JAPS IN WAR

Editorial

WAR IS WITH US

For thirty years and more Prince Rupert has thought of her position as being five hundred miles closer to the Orient in terms of possible trade and commerce with friendly nations across the Pacific.

As far as we in Prince Rupert are concerned, we may be excused for hoping that it will take as long for war to come to us from the Orient as it has taken to develop the peaceful contacts of friendly nations in whatever sphere they might have been.

In one sense, and possibly a very real one, we here in Prince Rupert are now actually "on the front line."

War so far has not touched us very directly in Prince Rupert. From this on we may expect that it will change things for many, if not all, of us.

We should be prepared for many things and we should be prepared together. There may be tasks to do that will call for a complete harmony of community endeavour.

And in emergency, there is no reason to become excited. There is every reason, however, to face the situation and be intelligently prepared.

Others have "taken it." So can we. Doubly vanquished is he who is beaten before he starts.

It is a poor soldier and a poor man who quails when the time comes to fight his own battles instead of having someone else to do it for him.

For the most of us, the thing to do is to carry on normally our individual courses with common sense but steeling ourselves in preparedness for anything that may come our way.

WASHINGTON — Indications are that South American countries will remain neutral as far as Japan is concerned unless there is an attack on American territory.

(Tokyo claimed that two United States battleships had been sunk, four others damaged and four heavy cruisers damaged in an attack on Pearl Harbor. The battleships were the Oklahoma and West Virginia).

The White House statement said that several Japanese planes and submarines had been accounted for and said that casualties in the attack were about three thousand, half being fatalities.

Reinforcements of planes were being rushed to the islands, the White House said, and repair work was under way on ships, planes and ground facilities.

Wrecked Hospital . . .

One of the British institutions that has suffered severely from air raids is the Great Ormond Street Hospital for sick children, London. It is an outstanding new building and was a natural mark for the bombers. A visitor to the hospital after the bombing found the lower floor flooded with water from burst mains, some of the wards were now a heap of wreckage, children's toys were mixed with the shattered furniture. When the bombing took place, the nurses took up the children in their arms, and carried the little ones to their shelters so that amid the flying debris not a life was lost. In spite of the damage to the building the doors never closed, the institution carrying out all the time its set policy of always being open to receive sick patients at any time, night or day.

Lord Southwood, chairman of the hospital board, is making a drive for funds to complete the rebuilding and to enable the good work to continue.

Result of Polls . . .

A Gallup Poll taken throughout Canada recently showed that the subject the people of the country had most in mind at the present time was conscription. More people are talking about conscription than any other subject. Winning the war came second as a subject of discussion, although naturally one is closely related to the other. Next came financial matters such as taxes, cost of living, inflation and related subjects. Labor and employment came fourth on the list and then came farm problems. Last but also important was post-war readjustment.

The poll indicates that people are keenly democratic in their mental attitude. They have in mind the important problems of the day which will be coming up for solution.

Another Indication . . .

Another indication of the trend in Canada is the fact that the man who led in British Columbia in securing for the workers' social legislation has recently been scrapped in favor of a more conservative leader at Victoria. Mr. Pattullo was the most radical leader in Canada in spite of statements to the contrary.

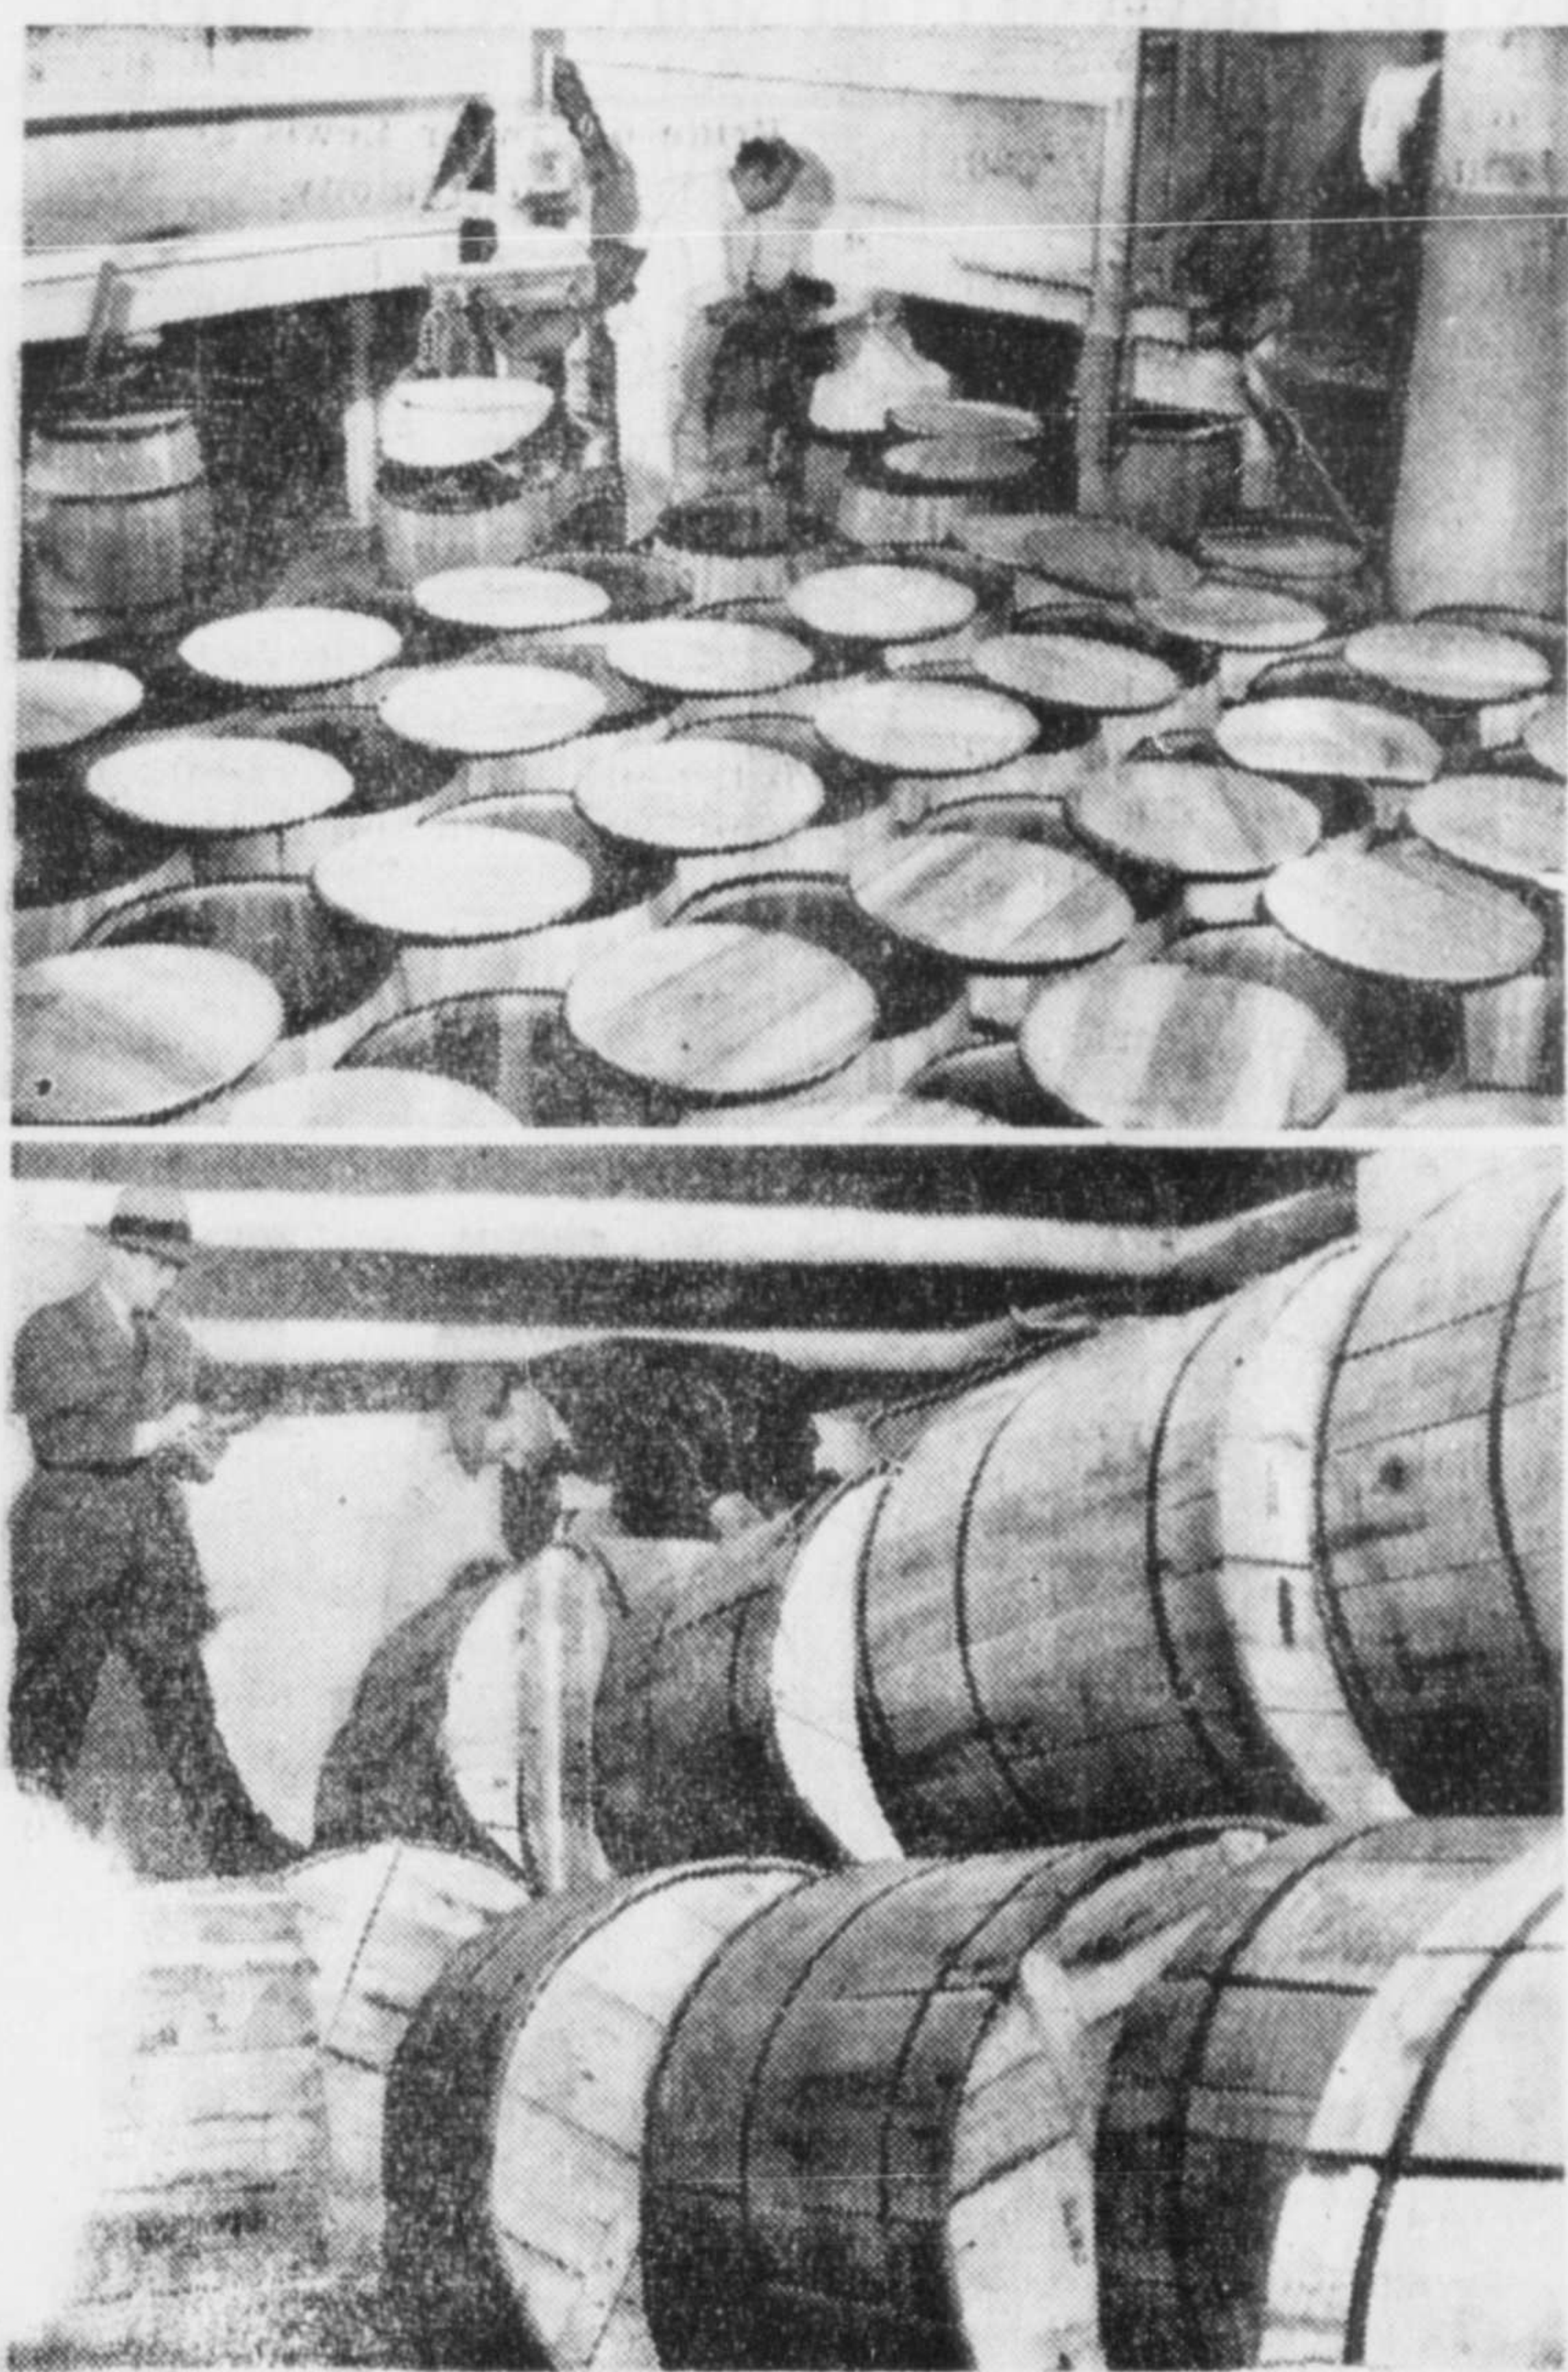

Coldwell's Views . . .

M. J. Coldwell, leader of the C.C.F., recently returned from a visit to England and, in addressing a meeting since his arrival, he compared conditions here with those in the old land. One criticism he had to make was that in this country collective bargaining was not allowed in government industries, whereas in England Mr. Bevin had asked why should they not allow British people to bargain collectively. That was what they were fighting for. His own union was in the government dockyards "and there was not a man in the country who wanted it otherwise." What a contrast that was to the Canadian policy.

Mr. Coldwell said he feared that, as far as social progress was concerned, this country was far behind the old land and far, far behind her sister dominions of Australia and New Zealand.

"We must get rid of old prejudices and cut out old associations and stand ready as a people to co-operate in building a Canada and a world in which the rights of all peoples will be respected and the generation of tomorrow will find peace and security," concluded Mr. Coldwell.

DRY MILK AND PRIME CHEDDAR FOR BRITAIN

At top here spray-processed milk is shown being packed in barrels for shipment to Britain. Much of Britain's dairy land has been put under cultivation to produce vegetables, so it is up to the American cow to do her bit for democracy. Below, a shipment of cheese is checked before shipment to Britain under the lend-lease act.

use that had been made to the United States that, within an hour after war commenced between Japan and the United States, Great Britain would be at war with Japan. Britain had also assured Thailand that "an attack upon her would be regarded as an attack upon us."

Assurance had also been given to Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek that "henceforth we take the common foe together."

The British Prime Minister told the House that he had talked by long distance telephone with President Franklin D. Roosevelt who told him that only Congress could declare the United States at war. He had been informed by the Japanese High Command that a state of war existed between Japan and the United States and Great Britain. There was, therefore, no need to wait for an actual Congressional declaration of war by the United States (cheers).

The Prime Minister told of the great British reinforcements that had been sent to the Near East, including some of the finest ships in the Royal Navy, released as a result of American co-operation in the Atlantic. "We can only feel and think that Hitler's madness has infested the Japanese mind. The root of evil and the branch must be extirpated together.

There was no need to doubt the justice of our cause. Our determination will strengthen us. Four-fifths of the manpower of the world is with us. Our light in the past has flickered but today it is in flame, a light that in future will light all lands and seas."

Mr. Churchill urged the necessity of a great increase and effort in munitions production. Aircraft would be more than ever necessary. He appealed to all workers in factories to do their utmost. He also stressed that the strength of the new enemy should not be underestimated.

The prime minister predicted that the war would probably be lengthened as a result of the spread of the conflict.

Paul Aivazoff Met Stalin in 1907; Soviet Union Has Twenty-Seven Million Men For War, He Declares

Russia can equip her literally unlimited manpower to the extent of putting twenty-seven million men under arms if the flow of war supplies from Great Britain, the United States and Canada can be increased. This is the view expressed by Paul Aivazoff, well known Vancouver businessman, formerly of Prince Rupert, who was born in Tiflis just seven miles from Stalin's birthplace in the Caucasus.

Aivazoff's prize recollection is making the hand of the Russian leader when Stalin was released from prison in 1907, where he had been confined for party activities.

At Any Cost "The port of Murmansk must be saved at any cost," Aivazoff observes, "because it is the only port open the whole year through which supplies can be delivered to Russia from the democracies."

"Only half the wealth of the Caucasus has been described in the press. Geographically, the Caucasus covers a large area, bordering on the Ukraine and is separated only by the small peninsula of Crimea."

On one side of the Caucasian mountains are situated the provinces of Kuban, Terik and part of Don, all of which are very rich agriculturally.

"It has been known that complete crop failures have been experienced throughout all Russia and the Ukraine, but the Caucasus has always grown enough wheat to feed all Russia and still have a surplus for export. There has never been a complete crop failure there. Less than one-half of the mineral and oil resources of the Caucasus have been developed so it is no wonder that Hitler has his eye on the country."

Firm Believer Aivazoff is a firm believer in Stalin whose real name is Josef Jugoshvili. His parents, who were poor, determined that their only son should become an orthodox priest.

However, after four years in a seminary the Russian leader became implicated in a secret organization, known as the Social Democratic Party. The party's platform was to abolish the Czarist government and establish a democratic type of government, Aivazoff said.

Stalin's political activity caused him to be thrown into prison many times and once he was banished to Siberia. Party followers always managed to secure his release, however.

Co-Operation "Stalin and his government were always willing to discuss and iron out difficulties with any of the democratic governments if the opportunity had been afforded them in the past. And now they are just as willing as ever and ready to co-operate with us in every respect to support democracy and Christianity and help practice it as well as preach it," Aivazoff declared.

"I noticed recently in the press that President Roosevelt expressed

BIG PARTY FOR GRAYS

Highly Esteemed Residents of Smithers Honored On Golden Wedding Anniversary

SMITHERS, Dec. 8:—One of the finest social events of its kind ever to take place in Smithers was held here last Friday evening when some three hundred friends of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Gray filled the Anglican hall to capacity to honor them in the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray received the biggest surprise of their 50 years of married life when they entered the hall to find it filled to overflowing by their well-wishers. They had expected a small party but were not prepared for what they found.

James Brough was master of ceremonies for the occasion and carried out his duties very efficiently.

The stage of the hall was prettily decorated and a table in front of the stage bore a large wedding cake. Mr. and Mrs. Gray and their children and grandchildren occupied seats on both sides of the table in front of the stage.

The stage itself was occupied by the Smithers Brass Band which rendered a number of selections during the evening. The band was organized by Mr. Gray in 1929 and has been carrying on under his leadership ever since that time. Walter Bodser was acting bandmaster for the evening.

A musical program was presented. Mrs. A. B. Washburn was pianist and Mrs. Margaret Warner and Miss Doris Barker soloists. An instrumental trio was played by Mr. Bodger and his daughters, Helen and Doreen. All the numbers rendered being much appreciated.

Mr. Brough presented Mrs. Gray with a well filled purse in appreciation of the many kind deeds and christian acts which she had done during the twenty-eight years they had lived in Smithers. Mr. Gray was presented with fishing tackle which would delight any fellower of Isak Walton and which will no doubt see plenty of service in the coming years.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Gray were visibly affected as they made suitable reply to the good wishes expressed by Mr. Brough.

After receiving the many guests at the party dancing was enjoyed for a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Gray were married in Aberdeen, Scotland, 50 years ago and, after living there for seven years, they came to Canada and lived in Montreal for some time. In 1910 they arrived in Prince Rupert where they lived until 1913, leaving there at that time and moving to Smithers where they have lived ever since.

They are among the best known and most well respected citizens of the Bulkley Valley and this was well attested to by the gathering of their friends on the night of December 4 to congratulate them on having reached their fiftieth wedding anniversary and to wish them many more years of happiness.

At the time of the Smithers twenty-fifth anniversary celebration three years ago Mrs. Gray was presented with the Good Citizenship Medal.

Telegrams from old friends from all over the province were read at the party, conveying congratulations and good wishes. One of these bore the names of a great many former Smithers citizens now residing in Vancouver.

KITKATLA WEDDING

Miss Martha Gordon Becomes Bride of Dwyer Lewis at Pretty Ceremony.

St. Peter's Anglican Church at Kitkatla was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday afternoon last, the Rev. B. Shearman officiating, when Martha, eldest daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Gordon, and the late Casper Gordon, became the bride of Dwyer, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lewis.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Johnson Gordon. She made a pretty picture in her wedding gown of white silk sheen and her long bridal veil of tulle, carrying a bouquet of pink rose buds and lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mrs. Flora Hill, as matron of honor, in a gown of pale pink organdie, and little Thelma Tolmie as flower girl in pale blue sheer, carrying a basket of pink roses. Maud Lewis and Alberta Bolton were train-bearers, both prettily attired in pale pink sheer.

The Wedding March was played by Norman Lewis. Wilfred Jackson was the groomsman. The Kitkatla Concert Band was in attendance, under the leadership of Henry Brown, and played the bridal party to and from the church. A reception was afterwards held in the Agnes Hall, where the bride and groom received the good wishes of their many friends.

In the evening dancing was enjoyed until midnight, Norman Lewis' orchestra supplying the music.

WHYS AND WHEREFORES
 Editor, Daily News:
 Your editorial in Friday night's Daily News is to be commended for its eulogy of Premier Pattullo and is only what one would expect from a presumably Liberal newspaper about sitting member of its constituency. No one, not even the editorial writer of The Daily News, can commend Premier Pattullo too highly, as succeeding generations will agree. It is not every generation that produces a man of the calibre of Thomas Dufferin Pattullo.

Now just let that sink in!
 But when your editorial writer obviously says that "there is no point to be gained, no purpose to be served in discussing the whys and wherefores of his retirement," I disagree. In Premier Pattullo's home town every Liberal voter has been expecting to hear just these whys and wherefores from the allegedly Liberal newspaper. But the Liberal newspaper has been dumb!

Maybe Premier Pattullo hasn't taken The Daily News into his confidence, but a Liberal newspaper doesn't require even that. All it has to do is to examine Premier Pattullo's record and from that tell the people why the official Liberals have not remained Liberal but, instead have joined their hereditary enemies, the political enemies of the common people, the Tories!

It's not to win the war. The poor 10 or 12 Tories, lucky enough to be elected, were they sufficiently patriotic, could with an easy conscience have supported Premier Pattullo and his largest group selected, the alleged Liberals. But no! They wouldn't be so patriotic except at a price. Their patriotism had a price—even in war time.

But please, Mr. Editor, tell the people who depend upon your largest circulation, just these "whys and wherefores" of Mr. Pattullo's retirement. As the Liberal newspaper the Liberal voters are entitled to know and cannot look elsewhere except to your columns. Maybe you don't know at first hand, but just recollect how Premier Pattullo cracked down on the oil companies who were overcharging the common people for gas. Tell the people, Mr. Editor Pattullo's own doctrine was "Trust the People."

For now bewildered Liberal voters find themselves in the ranks of their enemies, the Tories, and look for guidance whether to follow the official Liberals, which God forbid.

But you tell them, Mr. Editor, and tell the truth and all the truth.

ROBERT STEWART.
 (Like many other supporters of Mr. Pattullo we think we know why he was ousted, but it is not wise to publish conjectures. If Mr. Pattullo wishes to tell everything, that is up to him.—Ed.)

Although Holland, their mother country, is occupied by German troops, these soldiers are still loyal to their exiled Queen. Planes fly overhead constantly to patrol the long coastline of the Netherlands East Indies, and these marines, part of the combined sea-land forces, keep themselves in constant trim. Their nearest Axis enemy is Japan. The marines of the Royal Netherlands navy are pictured here crossing a river fully dressed during training manoeuvres.

Final Peace Effort— APPEAL TO MIKADO BY PRESIDENT

As War Clouds Lowered To Boiling Point in Far East.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Dec. 7.—President Franklin D. Roosevelt sent a personal message Saturday night to Emperor Hirohito of Japan in an eleventh hour appeal to Japan to maintain peace in the Pacific—a peace which had become menaced by Japanese expansionist policy and military activity. The Department of State made announcement of the sending of the message by the president which step was then regarded as a last resort.

With 125,000 Japanese troops in French Indo-China, two large convoys were sighted late Saturday, evidently on the way to the Tokyo press even then that Japan "may abandon efforts to maintain peace by diplomacy."

As the Far East crisis still hangs in a delicate balance Saturday a British order recalled all Singapore men to their posts at Singapore, indicating a sudden emergency. A British Broadcasting Corporation broadcast reported that Australia has arranged to send tank troops to help the Netherlands East Indies in case of war.

SEWARD IS REBUILDING AFTER FIRE

Red Cross Takes Over; Army Helps Clear Sites—Bulldozers Being Used.

SEWARD, Alaska, Dec. 8:—A bitter northeast gale blasting across the bleak burned-over area of Seward finds catmen and bulldozers muffled to the ears, clearing away debris in readiness for rebuilding following the big fire a few days ago.

Dining cars and railway kitchens on the waterfront track of the Alaska railroad are doing a rushing business—supplanting the restaurants destroyed in the fire.

The medical situation is well in hand. The big problem is that of housing people who are still occupying lodge rooms, hallways, a gymnasium. With that is coupled the need for emergency feeding of the hundreds made homeless as well as the hundreds normally eating in the restaurants.

All business men whose places were burned out met with the city council and representatives of the army and Red Cross to formulate plans for rebuilding. All are anxious to get started but local finances are inadequate. RFC aid was sought along with a request for immediate priorities on shipment of materials. Plans were made to transport a full cargo of materials.

Meanwhile, with army aid, building sites are being prepared.

The present water system is to be supplemented with a salt water system.

Civil Protection and A. R. P. Workers Called To Alert In State Of Emergency

In view of a state of emergency being declared to exist, all civilian protection and A. R. P. workers in Prince Rupert are requested to be on the alert and ready to report to their stations in case of an alarm.

The feeling appears to be that Prince Rupert may be more subject to sabotage than to direct attack for the time being at least.

Precautions are being taken in every quarter against any eventuality.

Lost Everything.
 With few exceptions, apartment dwellers lost everything in the fire. One newly-married couple, the Russell Painters, who lived in the Arcade, lost many wedding presents.

J. W. Kehoe, former Ketchikan resident now Third division U. S. attorney, was completely burned out. He and Mrs. Kehoe lost a collection of paintings, many his own.

Bob Trotter, hardware man, at the first intimation the Arcade might go, backed up a laundry car and threw his household effects into it, saving everything.

Top floor dwellers, however, had to concentrate on saving themselves and their families. One mother promptly wrapped her two babies in blankets. A fireman seized the precious bundles and helped the family out of the blazing building.

One of the burned out restaurants was about to be sold, everything agreed upon for the transfer except signing the formal papers, which was put off until Monday the restaurant was gone, was gone.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS IN THIS AREA IS WINNER

Interesting Intermediate Basketball Game—Bea's Win in Junior League.

On Saturday night two well-contested and interesting basketball games took place at the Exhibition Building. High School defeated Dry Dock 56-52 in the Intermediate League, and Bea's Juniors won 26-22 over Hornets in the opener.

The first game in which Bea's Juniors defeated a hard-fighting Hornets team 26-22, was a fast and exciting affair. Bea's had a safe lead of 10-4 at half time but had to step up their pace in the second half to stop the Hornets' last quarter bid for victory.

Arntsen's high scoring and team play by Pilfold and Holkestad gave a hard-earned victory to Bea's. For the Hornets, Holtby and Ciccone were high scorers with 12 and 8 points respectively.

For the watchful and sports-minded spectator these junior games feature a fine brand of fast and clean playing basketball, tinged with youthful rivalry that tends to make them all the more interesting.

Intermediate League
In the second game of the evening High School and Dry Dock staged a scoring hurly-burly with the students finding themselves on top at the finish 56-42.

For a while it looked as though High School was going to live up to its previous games' powerhouse predictions a bit too late for it to be of much use in this game. However the Students, in green and gold, battled back furiously as they put on a show that delighted the spectators. The first half saw each team striving mightily to gain and hold the lead. As a result half-time score showed the two teams on an even standing 21-21 with both teams just starting to get hot.

With the start of the second half the Dry Dock quintet took the lead and held it for a time. Then, just before the third quarter, the High School caught fire and Dry Dock smouldered as the Students took the lead and held it. Once again Arney, the school's star forward, got red hot and found the hoop for 16 points after being held to a scant 2 points in the first half.

It was High School's team play and sharp-shooting forward line that beat the "we'll get you next time" shipbuilding squad.

Coach McIvor of the High School squad was biting his nails during the first half and through part of the second but he stopped his worrying as his team piled up a substantial lead and sent in his second string to hold the lead for the remainder of the game.

For High School, Arney and MacDonald were once again the mainstays with 18 and 14 points respectively. For Dry Dock, Montasano and Shedd on the forward line were outstanding with 15 and 10 points each.

Alek Bill refereed the junior game and Angus McPhee and Lcky Gillis alternated the whistle to handle the intermediates.

The next league games will be Tuesday night when Annette's meet Fraser Street in a ladies' game, and High School will tussle with the Barons in the intermediate.

Basketball, Bowling And Sparring Are Particularly Popular With Army

Sports activity has been increasing among the forces here, according to the report of C. F. Leslie, Young Men's Christian Association secretary, for the month of November. Basketball, bowling and sparring have been very popular and excellent sportsmanship has been displayed, says the report. Sparring is of particular interest as it leads to area and district tournaments. Basketball teams are developing a fine brand of players.

Physical activities have been to the front at the Barrett and Fredrickson. Two of the forts have teams entered in the Interservices Basketball League formed by the secretary. Several league games have been played in the forts. Sparring and boxing have been quite popular at the forts in preparation for the area tournament.

Bowling continues to be the principal game which is played to any extent on the Seal Cove station though interest has been re-aroused in paddle tennis and a number of the men have been playing fairly regularly. Considerable interest is also being shown in basketball at Seal Cove and plans are being made to enter a team in the second half of the Interservices League.

Physical activities have been running very smoothly with the Navy having teams in the basketball and bowling leagues. The Navy teams in both leagues are near the top and a fine spirit of sportsmanship is displayed. Sparring and paddle tennis are indulged in as a pastime with practice games in basketball in the Navy recreation hall.

The basketball team continues as the major sport organization on the Allford Bay air station and has retained the record of being unbeaten. During the month the team won two league games and a special exhibition game against the Sons of St. Regate from Skidegate Mission. The team also entertained the Canadian Scottish team at Allford Bay on November 29, the first team from the mainland to play at Allford Bay. Badminton, volleyball and paddle tennis are now being played and the wrestling and boxing classes are continuing at Allford Bay.

Owing to many of the soccer teams having been transferred, soccer has been dropped for the present at Allford Bay but with the opening of the recreational hall, basketball, volleyball and badminton have taken a new lease on life. The detachment also had the pleasure of entertaining their battalion basketball team on the evening of November 29.

Mr. Leslie is assisted as local secretary for the Y. M. C. A. by Al Shipp at Allford Bay and Breen Melvin at the forts.

Basketball Buzz

With six teams in play, the Interservices Basketball league is now in full swing here. Games are played Monday and Saturday nights in Prince Rupert, at the forts and as far away as Allford Bay on the Queen Charlotte Islands to which point the Scottish team journeyed recently by aircraft to lose the game. The Allford Bay team is due here tonight to play the Navy in town. The other game scheduled for tonight is between 102nd Battery, which is so far unbeaten, and Searchlights at Barrett Point.

The standing to date in the Interservices League is as follows:
102nd. 3 0 5
Navy 1 0 2
Allford Bay 1 0 2
Searchlights 1 2 2

To help Canadians visualize the war weapons objectives being sought in the fall war savings campaign, field guns made in Canada are being driven from municipality to municipality. This picture was taken at the start of the tour in Otta wa where soldiers had the first peek at the piece. This gun marks a big forward step in Canadians' war effort, since for the first time in Canada's industrial history armaments of this kind represent Canadian work from start to the finish.

REPORT ON DEPARTURE

Drastic Penalties May Be Imposed For Violations of Law.

KETCHIKAN, Dec. 8:—Drastic penalties may be imposed for violations of the new immigration and naturalization service rules regarding departure of persons from Ketchikan who cross foreign soil and foreign waters, it was announced today by Dewey L. Knight, district director of immigration and naturalization.

The regulations also are applicable to all persons sailing on ships that go to deep water and fishermen who go to offshore banks.

The new rules, which require that persons leaving Ketchikan and American soil report to immigration authorities, went into effect recently. Persons who do not so report, Mr. Knight said, are subject to a maximum fine of $10,000 and a maximum prison term of 20 years. The government also has the power, under the 1918 departure act, which has been re-enacted, to seize the vehicle in which a person leaves the country illegally.

Mr. Knight explained that this includes autos, airplanes, boats, and trains. So far as Ketchikan itself is concerned, only planes and boats would be affected.

"We don't wish to embarrass legitimate travellers, but we have to enforce this regulation," Mr. Knight said. "It is a necessary defense measure. Persons leaving here for the south pass through Canadian waters or over Canadian soil, therefore come under the ruling. Those who have a legitimate reason for their trip will not be detained."

ARTIFICIAL LIGHTING

Great Progress Has Been Made in Last Century.

The people of the world have made more progress in the march toward general enlightenment during the last hundred years than in all the centuries intervening since long-buried and forgotten cities flourished on the Mesopotamian plain seven and eight thousand years before the birth of Christ, says the Journal of Commerce. And the enlightenment of the last century is attributable largely to advancement in artificial lighting.

With the setting of the sun and the coming of night, through all those dark ages, what could human beings do but go to bed? Man, ignorant of fire, is unknown and the burning brand is coeval with the race. But burning brands are in no sense comparable to artificial lighting, as we know it, in aiding man to improve his mind through study and the exchange of opinions when physical labor of the day ends.

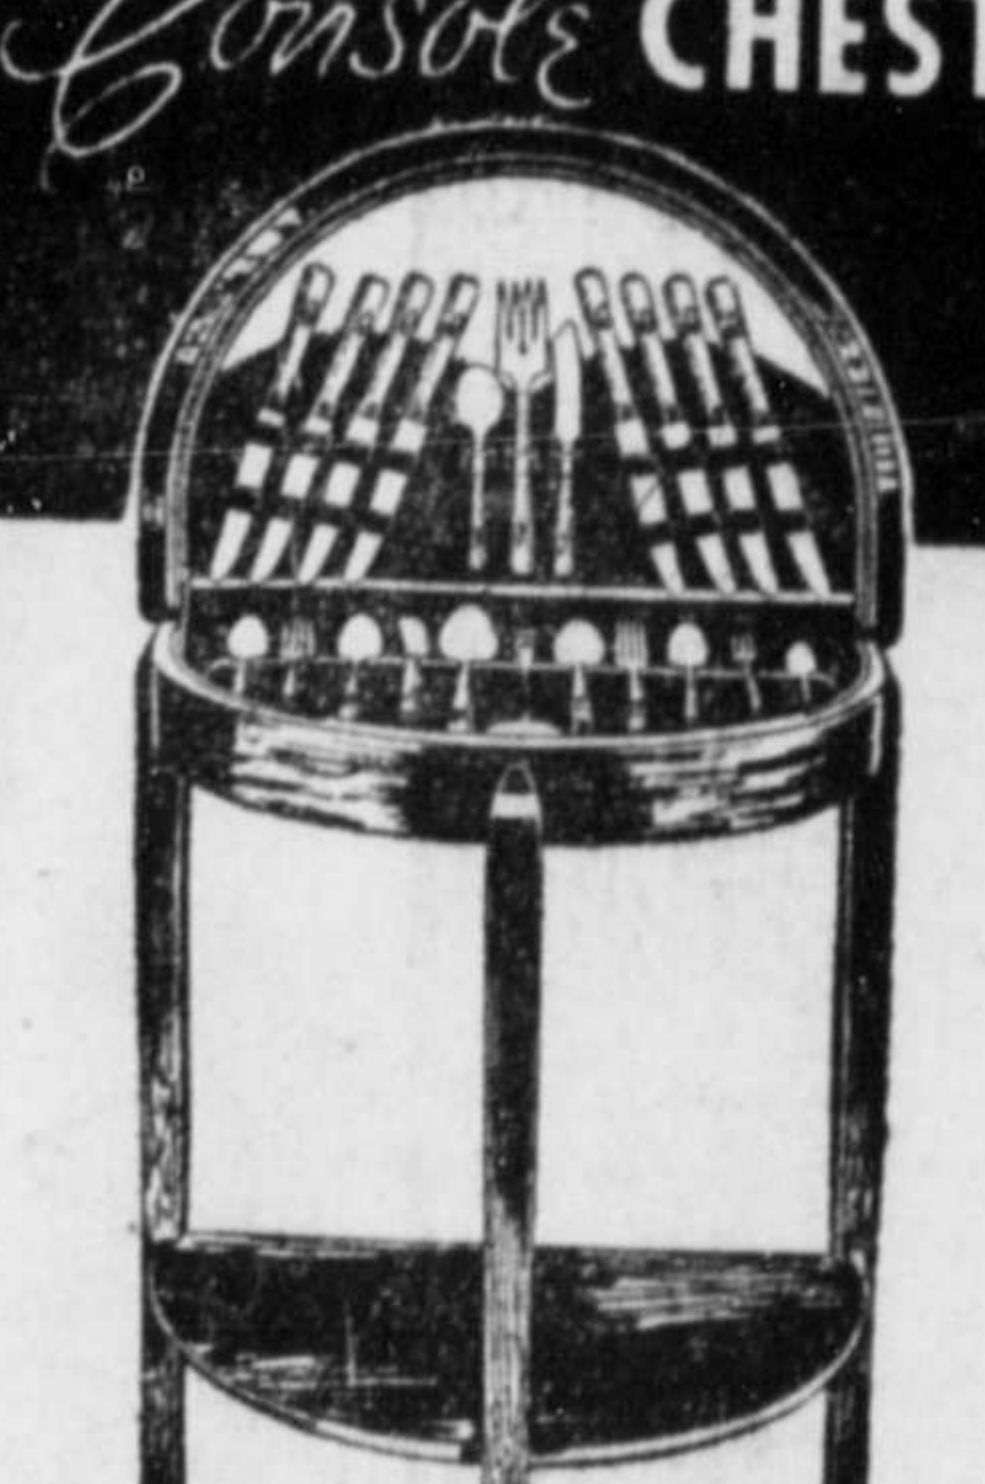

The torch was the progenitor of the lamp, and the lamp, along with the wheel, has been among the most important inventions of mankind. But those first lamps—sea shells or inverted human skulls filled with grease and with twists of moss for wicks—were anything but a satisfactory substitute for sunlight. In the dark now, a person would almost require a candle to find one of those ancient lamps sputtering in an ordinary room.

Prior to 1742 candles were used almost exclusively for lighting. The history of the oil lamp and general illumination dates only from about 1840—a single century ago. And what a struggle it was to perfect the coal oil lamp—an engineering achievement that probably did more than any one thing to bring intellectual advancement to the masses. There are many now living who can remember those deluxe kerosene lamps hanging from the ceilings of parlors—lamps, bedazzling with glass spangles, that could be lowered for lighting and then raised above the head of amazed and admiring occupants of those old-time parlors.

We take for granted our efficient artificial lighting. Few consider the fact that night has virtually been made day as the result of progress in illumination during the last hundred years. What actually could have been accomplished without the coal oil lamp and its successor, the incandescent electric light bulb, in furthering intellectual and scientific progress? Certainly the advance would have been pitifully slow by comparison with what we know it to be today. It is impossible for us to name any one thing that has played a more important part in human progress in our lifetime than progress in illumination.
