lessons in the way mothers cook. Also he thinks mothers-in-law could do their daughters-in-law a real service if they'd fix up a home-made cookbook entitled "My Son's Favorite Recipes to the Actual Count of Specks and Pinches."

Two things Kyser must have when he is king of the kitchen:
His mother's recipes and black pepper. Without pepper, he says, meats "just ain't the same." Nor vegetables.

GARDEN NOTEBOOK

The garden season seems to be struggling against great difficulties. I predict success for both of these gardens.

There seems to be a bright spot every year at the Cavenale store at Seal Cove right at the airport. This year is no exception to the general rule. Possibly the staff at the airport will be showing us how to make gardens. There is a great opportunity at the new hospital building. I hear that a pretty good beginning is being made at Alford Bay airport. Possibly Jack Dougherty has had something to do with it.

So many people ask me how to get golden alyssum (alysium saxa-tile) that I must repeat the best thing to do is to sow seeds now or as soon as they can be procured and this will produce strong plants by fall, strong enough to winter out of doors. If sown under glass and left in a cold frame for the winter, they will give a surer crop than if sown out of doors. Much of the brightness of our gardens just now is due to the presence of so much of this bright yellow flower.

A great many people are starting gardening this year without any previous experience. They find it difficult to know what to plant and where and how to plant it. To such I suggest they get a good book on gardening. There are some such books in the public library and the local bookstore also has some. Look at your neighbor's gardens and talk about them. Nobody makes a complete success at first. The main thing is to keep on planting each year and use experience as a stepping stone.

Those wishing to learn something about gardening should not fail to visit the lovely rock garden at the back of the Court House. In driving past yesterday, I think I noticed that many of the plants are labelled. If this is so, a visit would be quite an education.

I am often told about some of the gardens that are now in bloom. I am told that Walter Longwill has the best showing just now. Others say that Frank Dibb has them all beaten. Then I hear about Dr.
Mandy's place, Tom Priest's showing, Dr. Hankinson's and so on. I do not pretend to be a judge but I do know that all these places are first rate and I am particularly glad that they are being noticed and appraised.

In connection with rock gardens I had an opportunity recently to see Mr. and Mrs. William Cruik-shank's garden. Unfortunately, it cannot be seen from the road but I think he is such a keen gardener that he would welcome a visit from anyone wishing to see it. He has made the most of the situation on an irregular piece of ground at the western side of the Bungalow Court Apartments with wonderful effect.

What I like to see is the beginning of new gardens such as that of Oscar Sather on the corner of Fifth and Tatlow Streets and right across Fifth Avenue where C. G. Ham is

Garden At Post Office Robbed

Gardeners of the Post Office grounds were feeling somewhat discouraged this morning on finding that, during the night, one of the dahlia beds had been raided and the most of the new plants, which had been put out only yesterday, had been removed. Evidently, the plants had been completely dug out. At one point the fresh earth was strewn into the lawn. Telltale footprints, quite easily discernible, indicated that it was the work of children or an adult with small feet.

It is not only airmen who take up gardening for a hobby. I notice that Captain Bob Bartlett is making quite a showing in his place on Fourth Avenue. There are a number of nice places just around there, too many to single out any particular one. If I were mentioning any just now it would be Mr. and Mrs.
Dick Moore's pretty rockeries. The great thing is that all the nearby residents are doing something to help keep up the reputation of the street.

Be sure to watch for slugs. One killed now is worth more than one hundred later in the season.

MORE CANADIANS ARE NOW AT WORK THAN EVER BEFORE!

FROM the Atlantic to the Pacific, factories hum day and night producing the guns, shells, trucks, tanks, planes and other equipment essential to the winning of the war. Shipyards bristle with activity . . . echo the ceaseless chatter of compressed air riveters as dozens of Corvettes are rushed to completion to patrol the Atlantic . . . escort merchant ships . . . ensure a steady flow of vital supplies to Britain. Over draughting boards and around the conference table, men toil far into the night . . . planning new plants, new tools . . . methodically and efficiently organizing the mighty production power of our great nation . . . a power that is growing stronger day by day.

Yes, indeed, Canada is all out! In throbbing cities . . . in towns . . . on farms . . . Canadians have responded to the call of the Navy, Air Force and Army . . . to the demand for workers in every branch of industry . . . to the need for help in financing the weapons of war.

The next six months will be critical ones for the British Empire. We Canadians must meet this challenge with ever-greater sacrifice . . . must labour in the factories, and toil on the farms with ever-increasing energy . . . and be prepared to bear our share of the stern price of freedom.

"DERBY DAY" IN INDIANA

500-Mile Motor Speedway Race May 14 Will Attract All The Old Crowds

INDIANAPOLIS, May 14: (CP)—It doesn't attract society's "40" but Indianapolis' 500-mile motor speedway race, coming up on May 14, is the corn country's major one-day sports social event.

Here in Indiana it's considered downright social neglect for a farmhand, filling station operator, or garage mechanic to confess that he never has been a 500-mile race. Some sort of explanation usually is necessary for failure to attend the speed classic every year.

Indiana residents adopt a peculiar attitude towards the race. They're never going until the last minute and then all the King's horses wouldn't keep them away.

On race day the crowd will swarm into the 400-acre enclosure heavily laden with fried chicken, hard-boiled eggs, pickles and cold beer.

They'll scramble for the same parking spaces they had a year ago and the year before that and the "Hips Joe's" will resound over the whole place. Many of the spectators will perch atop specially constructed seats above the parked automobiles.

Many of them will pay little attention to the roaring motors except for the start, the finish and casual trips over to the fence to see the jouncing.

But by some manner, no one knows just how they'll manage to see the high spots of the battle of speed so they can talk about it when they're back at their regular tasks.

It's just a big Hoosier picnic with a dash of speed to provide the spice.

Augustus Centennial Year of 1941, resolved to strengthen interest and understanding between citizens and their courts and further acquaint the public with probation and parole, and to enlist its aid in improving these services on all fronts; to stress probation, parole, juvenile courts and crime prevention as common sense approaches to the problem of crime; to raise standards of personnel, eliminate political interference with the courts, and to urge more progressive statutes where needed.

Although events of the John Augustus Centennial will culminate in the national conference of the Association in Boston, May 29-31, interest will continue throughout the year. Regional and local meetings will observe the anniversary. Probation sessions will be held in connection with the American Prison Congress which meets in San Francisco in August.

Father of Probation

John Augustus was born in Burlington, then a part of Woburn, Massachusetts in 1784. He moved to Lexington in 1805 and there conducted his shoemaking business.

In 1819 Augustus conveyed eight or nine acres of his land to the trustees of Lexington Academy for the purpose of erecting the academy. He later became one of the trustees.

There is evidence that even in those early days in Lexington, John Augustus was interested in helping his fellowmen. Edwin B. Worthen, corresponding secretary of the Lexington Historical Society, reports that old tax records of the town indicate that for seven years—from 1821 to 1828—John Augustus paid poll taxes for a number of men besides members of his family. In 1823 and 1824 he paid such taxes for 12 persons who are presumed to have been shoe workers in his employ.

In 1827 he moved to Boston, where he continued his labors as bootmaker. It was in 1841 that he became, without official status, the first probation officer in the world.

During the remaining 18 years of his life Augustus "balled out" 2,000 defendants who he believed showed promise of reformation. Out of that entire number only 10 are said to have absconded.

Independents Win Over Dry Dock In Stuart Shield Football

Last night over one hundred soccer fans witnessed the semi-final football match for the Stuart Shield, between the Dry Dock and Independents. The Independents won by a score of three to nothing and qualified to meet Composite Services, who had won from Rocky Mountain Rangers last week in the final tomorrow night.

The first half opened with both teams playing cautious football. After five minutes of play Webster, for Dry Dock came close, with a long drive. The play soon shifted to the other end of the field and Jim Currie, in Dry Dock's goal, saved two beautiful shots from Cameron and Dickens. After fifteen minutes of play Bill Murray substituted for Casey Vink of the Independents. Play continued until ten minutes of the half remained when Henry Dickens scored for the Independents. Holstead soon put the Independents two goals in the lead when he converted a cross from Cameron. The half ended two to nothing in favor of the Independents.

Second Half

After the rest period the game resumed with play much faster and members of both teams playing their positions well. At the fifteen minute mark Holstead came through with another counter. There was no more scoring this half and the game ended three to nothing in favor of the Independents.

Referee for last night's match was Sid Woodside. Linesmen were Mike Colussi and Sundberg. Jimmy Kelly, a veteran of the old football days, is still active. Last night he was responsible for taking the collection.

It's a simple thing but declares it forces even the dub to observe the cardinal rules of keeping the head and shoulders in the same plane through the swing.

"I don't see why someone thought of it before," says. "It looks like the all golf trouble between the head and the green." The gadget looks like something from a ball inventor's nightmare.

It consists of a seven foot extending from a heavy horizontal bar from that extends another, at the end is a leather skull-cap with a roller-bearing pivot. The takes his natural stance, is fitted by lowering or the horizontal bar, and the vice swing is on.

If one has a tendency the head, the skull cap in the forces the shoulders to the correct plane, for a lift or lower them too much, losing contact with the ball.

Ty Cobb And Babe To Battle Again

Will Play Golf Instead Of Baseball This Time

NEW YORK, May 14: (CP)—Ty Cobb and Babe Ruth, two all-time baseball greats, return to competition in mid-June—but this time at golf. Ruth has accepted Cobb's challenge for a match in New York for the benefit of British war relief. Since their retirement from the major leagues each has adopted golf. Both have belittled the other's fairways skill. The Babe says he'll outslug the Georgia Peach. Ty says most of Babe's wallop will wind up in the rough. Anyway, it'll be a battle.

Centenary Of John Augustus Plea For Man In Boston Police Court

NEW YORK, May 14: (CP)—Boston police court in 1841, thick with the sultry air of a close August morning, crowded with the casual and the curious, presented no different appearance from that of countless mornings before.

But an incident of that day's proceedings, 100 years ago, made a cause celebre for the National Probation Association and 17,000 probation workers, members and contributors throughout the United States and Canada uniting to do honor to John Augustus in 1941. Many Canadian probation officers are members of the Association. Sharp rays from the judge's gavel that morning a century ago, resounded from time to time the surging babble of murmuring, rustling sounds, and just as regularly the court pronounced, one after another, the unhappy fate of Boston's wayward citizens. Sentence was being passed on the latest of those when the door from the lockroom was opened and an officer entered leading a wretched looking man charged with being a "common drunkard."

But before the judge could sentence him like his fellows, to the House of Correction, there rose from his place a "fidgety old fellow, whose skin looked like a piece of brown parchment." With no hesitation he addressed the court: "Your honor, if this man be given another chance I will take him under my care and answer to the court for his conduct. Jail will ruin him."

Before the judge they stood, the prisoner and a determined yet respectful Boston shoemaker, John Augustus. Impressed with the earnestness and the expression of firm resolve of the suppliant, the judge agreed.

The prisoner was bailed in custody of John Augustus and following a period of probation, ordered to appear for sentence. When later the man returned to the court, "no one, not even the scrutinizing officers, would have believed that he was the same person."

Promoting Interest

This was the beginning of the probation movement in the world, and through it countless thousands of men and women have been spared imprisonment and given a chance to retrieve themselves.

The Board of Trustees and the Professional Council of the National Probation Association, under whose guidance a program has been arranged, have, for the John

WOMEN IN WAR WORK

Effort Is Well Organized In Union Of South Africa

CAPETOWN, May 14: (CP)—The whole effect of the auxiliary services is united in the Union of South Africa and each section is allotted a certain quota of work to do. Services are divided under the following headings: Hospital, including surgical supplies and comforts; transport, civic service, entertainment, active service comforts, replacements and finance. Each command divides its women to handle these and to work in co-operation with their corresponding groups in the other provinces. Mrs. J. C. Smuts, wife of the Premier, said it tended to co-ordinate effort, avoid neglect and eliminate overlapping.

In addition to looking after their own forces, the S. A. W. S. cares for all seamen of the Free French Forces and Dutch ships who put into South African ports. "No allied ship leaves our ports without every man being contacted and furnished with a complete supply of woollens and comforts," Mrs. Smith said. When convoys arrive 400 cars are ready and waiting to take men for drives or for meals in private South African homes.

As men are called up for active service, or women in the auxiliaries the replacement committee go into action providing employment with trained girls and women to take their places. "Our objective is that every man and woman will be working full time on our war effort," Lady Duncan said in an address during the recruiting rally.

LOANS ON HOUSING

Reached $16,000,000 At End Of 1940, Minister Announces

OTTAWA, May 14.—The Honorable J. L. B. Isley, minister of finance, has released figures showing the result of operations under the National Housing Act for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1941. During the period from April 1, 1940, to March 31, 1941, the number of loans approved was 5392, the number of family housing units financed 5427, and the volume of loans $16,066,642. Total loans to March 31, 1941, numbered 15,361, representing $58,519,945 in total volume, and provided for the construction of 20,451 family housing units.

Throughout the year, encouragement has been given by the National Housing Administration to the construction of low cost housing units in areas suffering acutely from housing shortages.

Of the 5427 units loans approved during the fiscal year 1940, 35 percent were for amounts of $2500 and under; 60 percent for $3000 and under; and 80 percent for $3500 and under. Virtually all of these loans financed homes located in those "war areas" where special wartime activities have greatly increased the need for housing accommodation. The average unit loan was $2960.

Under Part 1 of the National Housing Act lending operations are now limited to the financing of low and moderate cost single family dwellings. The maximum loan is $4,000.

During the fiscal year, 895 of the 90 percent loans were approved. Altogether, 2216 of these 90 per-
